Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with La Gripp, and her case grew so serious that physicians at cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develope into hasty consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store. and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at Harr's Drug Store

KLEMME - - IOWA.

People always know it when a man is about to fail in business.

It is not safe to bet on what you "feel in your bones" unless you bet on rheumatism.

The Buffalo Times says: "Heliedor Wojciechowski made a motion for a new trial." He should make one for a new name.

The fact that the oldest man in the United States is in a poor-house is not encouraging to those who would go beyond the biblical three score and ten.

The archbishop of Canterbury will personally deliver into the hands of Mr. Bayard, on the latter's return to London, the log of the Mayflower which the Consistorial Court recently decided to present to the United States.

The old canal which was constructed many years ago between Tampico and Tuxpan, Mexico, at great expense, is to be cleared and dredged and opened for traffic. An American company has a concession for operating the enterprise. The canal passes though the country rich in dye woods and native tropical products, which will be taken in boats to Tampico and exported to the United States and Europe.

Modern progress does not spare even a land so rich in traditions and memories as the Holy Land. The wandering bands of Arabs along the shores of the Jordan have been surprised and horrified at the intrusion of a busy little steamboat upon that historic stream. It plies between a point near Jericho and the Sea of Tiberias, doing what business it can find to do, and incidentally upsetting all one's ideas of the fitness of things.

Mr. Justice Harlan, of the United States Supreme Court, has a bible class in a Washington Sunday school. A former secretary of state, Mr. John W. Foster, also teaches in that school. The highest intellect can find an exhaustless opportunity for acquisition in the word of God, and the largest practical ability can have full scope in expounding the books that are a revelation of the divine will. It is entirely reasonable to say that the bible is studied by more people and in a wiser way than ever before.

Legislation for the restriction of the sale of cigarettes has generally proved ineffective; but as a result of a city ordinance recently passed in Chicago, by which retail dealers in cigarettes are obliged to take out a license costing one hundred dollars, the number of places where they may be bought has fallen from five thousand to about one hundred. The margin of profit upon cigarettes is so small that the smaller dealers cannot afford to purchase the license. This is not an ideal way to combat the cigarette evil, but experience seems to prove it the most effective yet devised.

Through the liberality of the Postal Union, or through some other favoring circumstances, a king in dire want of a postage stamp has been able to communicate with a distant manufacturing concern. King Quansah, of Tantree, which is somewhere in Africa, wrote to a cordage company in Massachusetts, inquiring as to the cost of some of its wares, and excused himself for neglecting to put on a stamp on the ground that he was in a hurry. Seeing that he is a king, the excuse was accepted, but probably the goods will not be forwarded until it is known whether his haste will prevent him from promptly remitting.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

A BURGLAR KILLED.

Young Man Killed While Attempting to Enter a Store.

IOWA CITY, May 1.—C. W. Yetter's general merchandise store at West Branch, was broken into at 1 a. m. and Edward Lafferty, who committed the crime, was killed practically on the spot. Mr. Yetter had prepared a gun trap, which was fixed to discharge a load into the hand of whoever it should meet. The string was a little longer than anticipated, and when the maurauder thrust his hand into the store, after juggling with the latch, the load passed. not into that member, but into his side. He fell to the ground mortally wounded, and when Rev. Mr. Hadley, who was aroused by the report, sent aid, he was found weltering in a pool of his own gore. He died shortly afterward.

FAMOUS MAN IN TROUBLE.

Rev. John Wesley Geiger Arraigned On Serious Charges.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 2.—Rev. John Wesley Geiger, of Marion, the noted divine and lecturer and prominent in fraternal work in Masonic and other bodies, has been cited by the Davenport association of Congregational churches to answer to charges of immoral and unministerial conduct., The charges are preferred by two women and various members of his congregation. Rev. Mr. Geiger denies the charges and has sued Rev. G. S. Rollins and G. W. Stratton in the court of Shelby county for damages in the sum of $25,000, alleging conspiracy and libel.

HE MAY LOSE A FORTUNE.

Bequest to James Cutler, of Osage, Is Attacked in Indiana.

LA PORTE, Ind., April 30.—Morris Cutler, of Waukesha, Wis., died recently, leaving an estate valued at from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. James Cutler, of Osage, Iowa, a brother, was named as the sole beneficiary, in addition to which the codicil provided for bequests to church and charitable institutions. The Cutlers residing in La Porte and at other points in northern Indiana, of close relationship to the deceased, have begun contest proceedings, and eminent legal talent has been employed to break the will, but upon what grounds is not known.

ESPE IS A DEFAULTER.

Startling Revelations in Connection With Radcliffe Bank.

ELDORA, May 3.—The State Bank of Radcliffe and the Radcliffe Savings bank, of Radcliffe, Hardin county. have consolidated under the name of the former bank. H. H. Espe, cashier of the Radcliffe Savings bank. has been discovered to be a defaulter to a large amount. He has skipped for parts unknown, leaving a large number of creditors and deserting a family of small children, his wife being in the insane asylum.

Netterfield Acquitted.

OSKALOOSA, May 2.—The jury in the Netterfield trial came in after being out twenty-four hours with a verdict of acquittal. The case cost the county thousands of dollars. George Netterfield, in a drunken row at Carbondale, killed George Golightly last December. He was arrested and jailed, and had a two weeks' trial with a hundred witnesses. He was four months in the county jail, and, it is said, will sue Mahaska county for false imprisonment. The verdict is a surprise, inasmuch as he admitted having done the shooting, but claimed it was in self-defense.

Suicide of W. E. Davis.

MAPLETON, May 1.—W. E. Davis, a farmer living six miles south of this place, was found dead in his barn, having hung himself with a rope. He had mortgaged a car load of cattle to parties in Mapleton, but the cattle belonged to his brother, which fact was just discovered, and settlement was impossible, as he had very little property. This is supposed to be the reason of his hanging himself. His wife and two children were visiting in Mapleton.

Alleged Counterfeiters.

DES MOINES, April 30.—Deputy United States Marshal Hillweg brought to Des Moines Miles and Myron Marshall, brothers, aged 27 and 30 years respectively, and whom he arrested at Perry, charging them with counterfeiting. Miles confessed fully and Myron partially. Miles was bound over to the grand jury in $1,000 bonds, which he failed to produce, and Myron will have his preliminary hearing soon.

Sentence Suspended.

DUBUQUE, May 2.—A. K. Kramer, the defaulting Hopkinton postmaster, who attempted suicide when his shortage was discovered, pleaded guilty in the federal court. Judge Shiras sentenced him to two years in the penitentiary and $500 fine. Both penalties were suspended on promise of good behavior.

New Masonic Temple.

CEDAR RAPIDS, April 30.—The contract has just been let for the erection of the Masonic temple, which will be one of the finest structures in the state, and which when completed will have cost nearly $150,000. It is to be erected on the corner of First avenue and First street. It will be 72x140 feet. five stories high and constructed of the very best material throughout. Work is to commence in a few days, and it is to be completed by December 31.

Mysterious Ottumwa Suicide.

OTTUMWA, May 2.—Everett E. Porter committed suicide by taking an overdose of morphine. He was a nephew of Hon. Robert Porter. of the wholesale firm of Porter Bros. & Hackworth, and well known over the state. The cause is not yet known.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Halsey, the 10-year-old son of Dr. I. H. Fry, of Marshalltown, widely known in state medical circles, was recently killed by falling off his saddle horse onto the pavement. Death was instantaneous from concussion of the brain.

J. C. Long and his wife, Anna L. Long, have been on trial at Hampton charged with the murder of Mr. Long's 16-year-old daughter, Lelia, by a former marriage, and the jury after having been out nearly twenty-four hours, returned a verdict of not guilty.

For several years it has been apparent that it was but a question of time until the exorbitant prices demanded by the manufacturers of bicycles would have to take a tumble. That this theory has now become a condition is apparent to those who have investigated the strictly high grade wheel just placed on the market by the Harrah. & Stewart Mfg. Co., of Des Moines, Ia.

Henry V. Duffy, head of the largest mercantile establishment in Waukon, was found shot through the heart on opening the store a few mornings since. He was in his night clothes and had a cocked revolver in his hand. None of the chambers were emptied. The presumption is that he heard burglars in the store beneath his bedroom, came down and was shot to death. He was a leading society young man, a captain in the Iowa National Guard, and about 32 years of age.

Mrs. Elizabeth Snowden, of Beacon, was run down and instantly killed about a quarter of a mile northwest of that place a few days ago. A work train on the Rock Island was plying back and forth between Beacon and Evans repairing the tracks there that had been washed out by the recent floods. Mrs. Snowden was deaf, and she stepped on the track right in front of the engine. Her body was cut in two and badly mutilated. She was 68 years old and kept a novelty store in Beacon. She had several well-to-do relatives here. The coroner's jury exonerated the railroad of all blame.

Washington dispatch: The report of the naval trial board on the official speed trial of the battleship Iowa has just been submitted to the secretary of the navy. It shows that the ship made a speed, with all allowances for tides and other interfering conditions, of just 17.81 knots. As the contract requires 16 knots and provides for a bonus of $200,000 a knot above that figure, the Cramps will receive a premium of $374,200. The board found that the ship was strong and well built in every particular, that her machinery worked well, and that with a few trifling exceptions she fully complies with the requirements of the contract.

Three boys, whose ages ranged from 10 to 14, while fishing in the Boone river, a few miles north of Webster City, ate some wild turnips and as a result two are now dead and the third is not expected to recover. The boys had gone to the river immediately after dinner to fish and it is supposed they ate of this poisonous vegetable, not knowing its injurious effects. Later they began feeling unwell and started for their home in Eagle Grove, about a mile and a half distant. The younger boy fell lifeless on his father's doorstep, the second expired a few minutes later, suffering untold agony. A doctor was hastily summoned for the surviving lad and a stomach pump brought into use.

Some time ago a mad dog bit a large number of cattle belonging to Nathaniel Bowers, near Tiffin, Johnson county, and eight of the animals have died with every symptom of the rabies plainly showing. One of the dead cows was fed to the hogs and one of the latter animals also died of rabies. Dr. Gibson, state veterinarian, is investigating the case. He went to the scene of the trouble and a post-mortem examination proved beyond dispute that rabies prevailed. Dr. Gibson has ordered quarantine and taken all other precautions necessary to protect the much alarmed neighborhood. The canine wanderer that caused all the damage and fright is still at large despite the desperate efforts of farmers to shoot the creature.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

BERLIN, April 27.—The Tageblatt announces that a definite agreement has been reached between Russia and Austria concerning Turkey. The terms of the agreement, it is understood, are that the sultan shall renounce Crete, that the czar shall be given a coaling station at Suda Bay in that island, and that in return Russia shall guarantee the integrity of Turkey. To this agreement Austria, France and Germany will, it is understood, give their consent.

ATHENS, April 27.—A dispatch from Arta reports that the Greeks have captured Plaka. Another dispatch says that Plaka and Pentepigadia have been occupied by the Greeks after being abandoned by the Turks, who have also abandoned Kaletzia. Col. Manos, in force, has advanced beyond Pentepigadia en route to Janina. It is reported at Arta that a rising has occurred in the interior of Epirus.

ATHENS, April 27.—In response to a demand by ex-Minister Ralli, the staff of the crown prince will be recalled and ex-Minister Ralli, with three of his nominees, Gen. Smolenski, Gen. Mavromihali and Col. Dimopoulo, will be appointed to replace them. There is intense feeling against the palace party and fear is entertained that the failure of its plan of campaign may cause a revolution.

LONDON, April 28.—A dispatch from Athens says King George may at any moment be deposed or assassinated and that the mob is likely to take possession of the city. The dispatch adds that the worst is to be feared The minister of marine has resigned. Popular feeling points to a revolution in favor of a republic. The citizens are greatly excited at the revelations made by ex-Minister Ralli as to the conduct of the campaign.

LONDON, April 28.—A Salonica special says: "There is the greatest excitement over the report that a big fleet of Greek warships, transports and torpedo boats is sighted sixty miles from that port. The Turks are preparing to resist the attack."

ATHENS, April 29.—Crowds stoned the palace, broke windows, and cried: "Down with the king! Down with Prince Constantine! Give us a republic!" Some pistols were fired among the rioters and many officers were mobbed.

ATHENS, April 29.—The Greeks have been compelled to retire from Epirus, but the Turks have been defeated at Velestino. The Turks have stated their intention of occupying Volo. The Greek forces now extend in a fourteen mile line from Pharsalos to Velestino. Pharsalos commands the Turkish pass and the road leading to Athens by way of Larissa.

PARIS, April 30.—M. Hanotaux, the French foreign minister, had a five hours' interview with the Turkish ambassador. Hanotaux, in the course of the conference, urged the Turkish ambassador to advise the sultan to hold out the olive branch to Greece, adding that if the Turkish troops went farther France would be compelled to come forward as the defender of the Christian cause.

ATHENS, April 30.—The king summoned Premier Delyannis and asked him to tender his resignation, and subsequently entrusted the opposition leaders with the task of forming a new cabinet. The new cabinet has already been formed and is headed by M. Ralli, who has been recognized as the leader of the opposition.

VIENNA, April 30.—It is officially announced that Greece has assured the British and French ministers at Athens that the Greek fleet will not bombard Salonica.

LONDON, April 30.—The Athens correspondent of the Standard says: "The Turkish army or its advance guard has followed up the success before Larissa, and begun an attack in force on the Greek positions at Pharsalos."

ATHENS, May 1.—A great battle has been fought at Velestino between a Turkish force of 8,000 and Gen. Smolenski's brigade. The dispatch says that the Turks were repulsed with enormous losses. Gen. Smolenski telegraphs that the Turks will be unable to capture Pharsala, because the Greek position is strong and the morale of the Greek troops is completely restored. The Turkish cavalry has occupied Volo.

LONDON, May 1.—It is semi-officially stated there is reason to believe European intervention between Greece and Turkey in the present position of affairs is regarded as wholly impracticable, both Turkey and Greece having resolved to continue war.

ATHENS, May 3.—A dispatch from Santa Maura says a flotilla of Greek gunboats in the Gulf of Ambrakia bombarded the coast near Nicopolis and Santa Betra. The Turks, the dispatch asserts, were compelled to flee. Premier Ralii has announced his intention of calling to arms every able-bodied man in Greece. The Turks are preparing to beseige Arta.

Cuban Reforms to Be Applied.

MADRID, April 30.—The queen regent has signed a decree providing for the applications of the reforms agreed upon for Cuba. This action is due to the receipt of a cablegram from Weyler announcing that the western part of the island is completely pacified.

SEVEN NEGROES LYNCHED.

They Murdered An Old Man and His Two Daughters.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 1.—A mob of negroes took from a room at Sunnyside, Texas, where they were being guarded, Fayette Rhone, aged 21; Will Gates, 35; Lewis Thomas, 20; Aaron Thomas, 13; Jim Thomas, 14; Benny Thomas, 15, the four latter being brothers, and Will Williams, all negroes, and hanged the first six named to an oak tree. The seventh was hanged, but has disappeared. The negroes all confessed to having murdered Henry Daniels, an old negro, his stepdaughter, Marie, and a 7-year-old child, burning the bodies of the two oldest by setting fire to the cabin where the crime occurred, and throwing the little one's body into the well. Old man Daniels had the proceeds of a robbery which the Thomas boys had committted, and they demanded it of him under pain of death. They outraged the grown girl and the 7-year-old girl, and then killed both.

WAS A FIZZLE.

Big Strike of Trades Unions in Chicago is No Go.

CHICAGO, May 2.—What promised a few days ago to be a general strike of all unions, affiliated with the building trades council, fizzled out to a walkout of 500 hod carriers, brick layers, plasterers, all other trades having come to an agreement with their employers. It is thought the trouble will soon be ended.

Spaniards Recover Banes.

HAVANA, via Key West, Fla., May 3.—The port of Banes in Santiago de Cuba, held by General Cal xto Garcia and 6,000 Cubans ever since the Laurada landed Roloff's expedition, has been recovered by the Spanish combined army and naval forces under General Gomez Ruberte and Admiral Navaro. The Spanish forces consisted or two columns, including 700 marines, 400 navy and 1,200 infantry. Both columns boarded the Spanish fleet under command of Admiral Navaro. The fleet, protected by artillery, landed under a heavy fire from the insurgents' musketry at Ramon peninsula, off Banes, losing, during the removal of the troops, one killed and seventeen wounded. The Cuban fortifications were captured with a loss of forty men.

Commissioner of Sugar Beet Culture.

DES MOINES, April 30.—Charles F. Saylor has been notified of his appointment to a place in the department of agriculture by Secretary Wilson. Mr. Saylor's title will be commissioner of sugar beet culture, a position recently created. Secretary Wilson has sent out through the experimental stations of the western states tons upon tons of the best sugar beet seeds with the intention of ascertaining what can be done by this country in the new sugar industry. These seeds are to be distributed to farmers with special instructions as to how they are to be planted and cultivated. Mr. Saylor's duties will be to follow up the seed distributed, see to it that it is properly distributed and grown, that sampies are returned for analysis and in short to keep track of the experiments and report on their success.

Altgeld Makes a Denial.

CHICAGO, May 1.—Ex-Governor Altgeld, whose name from time to time has been connected with the affairs of the defunct Globe Savings bank, has given out an interview in which he denied that he was in any way responsible for the irregularity of its management. He admits having been a borrower from the bank, but says it was simply a matter of business.

Coffin Nails Prohibited.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 1.—The house has passed a bill absolutely prohibiting the manufacture, sale or advertising of cigarettes.

BREVITIES.

Theodore A. Havemeyer, vice president of the American Sugar Refining company, died recently in New York.

The president has nominated W. R. Day, of Ohio, assistant secretary of state, and Bellamy Storer, of Ohio, as minister to Belgium.

Senator Deboe has been elected United States senator from Kentucky. The vote stood: Deboe 71, Martin 12, Stone 1, Blackburn 50.

A dispatch from Mexico says: The Rio Verde valley was visited by a terrific hail storm, ruining growing crops and causing great loss of life. On one farm 12 hands were killed. Some of the hail stones weighed over three pounds. According to the reports, forty-one persons were killed by the hail stones.

The Spanish columns in Cuba encountered the insurgents in the Pugragato hills recently and attacked them sharply, relying on superior force. The rebels retreated toward their camp and succeeded in their game of drawing the Sdaniards into an ambuscade. General Castillo arrived with reinforcements while Roderiguez was engaging the Spanish and fell on their flank. The fight lasted five hours, and in killed, wounded and prisoners, the Spanish lost 280 men.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

THE HUNGER IN INDIA, LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Following Text: "This Is Ahasuerus Which Reigned from India, Even Unto Ethiopia"—Esther 1:1. A Land Plundered by Greed.

AMONG the 773,693 words which make up the bible only once occurs the word "India." In this part of the scriptures, which the Rabbis call "Megillah Esther," or the volume of Esther, a book sometimes complained against because the word "God" is not even once mentioned in it, although one rightly disposed can see God in it from the first chapter to the last, we have it set forth that Xerxes, or Ahasuerus, who invaded Greece with two million men, but returned in a poor fisher's boat, had a vast dominion, among other regions, India. In my text India takes its place in bible geography, and the interest in that land has continued to increase until, with more and more enthusiasm, all around the world Bishop Heber's hymn about "India's coral strand" is being sung. Never will I forget the thrill of anticipation that went through my body and mind and soul when, after two weeks' tossing on the seas around Ceylon and India—for the winds did not, according to the old hymn, "blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle"—our ship sailed up one of the mouths of the Ganges, past James and Mary island, so named because a royal ship of that name was wrecked there, and I stepped ashore at Calcutta, amid the shrines and temples and sculptures of that "City of Palaces," the strange physiognomies of the living and the cremations of the dead. I had never expected to be there, because the sea and I long ago had a serious falling out; but the facilities of travel are so increasing that you or your children will probably visit that land of boundless fascination. Its configuration is such that no one but God could have architected, and it seems as if a man who had no religion going there, would be obliged to acknowledge a God as did the cowboy in Colorado. His companion, an atheist, had about persuaded the cowboy that there was no God, but coming amidst some of that tremendous scenery of high rocks and awful chasms, and depths dug under depths, and mountains piled on mountains, the cow boy said to his atheistic companion, "Jack, if there is no God now, I guess from the looks of things around here there must have been a God some time." No one but the Omniscient could have planned India, and no one but the Omnipotent could have built it. It is a great triangle, its base the Himalayas, a word meaning "the dwelling place of snows," those mountains pouring out of their crystal cup the Indus, the Brahmaputra and the Ganges to slake the thirst of the vast populations of India. That country is the home of two hundred and forty million souls. Whatever be one's taste going there, his taste is gratified. Some go as hunters of great game, and there is no end to their entertainment. Mighty fauna; bison, buffalo, rhinoceros, elephant, panther, lion, tiger—this last to be the perpetual game for Americans and Europeans, because he comes up from the malarial swamps, where no human being dare enter; the deer and antelope his accustomed food, but once having obtained the taste of human blood, he wants nothing else, and is called "the man-eater." You can not see the tiger's natural ferocity after he has been humiliated by a voyage across the sea. You need to hear his growl as he presses his iron paw against the cage in Calcutta. Thirteen towns have been abandoned as residence because of the work of this cruel invader. In India in the year 1877 eight hundred and nineteen people were slain by the tiger, and ten thousand cattle destroyed. From the back of the elephant or from galleries built among the trees fifteen hundred tigers went down and eighteen thousand dollars of government reward were paid the sportsmen.

The Baptist missionary, Carey, who did infinite good to India, had two great passions—first, a passion for souls, and next, a passion for flowers, and he adorned his Asiatic home and the American homes of his friends, and museums on either side the sea, with the results of his floral expeditions in India. To prepare himself for morning prayers, he was accustomed to walk amid the flowers and trees. It is the heaven of the magnolia and abelmosk, and palm tree. The ethnologist, going there, will find endless entertainment in the study of the races now living there and the races of whose blood they are a commingling. The historian, going there, will find his theory of Warren Hastings' government in India the reverse from that which Edmund Burke gave him in the most famous address ever made in a court room, its two characteristics matchless eloquence and one sidedness of statement. The archaeologist will be thrown into a frenzy of delight as he visits Delhi of India and digs down and finds seven dead cities underneath the now living city. All success to the hunters and the botanists and the ethnologists and the historians and the archaeologists who visit India, each one on his or her errand! But we today visit India as Christian women and men to hear the full meaning of a groan of hunger that has traveled fourteen thousand miles, yet gets louder and more agonizing as the days go by. But why have any interest in people so far away that it is evening there when it is morning here, their complexion darker, their language to us a jargon, their attire unlike that found in any American wardrobe, their memory and their ambition unlike anything that we recall or hope for? With more emphasis than you put into the interrogatory "Why," I answer, First: Because our Christ was an Asiatic. Egypt gave to us its monuments, Rome gave to us its law, Germany gave to us its philosophy, but Asia gave to us its Christ. His mother an Asiatic; the mountains that looked down upon him, Asiatic; the lakes on whose pebbly banks he rested and on whose chopped waves he walked, Asiatic; the apostles whom he first commissioned, Asiatic; the audiences he whelmed with his illustrations drawn from blooming lilies and salt crystals, and great rain-falls, and bellowing tempests, and hypocrites long faces, and croaking ravens—all those audiences Asiatic. Christ during his earthly stay was never outside of Asia. When he had sixteen or eighteen years to spare from his active work, instead of spending that time in Europe, I think he goes farther toward the heart of Asia, namely, India. The Bible says nothing of Christ from twelve years of age until thirty, but there are records in India and traditions in India which represent a strange, wonderful, most excellent, and supernatural being as staying in India about that time. I think Christ was there much of the time between his twelfth and his thirtieth year, but however that may be, Christ was born in Asia, suffered in Asia, died in Asia, ascended from Asia, and all that makes me turn my ear more attentively toward that continent as I hear its cry of distress. * * *

Most interesting are the people of India. At Calcutta, I said to one of their leaders, who spoke English well:

"Have these idols which I see any power of themselves to help or destroy?"

He said: "No; they only represent God. There is but one God."

"When people die, where do they go to?"

"That depends upon what they have been doing; if they have been doing good, to heaven, and if they have been doing evil, to hell."

"But do you not believe in the transmigration of souls, and that after death we go into birds or animals of some sort?"

"Yes; the last creature a man is thinking of while dying is the one into which he will go. If he is thinking of a bird, he will go into a bird; if he is thinking of a beast, he will go into a beast."

"I thought you said that at death the soul goes to heaven or hell?"

"He goes there by a gradual process. It may take him years and years."

"Can any one become a Hindoo? Could I become a Hindoo?"

"Yes, you could."

"How could I become a Hindoo?"

"By doing as the Hindoos do."

From the walls of one of their museums at Jeypore I had translated for me these beautiful sentiments:

The wise make failure equal to success.

Like threads of silver seen through crystal beads, let love through good deeds show.

Do not to others that which if done to thee would cause thee pain. And this is the sum of duty.

A man obtains a proper rule of action by looking on his neighbor as himself.

From that continent of interesting folk, from that continent that gave the Christ, from that continent which has been endeared by so many missionary heroics, there comes a groan of eighty million people in hunger. More people are in danger of starving to death in India to-day than the entire population of the United States. In the famine in India in the year 1877 about six million people starved to death. That is more than all the people of Washington, of New York, of Philadelphia, of Chicago, put together. But that famine was not a tenth part as awful as the one there now raging. Twenty thousand are dying there of famine every day. Whole villages and towns have died—every man, woman and child; none left to bury the dead. The vultures and the jackals are the only pallbearers. Though some help has been sent, before full relief can reach them I suppose there will be at least ten million dead. Starvation, even for one person, is an awful process. No food, the vitals gnaw upon themselves and faintness and languor and pangs from head to foot, and horror and despair and insanity take full possession. One handful of wheat or corn or rice per day would keep life going, but they cannot get a handful. The crops failed and the millions are dying. Oh, it is hard to be hungry in a world where there is enough grain, and fruit, and meat, to fill all the hungry mouths on the planet; but alas! that the sufferer and the supply cannot be brought together. There stands India to-day! Look at her! Her face dusky from the suns of many centuries; under her turban such achings of brow as only a dying nation feels; her eyes hollow with unutterable woe; the tears rolling down her sunken cheek; her back bent with more agonies than she knows how to carry; her ovens containing nothing but ashes. Gaunt, ghastly, wasted, the dew of death upon her forehead and a pallor such as the last hour brings, she stretches forth her trembling hand towards us and with hoarse whisper she says: "I am dying! Give me bread! That is what I want! Bread! Give it to me quick! Give it to me now—bread! bread! bread!" America has heard the cry. Many thousands of dollars have already been contributed. One ship laden with breadstuffs has sailed from San Francisco for India. Our senate and house of representatives in a bill signed by our sympathetic president have authorized the secretary of the navy to charter a vessel to carry food to the famine sufferers, and you may help to fill that ship. We want to send at least six hundred thousand bushels of corn. That will save the lives of at least six hundred thousand people. Many will respond in contributions of money, and the barns and corn-cribs of the entire United States will pour forth their treasures of food. When that ship is laden till it can carry no more, we will ask Him who holds the winds in his fist and plants his triumphant foot on stormy waves to let nothing but good happen to the ship till it anchors in Bengal or Arabian waters. They who help by contributions of money or breadstuffs toward filling that relief ship will flavor their own food for their lifetime with appetizing qualities, and insure their own welfare through the promise of him who said, "Blessed is he that considereth the poor; the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble." * * *

And now I bethink myself of something I never thought of before. I had noticed that the circle is God's favorite figure, and upon that subject I addressed you some time ago, but it did not occur to me until now that the Gospel seems to be moving in a circle. It started in Asia, Bethlehem, an Asiatic village; Jordan, an Asiatic river; Calvary, an Asiatic mountain. Then this Gospel moved on to Europe; witness the chapels and churches and cathedrals and Christian universities of that continent. Then it crossed to America. It has prayed and preached and sung its way across our continent. It has crossed to Asia, taking the Sandwich Islands in its way, and now in all the great cities on the coast of China people are singing "Rock of Ages" and "There Is a Fountain Filled with Blood;" for you must know that not only have the Scriptures been translated into these Asiatic tongues, but also the evangelical hymns. My missionary brother, John, translated some of them into Chinese, and Mr. Gladstone gave me a copy of the hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" which he himself had translated into Greek. The Christ who it seems spent sixteen or eighteen years of his life in India is there now in spirit, converting and saving the people by hundreds of thousands, and the Gospel will move right on through Asia until the story of the Saviour's birth will anew be made known in Bethlehem, and the story of a Saviour's sacrifice be told anew on and around Calvary, and the story of a Saviour's Ascension be told anew on the shoulder of Mt. Olivet. And then do you not see the circle will be complete? The glorious circle, the circle of the earth? This old planet, gashed with earthquake and scorched with conflagration and torn with revolutions, will be girdled with churches, with schools, with universities, with millennial festivities. How cheering and how inspiring the thought that we are, whether giving temporal or spiritual relief, working on the segment of such a circle. And that the Christly mission which started in Asia will keep on its way until it goes clear around to the place where it started! Then the earth will have demonstrated that for which it was created, and as soon as a world has completed its mission it dies. Part of the heavens is a cemetery of dead worlds. Our world built to demonstrate to the worlds which have been loyal to God the awful results of disloyalty, so that none of them may ever attempt it—I say our world, having finished its mission, may them go out of existence. The central fires of the world which are burning out rapidly toward the crust, may have reached the surface by that time and the Bible prophecy be fulfilled, which declares that the earth and all things that are therein shall be burned up.

Mr. George Muller, of Bristol, England, founder of the Ashley Down Orphan Homes, addressed the Western Union of Y. M. C. A.'s at their recent annual conference in Bristol. Mr. Muller has passed his ninety-second birthday, and when he rose to speak, it was most impressive, even thrilling.

THE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

Des Moines, April 26.—Senate passed a bill to remove all doubt as to the construction of the present law governing levies for the support of the poor. By some it was constructed the law limited the levy to 4 mills, but the new bill makes it possible to make additional levies.

HOUSE.

No business of importance was transacted and the house soon adjourned.

SENATE.

Des Moines, April 27.—The senate adopted a resolution urging the Iowa members of congress to vote for the Terry bill making cigarettes subject to the laws of the states into which they are shipped. Crimes and punishments bill was taken up and the amendment prohibiting hunting, fishing, shooting, dancing or playing foot or base ball on Sunday was adopted. The Henderson anti-pass amendment was withdrawn. An amendment to permit the selling of pools at race tracks was voted down. The Phelps law was then amended in such a manner as to fix a mulct tax of $300 for the sale of cigarettes, in addition to the other penalties of the bill.

HOUSE.

The house did nothing but consider the reports of several conference committees.

SENATE.

Des Moines, April 28.—A lengthy discussion of taxation of foreign insurance companies, that is, those organized outside of the United States, was indulged in by the senate, the question being whether they should be taxed 3½ per cent instead of 2½ as at present. The house made the tax 5 per cent. The senate decided to make the tax 3½ per cent. An amendment was adopted providing that insurance companies shall not deduct debts from their taxable property. The senate refused to concur in the house amendment reducing the basis of taxation from 33⅓ to 25 per cent. The Cheshire amendment, which provided for the taxation of telegraph, telephone, sleeping car and express companies according to the plan in vogue in Indiana Ohio and Kentucky, was again defeated by a vote of 14 to 31.

HOUSE.

Governor Drake sent a special message to both houses asking for legislation authorizing the state to co-operate with the department of agriculture in stamping out hog cholera. The house discussed the bill governing cities and towns. The senate had made almost a hundred amendments to the bill. Consideration of the bill was finally concluded, most of the amendments being concurred in.

SENATE.

Des Moines, April 29.—Licenses for peddlers were fixed at $5 per county for pack peddlers, $10 where one animal is used, $25 where two are used, and $50 where four or more are used.

HOUSE.

By a vote of 63 to 23 the house, for the third time, decided in favor of continuation of the office of state oil inspector. A resolution was adopted directing the superintendent of public instruction to report to the Twenty-seventh general assembly the most practicable system of supplying the people of Iowa with text books at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayers.

SENATE.

Des Moines, April 30.—The bill providing for the co-operation of the state with the the United States for the eradication of hog cholera and swine plague was passed. The report of the conference committee on the insurance bill was adopted, a new section being added which provides that in case this or any other state shall impose or levy any tax on a company or association, the same may be paid from any surplus or emergency fund of the company. Provision was made for replacing the Anamosa prison library, recently destroyed by fire. Conference committee on railroad bill reported that it could not agree on Temple amendment, and the committee was discharged.

HOUSE.

The bill providing for co-operation with the agricultural department for the eradication of hog cholera passed. The crimes and punishment bill was taken up and that portion prohibiting Sunday base ball was amended so that it should not apply to persons who observe the seventh day.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 1.—Bill for publication of the code was taken up and upon reconsideration the senate members of the advisory committee were increased to three.

HOUSE.

The house killed the Sunday base ball amendment. House agreed to the senate amendment to the cigarette law. Report of committee on the cities and towns bill was concurred in.

STATE FETE OPENS.

Tennessee Begins the Celebration of Her Centennial Anniversary.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 3.—The Tennessee centennial exposition opened with appropriate ceremonies in the presence of thousands of people. The ceremonies began with a magnificent parade. President McKinley started the wheels of the exposition by touching a button at the White House.

Europe Against England.

BERLIN, May 3.—Austria, Germany, Russia, France and Italy have practically formed an alliance against England, mainly for two purposes—to re-establish peace in Europe and to prevent the acquisition of territory by England in south Africa. It is asserted that England will not be permitted to annex the Transvaal or destroy its independence.

Cretan Belligerency Recognized.

PARIS, May 1.—A Rome special says: Admiral Conevaro, the Italian commander in Cretan waters, has been ordered to consider Col. Vassos, the commander of the Greek army, as a belligerent and to no longer oppose the Greek attacks on the Turkish troops there.

AN OPEN LETTER.

From the Herald, Sauk Centre, Minn.

The following communication was recently received by the manufacturers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People:

"Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

"I was born in Germany and am thirty-seven years old. I live with my husband on a farm. For ten years I suffered with leucorrhœa so that I was a burden to my friends and myself also. I had tried a great many doctors and different kinds of medicine without securing any benefits. My condition had become so deplorable that I had almost given up hope of recovery, one day I saw in the Sauk Centre Herald an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as 'a drowning person catches at a straw,' so I grasped this chance and purchased from Hanson & Emerson a box of Pink Pills. I commenced taking them in March, 1896, and after taking one box I felt so much improved that I bought more.

"After taking them for a time I found to my surprise that I was entirely cured. Ever since then I have been as strong and well as I ever was, and am able to do the arduous duties which fall to the lot of a farmer's wife without feeling the least fatigue or inconvenience.

"I hope this will be the means of placing your wonderful pills in the hands of some sister sufferer, who may rejoice with me. I am satisfied that no woman need suffer as I did, when such an efficient remedy is so close at hand."

(Signed) MRS. H. STENERNAGEL.

Subscribed before me this 19th day of December, 1896.

CHAS. F. HENDRY, Notary Public, Minnesota.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Mr. Skinner—I don't know, unless it's to distinguish them from cash grocers.

MOUNTAINS OF COLORADO.

Where Are You Going This Summer?

Now that summer is here, and warm weather is near at hand, the great number of people who have acquired the habit of spending the "hot spell" in some cooler place than home, are beginning to plan as to where they will go. It has been demonstrated that people living in high altitudes should go to the seashore, and people living in low altitudes should go to the mountains; and "the mountains" has come to mean Colorado, because there is found more in the way of recreation and pleasure than in any other locality. It would fill much space to name the many places which possess attractions, but any of the many points on the Denver & Rio Grande railway will be found pleasing to tourists. Trout fishing is probably the most enjoyable sport to be pursued, because it can be had with less trouble, annoyance and expense than any other, but the sportsman who is willing to undertake the extra hardships of going after bear, deer, elk and other wild animals that abound, can satisfy his ambition to the fullest extent. Those who prefer less laborious amusement for the summer, as a visit, at the springs, resorts, etc., can be equally well pleased at the numerous places of the kind. For those who wish to unite business with pleasure, is open the opportunity of prospecting or investing in Colorado mines, and in this direction no place promises such flattering returns. The mining interests, while having already yielded enormous wealth, are only in their infancy, and every day shows the discovery of rich values never before suspected, and it is becoming proverbial that the "tenderfoot" "strikes it" as frequently as the practical miner. The latter looks only for the particular rock that he knows bears fruit, while the former tests everything he finds and often discovers the mineral where the "old timer" has run over it. You will make no mistake in going to Colorado for your summer outing.

There is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O made of pure grains, that takes the places of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Streator, Ill., April 28.—Frank Duhammelis killed five-year-old Johnnie Leboe here this morning by hitting him with the sharp edge of a spade, splitting his skull open. Duhammelis was a tramp and was working in the garden while the mother was preparing a meal for him. The little boy asked him if he was a tramp. This angered him and he struck the boy with a spade. Only the action of the chief of police in getting Duhammelis out of the city prevented a lynching.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

Dubuque, April 28.—The large plant of the Standard Lumber company of this city resumed operations Monday morning for the the season, and will be a fortunate thing for many poor men who have been idle all winter. About 300 men are employed in the mills and yard. It is expected that the cut this year will be larger than for some years past. The large number of men who were present looking for work shows that there are still many hundreds out of employment in this city, but it is confidently expected that business will improve during the next month or two and that many now idle will get work.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

A writer in an exchange fills two columns to ask: "Is snobbishness American?" Not by a jugfull it isn't, but unfortunately a considerable number of Americans are afflicted with snobbishness.

In a published interview with a Congressman he is made to say that many Congressmen "swear by" a certain Washington newspaper. If he had said "swear at" we should feel more inclined to accept the statement.

But the boy could never be brought to see that he had done anything wrong when he stole. Nor, indeed, did the Doctor think he had; but that gentleman was never very scrupulous when in want of a retort:

"And now," he concluded, "do you begin to understand? My only friends were those who ruined me. Gretz has been my academy, my sanatorium, my heaven of innocent pleasures. If millions are offered me, I wave them back: Retro, Sathanas!—Evil one, begone! Fix your mind on my example; despise riches, avoid the debasing influence of cities. Hygiene—hygiene and mediocrity of fortune—these be your watchwords during life!"

The Doctor's system of hygiene strikingly coincided with his tastes; and his picture of the perfect life was a faithful description of the one he was leading at the time. But it is easy to convince a boy, whom you supply with all the facts for the discussion. And besides, there was one thing admirable in the philosophy, and that was the enthusiasm of the philosopher. There was never anyone more vigorously determined to be pleased; and if he was not a great logician, and so had no right to convince the intellect, he was certainly something of a poet, and had a fascination to seduce the heart. What he could not achieve in his customary humor of a radiant admiration of himself and his circumstances, he sometimes effected in his fits of gloom.

"Boy," he would say, "avoid me today. If I were superstitious, I should even beg for an interest in your prayers. I am in the black fit; the evil spirit of King Saul, the bag of the merchant Abudah, the personal devil of the mediaeval monk, is with me—is in me," tapping on his breast. "The vices of my nature are now uppermost; innocent pleasures woo me in vain; I long for Paris, for my wallowing in the mire. See," he would continue, producing a handful of silver, "I denude myself, I am not to be trusted with the price of a fare. Take it, keep it for me, squander it on deleterious candy, throw it in the deepest of the river—I will homologate your action. Save me from that part of myself which I disown. If you see me falter, do not hesitate; if necessary, wreck the train. I speak, of course, by a parable. Any extremity were better than for me to reach Paris alive."

Doubtless the Doctor enjoyed these little scenes, as a variation on his part; the represented the Byronic element in the somewhat artificial poetry of his existence; but to the boy, though he was dimly aware of their theatricality, they represented more. The Doctor made perhaps too little, the boy possibly too much, of the reality and gravity of these temptations.

One day a great light shone for Jean-Marie. "Could not riches be used well?" he asked.

"In theory, yes," replied the Doctor. "But it is found in experience that no one does so. All the world imagine they will be exceptional when they grow wealthy; but possession is debasing, new desires spring up; and the silly taste for ostentation eats out the heart of pleasure."

"Then you might be better if you had less," said the boy.

"Certainly not," replied the Doctor; but his voice quavered as he spoke.

"Why?" demanded pitiless innocence.

CHAPTER VII.

DOCTOR DESPREZ saw all the colors of the rainbow in a moment; the stable universe appeared to be about capsizing with him. "Because," said he—affecting deliberation after an obvious pause—"because I have formed my life for my present income. It is not good for men of my years to be violently dissevered from their habits."

That was a sharp brush. The Doctor breathed hard, and fell into taciturnity for the afternoon. As for the boy, he was delighted with the resolution of his doubts; even wondered that he had not foreseen the obvious and conclusive answer. His faith in the Doctor was a stout piece of goods. Desprez was inclined to be a sheet in the wind's eye after dinner, especially after Rhone wine, his favorite weakness. He would then remark upon the warmth of his feeling for Anastasie, and with inflamed cheeks and a loose, flustered smile, debate upon all sorts of topics, and be feebly and indiscreetly witty. But the adopted stable-boy would not permit himself to entertain a doubt that savored of ingratitude. It is quite true that a man may be a second father to you, and yet take too much to drink; but the best natures are ever slow to accept such truths.

The Doctor thoroughly possessed his heart, but perhaps he exaggerated his influence over his mind. Certainly Jean-Marie adopted some of his master's opinions, but I have yet to learn that he ever surrendered one of his own. Convictions existed in him by divine right; they were virgin, unwrought, the brute metal of decision. He could add others, indeed, but he could not put away; neither did he care if they were perfectly agreed among themselves; and his spiritual pleasures had nothing to do with turning them over or justifying them in words. Words were with him a mere accomplishment, like dancing. When he was by himself, his pleasures were almost vegetable. He would slip into the woods toward Acheres, and sit in the mouth of a cave among gray birches. His soul stared straight out of his eyes; he did not move or think; sunlight, thin shadows moving in the wind, the edge of firs against the sky, occupied and bound his faculties. He was pure unity, a spirit wholly abstracted. A single mood filled him, to which all the objects of sense contributed, as the colors of the spectrum merge and disappear in white light.

So while the Doctor made himself drunk with words, the adopted stable-boy bemused himself with silence.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE Doctor's carriage was a two-wheeled gig with a hood; a kind of vehicle in much favor among country doctors. On how many roads has one not seen it, a great way off between the poplars! —in how many village streets, tied to a gate-post! this sort of chariot is affected—particularly at the trot—by a kind of pitching movement to and fro across the axle, which well entitles it to the style of a Noddy. The hood describes a considerable arc against the landscape, with a solemnly absurd effect on the contemplative pedestrian. To ride in such a carriage cannot be numbered among the things that appertain to glory; but I have no doubt it may be useful in liver complaint. Thence, perhaps, its wide popularity among physicians.

One morning early, Jean-Marie led forth the Doctor's noddy, opened the gate, and mounted to the driving-seat. The Doctor followed, arrayed from top to toe in spotless linen, armed with an immense flesh-colored umbrella, and girt with a botanical case on a baldric; and the equipage drove off smartly in a breeze of its own provocation. They were bound for Franchard, to collect plants, with an eye to the "Comparative Pharmacopoeia."

A little rattling on the open roads, and they came to the borders of the forest and struck into an unfrequented track; the noddy yawed softly over the sand, with an accompaniment of snapping twigs. There was a great, green, softly murmuring cloud of congregated foliage overhead. In the arcades of the forest the air retained the freshness of the night. The athletic bearing of the trees, each carrying its leafy mountain, pleased the mind like so many statues and the lines of the trunk led the eye admiringly upward to where the extreme leaves sparkled in a patch of azure. Squirrels leaped in mid air. It was a proper spot for a devotee of the goddess Hygeia.

CONGRESSIONAL.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

Washington, April 26.—Both houses of congress adjourned to-day without transacting any business under an agreement that nothing be done legislatively until next week.

CYCLONE IN OKLAHOMA.

Many Lives Lost and the Property Damage Was Immense.

GUTHRIE, April 29.—A terrible flood from the Cottonwood river suddenly engulfed West Guthrie shortly after sunrise. The Cottonwood, scarcely more than forty feet wide ordinarily, winds with many curves through West Guthrie, which lies on a level with the valley of the river. At 6 o'clock a. m., the river began to rise as if by magic and jumped four feet in thirty minutes and was soon a raging sea half a mile wide, sweeping across the valley carrying houses, barns and fences on the crest. Every movable thing was swept before the wave, which passed on into the valley with resistless force, wreaking terrible destruction to life and property wherever it reached. Dozens of human lives are known to have been sacrificed, how many may not be known for weeks: hundreds of houses were wrecked in the twinkling of an eye; for miles farms were washed out, and railroad traffic in every direction is at a standstill. It is confidently asserted that all of fifty lives have been lost and many claim the list will be made longer. Fully two-thirds of the victims are colored people.

EL RENO, O. T., April 29.—A small sized cyclone, accompanied by a cloudburst, did much damage here. Many houses were washed away in towns adjacent to El Reno and several lives were lost.

WICHITA, Kan., April 30.—A Guthrie special says: The river is still bank full, but has receded in most of the inundated districts. Missing people have been found clinging to bushes and driftwood down the stream, or scattered in farm houses for miles, so it is now believed that the death list will not exceed twenty-five, most of them being drowned in the main channel during the first rush of the waters. Five hundred homes were swept away and the contents ruined, and twenty streets devastated and ruined.

POLITICS IN THE SENATE.

No Party Has a Majority of the Votes.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The election of Deboe, of Kentucky, makes the total membership of the senate 88, composed of 43 republicans, 33 democrats, and 12 populists and silver republicans. With Kyle the republicans would have forty-four, a tie, and with the vice-president a majority of one. It is believed, however, that in case a party vote was imminent or probable that an election would occur in Florida, leaving the senate standing as before Deboe's election. Besides, a party vote would mean a long debate, giving the Florida democrats time to get together.

ARE FULL OF WAR TALK.

Japanese Newspapers Give Vent to Feeling Against United States.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Advices by steamer say Japan is aroused over the refusal of Hawaii to permit the Japanese immigrants to land there and has ordered warships to Honululu to enforce what the Japanese immigrants consider their rights. Grave complications have arisen, according to the Japanese official newspapers, over the action of the United States in sending the Philadelphia to Honolulu. They claim the cruiser was sent as a menace to Japan, and it is considered significant as foretelling the annexation of the island to the United States. The Japanese official newspapers are full of war talk.

General Miles Granted Leave.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—General Miles received the formal assent of the president to his projected trip to Turkey and Greece. General Miles will be gone two or three months, as in addition to making a personal study of the military features of the contest between the Turks and the Greeks, he proposes to inspect the military establishments of the principal European powers. The result of his observations will be embodied in an official report to the president.

Earthquake in West Indies.

NEW YORK, May 1.—A Kingston, Jamaica, special says: Many people were killed and much property damaged by a succession of earthquakes in the leeward islands. The affected area extends from St Kits to Martinique. The greatest loss of life was at Guadeloupe. All business is suspended and the churches opened for general prayer.

Bayard Booms Cleveland.

LONDON, May 1.—In an interview just published ex-United States Ambassador Bayard said: "Mr. Cleveland is the logical leader of the democracy and before the present administration is concluded I believe that almost the unanimous voice of the people will call upon him again to take the reins of the government."

LAW POINTS FOR INVENTORS.

A patent should be construed in liberal spirit to sustain the just claims of the inventor.

A recovery of damages for the period of infringement does not vest the infringer with the right to continue the use.

A recorded assignment of a perfected invention, made before a patent has issued, carries with it the patent when issued.

However brilliant the discovery of a new principle may be, to make it useful it must be applied to some practical purpose.

An inventor has no right of property in his invention upon which he can maintain a suit, unless or until he obtains a patent for it.

The rightful owner of a patented machine may continue to use it until worn out, or he may repair it, or improve upon it, as he pleases.

If a patented process cannot be performed without danger to the operator, it cannot be regarded as useful within the meaning of the patent law.

The law will strip a corporation or individual of every disguise, and enforce a responsibility according to the very right, in despite of all artifices

One void claim does not vitiate the entire patent, if made by mistake or inadvertence, and without any willful default or intent to defraud or deceive the public.

A party who has purchased a patented machine, and used it during the term of the original patent, may continue its use in case patent is extended or reissued.

GRANT THE HERO.

Magnificent Tribute to the Memory of the Dead General.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The imposing and majestic mausoleum in which the remains of Gen. U. S. Grant will hereafter rest were dedicated yesterday. The ceremonies were accompanied by the greatest land and water parade in the country's history. It is estimated that fully half a million strangers were in the city to witness the dedication. The republic was represented by its chief executive, the members of his cabinet and the representatives of the people in the senate and house of representatives. Every foreign country joined the solemn ceremonial, through its accredited ambassadors or ministers in Washington; or where such representative was lacking at the capital, as was the case with Greece, through its consul general in this city; while in addition England, nearly every European country, China and Japan were represented by warships dispatched to these waters for the occasion. Twenty states, more or less, were represented through their governors, and confederate veterans, who were among the hardest fighters against the forces of Grant during the war, marched shoulder to shoulder with the boys that wore the blue. It was such a demonstration as the new world has never seen before and possibly will never see again. An address was made by President McKinley and the funeral oration was delivered by Gen. Horace Porter. Mayor Strong, in a short address, accepted the monument in the name of New York.

Great Britain Says the Transvaal Stops the March of Progress.

London, April 30.—Three batteries of field artillery have been ordered to embark for South Africa within a fortnight.

Great Britain's last request or demand of the Transvaal was the repeal of the Transvaal immigration law, which demand President Kruger refused. The Birmingham Post, the organ of Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, in an angry article commenting upon the dispatches, refers to the Transvaal government as shuffling in a position from which it must be ejected by force.

PRESIDENT KRUGER.

TWO KILLED; FIVE INJURED.

Kanawha Valley Sawmill Wrecked by Boiler Explosion.

Pittsburg, April 29.—A boiler explosion at Alderman's sawmill in the Kanawha Valley, West Virginia, last night killed two men and seriously injured five more. The killed are:

PERRY DEAVERS.
GEORGE CONLEY.

Injured:

Z. W. Hickman.
Thomas Hickman.
William Balton.
Vinton Alderman.
John McCauley.

The three first named will probably die. The mill was badly wrecked and the loss will be heavy.

Catholic Women in Convention.

Chicago, April 30.—Handel hall was a mass of color Wednesday afternoon. From stage to gallery it was crowded with brightly dressed women who had come as visitors to the fourth annual convention of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters. The delegates number 150, and represent eight states. The convention will last three days. It is expected that the constitution of the society will be revised in several points where it conflicts with the state insurance laws. The reports submitted yesterday afternoon showed the society to have a membership of nearly 9,000 and to be on a satisfactory financial basis.

Urges a Speedy Conference.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 1.—Commisser E. P. Wilson, of the Cincinnati Freight bureau, has received a letter from Martin A. Knapp, of the interstate commerce commission, suggesting his co-operation in a movement to bring about a speedy joint conference between business men, railway managers and members of the interstate commerce commission to make a complete revision of the interstate commerce law and recommend the passage of the same by congress.

A WOMAN'S BODY.

What Its Neglect Leads to. Mrs. Chas King's Experience.

A woman's body is the repository of the most delicate mechanism in the whole realm of creation, and yet most women will let it get out of order and keep out of order, just as if it were of no consequence. Their backs ache and heads throb and burn; they have wandering pains, now here and now there. They experience extreme lassitude, that don't-care and want-to-be-left-alone feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness and the blues, yet they will go about their work until they can scarcely stand on their poor swollen feet, and do nothing to help themselves. These are the positive fore-runners of serious womb complications, and unless given immediate attention will result in untold misery, if not death.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will, beyond the question of a doubt, relieve all this trouble before it becomes serious, and it has cured many after their troubles had become chronic.

The Compound should be taken immediately upon the appearance of any of these symptoms above enumerated. It is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and stimulates the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the case of any sick woman as it did with MRS. CHAS. KING, 1815 Rosewood St., Philadelphia, Pa., whose letter we attach:

"I write these few lines, thanking you for restoring my health. For twelve years I suffered with pains impossible to describe. I had bearing-down feelings, backache, burning sensation in my stomach, chills, headache, and always had black specks before my eyes. I was afraid to stay alone, for I sometimes had four and five fainting spells a day. I had several doctors and tried many patent medicines. Two years ago I was so bad that I had to go to bed and have a trained nurse. Through her, I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I never had anything give me the relief that it has. I have taken eight bottles, and am now enjoying the best of health again. I can truthfully say it has cured me."

Harvester and Binder.

"When I Saw —your advertisement

I thought that it was probably like the announcements of many other makers of harvesting machinery—big blow and little show; but I'm ready to surrender; go ahead, gentlemen, you're all right; I bought one of your binders last season and it is equal to any claim you ever made for it."

This is the condensed essence of what Mr. Thomas Carney, of Washington Court House, Ohio, has to say about the McCormick Right Hand Open Elevator Harvester and Binder. The claims made for McCormick Machines are strong claims. That' because

McCORMICK

Machines are so constructed that strong claims for them are justified. The machine you want will cost you more than the other kind, for the simple reason that it is worth more; that's all — there's no other reason — and in the end you'll be glad you paid the difference, because there's nothing cheaper than the best.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMETISM.

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumetism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleepe. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or pain and finds it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by J. Mariners report a great increase of whales. This is well, as we are not lacking in Jonahs.

A politician weakly and amiably in the right is no match for a politician tenaciously and pugnaciously in the wrong.

The city of Tokat, in the Sivas province of Asia Minor, has been the scene of an outbreak of Turkish violence against the Armenians. The Turks attacked the Armenians while the latter were at church, and killed about one hundred of them. Both the civil and military officers of the city were implicated in the massacre, and under urgent pressure from the British ambassador at Constantinople, the Turkish government has dismissed them.

In New York, in addition to paying the original cost of two street railway lines and 10 per cent additional, one purchaser offered the city $2,000,000 for the franchise, and an additional percentage, affording not less than $100,000 yearly. Still another bidder has offered $4,000,000 for these franchises. These things are given away in other cities, that is, so far as their owners, the people, are concerned. It is scarcely to be supposed that they are given away by municipal legislators.

The benefits to agriculture derived from investigations upon animals are to be largely measured by the successes which have been attained in the prevention, limitation of the spread, and the complete eradication of infectious animal diseases. Plagues in the form of these affections have from the earliest times been a source of constant dread, and all too frequently, the cause of extreme suffering among the people, due to the loss of innumerable animals which afforded them food, clothing and a means of transportation. Rinderpest, or the great cattle plague, in England, in 1865, is estimated to have caused a loss of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 worth of cattle. From 1839 to 1870 the total loss from the ravages in England of two cattle diseases is placed at $400,000,000.

A very considerable revival in railway building is now in sight. Since the first of the year the Railway Age has been notified of a considerable number of new undertakings which promise to begin work soon; while a still larger number of enterprises carried over from previous years, and on some of which work has already been done, appear now to have secured the means for going on. Thousands of miles of lines can be enumerated for which room and need seem apparent on an intelligent study of the situation, and whose construction, therefore, is merely a question of better times. For a few of these contracts have already been let, while the promoters of others are sanguine that they will get under way this year. Besides the legitimate enterprises there are various paper schemes, such as that of a new transcontinental line, which have little likelihood of accomplishment; but altogether there is already a better outlook for railway building than has been observed for several previous years.

England and Germany seem likely to get into a dispute over the Transvaal. The Globe of London says it has good authority for saying that the secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Chamberlain, acting under great parliamentary pressure, has sent President Kruger a strongly worded protest against alleged breaches of the London convention upon the part of the South African Republic. It is presumed the infraction of the agreement consisted of the reported understanding with Germany and the recent defensive alliance entered into between the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, Great Britian claiming the right, under the terms of the convention, to control the "foreign relations" of the South African Republic. The Birmingham Post, the organ of both the chamberlain and the secretary of state for the colonies, says it hears that Germany is sending 3,000 troops to southwest Africa at the end of April, and that a special German envoy will be sent to interview President Krueger of the Transvaal and President Steyn of the Orange Free State. It is elsewhere reported that owing to the preparing for eventualities in the Transvaal, the arrangements for the Anglo-Egyptian expedition to Khartoum have been suspended. Officials in London express strong belief that if President Krueger persists in his claims for indemnity as a result of the Jameson raid into Transvaal serious trouble will ensue.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

ACCIDENTALLY HANGED.

Three-Year-Old Boy Caught Between Boards of a Playhouse.

PETERSON, May 8.—The 3-year-old son of Dr. Wm. Esser accidentally hung himself while playing about the children's playhouse. The little fellow had been left by the other children, and had climbed upon a stone by the side of the playhouse in Banker Allison's back yard to look in and see if the other children were there, when he slipped and fell, his head catching between two boards of the roof of the playhouse, and there he hanged. The body was cold and lifeless when found by Mrs. Allison, who had run out to see where the children were.

BIG DIKE IS RUINED.

Receding Waters at Keithsburg Discloses a Bad State of Affairs.

BURLINGTON, May 8.—The rapidly falling waters disclose a bad state of affairs north of Burlington. The big and costly government dike near Keithsburg, which has been under water for some time, is found to have been washed away and almost completely ruined, meaning many weeks to replace it and a great expense. The dike is a very important one. Soundings also show that where there was a landing in ten feet of water at Oquawaka there is now a deposit of earth, sand and gravel nine feet thick.

BETTER FOR STODDARD.

An Expert Accountant Shows He Was Not a Boodler.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 8.—A little over a year ago when J. G. Stoddard retired from the office of city treasurer, after filling it for about sixteen years, an examination of his books showed a shortage of nearly $12,000. Recently Mr. Stoddard made a settlement with the city by paying $6,000. An expert accountant has just finished auditing the books, dating back from the time Mr. Stoddard took the office, and discovered that nearly the whole shortage of only about $1,500, which it is believed will yet be found.

IOWA GETS FIRST HONORS.

At the Interstate Oratorical Contest of State Normal Schools.

EMPORIA, Kansas, May 9.—The second annual meeting and oratorical contest of the Interstate League of State Normal Schools was held here. The states comprising the league are Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin. Iowa's representative, Percy Hunt, of Cedar Rapids, won first place, Missouri's representative second, Illinois's third, Wisconsin's fourth, Kansas's fifth.

Volger Extradited.

DUBUQUE, May 7.—Judge Woolson held Carl Volger to await extradition by President McKinley. In December last at a village in Hanover, Prussia, Volger fired two buildings owned by his father, who had made a will disinheriting him. When suspicion settled upon him, Volger fled to America. The Prussian consul at Chicago finally located him and he was arrested in Washington county, Iowa.

The Geiger Case Appealed.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 7.—The trial of Rev. J. W. Geiger, pastor of the Congregational Church at Marion, on charges of unministerial conduct, presented by the Davenport Association, has been interfered with. The district court was appealed to, and granted an injunction restraining the committee from trying the case on the ground of prejudice.

Verdict for Modern Woodmen.

DUBUQUE, May 7.—The trial in the case of Geo. Harris against the Modern Woodmen of America for $10,000 damages for an alleged injury while being initiated, was ended abruptly in the United States court by Judge Woolson ordering the jury to return a verdict for the defendant.

Burglars at Cushing.

SIOUX CITY, May 8.—The postoffice at Cushing, Woodbury county, was broken into by burglars and stamps to the value of $150 were taken, together with a quantity of goods from the store of Sam McCarl, in which the postoffice is located. The burglars left their tools, but made their escape.

Burns is the Champion Wrestler.

DAVENPORT, May 7.—"Farmer" Burns defeated Dan S. McLeod in the wrestling match for the world's championship, $1,000 a side and 75 per cent of the gate receipts. He won the second and third bouts. Time, 27, 13 and 10 minutes.

Suicide at Hampton.

HAMPTON, May 7.—As the Iowa Central train on the Belmund branch was pulling out from the depot, Robert Roberts threw himself under the wheels and was ground to pieces. He was 55 years old. The cause of his suicide is not known.

Postoffice Robber Caught.

OSKALOOSA, May 6.—A tramp, supposed to be the fellow who robbed the White Oak postoffice recently, was caught in possession of the missing property. He refuses to give his name.

REV. H. E. COLBY SUSPENDED.

Church Committee Found Damaging Evidence Against Him.

OSKALOOSA, May 8.—Rev. H. E. Colby, the young Methodist preacher from Lacey, who was recently exonerated by the Mahaska county grand jury from charges of seduction by his adopted sister, has been suspended from the conference. For several days an investigation committee, representing the Oskaloosa conference, has been at work on the case and has found sufficient evidence to convict him. He has been notified of his suspension until the quarterly conference in Pella in July. It is understood that when Colby was before the grand jury he broke down several times while giving his evidence, and especially so when a doctor who had waited on the girl entered the room. From this suspicious action the church felt it their duty to inquire further, and the later developments are said to be quite sensational.

After an Executive Pardon.

OTTUMWA, May 10.—Amelia Darby Evans, now serving a sentence of fifteen years in the Anamosa penitentiary for the murder of Thos. Lloyd, at a small coal mining town near Ottumwa, in June, 1893, is about to be pardoned by Governor Drake. She is slowly dying of consumption, and her mother has petitioned that she be pardoned and allowed to die at home. All the officers and court officials connected with the case signed the petition. Lloyd betrayed and slandered Mrs. Evans, and she and her husband killed him in cold blood. The woman's husband was sent up for life.

Col. Henderson Recovering.

DUBUQUE, May 10.—Congressman Henderson has recovered sufficiently to start for Washington. His leg, which caused recent trouble, is in such condition that another amputation is necessary, but the operation will not be performed until he has reached Washington.

Republican Convention at Cedar Rapids.

DES MOINES, May 7.—The republican state central committee met in Des Moines and decided to hold the state convention in Cedar Rapids on the 18th of August. C. M. Harl, of Council Bluffs, will be the temporary chairman.

IOWA CONDENSED.

At Des Moines recently John V. Crum, the well known athlete, who has so often carried the colors of the State University to victory in short distance foot races, died at Mercy hospital. Crum's home was at Bedford, but recently he came to Des Moines to place his "Rub Out" on the market. The cause of death was appendicitis.

Captain Thomas, of the Iowa State University base ball club, was seriously injured a few days ago at Mt. Vernon in a game with Cornell college. Thomas, who was on first base, stooped to pick up the ball, when Smith, of Cornell, collided with him. Smith's knee struck the captain on the tempie. Thomas was unconscious for several hours, and for a while it was feared he had sustained fatal injuries.

The jury in the case of Hatch vs. the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company, on trial in the federal court at Dubuque, after being out eighteen hours, returned a verdict of $880 for plaintiff. The suit was brought for the death of Judge Hatch, of McGregor, who stepped into a culvert, unprotected by railing. The amount claimed was $15,000, and the case has been before the court three times.

Edith, the 9-year-old daughter of Thomas Stonehocker, of Newton, was seriously, if not dangerously hurt while playing in the barn. In some unknown manner the horses became frightened, one of them striking Edith in the forehead, just above the right eye, breaking her skull and tearing part of it off. She is also badly bruised about the shoulders. Doctors were called and there is much fear for the child's recovery.

During the past month about $200,000 has been paid into Iowa by the federal government, being indemnity to the first class of Des Moines river land settlers. The appropriation is practically exhausted. More than $1,000,000 is needed to settle these Iowa claims. The Boone Republican said of the indemnity paid the past few days: "After so long a time, over forty years, the Des Moines river land settlers have partially been indemnified for the great loss, damage and trouble they have been to on account of the conflict of title over their farms. Those whose claims were in schedule 'A' as reported by Commissioner Berner two or three years ago, have received their money, all but one set of heirs, the amount in Boone county amounting to about $20,000. The claims in class 'A,' the larger class, we understand, exhausts the $200,000 appropriation, so that an additional appropriation will have to be made before full settlement can be made for all the claims."

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

LONDON, May 4.—Epirus has again been invaded by the Greeks, and drooping Hellenic spirits have been revived by the offensive tactics. Dispatches from Arta state that the troops have advanced as far as Philippiada, which they have occupied for the third time. No resistance was offered by the Turks, who are strongly intrenched at Pentepigadia, a few miles away, but a desperate conflict in the near future is believed to be probable. Fighting is still going on near Prevesi, the Turks gaining a victory. Louerro has been added to the list of the towns thus far captured from the Greeks.

ATHENS, May 4.—The diplomatic situation may be summed up as follows: No requests for mediation have been or will be made by Greece to the powers until the ministers of war and marine report upon the condition of the Greek forces. The powers have not offered mediation, but do not conceal the fact that a request for intervention would be highly acceptable. Minister of foreign affairs Skouloudis says the military situation is greatly improved in both Epirus and Thessaly.

PHARSALA, May 6.—The correspondent of the Associated Press says the Greek line was attacked by a Turkish force of 20,000 infantry in addition to artillery and cavalry. Col. Makris commanded the Greek left wing and Col. Mayromichalis the right wing both repulsed the Turks with great slaughter. The railway station was destroyed by the Turkish shells, and railway communication between this point and Volo is interrupted.

VOLO, May 6.—The Turkish squadron refuses to leave the Dardanelles to meet the Greek fleet. Prince George has gone with a fleet of torpedo boats to blockade Salonica and intercept the Turkish reinforcements from Smyrna.

ATHENS, May 7.—Austria and Germany have joined the other powers in proposing mediation between Greece and Turkey. General Smolenski is retreating slowly and in an orderly fashion to Almyro, and Volo has been almost completely evacuated. The forces under Prince Constantine reached Domoskos unmolested. It appears that the great massing of Turkish troops and their movements led to a suspicion that an attempt was being projected to surround Pharsala. A council of war was held in the Greek camp, and it was decided to retire to Domoskos, which was reached at dawn. The Greeks promptly occupied strong positions on the mountain range overlooking Domoskos.

PHARSALOS, May 8.—When the Greeks abandoned Pharsalos the surrounding villages also fell into the hands of the Turks. A mountain battery, eighteen mules and a large quantity of ammunition and provisions and the personal effects of the Greek princes, Crown Prince Constantine and Prince Nicholas, fell into the hands of the Turkish forces.

LONDON, May 8.—An Athens special says a telegram was received from Prince Constantine, saying: Our new position at Domoskos is one of great strength. We are resolved to hold it at all costs. The retreat from Pharsala was rendered imperative by overwhelming numbers of the enemy, but it was affected without mishap.

VALESTINO, May 10.—The Greeks have evacuated Volo and the city has been occupied by the Turks. Gen. Smolenski has made an effort to join the main army at Domokos, but as yet it is not known whether he has been successful.

ATHENS, May 10.—Col. Vassos has retired from Crete and the government has announced that the Greek forces will be gradually withdrawn from the island.

AIR SHIP CAN FLY.

It Is No Fake Air Ship, But a Genuine Navigator of the Air.

NASHVILLE, May 9.—At the Tennessee exposition grounds an air ship invented by Professor Arthur Wallace Barnard took flight and after traveling twenty miles, during which it was turned in various directions, at the will of the professor, it alighted twelve miles from the city. The ship has an air chamber shaped like a cigar and forty-six feet long by eighteen feet in diameter. It is made of silk and cotton and filled with hydrogen gas. This chamber is confined in a network of small rope which holds the metallic frame work and aeroplanes underneath. The seat is made on the order of a bicycle frame and from this the operator controls the aeroplanes, on either side. The two propellors, or screws, extend in front of the operator, acting on the principal of an auger. In guiding the air ship the operator moves the screw from right to left in the direction he wishes to go and ascends or decends by raising or lowering the wings.

A collision occurred off Girdiness lighthouse, off the coast of Scotland, between the steamers Collynee and Gringoe. The Collynee sunk and eleven of her crew were drowned.

AWFUL CATASTROPHE.

Bazaar in Paris Becomes a Death Furnace for a Hundred.

PARIS, May 5.—Fire started in a crowded charitable bazaar, at which the Duchess D'Uzzes and other well known patronesses were present. The managers of the bazaar had arranged the stalls so as to represent a street of old Paris, and it had just been opened. The proceeds of the sales at each stall were devoted to a separate charity. The stalls were presided over by well known society ladies. Although an alarm was sent out with reasonable promptness, the whole wooden structure was blazing before the fireman could approach the bazaar. The roof and almost the whole building collapsed, falling upon the unfortunate people, many of whom are supposed to have previously succumbed to the stifling smoke. A panic ensued and a great mass of humanity hurled itself at the exits, through which it was unable to escape. Scores were trampled under foot and left to be burned to death. The structure burned rapidly and the firemen were powerless to stay the flames. The scene was the most appalling. According to the latest reports 116 corpses has been removed to the Palais de d'Industrie, while it is believed many yet remain in the ruins. Nearly all of these bodies are unrecognizable, the heads of most of them being burned off. The list of injured number 180. Among the dead and injured are many of the leading citizens of Paris and France.

PARIS, May 7.—It is now estimated that there were about 1,200 persons in the building when the fire was discovered, about one-half of whom escaped unhurt. Some estimates place the number of dead at 143, others at a still higher figure.

A TARIFF WAR.

House Ways and Means Committee Displeased With the Senate Bill.

CHICAGO, May 7.—In a Washington dispatch to the Times-Herald, Walter Wellman says war between the senate and house of representatives is foreshadowed by the revision of the tariff bill made by the senate committee on finance. The bill reported to the senate contains 1,200 changes from the Dingley bill. The members of the house ways and means committee are angered at the manner in which the bill has been torn to pieces and charge that it has been done in wantonness. It is charged that the controlling principle which actuated the members of the house committee—that the country not only needed more revenue, but more protection, has been deliberately reversed and that the senate committee made so many reductions in its revision of the various schedules that at the end it found it necessary to go into the internal system for the revenue which had been thrown away from the custom duties. This explains the appearance of an increase in the tax upon beer from $1 to $1.44 a barrel, and it also explains the imposition, at the eleventh hour, of a duty upon tea. "Senators Allison and Aldrich, who are more directly responsible for the revision than any other senators," says the dispatch, "declare their faith in their ability to have the act upon the statute books by the 1st of July, the day on which the law is set to go into effect. Whether or not they will be able to make good this prediction remains to be seen, but it must be borne in mind that the senate revision of the bill has been framed with a direct view to speedy action in the senate. It has been twisted about to meet the peculiar conditions which exist in that body, and Senators Allison and Aldrich generally know what they are about."

NEW YORK ANTI-TRUST LAW.

Governor Black Signs Laws Intended to Bring Relief to the Public.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 9.—Governor Black signed two bills which were prepared with the ostensible purpose of restricting the powers of so-called trusts. The first provides that every contract, agreement, arrangement or combination whereby a monopoly in the manufacture, production or sale of any article or commodity of common use is created is hereby declared to be against public policy, illegal and void. The attorney general is empowered to begin proceedings against any alleged violators upon obtaining consent from the supreme court judge. The second bill puts foreign corporations on the same footing as domestic by requiring that each corporation shall make an annual report as to the amount of its capital stock and proportion actually issued; the amount of its debts and amount of its assets.

Bimetallic Commission Sails.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Adlai Stevenson, ex-vice president, Senator Wolcott and Gen. Paine, who comprise the commission appointed by President McKinley to visit Europe and confer with the heads of the governments relative to holding the international bimetallic congress, sailed for Havre, France. They will go first to Paris, next to Berlin and then to London.

BREVITIES.

Secretary Sherman, of the state department, has issued instructions to all consular offices in Cuba to furnish detailed reports regarding the reported starving condition of the people of Cuba.

TALMAGE'S SERMON,

"THE BREAD QUESTION" LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Text "And the Ravens Brought Him Bread and Flesh in the Morning, and Bread and Flesh in the Evening"—1. Kings 17:6.

HE ornithology of the Bible is a very interesting study. The stork which knoweth her appointed time. The common sparrows teaching the lesson of God's providence. The ostriches of the desert, by careless incubation, illustrating the recklessness of parents who do not take enough pains with their children. The eagle symbolizes riches which take wings and fly away. The pelican emblemizing solitude. The bat, a flake of the darkness. The night hawk, the ossifrage, the cuccoo, the lapwing, the osprey, by the command of God in Leviticus, flung out of the world's bill of fare.

I would liked to have been with Audubon as he went through the woods, with gun and pencil, bringing down and sketching the fowls of heaven, his unfolded portfolio thrilling all Christendom. What wonderful creatures of God the birds are! Some of them, this morning, like the songs of heaven let loose, bursting through the gates of heaven. Consider their feathers, which are clothing and conveyance at the same time; the nine vertebrae of the neck, the three eyelids to each eye, the third eyelid an extra curtain for graduating the light of the sun. Some of these birds scavengers and some of them orchestra. Thank God for quail's whistle, and lark's carol, and the twitter of the wren, called by the ancients the king of birds, because when the fowls of heaven went into a contest as to who should fly the highest, and the eagle swung nearest the sun, a wren on the back of the eagle, after the eagle was exhausted, sprang up much higher, and so was called by the ancients the king of birds. Consider those of them that have golden crowns and crests, showing them to be feathered imperials. And listen to the humming bird's serenade in the car of the honeysuckle. Look at the belted kingfisher, striking like a dart from the sky to water. Listen to the voice of the owl, giving the key-note to all croakers. And behold the condor among the Andes, battling with the reindeer. I do not know whether an aquarium or aviary is the best altar from which to worship God.

There is an incident in my text that baffles all the ornithological wonders of the world. The grain crop had been cut off. Famine was in the land. In a cave by the brook of Cherith sat a minister of God, Elijah, waiting for something to eat. Why did he not go to the neighbors? There were no neighbors; it was a wilderness. Why did he not pick some of the berries? There were none. If there had been they would have been dried up. Seated one morning at the mouth of his cave, the prophet sees a flock of birds approaching. Oh, if they were only partridges, or if he only had an arrow with which to bring them down! But as they come nearer, he finds that they are not comestible, but unclean, and the eating of them would be spiritual death. The strength of their beak, the length of their wings, the blackness of their color, their loud, harsh "cruck! cruck!" prove them to be ravens.

They whirr around about the prophet's head, and then they come on fluttering wing and pause on the level of his lips, and one of the ravens brings bread, and another raven brings meat, and after they have discharged their tiny cargo they wheel past, and others come, until after awhile the prophet has enough, and these black servants of the wilderness table are gone. For six months, and some say a whole year, morning and evening, a breakfast and a supper bell sounded as these ravens rang out on the air their "cruck! cruck!" Guess where they got the food from. The old rabbins say they got it from the kitchen of King Ahab. Others say that the ravens got their food from pious Obadiah, who was in the habit of feeding the persecuted. Some say that the ravens brought their food to their young in the trees, and that Elijah had only to climb up and get it. Some say that the whole story is improbable; for these were carnivorous birds, and the food they carried was the torn flesh of living beasts, and therefore ceremonially unclean; or it was carrion, and would not have been fit for the prophet. Some say they were not ravens at all, but that the word translated "ravens" in my text ought to have been translated "Arabs;" so it would have read: "The Arabs brought bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening." Anything but admit the Bible to be true.

Hew away at this miracle until all the miracle is gone. Go on with the depleting process, but know, my brother, that you are robbing only one man—and that is yourself—of one of the most comforting, beautiful, pathetic and triumphant lessons in all the ages. I can tell you who these purveyors were—they were ravens. I can tell you who freighted them with provisions—God. I can tell you who launched them—God. I can tell you who taught them which way to fly—God. I can tell you who told them at what cave to swoop—God. I can tell you who introduced raven to prophet and prophet to raven—God. There is one passage I will whisper in your ear, for I would not want to utter it aloud, lest some one should drop down under its power—"If any man shall take away from the words of the prophecy of this book, God shall take away his part out of the book of life and out of the Holy City."

While, then, we watch the ravens feeding Elijah, let the swift dove of God's spirit sweep down the sky with divine food, and on outspread wing pause at the lip of every soul hungering for comfort.

On the banks of what rivers have been the great battles of the world? While you are looking over the map of the world to answer that, I will tell you that the great conflict to-day is on the Potomac, on the Hudson, on the Mississippi, on the Thames, on the Savannah, on the Rhine, on the Nile, on the Ganges, on the Hoang-Ho. It is a battle that has been going on for six thousand years. The troops engaged in it are sixteen hundred millions, and those who have fallen by the way are vaster in number than those who march. It is a battle for bread.

Sentimentalists sit in a cushioned chair, in their pictured study, with their slippered feet on a damask ottoman, and say that this world is a great scene of avarice and greed. It does not seem so to me. If it were not for the absolute necessities of the cases, nine-tenths of the stores, factories, shops, banking houses of the land would be closed to-morrow. Who is that man delving in the Colorado hills? or toiling in a New England factory? or going through a roll of bills in the bank? or measuring a fabric on the counter? He is a champion sent forth in behalf of some home-circle that has to be cared for, in behalf of some church of God that has to be supported, in behalf of some asylum of mercy that has to be sustained. Who is that woman bending over the sewing machine, or carrying the bundle, or sweeping the room, or mending the garment, or sweltering at the washtub? That is Deborah, one of the Lord's heroines, battling against Amalekitish want, which comes down with iron chariot to crush her and hers. The great question with the vast majority of people to-day is not "home rule," but whether there shall be any home to rule; not one of tariff, but whether there shall be anything to tax. The great question with the vast majority of people is, "How shall I support my family? How shall I meet my notes? How shall I pay my rent? How shall I give food, clothing and education to those who are dependent upon me?" Oh, if God would help me to-day to assist you in the solution of that problem the happiest man in this house would be your preacher! I have gone out on a cold morning with expert sportsmen to hunt for pigeons; I have gone out on the meadows to hunt for quail; I have gone out on the marsh to hunt for reed birds; but to-day I am out for ravens.

Notice, in the first place in the story of my text, that these winged caterers came to Elijah direct from God.

"I have commanded the ravens that they feed thee," we find God saying in an adjoining passage. They did not come out of some other cave. They did not just happen to alight there. God freighted them, God launched them, and God told them by what cave to swoop. That is the same God that is going to supply you. He is your Father. You would have to make an elaborate calculation before you could tell me how many pounds of food and how many yards of clothing would be necessary for you and your family; but God knows without any calculation. You have a plate at His table, and you are going to be waited upon, unless you act like a naughty child, and kick, and scramble, and pound saucily the plate and try to upset things.

God is infinite in resource. When the city of Rochelle was beseiged and the inhabitants were dying of the famine the tides washed up on the beach as never before and as never since, enough shellfish to feed the whole city. God is good. There is no mistake about that. History tells us that in 1555 in England there was a great drought. The crops failed; but in Essex, on the rocks, in a place where they had neither sown nor cultured, a great crop of peas grew until they filled a hundred measures; and there were blossoming vines enough, promising as much more.

But why go so far? I can give you a family incident. Some generations back there was a great drought in Connecticut, New England. The water disappeared from the hills, and the farmers living on the hills drove their cattle toward the valleys, and had them supplied at the wells and fountains of the neighbors. But these after awhile began to fail, and the neighbors said to Mr. Birdseye, of whom I shall speak, "You must not send your flocks and herds down here any more; our wells are giving out." Mr. Birdseye, the old Christian man, gathered his family at the altar, and with his family he gathered the slaves of the household—for bondage was then in Connecticut—and on their knees before God they cried for water; and the family story is, that there was weeping and great sobbing at that altar that the family might not perish for lack of water, and that the herds and flocks might not perish.

The family rose from the altar. Mr. Birdseye, the old man, took his staff and walked out over the hills, and in a place where he had been scores of times, without noticing anything particular, he saw the ground was very dark, and he took his staff and turned up the ground, and water started; and he beckoned to his servants, and they came and brought pails and buckets until all the family and all the flocks and the herds were cared for; and then they made troughs reaching from that place down to the house and barn, and the water flowed, and it is a living fountain to-day.

Now I call that old grandfather Elijah, and I call that brook that began to roll then, and is rolling still, the brook Cherith; and the lesson to me, and to all who hear it, is, when you are in great stress of circumstances, pray and dig, dig and pray, and pray and dig. How does that passage go? "The mountains shall depart and the hills be removed, but my loving kindness shall not fail." If your merchandise, if your mechanism, if your husbandry fail, look out for ravens. If you have in your despondency put God on trial and condemned Him as guilty of cruelty, I move to-day for a new trial. If the biography of your life is ever written, I will tell you what the first chapter, and the middle chapter, and the last chapter will be about, if it is written accurately. The first chapter about mercy, the middle chapter about mercy, the last chapter about mercy. The mercy that hovered over your cradle. The mercy that will hover over your grave. The mercy that will cover all between.

You think some great-hearted, generous man will come along and give you his name on the back of your note, or he will go security for you in some great enterprise. No, he will not. God will open the heart of some Shylock toward you. Your relief will come from the most unexpected quarter. The providence which seemed ominous will be to you more than that which seemed auspicious. It will not be a chaffinch with breast and wing dashed with white and brown and chestnut; it will be a black raven.

Here is where we all make our mistake, and that is in regard to the color of God's providence. A white providence comes to us, and we say, "Oh, it is mercy!" Then a black providence comes toward us, and we say, "Oh, that is disaster!" The white providence comes to you, and you have great business success, and you have a hundred thousand dollars, and you get proud, and you get independent of God, and you begin to feel that the prayer, "Give me this day my daily bread," is inappropriate for you, for you have made provision for a hundred years. Then a black providence comes, and it sweeps everything away, and then you begin to pray, and you begin to feel your dependence, and begin to be humble before God, and you cry out for treasures in heaven. The black providence brought you salvation. The white providence brought you ruin. That which seemed to be harsh and fierce and dissonant was your greatest mercy. It was a raven. There was a child born in your house. All your friends congratulated you. The other children of the family stood amazed looking at the new-comer, and asked a great many questions, genealogical and chronological. You said—and you said truthfully—that a white angel flew through the room and left the little one there. That little one stood with its two feet in the very sanctuary of your affection, and with its two hands it took hold of the altar of your soul. But one day there came one of the three scourges of children—scarlet fever, or croup, or diphtheria—and all that bright scene vanished. The chattering, the strange questions, the pulling at the dresses as you crossed the floor—all ceased.

Mrs. Jane Pithey, of Chicago, a well-known Christian woman, was left by her husband a widow with one half dollar and a cottage. She was palsied, and had a mother ninety years of age to support. The widowed soul every day asked God for all that was needed in the household, and the servant even was astonished at the precision with which God answered the prayers of that woman, item by item, item by item. One day, rising from the family altar, the servant said, "You have not asked for coal, and the coal is out."

Then they stood and prayed for the coal. One hour after that the servant threw open the door and said, "The coal has come." A generous man, whose name I could give you, had sent—as never before and never since—a supply of coal. You cannot understand it. I do. Ravens! Ravens!

A Gentle Hint.

"Nice dog! Have you taught him any tricks since I was here last?"

"Oh, yes. He will fetch your hat if you whistle," said she sweetly.—Dublin World.

DISCOVERY IN EGYPT.

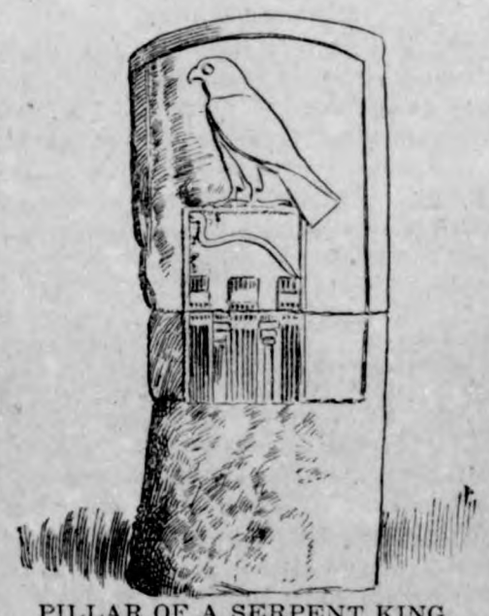
TOME OF A "SERPENT KING" FOUND IN NEGADA.

One of the Most Remarkable Finds of Recent Years—Some Treasures of the Lybian Desert—New Page in Ancient History.

(Negada Letter.)

THE Director General of the Egyptian antiquities, Mr. Jacques de Morgan, and the well-known German Egyptologist, Prof. Wiedmann, have just returned here after a fortnight's exploration in the Lybian desert, southwest of Thebes. Their attention was specially devoted to the study of the prehistoric man's remains in the Nile valley and to the period of transition between the autocthones and the first Pharaonic dynasties. In the territory formed by the bend of the Nile between Thebes and Abydos have been exhumed lately the oldest records known about Egypt. During the ancient empire, before Thebes had established her supremacy, Abydos seems to have been the real capital of Egypt. This city has obtained a world-wide fame among scholars through the two lists of kings known as the "Tables of Abydos," discovered there by Bankes and Mariette. It is in Abydos that the oldest tradition places the tomb of Osiris, and this town remained as a sacred ground to the close of the Egyptian history. It was in this neighborhood that were found last winter by M. Amelineau some royal sepultures of such an archaic character that they are yet a puzzle to most Egyptologists. Between Thebes and Abydos lies a group of prehistoric villages and necropoles which were partly examined last winter by Mr. de Morgan himself and others in the Egyptian antiquities service.

It was in order to investigate anew all these facts that the director-general and Prof. Wiedmann made a recent study of this ground. Many prehistoric necropoles and stations were visited, and excavations were made, corroborating the last year's discoveries. But by far the most interesting find was that of a royal sepulture belonging to one of the first dynasties. This tomb is similar to those explored last winter by M. Amelineau at Omel-Gaab, near Abydos. This tomb, found near Negada, was built with sundried bricks and consisted of twenty-one rooms, containing many objects. Like the sepultures of Abydos, it seemed to have been burnt. M. Amelineau thinks that this destruction was due to Christian fanaticism during the sixth century of our era, and at the instigation of the monk Moses, who was then the ruler of Abydos. Negada was, and is yet, a center of a Christian community. In spite of spoliation many objects were still left, among them 300 large urns sealed with what is known as the king's "banner name." In this respect also it resembles the tombs of Abydos. There were found, also, carved in ivory, lions, fishes, dogs, debris of furniture of several descriptions, one gold ornament, a few bronze fragments, and a great abundance of broken vases in alabaster, and vases cut in the hardest materials, such as quartz, rock crystal, obsidian, etc., and some splendidly cut flint implements. The examination of this interesting sepulture was made by Mr. de Morgan himself and Prof. Wiedmann. They are now engaged in cataloging the objects and preparing an elaborate description and a complete report of the find. Prof. Wiedmann was so much impressed with the importance of all these discoveries that he has decided to collaborate with Mr. de Morgan in a publication about the origin of Egypt.



PILLAR OF A SERPENT KING.

It is impossible to deny to this royal tomb of Negada, like those explored by M. Amelineau, the most remote antiquity. The third dynasty belongs to Memphis (King Djeser's sepulture is the Saggarah step pyramid), and we must look to dynasties anterior to this.

The presence of "banner names," or names inscribed in a square, instead of an oval or cartouche, is an indubitable feature of archaism. The presence of numerous stone cut vases similar in fracture to those found in prehistoric tombs is another evidence of a very Bear Trapped Himself.

While William Delong of Camrnal, Pa., was driving along the road with his butcher wagon, a bear smelt him and began to follow him. The rear door was open and coming up behind, Bruin calmly climbed in and commenced chewing on a leg of mutton. His paw struck the lever which closes the door. It shut with a bang, and Delong, to his intense surprise, found that he had live as well as dead meat aboard. The bear tried his best to escape, but couldn't, and Delong drove four miles to Cammal, where the animal was shot, and converted into steaks.

Drunk for Twenty Years.

A correspondent writes: "I was drunk on and off for over twenty years, drunk when I had money, sober when I had none. Many dear friends I lost, and and numbers gave me good advice to no purpose; but, thank God, an angel hand came at last in the form of my poor wife, who administered your marvellous remedy, "Anti-Jag," to me without my knowledge or consent. I am now saved and completely transformed from a worthless fellow to a sober and respected citizen."

If "Anti-Jag" cannot be had at your druggist, it will be mailed in plain wrapper with full directions how to give secretly, on receipt of One Dollar, by the Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, New York, or they will gladly mail full particulars free to you.

Tobolsk, Russia, is the oldest inhabited place in the world.

A THOUGHT THAT KILLED A MAN!

HE thought that he could trifle with disease. He was run down in health, felt tired and worn out, complained of dizziness, biliousness, backaches and headaches. His liver and kidneys were out of order. He thought to get well by dosing himself with cheap remedies. And then came the ending. He fell a victim to Bright's disease! The money he ought to have invested in a safe, reliable remedy went for a tombstone.

Warner's Safe Cure

is the only standard remedy in the world for kidney and liver complaints. It is the only remedy which physicians universally prescribe. It is the only remedy that is backed by the testimony of thousands whom it has relieved and cured.

QUEEN VICTORIA AND CHICKENS.

Queen Victoria is domestic in her tastes, and greatly enjoys country life. She is very enthusiastic about her chickens. She has her head "chicken man," who is aided by competent assistants. For forty years this department was under the care of a woman. The queen delights in the Bantams. The aviary comprises gold and silver spargled Hamburgs, gold and silver pencilled, and black and white speckled Dorkings, white Leghorns. American Plymouth Rocks, Black Minocas and Houdans. Her favorites are the American chickens. Great preparations are now going on in Great Britain for the Queen's Diamond Jubilee in June. There will never be another queen more beloved than Queen Victoria.

MOLASSES FROM SUGAR BEETS.

The Courier, of Grafton, Neb., notes that Mr. John McKelvey, near that place, has been experimenting with sugar beets for the production of molasses. He took 45 pounds of beets, run them through the cider mill and obtained 10 pounds of juice. When boiled down this made a quart of excellent molasses. Here is a pointer for farmers who are experimenting with sugar beets this year. We have urged them to experiment largely and assured them that the beets as stock food would pay for all the expence. We now wish to suggest that if they can make molasses out of the beets, the pulp will be of almost as much value as feed as the entire beets, that is balanced up with corn.

THE COST OF HAULING PRODUCTS OF AGRICULTURE TO MARKET IN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES.

The Department has issued circular No. 27, giving the reports of consuls in various European countries as to the cost of hauling farm products on European roads. The cost of course varies but it is given as follows: In Belgium about 20 cents per ton for hanling two miles; in England from 8 cents to 12 cents per ton per mile; in Hanover, Germany, 4.6 cents per ton per mile. This will give our readers a general idea of the very low cost of hauling loads on a perfect system of macadamized roads.

The governer this afternoon signed the manufacturing bill. He has been importuned not to do so in hundreds of letters daily. This is not all. Many delegations have visited him for the same purpose. The other day there came a large delegation from the university of this city bearing his name. They "laid down the law" to him in great shape, so it is said. The governor listned to them patiently for a while and then said, "I am glad to have you call and I have heard your remarks. I am governor and think I know my duty and my business. If I find I am in error and need your advice I will let you know." He signed the bill, just as your corrospondent said he would weeks ago.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

Our county dads have accepted plans and specifications drawn by F. W. Kenney of Austin, Minn., for our county house. It is to be a two story brick. Main part 30x40 with Ell 30x34. The job will be let June 8th and the building will cost about $5000. Now as this will be the best and most expensive house in the county we think seriously of moving in as soon as it is furnished. We will stick for a southern exposure—Democrat.

On January 21 of this year, C. S. Strasburg of Meservey, took out $500 insurance in the Modern Woodman. He died March 18 and in April his insurance was paid. He only paid two assessments on his certificate yet it was paid promptly and in full. Isn't this a first class company? Why don't you join the Woodman.—Goodell Journal.

THE TREASURE OF FRANCHARD.

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER VIII.—(CONTINUED.)

"Have you been to Franchard, Jean-Marie?" inquired the Doctor. "I fancy not."

"Never," replied the boy.

"It is ruin in a gorge," continued Desprez, adopting his expository voice; "the ruin of a hermitage and chapel. History tells us much of Franchard; how the recluse was often slain by robbers; how he lived on a most insuffi bers; how he lived on a most insufficient diet; how he was expected to pass his days in prayer. A letter is preserved, addressed to one of these solitaries by the superior of his order, full of admirable hygienic advice; bidding him to go from his book to praying, and so back again, for variety's sake, and when he was weary of both to stroll about his garden and observe the honey bees. It is to this day my own system. You must often have remarked me leaving the 'Pharmacopoeia'—often even in the middle of a phrase—to come forth into the sun and air. I admire the writer of that letter from my heart; he was a man of thought on the most important subjects. But, indeed, had I lived in the Middle Ages (I am heartily glad that I did not) I should have been an eremite myself—if I had not been a professed buffoon, that is. These were the only philosophical lives yet open; laughter or prayer; sneers, we might say, and tears. Until the sun of the Positive arose, the wise man had to make his choice between these two."

"I have been a buffoon, of course," observed Jean-Marie.

"I cannot imagine you to have excelled in your profession," said the Doctor, admiring the boy's gravity. "Do you ever laugh?"

"Oh, yes," replied the other. "I laugh often. I am very fond of jokes."

"Singular being!" said Desprez. "But I divagate (I perceive in a thousand ways that I grow old). Franchard was at length destroyed in the English wars, the same that leveled Gretz. But other had a pneumonia for his trouble."

"I should like to have seen them turning into dust," said Jean-Marie. "Otherwise, I should not have cared so greatly."

"You have no imagination," cried the Doctor. "Picture yourself the scene. Dwell on the idea—a great treasure lying in the earth for centuries; the material for a giddy, copious, opulent existence not employed; dresses and exquisite pictures unseen; the swiftest galloping horses not stirring a hoof, arrested by a spell; women with the beautiful faculty of smiles, not smiling; cards, dice, opera singing, orchestra, castles, beautiful parks and gardens, big ships with a tower of sailcloth, all lying unborn in a coffin—and the stupid trees growing overhead in the sunlight, year after year. The thought drives one frantic."

"It is only money," replied Jean-Marie. "It would do harm."

"O come!" cried Desprez, "that is philosophy; it is all very fine, but not to the point just now. And besides, it is not 'only money,' as you call it; there are works of art in the question; the vessels were carved. You speak like a vessels were carved. Yu speak like a child. You weary me exceedingly, quoting my words out of all logical connection, like a parroquet."

"And at any rate, we have nothing to do with it," returned the boy, submissively.

CHAPTER IX.

THEY struck the Route Ronde at that moment; and the sudden change to the rattling causeway, combined with the Doctor's irritation, to keep him silent. The noddy jigged along; the trees went by, looking on silently, as if they had something

WHOOPED LIKE AN INDIAN.

—here is the point—the hermits (for there were already more than one) had foreseen the danger and carefully concealed the sacrificial vessels. These vessels were of monstrous value, Jean-Marie—monstrous value—priceless, we may say; exquisitely worked, of exquisite material. And now, mark me, they have never been found. In the reign of Louis Quatorze some fellows were digging hard by the ruins. Suddenly—tock!—the spade hit upon an obstacle. Imagine the men looking one to another; imagine how their hearts bounded, how their color came and went. It was a coffer, and in Franchard the place of buried treasure! They tore it open like famished beasts. Alas! it was not the treasure; only some priestly robes, which, at the touch of the eating air, fell upon themselves and instantly wasted into dust. The perspiration of these good fellows turned cold upon them, Jean-Marie. I will pledge my reputation, if there was any thing like a cutting wind, one or on their minds. The Quadrilateral was passed; then came Franchard. They put up the horse at the little solitary inn, and went forth strolling. The gorge was dyed deeply with heather; the rocks and birches standing luminous in the sun. A great humming of bees about the flowers disposed Jean-Marie to sleep, and he sat down against a clump of heather, while the Doctor went briskly to and fro, with quick turns, culling his simples.

The boy's head had fallen a little forward, his eyes were closed, his fingers had fallen lax about his knees, when a sudden cry called him to his feet. It was a strange sound, thin and brief; it fell dead, and silence returned as though it had never been interrupted. He had not recognized the Doctor's voice; but, as there was no one else in all the valley, it was plainly the Doctor who had given utterance to the sound. He looked right and left, and there was Desprez standing in a niche between two bowlders, and looking round on his adopted son with a countenance as white as paper.

"A viper!" cried Jean-Marie, running toward him. "A viper! You are bitten!"

The Doctor came down heavily out of the cleft, and advanced in silence to meet the boy, whom he took roughly by the shoulder.

"I have found it," he said, with a gasp.

"A plant?" asked Jean-Marie.

Desprez had a fit of unnatural gayety, which the rocks took up and mimicked. "A plant!" he repeated scornfully. "Well—yes—a plant. And here," he added suddenly, showing his right hand, which he had hitherto concealed behind his back—"here is one of the bulbs."

Jean-Marie saw a dirty platter, coated with earth.

"That?" said he. "It is a plate!"

"It is a coach and horses," cried the Doctor. "Boy," he continued, growing warmer, "I plucked away a great pad of moss from between these bowlders, and disclosed a crevice; and when I looked in, what do you suppose I saw? I saw a house in Paris with a court and garden, I saw my wife shining with diamonds, I saw myself a deputy, I saw you—well, I—I saw your future," he concluded, rather feebly. "I have just discovered America," he added.

"But what is it?" asked the boy.

"The Treasure of Franchard," cried the Doctor; and, throwing his brown straw hat upon the ground, he whooped like an Indian and sprung upon Jean-Marie, whom he suffocated with embraces and bedewed with tears. Then he flung himself down among the heather and once more laughed until the valley rang.

But the boy had now an interest of his own boy's interest. No sooner was he released from the Doctor's accolade than he ran to the bowlders, sprung into the niche, and, thrusting his hand into the crevice, drew forth one after another, incrusted with the earth of ages, the flagons, candlesticks, and patens of the hermitage of Franchard. A casket came last, tightly shut and very heavy.

"Oh, what fun!" he cried.

But when he looked back at the Doctr, who had followed close behind and was silently observing, the words died fromhis lips. Desprez was once more the color of ashes; his lips worked and trembled; a sort of bestial greed possessed him.

"This is childish," he said. "We lose precious time. Back to the inn, harness the trap, and bring it to yon bank. Run for your life, and remember—not one whisper. I stay here to watch."

Jean-Marie did as he was bid, though not without surprise. The noddy was brought round to the spot indicated; and the two gradually transported the treasure from its place of concealment to the boot below the driving seat. Once it was all stored the Doctor recovered his gayety.

"Ipaymy grateful duties to the genius of this dell," he said. "Oh, for a live coal, a heifer, and a jar of country wine! I am in the vein for sacrifice, for a superb libation. Well, and why not? We are at Franchard. English pale ale is to be had—not classical, indeed, but excellent. Boy, we shall drink ale."

"But I thought it was so unwholesome," said Jean-Marie, "and very dear besides."

"Fiddle-de-dee!" exclaimed the Doctor gayly. "The inn!"

And he stepped into the noddy, tossing his head, with an elastic, youthful air. The horse was turned, and in a few seconds they drew up beside the paling of the inn garden.

"Here," said Desprez—"here, near the stable, so that we may keep an eye upon things."

They tied the horse, and entered the garden, the Doctor singing, now in fantastic high notes, now producing deep reverbrations from his chest. He took a seat, rapped loudly on the table, assailed the waiter with witticisms; and when the bottle of Bass was at length produced, far more charged with gas than the most delirious champagne, he filled out a long glassful of froth and pushed it over to Jean-Marie. "Drink," he said; "drink deep."

"I would rather not," faltered the boy, true to his training.

"What?" thundered Desprez.

"I am afraid of it," said Jean-Marie; "my stomach——"

"Take it or leave it!" interrupted Desprez fiercely; "but understand it once for all—there is nothing so contemptible as precision."

Here was a new lesson! The boy sat bemused, looking at the glass but not tasting it, while the Doctor emptied and refilled his own.

"Once in a way," he said at last, by way of a concession to the boy's more rigorous attitude, "once in a way, and at so critical a moment, this ale is a nectar for the gods. The habit, indeed, is debasing; wine, the juice of the grape, is the true drink of the Frenchman, as I have often had occasion to point out; and I do not know that I can blame you for refusing this outlandish stimulant. You can have some wine and cakes. Is the bottle empty? Well, we will not be proud; we will have pity on your glass."

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, May 3.—Chandler, rep., introduced a bill for the issue of certificates of indebtedness up to $50,000,000 to meet the deficiences in the revenue. Morgan endeavored to have a day fixed for consideration of his resolution declaring that a state of war existed in Cuba, but there was objection. The bill known as the "free homestead bill" was taken up. The bill releases settlers on public lands acquired from the Indians from the payments now required by law, and also gives free homesteads on such lands not now occupied. A vote will be taken tomorrow.

HOUSE.

A resolution instructing the speaker to appoint the committees was voted down by a vote of 52 to 124, 33 democrats voting with the republicans against the motion.

SENATE.

Washington, May 4.—The tariff bill was reported to the senate to-day. By its provisions a duty is placed on hides, coal must pay a duty, the duty on beer is increased from $1 to $1.44 per barrel, the Hawaiian reciprocity clause is killed, the rates on lumber are scaled down, the duty on high class wools is cut down and the duty on the lower class is raised, and the duty on sugar is slightly raised. The retroactive clause is killed and the bill is to take effect July 1. Aldrich, in presenting the bill, gave notice that it would be called up on the 18th. The free homestead bill passed, 42 to 11. The sundry civil bill was considered, but was not completed.

SENATE

Washington, May 5.—Senate spent some time in considering the sundry civil bill, but did not complete it. The senate refused to give the arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States the two-thirds majority necessary for ratification, the vote being 43 to 26.

SENATE.

Washington, May. 6.—An amendment to the sundry civil bill revoking Cleveland's order creating extensive forest reserves was adopted. The appropriation for the Omaha exposition was increased from $200,000 to $275,000. Bacon, of Georgia, introduced a resolution in favor of arbitration of international differences.

HOUSE.

The house adopted a rule providing that until further action the house shall meet only on Mondays and Thursdays. The republicans voted for and the democrats and populists against the rule.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE RENEWED.

Germany Induces Italy to Remain for Six Years in the Combine.

LONDON, May 8.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Rome says that the compact of the powers constituting the triple alliance has been renewed for a period of six years. The right to withdraw under the terms of the original agreement expired on May 6, and Germany succeeded in persuading Italy not to exercise the right of withdrawal.

American Butter in Europe.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The first experimental exportation of butter has just been made from New York, the agricultural agent through an agent shipping three-quarters of a ton of selected butter for sale in Europe. The result of this experiment will be of great importance to the agricultural interests, as it is the first step in an effort of the administration to extend materially the market for American butter and gain some of the trade with Great Britain in particular, which Denmark practically controls. The butter shipped comes from the Iowa Agricultural College and a creamery at Windsor, Vt. Subsequent shipments will be made during the summer of butter from other sections.

Buffalo Jones's Scheme.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Buffalo Jones, of Oklahoma, has made the interior department a proposition to corral the remnant of the once mighty herd of American bison. Practically all of these animals left in a wild state are in the Yellowstone National park, and Mr. Jones says they do not exceed thirty in number. He says that if the remaining animals are to be preserved they must be gathered at once, as the game has been mercilessly slaughtered the past two years. The secretary has not acted upon the proposition.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, May 5.—Patents have been allowed, but not yet issued, as follows:

To H. Schneider, of Garner, Iowa, for a kitchen cabinet.

To A. H. Pyle, of Webster City, Ia., for a valve stem protector connected with pneumatic tires on bicycles.

To C. Hohnsbehn, of Waverly, Ia., for an improvement in his cream separator that was heretofore patented and in successful operation.

To J. W. Thurlow, of Osceola, for a horse-foot protector.

To H. H. Skiles and H. C. Boll, of Creston, Ia., for a very simple and practical invention described in one of their claims as follows:

A tongueless buckle consisting of a flat metal plate having bearings at its side to engage a plate fitted to slide in said bearings and a spring metal plate bowed at its central portion and provided with a guard at one end to restrict its motion relative to said bearings and the two plates fixed to a leather strap at some distance apart to operate in the manner set forth for the purposes stated.

Our practice is not confined to Iowa. Inventors in other states can have our services upon the same terms as Hawkeyes.

BINDING OF GRAIN.

When binding was done by hand the left hand cut harvester was a necessity. With the left hand machine the heads of the grain are at the left hand of the man doing the binding, so in taking out the bundle with the band around it, whether the man turned to the front table or to the back table he kept his position toward the bundle itself—that is, with the heads towards his left hand; hence, in making the tuck he shoved the ends under the band toward the heads. Grain is handled by the shocker by grasping into the heads, as shown in the illustration, and the tuck should therefore be toward the heads, so that it will not pull out.

The applications of roller bearings to grain cutting machinery was made by J. G. Perry in 1869, and his patent, No. 86,584, for an improved reaper, showed and described various ways of using roller and ball bearings in harvesters. Unquestionably the most practical and satisfactory applications of roller bearings to binders and mowers has been made by the McCormick Harvesting Machine Company. The Particular form used by them was patented in 1882 and is now to be found in all McCormick machines. The especially valuable feature of the McCormick roller bearing is seen in the form—or cage as it is called—which holds the rollers from running together, and if for any cause the cage is taken from the shaft the rollers will not fall out and get lost. In order to avoid the McCormick patent the other harvesting machine company who claims to be the originator of roller bearings in harvesters has cut out the metal in the ring at the ends of the rollers. If the cage is taken out the rollers slip out and become filled with grit, or worse, get lost. The methods of the McCormick Company result in an annual saving of many thousands of dollars to the farming public. New devices are not embodied in their machines until long and oft-repeated trials have shown them to be practical. It has been the same with roller bearings as with everything else—McCormick experimenting is done at McCormick expense.

THE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 4.—The senate adopted the report of the second conference committee's report on the railroad bill. The adoption of this report leaves the old law in regard to relief associations exactly as it was before the battle was fought over the Temple amendment and Berry substitute. Both houses recede from their positions. Ellison introduced a bill providing for boards of supervisors making a transfer of funds derived from the mulct tax to the county road fund. House bill providing for report of advisory committee on code was adopted. Senators Ellis and Trewin were elected as the senate members of the advisory committee. Report of conference committee doing away with the state oil inspectorship was adopted. Senate adopted a report permitting the governor to continue to appoint the state librarian and curator of the historical department until 1900, after which the library board is to appoint them.

HOUSE.

House adopted the report of the conference committee on the railroad bill, receding from the Temple amendment and enacting the old law. Morrison of Keokuk offered a resolution that the code supervisors committee at the close of their labors render to the auditor of state an itemized statement of expenses incurred and the sa.e was adopted. The house voted to insist upon the Cheshire amendment to the revenue bill. It also voted to insist upon its amendment assessing property at 25 per cent of its cash valuation. House agreed to the amendment doing away with the office of state oil inspector. The house selected as its members of the code advisory committee Messrs. Finch, Cornwall and Power. At the joint session to select an editor of the code E. C. Ebersole, of Tama county, was elected.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 5.—Ellis's bill for a transfer of the county mulct tax fund was reported and passed. The revenue bill was reported from the house and sent to conference. Mitchell introduced a concurrent resolution to make the wild rose the official flower of the state.

HOUSE.

The house passed the bill authorizing boards of supervisors to tranfer the surplus tax derived from the sale of liquors under the mulct law to the county bridge fund. A large number of legalizing acts were passed. The committee on printing reported a bill which reduces the prices to be paid for state printing about 12½ per cent as compared with the senate bill. It was made a special order for to-morrow.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 6.—The resolution making the wild rose the official flower of the state was defeated, 10 to 20. Report of conference committee on the corporations bill was adopted. Only farmers' mutual co-operative creamery associations are exempt from the payment of the fee for incorporating. House concurred in the action to allow the Phelps cigarette law to stand with the addition of the mulct feature. The senate adopted the Carpenter-Trewin resolution cutting down the expenses of running the state house about 30 per cent, or $21,000 per year. Many snaps are cut out and the salaries of the majority of the employes reduced. The house amendments to the printing bill were agreed to.

HOUSE.

By a vote of 48 to 45 the house refused to ask the conference committee on the revenue bill to recommend that the house recede on the Cheshire amendment if the senate would concede the 25 per cent basis of assessment valuation. The printing bill, as reported, passed, 86 to 7. The house by a vote of 40 to 35 defeated the conference committee report recommending the passage of the senate anti-Sunday ball law.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 7.—Mitchell's joint resolution making the wild rose the official flower of Iowa was reconsidered and adopted, 24 to 7. The senate reconsidered the resolution passed yesterday providing for a reduction of forces of employes in the state offices of the capitol. It was then amended to provide that the present regime continue in force until the first of July, in order to give the present surplus incumbents time to look about for other employment. The house bill abolishing the soldiers' monument commission passed, 33 to 1. The third conference report on the crimes and punishments bill was adopted. It knocks out the senate's anti-Sunday base ball amendment. The state house employes bill came back from the house and the senate voted to non-concur in the house amendments, including that limiting the number of employes in each branch of the legislature.

HOUSE.

A bill was introduced providing that the soldiers' monument commission be abolished forthwith and the papers and property transferred to the executive council, who shall complete the duties of the commission, pay all expenses of the monument, etc. After a sensational debate it passed, 83 to 0. The resolution making the wild rose the state flower was adopted. The joint resolution for a reduction of the number of employes in the state offices and about the state house and a cutting down of salaries was taken up. Ray offered an amendment to include in the resolution the officers and employes of the house and senate. The amendment, he said, would save $15,000 a year. The amendment was adopted. The resolution, then, after several minor amendments, passed.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 8.—A bill providing for the salaries of the members of the general assembly passed. A resolution ordering secretary of state to print 5,000 more Official Registers for 1897 was adopted. Report of conference committee on the basis of taxation and the Cheshire amendment was adopted. The senate agrees to the 25 per cent basis of taxation and a compromise was reached on the Cheshire amendment by which express and sleeping car companies are dropped from its operation and the executive council is to receive additional reports from telegraph and telephone companies upon which they are to base their estimates of the proper assessment of these companies.

HOUSE.

House concurred in the action of the senate in rejecting the house amendment to the state house employes salary bill. Bill providing for the payment of the members of the general assembly and the expenses incurred by the extra session passed. The bill appropriates nearly $175,000. Resolution ordering additional official registers passed. The conference report on the revenue bill was agreed to.

A Wonderful Statement

From Mrs. McGillas to Mrs. Pinkham.

I think it my duty, dear Mrs. Pinkham, to tell you what your wonderful Compound has done for me.

I was dreadfully ill—the doctors said they could cure me but failed to do so.

I gave up in despair and took to my bed. I had dreadful pains in my heart, fainting-spells, sparks before my my eyes—and sometimes I would get so blind, I could not see for several minutes.

I could not stand very long without feeling sick and vomiting. I could not breathe a long breath without screaming, my heart pained so.

I also had female weakness, inflammation of ovaries, painful menstruation, displacement of the womb, itching of the external parts, and ulceration of the womb. I have had all these complaints.

The pains I had to stand were something dreadful. My husband told me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, which I did, and after taking it for a while, was cured. No other kind of medicine for me as long as you make Compound. I hope every woman who suffers will take your Compound and be cured.—MRS. J. S. MCGILLAS, 113 Kilburn avenue, Rockford, Ill.

WEIGHTY WORDS FOR Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

How Mr. Trullinger Cured Dyspepsia.

FARRAGUT, Iowa, April 8, 1897.

Gentlemen—Twenty years ago I had some trouble with my stomach. As I grew older the trouble became worse, and for the last few years I have not been able to work the greater part of the time. I have taken treatment from several doctors, some of specialists, but without benefit. Last winter the pain in my stomach became so intense that I had to resort to opiates for relief. For six weeks I was not able to leave my bed. My stomach would not retain food, it being so weak. Morphine and laudanum were the only medicines that gave me any relief, and that only a little while at a time. My brother, seeing your advertisement in an Omaha paper, ordered a package of Dr. Kay's Renovator, which I began taking. After the first dose I quit taking morphine, and I have not had any pain in my stomach since. My appetite is good and I eat anything, and now feel like a new man. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Kay's Renovator to all who are suffering with stomach trouble. Gratefully yours,

H. B. TRULLINGER.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMETISM.

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumetism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleepe. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or pain and finds it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by J. Sir Isaac Holden, the millionaire member of Parliament from Yorkshire, now nearly 90 years old, believes with John Wesley that phosphates of lime, in which flour is so rich, are good for growing children, young people, and young mothers, but shorten the life of the elderly by making bones dense and weighty muscles rigid, "furring" the large blood vessels like an old boiler, and "choking the capillary arteries." So he eats hardly any bread, his favorite food being oranges, bananas and meat.

Such enormous sums are being paid for houses and windows in London along the route of the royal procession on June 22 next, and so costly are the preparations made by the people of the metropolis for the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the Queen's ascension to the throne that during the last three months her Majesty's life has been insured to the tune of nearly $5,000,000 by shopkeepers, window brokers, house agents and speculators, who are anxious to protect themselves against loss in the possible event of the venerable sovereign's death before the date of the jubilee.

By the last census it appears that the population of France is now 38,228,969, an increase in five years of only 133,819, and this mainly through immigration. For several years past the death rate has exceeded the birth rate. These facts become still more significant when a comparison is made between France and her neighbors. In Germany the increase of population during the last five years has been 2,851,431, nearly 3,000,000, as against 134,000 in France. The contrast is still more striking when these figures are compared with those of the past. At the beginning of the century France outnumbered Prussia three to one. Today Prussia contains almost an equal population, and as for the whole of Germany, there are five Germans to every four Frenchmen.

A cablegram from London says: In consequence of the efforts of the government of Massachusetts, the American Antiquarian and Massachusetts Historical societies, the Pilgrim Society of Plymouth and the New England Society of New York, backed up by the desires of the archbishop of Canterbury and the bishop of London, the consistory court of the diocese of London assembled March 25 in the old chapel of St. Paul's Cathedral in order to determine the question of the restoration of the log of the Mayflower to the United States. After formal discussion the chancellor said: "I order on the undertaking here given by Mr. Bayard to place the log in a fit place, where persons concerned can have access thereto, and a proper certified copy being deposited at Fulham that the original be given up to Mr. Bayard for transmission to the President of the United States."

Reports in regard to winter wheat are discouraging. The continuous rains, followed by high water in the streams, have flooded the low lands in many portions of southern Illinois, so that what wheat was not winter killed has been utterly ruined by water. Reports from nearly half of the counties in the state, including almost all of the winter-wheat growing counties, are that two-thirds of the wheat seeded last fall —1,749,000 acres was winter killed or destroyed by floods, and the condition of the remaining third—589,000 acres—is so poor that under the most favorable conditions only one-third of an average crop may be expected. The outlook is that little more than enough wheat for seed will be harvested in Illinois this season, and the people will have to depend on other states for wheat for consumption, a condition that has occurred but once in the agricultural history of the state.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

BRADLEY BANK ROBBERY.

The Mystery Cleared by the Confession of the City Marshal.

OTTUMWA, May 14.—Pinkerton detectives have succeeded in clearing the mystery in connection with the robbery of the Bradley Bank at Eldon on the morning of February 1, when the safe was blown open and $6,200 taken. The instigator, the city marshal of Eldon, has confessed, and is under arrest, with Dick Dodd, a gambler of Ottumwa. Marshal Stevens also implicates three Chicago crooks. The confession of Stevens was made when he was confronted with some of the evidence by one of the Pinkertons. He first tried to tell a story of the three men forcing him to aid them in committing the robbery, but afterwards went before the grand jury and told the story without stint. He and Dodd were then arrested. Stevens conceived the idea of robbing the bank in 1895 and interested Dodd, who secured the cracksmen. The men made three trips to Eldon before they were successful. Stevens guarded the bank while the men robbed it, and then aided them in stealing a team and buggy to get away with their booty. The crooks went to Ottumwa, were met on the outskirts of the town by Dodd, who took them to his home and kept them in hiding for several days, when they went on to Chicago. The money was divided at Dodd's house. Dodd received $600, but the Chicago men skipped with the rest of the cash. Stevens came to Ottumwa, and when he found out that he had been flimflammed went to Chicago and tried to find his men, but was unable to do so. Stevens has always borne the very best of reputation. He has been an officer at Eldon for years, and the people of that town will hardly believe his own story of the crime. The cause is said to have been an expensive wife.

OTTUMWA, May 14.—Dick Dodd has confessed to complicity in the robbery of the Eldon bank. In searching Dodd, the chief of police found a fancy pocket knife with the name of James L. Aylesworth on it. Aylesworth was a traveling man, who came to Ottumwa about April 16, got on a drunk and was slugged in an alley and robbed of a diamond valued at $165 and a number of other valuables. He was badly slugged, and died at his home in Chicago a few days after, though his death is said to have been caused by typhoid pneumonia. Dodd told the officers that he got the knife from a well known young man. The police learned that this young man, with two others, was seen with Aylesworth in several saloons, and the arrest of two of them followed. Those arrested were Fred Grube and Gerry Devol. Grube and the other one not yet arrested are from prominent families.

AN ENTIRE FAMILY POISONED.

Taken Violently Ill at Marshalltown and No Cause is Known.

MARSHALLTOWN, May 15.—The family of Henry East was taken suddenly ill about 9 o'clock p. m. A doctor was called and found that East, his wife and three of their children had been poisoned. All were vomiting freely and it looked for a moment as if the sickness would be fatal to the mother and one of the little boys. At 11 o'clock all were doing nicely. No cause is found, unless it be attributed to bakers' cake, which they had for supper.

THE GREAT DOLLAR DAILY.

The Des Moines Daily News Enlarged.

DES MOINES, May 18.—The Des Moines Daily News, now offered to farmers for $1 a year, has enlarged its Friday and Saturday issues to eight pages. The News is the only first-class daily in the world for $1 a year and its success is wonderful. Its circulation is double that of any other daily in Iowa.

Caused His Daughter's Ruin.

WATERLOO, May 17.—Deputy Sheriff Smith arrested Henrich Michael at his home in Bennington township on the charge of incest. Michael's victim is his daughter, Lizzie Michael, aged 17 years. On the 25th of April Michael took his daughter to the Benedict home in Des Moines to be cared for. Michael gave out the statement while there that he did not know who committed the deed, but the daughter revealed the facts to her attendants, and this resulted in Michael's arrest. Lizzie Michael is the eldest of four daughters. The father is a German and does not appear to realize the enormity of the crime he has committed.

Dougherty Case Dismissed.

ALBIA, May 14.—The Dougherty case, in which the defendant was charged with the murder of his wife, through a criminal operation, has been dismissed for want of evidence to convict. The case had been tried twice, the jury each time failing to agree and the costs amount to $6,000.

LEAVES WIFE AND CHILDREN.

A. J. Bailey of Rock Rapids Skips With His Money and a Woman.

ROCK RAPIDS, May 13.—A. J. Bailey, one of the oldest settlers and a man of good reputation, drew his money from the banks, amounting to several thousand dollars, and flew the country with a woman by the name of Stoltenburg, better known as Laura D. Berkholtz. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey have been living in Mrs. Stoltenburg's house and boarding her for the rent the past winter. A short time ago Mrs. Bailey went to Eureka Springs and arranged for the purchase of a house. Mr. Bailey was to come down as soon as he straightened up some busines matters.

GEIGER ASKS DAMAGES.

Prominent Minister Sues Davenport Congregational Association.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 16.—Rev. J. W. Geiger, of Marion, the well known Congregational minister and Masonic lecturer, who has been expelled by the Davenport Congregational association, has brought suit against the members of that body, asking heavy damages for libel. Local sympathy is nearly all with Mr. Geiger.

Unconditional Pardon.

DES MOINES, May 16.—Governor Drake has suspended the sentence of Garrett Kline, who was sentenced from Jones county 1878, to ten years in the penitentiary for an assault with intent to commit murder. Kline escaped while his case was in the supreme court when he was under bond and he lived in Pennsylvania for many years before he was finally captured and brought to the Iowa penitentiary in 1896. Kline was but 18 years old when convicted of a crime of which there is every reason to believe he was not guilty. Kline will return to his home in Pennsylvania, where he is a well known and highly respected citizen with a family.

Old Man Fatally Mangled.

KEOKUK, May 15.—J. F. Davis, living near Denmark, Lee county, while plowing in his field was knocked down by a frightened colt, becoming entangled in the harrow and dragged around the field four times. Davis was horribly mangled in the teeth of the harrow and died in less than two hours. He was 77 years old and had lived in Lee county for half a century.

Little Girl Fatally Hurt.

OSKALOOSA, May 15.—The little 3-year-old daughter of Ed James was seriously hurt. A little boy companion had a pick and was digging a hole in the ground. The girl was bending over to pull out the loosened dirt. She stuck her head over too far, and the pick struck her on the head. The point passed through the skull and entered the brain. She can not recover.

Fire at Eagle Grove.

EAGLE GROVE, May 17.—Fire started in the basement of Wilton & Smith's drug store. In spite of all efforts to put it out, all the contents of the row were licked up. The loss will foot up over $8,000, well insured. It is believed to be the work of an incendiary

A street car on the Rhomberg line, at Dubuque, ran over the little 4-year-old daughter of Patrick Mullin and killed her instantly. The child was playing with other children and suddenly started to cross the track. The motorman did his best to stop his car.

The Tama City paper mill and egg case factory was destroyed by fire a few days ago. It was one of the largest industrial concerns in Iowa. for a time it looked as if the town was doomed and an appeal was sent to Boone for a fire engine and hose carts. The loss will be about $20,000; little insurance.

Information has been filed against three saloonkeepers of Keokuk, the charge being that they kept their places open on Sunday. Mayor Root recently gave orders that all saloons must be closed, front, side and rear, from Saturday night until Monday morning, and is determined that the order shall be obeyed. Heretofore many saloonkeepers have openly violated the state law and city ordinances regarding Sunday closing.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

ATHENS, May 11.—The correspondent of the Associated Press learns, on the very best authority, that Greece has made a written application to the powers through their representatives at Athens with a view to obtaining mediation. All the representatives have promised in their replies to use their best offices, except the German minister, who has merely acknowledged the receipt of the note from the cabinet. The porte is inclined to support the powers with a view to the facilitation of negotiations, but it declines to consent to an armistice, on the ground that this would enable Greece to reorganize her forces.

ATHENS, May 12.—The diplomatic negotiations which have been proceeding have been brought to a definite conclusion. Greece has formally adhered to the preliminaries for peace as agreed upon between the powers and the different legations have received positive assurance to investigate them and authority to treat with Turkey. The negotiations at Athens are regarded as concluded.

ATHENS, May 11.—The reply of the Greek government to the powers was as follows; "The royal government, in taking the note and declaration of the Russian representatives, acting in the name of the ministers of the powers, declares that it will proceed to recall the royal troops from Crete, adheres formally to autonomy for Crete and confides interests of Greece to the hands of the powers."

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Athens advices say the Greek gunboat Venus captured yesterday off the island of Tenedos a Turkish steamer having on board 100 Turkish soldiers, six officers, a large amount of munitions of war and £40,000 in cash.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 13.—The ambassadors of the powers held a prolonged conference, at the close of which they presented to the Turkish government a collective memorandum proposing an armistice between Turkey and Greece on the basis of the negotiations for peace now in progress through the powers. The memorandum enumerates the conditions which have been accepted by Greece and begs the porte to issue the necessary orders to arrest the progress of the Turkish troops.

LONDON, May 14.—The situation at the scene of hostilities appears to be that Turkey is determined to occupy Domokos before consenting to an armistice, and that Greece is convinced of the impossibility of holding out against the serious attack which Edham Pasha is preparing to deliver. It has been decided to evacuate Domokos and to fall upon the old frontier.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 15.—The Turkish government has replied to the powers that the sultan will be in a position to discuss the offered mediation between Turkey and Greece after the greater Bacam festival, which ends to-night.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 17.—Sixteen million pounds (Turkish) is mentioned as the sum Turkey will demand as an indemnity from Greece.

LONDON, May 17.—The sultan's reply to the note of the ambassadors at Constantinople offering mediation, saying he would be ready to discuss the matter after the Greater Bairam festival, justifies the fear that the powers have drawn a genii out of the war that will not be easy to get back. Abdul Hamid's answer is cool, almost to the point of insolence. It is that of a sovereign with a powerful army behind him, and he is disposed to treat the powers cavalierly. Articles published in the semi-official press of the continent show that the increase in the prestige of the sultan is the chief concern of the European cabinets, and that the prospects of an effective enforcement of general reforms for the Turkish empire are thereby relegated to the very distant future.

PRELUDE TO IDAHO TROUBLE.

Guns and Ammunition Stolen by Masked Men—Fierce Labor War Probable.

WARDNER, Idaho, May 17.—Lieutenant Linck, commanding Co. F. of the Idaho National Guard stationed at Wardner, received a telegram from Mullen that the steel house where the guns and ammunition are kept was entered at midnight by masked men who stole 75 guns and 800 rounds of ammunition. Lieutenant Linck wired Governor Steunburg for instructions. Linck will go to Mullen to try to recover the guns and ammunition. It is feared by many that this may be a prelude to another fierce labor war in the Coeur D'Alenes.

Earthquakes in Australia.

LONDON, May 15.—A Melbourne special says: Over ninety earthquake shocks have been felt in South Australia in the last three days. Kingston suffered most. Many buildings were damaged and people are living in tents.

A Dangerous Lethargy.

The forerunner of a train of evils, which too often culminate fatally, is inactivity or legarthy of the kidneys. Not only is Bright's disease, diabetes, gravel, or some other dangerous integral disease of the organs themselves to be apprehended, but dropsical diffusions from the blood, rheumatism and gout, are all traceable to the non-removal from the blood by the kidneys of certain impurities. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters depurates the blood, renders the kidneys active and prevents their disease.

A GREAT deal of nonsense has been written—and believed, about blood purifiers. What purifies the blood? .. .. ..

THE KIDNEYS PURIFY THE BLOOD

AND THEY ALONE.

If diseased, however, they cannot, and the blood continually becomes more impure. Every drop of blood in the body goes through the kidneys, the sewers of the system, every three minutes, night and day, while life endures.

Warner's Safe Cure

puts the kidneys in perfect health, and nature does the rest.

The heavy, dragged out feeling, the bilious attacks, headaches, nervous unrest, fickle appetite, all caused by poisoned blood, will disappear when the kidneys properly perform their functions.

NEW LAWS FOR IOWA

CHANGES IN THE CODE NUMEROUS AND IMPORTANT.

A Resume of the Changes Made by the Extraordinary Session of the Legislature.

The Iowa State Register publishes a list of the important changes that have been made in the laws of Iowa along with the work of revising the old laws. It is not a complete list of laws adopted, nor does it embrace the old laws which were re-enacted. It is a resume of the important changes which were made to the present laws. It is as follows:

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

The power to purchase supplies is taken away from the custodian and vested in the executive council.

The executive council selects its own secretary instead of the secretary of state.

The executive council takes charge of the supply department.

It is required to prescribe a method of bookkeeping for every state institution.

State institutions must be examined at least once each year by a state examiner.

The executive council must annually publish a report of every cent expended by the council, by the state officers, and by all state institutions.

All paper purchased by the state must contain the water mark Iowa and all furniture purchased must be marked Iowa.

The section giving the executive council the right to expend money under emergencies is repealed and the council given the right to draw warrants only in the following emergencies: For suppressing insurrections or riots, when aid has been ordered by the governor, and in restoring state property lost or destroyed by accident.

The number of state house employees and their compensation is to be fixed biennially by joint resolution.

Fire insurance companies are held responsible for the acts of their agents by service on them being made valid.

Accident companies located outside of the state may transact business in Iowa who have a cash capital of $100,000 and a surplus of $100,000.

No insurance company located outside of the state can do business in the state without a certificate from the auditor of state. The policy holder may be required to pay the tax of any such company on whatever policies he may hold.

MEDICAL LAWS.

Osteopathists are prohibited from practicing medicine.

Christian scientists can only practice by obtaining a certificate from the state board of health after passing the required examination.

Itinerant physicians must pass the state examinations and pay an annual license of $250.

Dentists who have practiced seven years in one place can continue to practice in the same locality without a state certificate.

The members of the pharmacy commission will receive a per diem of $3 a day and must turn their fees over to the state.

ELECTIONS.

In cities where registration is required the polls open at 7. In other precincts at 8 o'clock and close in all cases at 6 o'clock.

Trial of objections to the certificates of nomination or nomination papers is provided for in a careful manner.

Seventy-five ballots shall be printed for every fifty voters or fraction thereof. An ample supply shall be retained by the officer charged with the duty of preparing the ballots, and for general elections, such supply shall equal the number provided for the precinct casting the largest vote at the last election.

The voter may cast a straight ticket by marking the circle.

If he does not wish to vote a straight ticket he must make no mark in the circle and mark only in the squares opposite the name for whom he wishes to vote. If he marks in the circle and also in the square of another ticket the vote for candidates whose square is marked is not counted.

When more than one circle is marked the ticket shall be rejected.

If the ballot is marked in any manner so as to be identified it shall be rejected.

When the poll is closed the judges must forthwith and without adjournment canvass the vote.

No candidate's name shall appear more than once on any ballot.

Sample ballots are not to be posted.

Publication of official ballot is not to cost more than $30, except in presidential years, when it may cost $50.

A method is provided for an impartial drawing of the trial jury from the panel.

A method is provided for levying attachments upon real estate in the hands of fraudulent grantees.

Attachment bonds are to be double the amount for which the attachment was sued out.

Where the amount in controversy is less than $100 an appeal can be taken where the trial judge certifies that one should be allowed and no questions of law are certified.

The translation of the reporter's notes are made a part of the record to be sent up on appeal in place of a transcript.

Notice of rehearing is to be served on the opposite party and clerk of the supreme court. The petition and argument with brief are to be combined and the adverse party may file argument in response. Provision is also made for oral argument on rehearing.

The officer to whom a writ of replevin is issued may follow property to any county of the state and duplicate writs may be issued if necessary.

The district and superior courts are given jurisdiction with justices of the peace of actions in ejectment and the question of title can be investigated in the action.

The county recorder must witness the signature to a marginal cancellation of mortgages and identify the signer.

Common law arbitrations are made of the same force and effect as contract.

Assisting a witness to evade a subpoena or attempting or bribing a juror or witness are made contempts of court.

The husband or wife is made a competent witness in an action by one against a third party for alienating the affections of the other. Witnesses may be compelled to give incriminating testimony in gambling cases or illegal sales of liquors but such testimony can not be used against the witness.

Provision is made for taking depositions in shorthand.

Juries for superior courts are to be drawn by the county officers from the regular jury list and the talesmen from the body of the county.

SCHOOLS.

The board of educational examiners is authorized to issue certificates to primary teachers upon such examination as the board may designate in branches and methods which pertain to that kind of work.

It may revoke any certificate or diploma after notice to the holder upon good cause shown.

It may issue certificates and diplomas to persons holding them of the same grade from other states.

The county superintendent shall have a first class or state certificate or diploma.

First class certificates may be issued for one year to persons passing the examination in the branches formerly required, but to applicants passing the examination in the following additional branches, didactics, elementary civics, elementary algebra, elements of physics, and elementary economics, a certificate shall issue for a term of two years upon proof of thirty-six weeks successful experience in teaching, and the payment of $2.

Each district is continued as a "school corporation," the term being used as a general one including all classes of districts, which are respectively designated as school townships (divided into subdistricts), independent city or town districts and rural independent districts.

Directors in all independent districts are elected for three years; in sub-districts for one year.

An odd number of directors is provided for.

In cities of the first class and those under special charter the board shall consist of seven members; in other independent city or incorporated town districts of five members, and in rural independent districts, which includes village districts, of three members.

Provision is made for the election of a school treasurer, in independent districts in cities and incorporated towns, to hold office for a period of one year.

Cities of 5,000 population or over are to have not more than five precincts for elections.

The polls in school corporations so divided are to remain open from 9 a. m. until 7 p. m. and in all other independent districts of less than 5,000 population, the polls must open at 1 p. m. and remain open not less than five hours. In rural independent districts and school townships the polls remain open not less than two hours.

The secretary is to keep a record of all persons voting, the number of votes cast for each candidate and for and against each proposition submitted.

He shall make a record of the name, sex and age of each person between 5 and 21 residing in the corporation, together with the name of the parent or guardian.

The board may rent a room and employ a teacher, where there are ten children for whom there is no school house. When the board does not maintain a school, or when children live at an unreasonable distance the board may contract with townships or districts for the instruction of children, and the cost shall be paid from the teachers' fund.

The parent or guardian whose child or ward attends school in any independent district of which he is not a resident is allowed to deduct the amount of school tax paid by him in said district from the amount of the tuition required to be paid.

The full board must contract with the school teacher and the power of the sub-director to hire his relatives to teach school is taken away.

The president of the school board is divested of his power to veto the expulsion of pupils from school.

The formation of school libraries is encouraged by the authorization of an expenditure of not to exceed $25 annually for each school room, to be paid out of the contingent fund.

The county superintendent has power to subpoena witnesses in appeals from school boards and provide for paying witness fees.

LIQUOR LAWS.

Registered pharmacists and physicians, the latter being added to the list, holding certificates from the state board of pharmacy, may purchase liquors from permit holders for compounding medicines.

If any pharmacist sells liquor contrary to law the commission of pharmacy must cancel his certificate, the law having been made mandatory instead of permissive.

Owing to an oversight, no provisioin was made in the mulct law for the release of bondsmen sureties upon bonds of liquor dealers. Upon filing with the clerk of the district court of such a request, sureties may be released.

When a statement of consent has been filed with the board of supervisors the latter is required to canvass the petition and ascertain if it contains the requisite number of signatures and that it otherwise complies with the law. If any person is aggrieved at the findings of the board of supervisors they may appeal to the district court.

Only one statement of general consent for any county, city or town shall be canvassed by the board of supervisors in one year.

Exclusive authority or jurisdiction for punishment of all offenses under the law is rested in the courts within the county where the crime may be committed, and the 300 yard limit in adjoining counties is eliminated.

If any person in the saloon business has paid the mulct tax, he is entitled to no refund for money paid for the first quarter of the year, not if he should be engaged in the business only a day, but if he remains to exceed three months he shall be entitled to a refund of a pro rata sum of the amount paid in excess of the quarter.

In any city of over 2,500 and less than 5,000 intoxicating liquors may be sold when a written statement of consent signed by 80 per cent of the voters at the last election, shall have been filed and held sufficient. This can be done without any statement of consent from outside the corporate limits.

Whenever a council of any city of 5,000 or more, shall, upon a written statement of consent of 50 per cent of the voters at the preceding general election consent to manufacture or when the board of supervisors shall, upon a written statement of consent of 65 per cent of the voters at the preceding general election residing in said county, and without the limits of any such city, grant consent to manufacture, within the limits of any city or town of less than 5,000 population in such county, spirituous, malt or vinous liquors for sale as hereinafter provided, and person, partnership or corporation within such city, containing a population of 5,000 or more, or any city or town containing a population of less than 5,000 as the case may be, manufacturing or selling any spirituous, malt or vinous liquors at wholesale and to dealers only, or any carrier transporting the same shall be exempt from any and all penalties now provided by law for manufacturing, selling or transporting spirituous, malt or vinous liquors; but no spirituous or malt liquors shall be sold or shipped in quantities of less than four gallons or an eighth of a barrel, contained in a single case, vessel or package; and no such vinous liquors shall be sold or shipped in less quantities than two dozen pints or one dozen quarts in any one case or package.

Manufacturing of liquors shall not be carried on in any city of less than 5,000 unless 50 per cent of the voters at the preceding election have signed such statement of consent.

No establishment for manufacturing shall be erected within three hundred feet of any school house or building used for schol purposes, or academy, or college, or of any church or usual place of worship of any religious organization, and all obligations incurred by reason of the manufacture, sale or transportation of any liquors named in this chapter shall be enforecable in the courts of this state.

No drinking or selling by retail is permissable at the place of manufacture.

Manufacture is permitted in towns only which have the mulct saloon.

NEW REVENUE LAWS.

1. All property is to be listed at its actual cash value, and assessed at 25 per cent of such value.

2. Professional libraries are exempt only to the amount of $300.

3. The homestead of any honorably discharged union soldier or sailor unable to perform manual labor is exempt from taxation to the amount of $800, providing he is a dependent on his labor for support.

4. The homestead of the widow of any such soldier or sailor is exempt from taxation to the same amount whether he died while in service or since discharge. But these exemptions to soldiers and their widows do not apply if they own other real estate than the homestead.

5. The amount of tax which can be levied is limited to the amount which might have been produced on the average of assessed valuation for the years 1896 and 1897. The assessed value of property may be increased but there can be no increase of taxes.

6. Private bankers must make an itemized statement to the assessors much the same as state banks are required to make to the state auditor.

7. Stock of state and savings banks shall be assessed to the banks and paid by them.

8. All corporations are required to make an itemized statement to the assessor of their assets and liabilities such as will enable him to find the true cash value of their stock.

9. Shares of stock of building and loan associations are to be taxed to the individual stockholder in the county of his residence, and the company is required to send a statement to the county auditor of each county showing the name of each stockholder in his county and the number of shares he owned on July 1st of each year and its cash value on that date. From this the assessor can make the assessment.

8. Telegraph and telephone companies are required to make a much fuller statement than under the old law, and the executive council is required to take into consideration the use of their lines in this state in connection with their lines in other state in order to arrive at the true cash value of their property in this state, the earning capacity being considered as well as the cost of investment.

9. It will be the duty of the county auditor to call the assessors together at his office for consultation before they begin their work, and instruct them as to their duties.

10. Assessment roll known as 'form No. 2," requires each tax payer to list his moneys and credits as follows:

1. Aggregate amount of notes.
2. Aggregate amount of bonds.
3. Aggregate amount of other written evidences of debt.
4. Aggregate amount of moneys in bank.
5. Aggregate amount of other money.
6. Aggrgeate amount of book accounts good.
7. Aggregate amount of book accounts doubtful.
8. Aggregate amount of checks, drafts and other cash items.

LIABILITIES.

1. Total amount of notes.
2. Total amount of accounts.
3. Total amount of other debts.

The difference between the first schedule and the second if it shows assets above liabilities will be the amount of moneys and credits listed for taxation.

This statement is separate from the ordinary roll and must be signed and sworn to and the oath required include a statement that all moneys and credits have been listed, and that the liabilities listed are bona fide obligations and are actually owned by the signor.

11. The township board is to be known as a board of review and shall review the assessors' work, not to equalize, but to see that the property of each person is assessed at its true cash value and are required to raise and lower assessments to reach this end.

12. If any assessor or board of review knowingly fails or neglects to assess property at 25 per cent of its true cash value he shall forfeit and pay to the county the sum of $500.

13. The assessors may be called before the board of supervisors for examination under oath as to the method used in ascertaining the value of property, and as to the correctness of such valuation and a failure to comply makes him guilty of a misdemeanor, subject to a fine of $500 or imprisonment in the county jail for one year or both.

14. If property is withheld, overlooked, or for any cause is not listed or assessed the county treasurer may at any time within five years assess same and collect the tax.

15. If, on demand, the tax with 6 per cent interest, is not paid, same may be collected by distress and sale. If the property was fraudulently withheld from the assessors a penalty of 50 per cent shall be collected.

16. All insurance companies organized outside the United States are to pay 3½ per cent on gross premiums. Stock insurance companies organized in the United States outside of Iowa pay 2½ per cent on gross premiums. Iowa companies and all mutual assessment companies pay 1 per cent on their gross premiums, in addition to this Iowa stock companies pay tax as other corporations on their stock.

CITIES AND TOWNS.

Towns platted and unincorporated are to be known as villages.

The number of inhabitants to comprise a city of the first class is fifteen thousand or over.

Those having a population of two thousand and not over fifteen hundred shall be cities of the second class.

Other municipal corporations having a population of less than two thousand shall be deemed towns.

Elections are to be uniformly held on the last Monday in March in each year.

The words "aldermen" and "aldermen-at-large" have given way to "councilmen" and "councilmen-at-large."

Officers in towns are elected for two years instead of one, and the clerk who has heretofore been known as "recorder" is also elected for two years instead of being chosen by the council or trustees.

The same officers are elected in cities of the first and second class as under the old law; the same right of the council to appoint certain officers has been retained, except that where there are boards of public works, they select the street commissioner instead of the city council.

The mayor in cities of the first class is the presiding officer with the right to vote only in case of a tie; in cities of the second class and towns he is a member of the council, with the right to vote when the affirmative vote of some specified proportion of the whole council is necessary to the passage of any measure.

There can be but one assessor elected for the whole city or town. He can, however, appoint such number of deputies to assist him as the council shall authorize, such appointments to be confirmed by the council.

No money shall be appropriated except by ordinance.

Where cities have caused their ordinances to be published in pamphlet form, no other publication is necessary.

Towns have the right to macadamize, curb and sewer streets and pay for the same out of a general fund or assess the costs of the improvement up to abutting property owners.

Many new powers have been added to those in the law to all classes of municipal corporations, permitting them to license and regulate persons and avocations heretofore not included in the law.

No franchise shall be granted or renewal extended by any city or town for the use of any street, highway, avenue or alley or public place, for any of the purposes named in the chapter which includes among other things street railways, unless a majority of the electors voting shall have voted for the same at a general or special election. The council may order the question of a renewal or extension of any such franchise to be submitted to a vote at a general election, or at a special one called for that purpose, and the mayor shall submit such question to the voters upon the petition of twenty-five property owners of each ward of a city or fifty property owners in an incorporated town. The party applying for a renewal or an extension of a franchise must pay the costs of the election.

A uniform form of bond is required with a definite time of payment instead of the optional bond as heretofore issued.

The powers of cities and towns as to taxation have been carefully revised and clearly define the powers of cities and towns as to the levying of taxes.

A tax of 5 mills for a city improvement fund, for the purpose of paying costs of making, reconstructing and repairing street improvements at the intersection of streets, highways, avenues or alleys, and at spaces opposite streets, highways, avenues and alleys intersecting but not crossing, and at spaces opposite property owned by the city or the United States.

A tax of 2 mills for a general fund.

A tax of 1 mill for the maintenance of a library, in cities of the first class, and in cities of the second class and towns a tax of 2 mills.

All cities have the right to levy a tax not exceeding 5 mills on the dollar to pay the expense of running operating and repairing water works owned by the city or town, and the interest on bonds issued to pay for the purchase or construction of works.

Cities of the first class have the further right to levy a tax of 2 mills for the purpose of the purchase or construction of water works.

Cities have the right also to levy a tax of 5 mills to pay the expense of running, operating and repair of gas works, electric light works or power plants owned by the city, and the interest on bonds issued for the cost of the construction of such works or plants.

A tax for the purpose of creating a bond fund sufficient to pay the interest to accrue, above the interest annually levied on funding or refunding bonds outstanding and a levy for the payment of the principal of such bonds.

Cities and towns are empowered to levy a tax not exceeding 10 mills on the dollar for the purpose of defraying its general and incidental expenses.

The right to question the legality of bonds is limited to three months after they are ordered issued by the proper authorities.

All objections to errors, irregularities or inequalities in the making of special assessments or any error of proceeding or notice that are not made before the council at the time and in the manner fixed by the statute, shall be waived, except where fraud is shown.

FISH AND GAME.

All dams in the state must contain fishways.

The office of fish commissioner is abolished and a state fish and game warden substituted.

Only one trot line is permissible and that must not extend more than half way across the stream.

The names of all harmless birds are specially named in a list of birds that are not to be killed at any season. Blue jays and English sparrows are not included in the list.

October and November constitute the open season for the killing of quail.

A closed season is provided for timber squirrels between January 1 and July 1.

CORPORATION LAWS.

Directors and officers are held personally liable for all debts of the corporation if it exceeds its limit of indebtedness or if they pay dividends which deplete its capital stock or commit any other fraud forbidden by law.

Co-operative creameries are exempt from the franchise fee.

Creditors can recover against stockholders for unpaid assessments on stock the difference between what stockholders secured stock for from corporation and the face value thereof. This harmonizes the decision of the supreme court and the Iowa supreme court.

Foreign corporations are granted no rights not granted to like Iowa corporations.

All foreign corporations other than manufacturing or mercantile are required to file their articles and become domesticated and pay a state incorporation fee. This is retroactive back to 1886.

Courts of equity have the power to dissolve a corporation and to wind up its affairs, a power formerly vested in courts of law.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Two new legal holidays are created. They are Washington's birthday and all general election days.

Office of state oil inspector is abolished and work given in charge of executive council.

Salaries of superintendents of state hospitals for the insane reduced to $3,000.

Salary of attorney general fixed at $4,000.

Salary of railroad commissioners reduced from $3,000 to $2,200.

Expenses of members of the state board of health and state board of medical examiners reduced to mileage and per diem cut down.

State institutions are given their allowance quarterly in advance.

Per capita of Anamosa penitentiary reduced from $10 a month to $9.50.

Provision made for saving the refuse stone at the penitentiaries.

Power of railroad commissioners to investigate railroad wrecks eliminated.

It is made a crime for a man to desert his wife where marriage is solemnized to avoid prosecution for sedutcion.

The state will annotate and publish its own code and sell them at $5 a volume.

Fishing is permissible on Sunday.

Base ball and foot ball on Sunday are permissible so long as no private family or place of worship is disturbed.

The salary of the supreme court reporter is done away with and he is to be paid on the number of volumes he issues.

Committee rooms in the state house are not to be used as sleeping apartments.

The money collected from the mulct tax may be transferred by the board of supervisors to the county road fund for the improvement of the public highways.

Emlin McClain is employed to annotate the new code.

Doctors are no longer required to make a report to the county clerk of each birth and death. The gathering of these statistics is to be done by the assessor. Each report has been an expense of 20 cents which will now be saved.

Dead swine must be buried at least three feet under the surface of the earth.

An appropriation of $72,500 is made for the rebuilding of the Glenwood institution in addition to the $40,000 appropriated by the executive council.

The wild rose is adopted as the official state flower.

The monument commission is abolished and the records, etc., transferred to the executive council which is to complete the work.

The state librarian and curator of the state historical department are to be appointed by the board of library trustees after January 1, 1900.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMETISM.

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumetism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleepe. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or pain and finds it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used, ever did her as much good. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by J. Cattle Coming Into Iowa.

Cattle are coming into Iowa at a great rate in these days. We have already noticed that they are coming from every Western state and territory, from the Pan Handle and Oklahoma, as far south as the government quarantine against Texas fever will permit, and of late they are coming in by the thousands from Canada. Some 2,800 head of these have been brought into Adair, Cass, Taylor, and Union counties in the last three weeks. The Canadian cattle are for the most part fairly well bred Short-horns, under-sized for their age as compared with our cattle, but of good form and fully as well bred as our own. Farmers are buying them at what seems long prices to put on grass, We bought a couple of car loads and will be able to report in a few months as to the behavior of these foreigners. So extensive has been the importation of cattle from other states and Canada into southwestern Iowa, that for the first time in the last three years the pastures are being filled up, and we found it a matter of some difficulty to secure the rental of an additonal eighty acres which we had supposed could be picked up any where.

CHAPTER X.

THE beer being done, the Doctor chafed bitterly while Jean-Marie finished his cakes. "I burn to be gone," he said, looking at his watch. "Good God! how slow you eat!" And yet to eat slowly was his own particular prescription, the main secret of longevity!

His martyrdom, however, reached an end at last; the pair resumed their places in the buggy, and Desprez, leaning luxuriously back, announced his intention of proceeding to Fontainebleau.

"To Fontainebleau?" repeated Jean-Marie.

"My words are always measured," said the doctor. "On!"

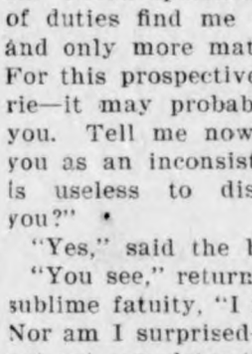
The doctor was driven through the glades of paradise; the air, the light, the shining leaves, the very movement of the vehicle, seemed to fall in tune with his golden meditations; with his head thrown back, he dreamed a series of sunny visions, ale and pleasure dancing in his veins. At last he spoke.

"I shall telegraph for Casimir," he said. "Good Casimir! a fellow of the lower order of intelligence, Jean-Marie, distinctly not creative, not poetic; and yet he will repay your study; his fortune is vast, and is entirely due to his own exertions. He is the very fellow to help us to dispose of our trinkets, find us a suitable house in Paris, and manage the details of our installation. Admirable Casimir, one of my oldest comrades! It was on his advice, I may add, that I invested my little fortune in Turkish bonds; when we have added these spoils of the mediaeval church to be our stake in the Mohammedan empire, little boy, we shall positively roll among doubloons, positively roll! Beautiful forest," he cried, "farewell! Though called to other scenes, I will not forget thee. Thy name is graven in my heart. Under the influence of prosperity I become dithyrambic, Jean-Marie. Such is the impulse of the natural primeval man. And I—well, I will not soul; such was the constitution of refuse the credit—I have preserved my youth like a virginity; another, who should have led the same snoozing, countrified existence for these years, another had become rusted, become stereotyped; but I, I praise my happy constitution, retain the spring unbroken. Fresh opulence and a new sphere of duties find me unabated in ardor and only more mature by knowledge. For this prospective change, Jean-Marie—it may probably have shocked you. Tell me now, did it not strike you as an inconsistency? Confess—it is useless to dissemble—it pained you?"

"Yes," said the boy.

"You see," returned the doctor, with sublime fatuity, "I read your thought! Nor am I surprised—your education is not yet complete; the higher duties of men have not been yet presented to you fully. A hint—till we have leisure—must suffice. Now that I am once more in possession of a modest competence; now that I have so long prepared myself in silent meditation, it becomes my superior duty to proceed to Paris. My scientific training, my undoubted command of language, mark me out for the service of my country. Modesty in such a case would be a snare. If sin were a philosophical expression, I should call it sinful. A man must not deny his manifest abilities, for that is to evade his obligations. I must be up and doing; I must be no skulker in life's battle."

CHAPTER XI.



SO HE rattled on copiously greasing the joins of his inconsistency with words; while the boy listened silently, his eyes fixed on the horse, his mind seething. It was all lost eloquence; no array of words could unsettle a belief of Jean-Marie's; and he drove into Fontainebleau filled with pity, horror, indignation, and despair.

In the town Jean-Marie was kept a fixture on the driving-seat, to guard the treasure; while the doctor, with a singular, slightly tipsy [illegible]riness of manner, fluttered in and out of cafes, where he shook hands with garrison officers, and mixed an absinthe with the nicety of old experience; in and out of shops, from which he returned laden with costly fruits, real turtle, a magnificent piece of silk for his wife, a preposterous cane for himself, and a kepi of the newest fashion for the boy; in and out of the telegraph office, whence he dispatched his telegram, and where three hours later he received an answer promising a visit on the morrow; and generally pervaded Fontainebleau with the first fine aroma of his divine good humor.

The sun was very low when they set forth again; the shadows of the forest trees extended across the broad white road that led them home; the penetrating odor of the evening wood had already arisen, like a cloud of incense, from that broad field of tree-tops; and even in the streets of the town, where the air had been baked all day between white walls, it came in whiffs and pulses, like a distant music. Halfway home, the last gold flicker vanished from a great oak upon the left; and when they came forth beyond the borders of the wood, the plain was already sunken in pearly grayness, and a great, pale moon came swinging skyward through the filmy poplars.

The doctor sung, the doctor whistled, the doctor talked. He spoke of the woods, and the wars, and the deposition of dew; he brightened and babbled of Paris; he soared into cloudy bombast on the glories of the political arena. All was to be changed; as the day departed, it took with it the vestiges of an outworn existence, and to-morrow's sun was to inaugurate the new. "Enough," he cried, "O this life of maceration!" His wife (still beautiful, or he was sadly partial) were to be no longer buried; she should now shine before society. Jean-Marie would find the world at his feet; the roads open to success, wealth, honor, and posthumous renown. "And oh, by the way," said he, "for God's sake keep your tongue quiet! You are, of course, a very silent fellow; it is a quality I gladly recognize in you—silence, golden silence! But this is a matter of gravity. No word must get abroad; none but the good Casimir is to be trusted; we shall probably dispose of the vessels in England."

"But are they not even ours?" the boy said, almost with a sob—it was the only time he had spoken.

"Ours in this sense, that they are nobody else's," replied the doctor. "But the state would have some claim. If they were stolen, for instance, we should be unable to demand their restitution; we should have no title; we should be unable even to communicate with the police. Such is the monstrous condition of the law.* It is a mere instance of what remains to be done, of the injustices that may yet be righted by an ardent, active, and philosophical deputy."

*Let it be so, for my tale!

Jean-Marie put his faith in Madame Desprez; and as they drove forward down the road from Bourron, between the rustling poplars, he prayed in his teeth, and whipped up the horse to an unusual speed. Surely, as soon as her character, and bring this waking they arrived, madame would assert nightmare to an end.

Their entrance into Gretz was heralded and accompanied by a most furious barking; all the dogs in the village seemed to smell the treasure in the noddy. But there was no one on the street, save three lounging landscape painters at Tentaillon's door. Jean-Marie opened the green gate and led in the horse and carriage; and almost at the same moment Madame Desprez came to the kitchen threshold with a lighted lantern; for the moon was not yet high enough to clear the garden walls.

"Close the gates, Jean-Marie!" cried the doctor, somewhat unsteadily alighting. "Anastasie, where is Aline?"

"She has gone to Montereau to see her parents," said madame.

"Here, quick, come near to me; I don't wish to speak too loud!" he continued. "Darling, we are wealthy!"

"Wealthy!" repeated the wife.

"I have found the treasure of Franchard," replied her husband. "See, here are the first fruits; a pineapple, a dress for my ever-beautiful—it will suit her—trust a husband's, trust a lover's taste! Embrace me darling! This grimy episode is over; the butterfly unfolds its painted wings. To-morrow Casimir will come; in a week we may be in Paris—happy at last! You shall have diamonds. Jean-Marie, take it out of the boot, with religious care, and bring it piece by piece into the dining-room. We shall have plate at table! Darling, hasten and prepare this turtle; it will be a whet—it will be an addition to our meagre ordinary. I myself will proceed to the cellar. We shall have a bottle of that little Beaujolais you like, and finish with the Hermitage; there are still three bottles left. Worthy wine for a worthy occasion."

"The turtle, my adored, the turtle!" cried the doctor; and he pushed her toward the kitchen, lantern and all.

Jean-Marie stood dumbfounded. He had pictured to himself a different scene—a more immediate protest, and his hope began to dwindle on the spot.

CHAPTER XII.

THE doctor was everywhere, a little doubtful on his legs, perhaps, and now and then taking the wall with his shoulder; for it was long since he had tasted absinthe, and he was then reflecting that the absinthe had been a misconception. Not that he regretted excess on such a glorious day, but he made a mental memorandum to beware; he must not, a second time, become the victim of a deleterious habit. He had his wine out of the cellar in a twinkling; he arranged the sacrificial vessels, some on the white tablecloth, some on the sideboard, still crusted with historic earth. He was in and out of the kitchen, plying Anastasie with vermouth, heating her with glimpses of the future, estimating their new wealth at ever larger figures; and before they sat down to supper, the lady's virtue had melted in the fire of his enthusiasm, her timidity had disappeared; she, too, had begun to speak disparagingly of the life at Gretz; and as she took her place and helped the soup, her eyes shone with the glitter of prospective diamonds.

All through the meal, she and the doctor made and unmade fairy plans. They bobbed and bowed and pledged each other. Their faces ran over with smiles; their eyes scattered sparkles, as they projected the doctor's political honors and the lady's drawing-room ovations.

"But you will not be a Red!" cried Anastasie.

"I am Left Centre to the core," replied the doctor.

"Madame Gastein will present us—we shall find ourselves forgotten," said the lady.

"Never," protested the doctor. "Beauty and talent leave a mark."

"I have positively forgotten how to dress," she sighed.

"Darling, you make me blush," cried he. "Yours has been a tragic marriage!"

"But your success—to see you appreciated, honored, your name in all the papers, that will be more than pleasure—it will be heaven!" she cried.

"And once a week," said the doctor, archly scanning the syllables, "once a week—one good little game of baccarat?"

"Only once a week?" she questioned, threatening him with a finger.

"I swear it by my political honor," cried he.

"I spoil you," she said, and gave him her hand.

He covered it with kisses.

Jean-Marie escapes into the night. The moon swung high over Gretz. He went down to the garden end and sat on the jetty. The river ran by with eddies of oily silver, and a low, monotonous song. Faint veils of mist moved among the poplars on the farther side. The reeds were quietly nodding. A hundred times already had the boy sat, on such a night, and watched the streaming river with untroubled fancy. And this perhaps was to be the last. He was to leave this familiar hamlet, this green, rustling country, this bright and quiet stream; he was to pass into the great city; and his dear lady mistress was to move bedizened into saloons; his good, garrulous, kind-hearted master to become a brawling deputy; and both be lost forever to Jean-Marie and their better selves. He knew his own defects; he knew he must sink into less and less consideration in the turmoil of a city life; sink more and more from the child into the servant. And he began dimly to believe the doctor's prophesies of evil. He could see a change in both. His generous incredulity failed him for this once; a child must have perceived that the Hermitage had completed what the absinthe had begun. If this were the first day, what would be the last? "If necessary, wreck the train," thought he, remembering the doctor's parable. He looked round on the delightful scene; he drank deep of the charmed night air, laden with the scent of hay. "If necessary, wreck the train," he repeated. And he rose and returned to the house.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"And how did he die?" asked the lady who had come West to inquire after the husband she had lost. "Er—by request, ma'am," said the gentle cowboy, as mildly and regretfully as possible.—Indianapolis Journal.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, May 10.—Morgan's Cuban resolution was discussed at length. A resolution was agreed to without opposition putting into effect to-morrow the rearrangement of the senate committees as agreed upon in the several caucuses. Vest secured agreement to a resolution directing the committee on commerce to inquire into the cause of the recent floods on the Mississippi river and report to the senate next December.

HOUSE.

House took up the senate amendments to the sundry civil appropriation bill, but little was accomplished aside from discussion

SENATE.

Washington, May 11.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations: Albion W. Tourgee, of New York, consul at Bordeaux, France; S. B. Everett, of Massachusetts, consul at Batavia, Java; H. P. Cheatham, of North Carolina, recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia. The Cuban resolution was under discussion during the day, but no action was reached.

HOUSE.

The sundry civil appropriation bill was again taken up, and by 137 to 39, the house refused to concur in the senate's amendment to revoke President Cleveland's order as to forest reservations. The appropriation of $50,000 to improve Pearl Harbor, in the Hawaiian islands, was rejected. The house voted to not concur in the amendment appropriating $5,000 for the continuation by the secretary of agriculture of the investigation of the beet sugar industry. After the appointment of a conference committee adjournment was taken until Thursday.

SENATE

Washington, May 12.—The sugar investigation of 1894 was recalled by the introduction of a resolution by Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, proposing that Elverton R. Chapman be brought to the bar of the senate to purge himself of contumacy as a prerequisite to pardon. It went over. No business of importance was transacted.

SENATE.

Washington, May 13.—The senate discussed Allen's resolution directing that Broker Chapman, held in contempt for refusal to testify before the senate sugar investigating committee, be required to purge himself of contempt before he receive executive clemency. Tillman urged an investigation of the charges that senators had speculated in sugar stock within the past week. The resolution was referred to the judiciary committee. Adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

The Indian appropriation bill was disposed of by the house to-day, with the exception of the provision for opening the Utah gilsonite lands, which was postponed until Monday. The conference report, which establishes an Indian warehouse at Omaha, ratifies the lease of the Seneca oil lands, and adds one judge to the Indian territory courts, was adopted by a vote of 54 to 47.

THE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 10.—A joint resolution contracting with Emlin McClain to do the annotating of the code for $7,500 was passed.

HOUSE.

Speaker Byers to-day made a farewell address to the house during which he complimented the members on their good work, thanked them for their faithfulness, and called attention to the amount of money saved by the retrenchment measures passed. The resolution to accept the proposition of Emlin McCabe to annotate the code for $7,500 was agreed to.

SENATE.

Des Moines, May 11.—Both branches of the legislature spent the day in idleness, waiting for the completion of the enrollment of all bills. The work of enrolling the bills was completed early in the evening and at 8:30 the legislature adjourned until July 1st at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The adjournment until that time is necessary because of the fact that the state constitution requires that all laws shall go into effect ninety days after their passage, and as the work of publishing the code cannot be completed within that time the legislature will meet on July 1st for a few minutes to satisfy this point in the constitution and extend the time to October 1.

Ask United Europe to Protest.

VIENNA, May 15.—At a large conference of Austrian manufacturers it was resolved to call upon the government to endeavor to conclude international agreements with European powers with a view to "effectually meeting the common danger to European economy arising from the prohibitive tariff policy of the United States."

Great Damage by Frost in France.

PARIS, May 15.—A dispatch from Auxerre, the center of the wine-growing district of the department of Yonne, says a general and sudden frost destroyed the crops of vines, fruit and vegetables. The amount of damage done in the department of Yonne is estimated at 20,000,000 francs ($4,000,000.)

Rivera May Die.

HAVANA, May 15.—Gen. Ruiz Rivera is seriously ill with fever in Cabanas prison. Col. Bacallao, his late chief of staff, who was also captured by the Spanish troops while attempting to carry the wounded leader from the field, is now confined in the same cell with him.

Mallory Elected.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 15.—Stephen R. Mallory was elected United States senator on the twenty-fifth ballot. Mallory was a member of the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses.

A DISTINGUISHING COLUMBIA FEATURE FOR 1897.

New Fork Crown

In the 1897 Columbia models a feature of special importance is the double fork crown. It is a special construction which we have tried and found to be the strongest. The crown is encased in nickeled escutcheons, excluding dust or dirt, and giving a rich, distinctive finish, so that at a glance the fact that the wheel is the Columbia is apparent.

Of Weakness in Men They Treat and Fail to Cure.

An Omaha Company places for the first time before the public a MAGICAL TREATMENT for the cure of Lost Vitality, Nervous and Sexual Weakness, and Restoration of Life Force in old and young men. No worn-out French remedy; contains no Phosphorous or other harmful drugs. It is a WONDERFUL TREATMENT—magical in its effects—positive in its cure. All readers, who are suffering from a weakness that blights their life, causing that mental and physical suffering peculiar to Lost Manhood, should write to the STATE MEDICAL COMPANY, Omaha, Neb., and they will send you absolutely FREE, a valuable paper on these diseases, and positive proofs of their truly MAGICAL TREATMENT. Thousands of men, who have lost all hope of a cure, are being restored by them to a perfect condition.

This MAGICAL TREATMENT may be taken at home under their directions, or they will pay railroad fare and hotel bills to all who prefer to go there for treatment, if they fail to cure. They are perfectly reliable; have no Free Prescriptions, Free Cure, Free Sample, or C. O. D. fake. They have $250,000 capital, and guarantee to cure every case they treat or refund every dollar; or their charges may be deposited in a bank to be paid to them when a cure is effected. Write them today.

A SCIENTIST SAVED

President Barnaby, of Hartsville College, Survives a Serious Illness Through the Aid of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

The Hartsville College, situated at Hartsville, Indiana, was founded years ago in the interest of the United Brethren Church, when the state was mostly a wilderness, and colleges were scarce. The college is well known throughout the country, former students having gone into all parts of the world.

PROF. ALVIN P. BARNABY.

A reporter recently called at this famous seat of learning and was shown into the room of the President, Prof. Alvin P. Barnaby. When last seen by the reporter Prof. Barnaby was in delicate health. To-day he was apparently in the best of health. In response to an inquiry the professor said:

"Oh, yes, I am much better than for some time. I am now in perfect health; but my recovery was brought about in rather a peculiar way."

"Tell me about it," said the reporter.

"Well, to begin at the beginning," said the professor, "I studied too hard when at school, endeavoring to educate myself for the professions. After completing the common course I came here, and graduated from the theological course. I entered the ministry, and accepted the charge of a United Brethren Church at a small place in Kent County, Mich. Being of an ambitious nature, I applied myself diligently to my work and studies. In time I noticed that my health was failing. My trouble was indigestion, and this with other troubles brought on nervousness.

"My physician prescribed for me for some some time, and advised me to take a change of climate. I did as he requested and was some improved. Soon after, I came here as professor in physics and chemistry, and later was financial agent of this college. The change agreed with me, and for a while my health was better, but my duties were heavy, and again I found my trouble returning. This time it was more severe and in the winter I became completely prostrated. I tried various medicines and different physicians. Finally, I was able to return to my duties. Last spring I was elected president of the college. Again I had considerable work, and the trouble, which had not been entirely cured, began to affect me, and last fall I collapsed. I had different doctors, but none did me any good. Professor Bowman, who is professor of natural science, told me of his experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and urged me to give them a trial, because they had benefited him in a similar case, and I concluded to try them.

"The first box helped me, and the second gave great relief, such as I had never experienced from the treatment of any physician. After using six boxes of the medicine I was entirely cured. To-day I am perfectly well. I feel better and stronger than for years. I certainly recommend this medicine."

To allay all doubt Prof. Barnaby cheerfully made an affidavit before

LYMAN J. SCUDDER, Notary Public

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk, or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

MANY KILLED.

Horrible Mine Accident at Pinkney, Tenn. —Ten Men Killed.

PINCKNEY, May 15.—The new tipple, sixty feet high, at the ore mines here, collapsed, killing ten white men and boys and seriously injuring several others. Six of the killed leave wives with one to five children. Those seriously injured have broken legs, arms, crushed hips and internal injuries. Fully half are injured fatally. All the victims were on top of the tipple when it collapsed. Only two escaped. One jumped twenty feet to a tree and escaped with a few slight scratches and the other jumped to the ground, alighting on his feet. The cause of the collapse is unknown.

Bulgarians Aroused.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—Following upon the intimation that Russia would not be opposed to the administration of Thessaly by Turkey it became known, semi-officially that the diplomats are greatly concerned at the news recently received from Bulgaria. In the past week much agitation against Turkey has been reported, both among the people of Bulgaria and in the Bulgarian army, and fears are expressed that the popular feeling thus aroused may force the hands of the government of Bulgaria.

Indoor Amateur Athletics.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The Amateur Athletic Union indoor championship meeting at the military and athletic carnival was marked by the breaking of the world's indoor 600 yard record, the world's 300 yard hurdle record, and the tieing of the world's 50 yard record, and but for an accident it is probable that the 300 yard flat record would have been equalled. J. H. Rush, the Grinnell, Iowa, sprinter, carrying the colors of the Chicago Athletic Association, equalled Wefers's 50 yard record of 5 3-5 seconds.

A Senate Secretary Sentenced.

HELENA, Mont., May 16.—Secretary of the Senate John Bloor was convicted by a jury of having secreted the "salary bill" to prevent its passage the last night of the session, and the punishment was fixed at one year's imprisonment. He was denied further bail and is now in jail. The bill in question passed both houses the last day, but was never signed by the speaker of the house. It would have cut down the salaries of the county officers and the number and salaries of deputies 33 per cent.

He Will Test the Law.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—W. B. Bradbury, local millionaire, has been sentenced to twenty-four hours' imprisonment in the county jail for violating the civic ordinance prohibiting expectorating on the floor of street cars. This was Bradbury's second offense. He claims the privilege of spitting when and where he pleases as an inalienable American privilege and will make his imprisonment a test case.

A Message on Cuba.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Owing to the continued reports of the starving condition of Americans in Cuba, a cabinet meeting was held to discuss the subject. Consul General Lee and Special Commissioner Calhoun were telegraphed to forward the latest facts at once. The president will soon make the information the subject of a special message to congress.

Terrible Railway Disaster in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—A terrible railway disaster befell a military train between Rockenhof and Sliva, on the Valki Jurjev line. Sixteen cars were smashed. Two officers and nearly 100 soldiers were killed, and sixty others were seriously injured.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 17.—In the railway disaster a few days ago it is officially announced that fifty-eight persons were killed.

The Telephone Monopoly.

DES MOINES, May 14.—The patent issued to E. Berliner, of Washington, D. C., Nov. 17, '91, for 17 years is the subject of much litigation and newspaper comment. The application was filed June 4, 1877, and consequently was pending in the U. S. patent office 14 years. The law allowed two years delay for the applicant to reply to adverse action of Examiner and this in a measure accounts for the interval between the date of filing the application and granting the patent.

The present rules limit action by the applicants to six months in place of the two years heretofore allowed.

The validity of the Berliner patent has been sustained by the highest tribunal that has jurisdiction and the claims are generic and broadly cover essential features of the Bell telephone that is in general use and supposed to be public property after the expiration of the original Bell patent. The Bell telephone company, as assignee of the Berliner patent will thereby endeavor to maintain the monopoly of the telephone ten years longer.

Our practice is not confined to Iowa. Inventors in other states can have our services upon the same terms as Hawkeyes.

PICKED UP ON BROADWAY.

A True Incident.—A woman was picked up in the street in an unconscious condition and hurried to the nearest hospital. On examination her body was found to be covered with sores caused by the hypodermic injection of morphine.

This mere wreck of a woman had once held an honorable and lucrative position in a large publishing house in New York. Her health began to fail. Instead of taking rest and medical treatment, she resorted to the stimulus of morphine.

The hospital physicians discovered that her primary trouble was an affection of the womb, which could readily have been cured in the first stages.

If, when she had felt those severe pains in the back, the terrible headaches, the constant sense of fullness, soreness and pain in the pelvic region, she had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, it would have dissolved and passed off that polypus in the womb, and to-day she would have been a well woman sitting in her office.

Why will women let themselves go in this way? It seems passing strange that a woman like this one, so highly educated, and so well placed, should have depended on morphine, instead of seeking a radical cure.

There is no excuse for any woman who suffers—she need not go without help. Mrs. Pinkham stands ready to help any woman; her address is Lynn, Mass. Write to her; it will cost you nothing. In the meantime get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the nearest drug store. The following letter from one of your sisters will encourage you:

MRS. BERTHA LEHRMAN, No. 1 Erie St., 27th Ward, Pittsburg, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I can hardly find words with which to thank you for what you have done for me. I suffered nearly seven years with backache and sideache, leucorrhœa, and the worst forms of womb troubles.

"Doctors failed to do me any good. I have taken four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one box of Liver Pills, and used one package of Sanative Wash, and now can say I am well and have been steadily gaining flesh; am stouter and heartier now than I have been for years. I am recommending your Vegetable Compound to my friends. Again I thank you for the good health I am enjoying."

DRUNK FOR TWENTY YEARS.

A correspondent writes: "I was drunk on and off for over twenty years, drunk when I had money, sober when I had none. Many dear friends I lost, and numbers gave me good advice to no purpose; but, thank God, an angel hand came at last in the form of my poor wife, who administered your marvelous remedy, "Anti-Jag," to me without my knowledge or consent. I am now saved and completely transformed from a worthless fellow to a sober and respected citizen."

If "Anti-Jag" cannot be had at your druggist, it will be mailed in plain wrapper with full directions how to give secretly, on receipt of One Dollar, by the Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, New York, or they will gladly mail full particulars free.

TENNESSEE CENTENNIAL.

The Lowest Rates Ever Made to an Exposition in This Country.

The Exposition in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the admission of Tennessee into the Union is not a local affair by any means. It far surpasses in extent of buildings, beauty of grounds, interesting exhibits and number of both foreign and home attractions any exhibition ever held in this country, with the possible exception of the Columbian of 1893. Located as it is on the main line of Louisville & Nashville Railroad it is the direct line of travel between the North and South, and can be visited en route with loss of but little time. The extremely low rates that have been established make it cheaper to go a little out of your way, even, to take in this great show, while its own attractions will well repay a special visit. The pine knot—the tallow candle—the oil lamp—gas—these are stages in the evolution of illumination, which today finds its highest exponent in the electric light.

Similar and no less striking has been the evolution of grain and grass cutting machinery. In 1831 the scythe and the cradle were superseded by the McCormick Reaper. The intervening years have seen many improvements, until now we have that model Harvester and Binder, the McCormick Right Hand Open Elevator, and that veritable electric light of mowerdom, the

SOMETHING TO KNOW.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centures in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Grant Theodore Walensky, was the name given the baby at the Christening Friday evening at the beautiful new home of H. T. Walensky and wife. About 25 invited guests were present and were royally entertained. H. T. and wife are very amiable entertainers. Supper was served, the tables being very tastily arranged, showing some fine engineering to place so many good things in so small space. The company were entertained by Miss Stewart with an elocutionary selection which was exceptionally well rendered and by instrumental music on the organ. Everybody seemed to enjoy the occasion very much and bade the host and hostess good night with many well wishes for their future.

Widespread distress is reported among thousands of idle men and women in south Spain. A large gathering, with their wives and children, at Lucena recently demanded bread. None was forthcoming, and the crowd went away as hungry as they came.

Florida alligators are a large target, and so many are continually slaughtered that their speedy extermination is considered probable. Florida turtles, also, are in danger of extinction, through the stealing of their eggs. All naturalists object to a wanton destruction of any animal species, and the United States fisheries commission has called attention to the state of affairs in Florida.

Evaline Lee, an aged Negress, who died recently at Macon, Mo., was buried with all the ceremony the village could provide, and many wealthy country folk attended the services. She was 90 years old, born in slavery, and had devoted forty years of her life to serving the Nolan family. When the emancipation proclamation was issued she declined to leave her mistress. Aunt Evaline was that rare bird among negroes, an old maid.

The Russian government is said to be considering the extension of the Transcaucasian railway south through Teheran to a port on the Indian ocean. This is said to involve no engineering difficulties. The opening of such a line, it has been urged, would not fail to be of the utmost possible advantage to Russia, both in extending her commercial relations with Persia and neighboring states, but also opening a new and rapid strategic route to the Indian ocean. "The only difficulty at present in the way is stated to be the possibility of opposition by the Persian government to the construction of the proposed line."

The last British consular report from Havre and the towns in that district show that on the whole the importation of British coal has not been injudiously affected by the new tariff on the northern and western railways of France, which was designed to increase the consumption of French coal. The American consul at Chemnitz reports that, in spite of freight reductions all over Germany and the other efforts to encourage the consumption of German coal, the trade in British coal is still very large. In 1895 it amounted to 4,000,000 tons, and it increased last year. Even in Berlin, while the consumption increased by 40 per cent, the increase in German coal consumed there was on 12 per cent, the rest being British. England's coal, the American consul adds, is cheaper and better than that of continental countries.

The press department of the Stockholm Exposition continues to send out alluring notices of the various attractions offered there this summer. The latest news concerns the army and navy exhibits and the international regatta. The entrance of the naval exhibit represents the stern of a ship of the line of the seventeenth century, with turrets, campaign lanterns and flagstaffs, while the entrance to the army exhibit reproduces a sumptuous tent of the same period. In the bay a series of men-of-war are anchored, showing many types from the most ancient patterns to the modern ironclad; these are surrounded by a floating bridge, from which landing bridges lead up to the different vessels. The regatta arranged by the Swedish Yacht club at an expense of $30,000 in honor of the King's jubilee in July, bids fair to be a remarkable success. Emperor William of Germany will send his 150-ton yacht, Meteor, and the German navy the yacht Komet, of the same tonnage. Many other German and English yachts are also expected, which, together with the Norwegian, Danish, Finnish and Russian clubs and the fine fleet of Sweden itself, give promise of some very interesting races.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

CHILD FALLS SIXTY FEET.

Probably Fatal Accident to a Chariton Child.

CHARITON, May 22.—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larrington, of Lucas, met with what will probably prove a fatal accident. She, in company with several other children, were playing around an old coal shaft, when in some manner she fell into it. The shaft was sixty feet deep and the little one was severely injured. Help was secured and the child revived, but the doctor says it will be almost impossible for her to recover.

Attempted Criminal Assault.

BURT, May 20.—Clarence Hoyt, aged 16, attempted an assault on Lottie Shanor, aged about 11 years, as she was returning home from school. Hoyt was swimming in the river as the girl came along, and forced her in the brush, but a farmer came by and scared him away. Officers are searching for him.

Fatal Runaway Accident.

THOMPSON, May 21.—While Mrs. Andrew Haugen was driving home from town in a buggy and when within forty rods of her house the neck-yoke strap broke, letting the buggy pole down. This frightened the horses and they started to run. Mrs. Haugen tried to jump from the buggy, but fell between the wheels and was dragged several rods by her dress being caught on the buggy. When picked up she was unconscious and only a bruised forehead showed that she was injured. She died in about two hours and before medical aid could be had. Deceased was 60 years old and leaves a husband and family.

Companies Must Pay.

BELLE PLAINE, May 20.—The supreme court has affirmed the district court's finding for the plaintiff in the case of T. F. Greenlee vs. the Iowa State Insurance Company. The case is one of twenty suits against fifteen insurance companies as a result of the fire in Belle Plaine in 1894 which destroyed eighty-two business houses. The companies refused to pay because property owners commenced to rebuild before the time limit in the policies had expired. The amount involved in all the suits is about $50,000.

Brady Must Go to the Pen.

OTTUMWA, May 22.—Patrick Brady, one of the Wapello county boodlers, must go to the penitentiary. The supreme court has refused a new trial. Brady was convicted two years ago of making vouchers to the county for aid extended fictitious paupers, by which means he mulcted the county out of several thousand dollars. He was sentenced to two years at Fort Madison.

Catholic Church Robbed.

DUBUQUE, May 23.—The Catholic church at Latnerville, Dubuque county, was broken into and robbed of its valuables, including the chalice and other sacred vessels, also the priest's vestments. The people of the vicinity, mostly Catholics, are greatly excited over the affair, and there would be a short shift to the miscreants should they be discovered.

Convict Escapes From Anamosa.

ANAMOSA, May 21.—Charles Murphy, a convict at the prison, has made good his escape from the state quarry. He was missed when the count was made to start for the pen and could not be found. He was under an eighteen months' sentence. A reward of $50 is offered for his apprehension.

Failure at Davenport.

DAVENPORT, May 22.—Isaac Rothschild, clothier, has failed. Assets are about $25,000; liabilities, $35,000. The failure was brought about through pressure from creditors. The Rothschild clothing store is the oldest in Davenport, being established in 1870.

Killed by a Falling Scaffold.

ANAMOSA, May 22.—Wm. Dickson, a carpenter, was killed by the falling of a scaffold at a house just north of town. He fell sixteen feet, striking his head on a large rock. He was a member of the G. A. R. and of the Odd Fellows.

Sad Drowning Near Linden.

LINDEN, May 21.—Mrs. Hut Huggins living about two miles south of Linden, met death by drowning in the Coon river. She had been mentally unbalanced for some time. He body was recovered.

Old Resident of Lyons Dead.

LYONS, May 22.—Joseph Dumont, a well known resident and somewhat eccentric character, died at his home of cancer, aged 85 years.

He Was a Fake.

DES MOINES, May 20.—It now turns out that Dharmapala, the alleged Buddhist priest who was in the city a few weeks ago, and while here spoke before the house of representatives on behalf of the famine sufferers of India, is a fakir, who has absolutely no authority to represent the people of that country.

BULLARD ACQUITTED.

Ex-Secretary of the Senate Escapes On a Technicality.

CLARION, May 24.—W. E. Bullard, of Belmond, who was tried before Judge Birdsall in the January term of court and convicted of forgery, was acquitted by Judge Weaver. Judge Weaver took the case from the jury and directed for the defendant at the close of the state's evidence, for the reason that the evidence introduced by the state shows that the instruments claimed to have been forged were materially and fatally different from that charged in the indictment, and the note mortgages showed that they were invalid because the word "fraudulent" appeared upon the face of each. Bullard's indictment stated that the mortgage had been burned, and owing to the fact that the original mortgage was discovered among Mrs. Bullard's papers and introduced in court, Judge Weaver took the case from the jury on this technicality and dismissed Bullard.

HAD NO FAITH IN BANKS.

A Hardin County Farmer Buries His Money and Loses It.

ELDORA, May 21.—James Webster, a farmer living a few miles northwest of Eldora, has undergone rather a peculiar experience. Several years ago he came into possession of several thousand dollars pension money. Having no faith in banks, he buried the treasure and has since added quite frequently to it. Being of an eccentric disposition he refused to make known the location of the hidden coin, even to his immediate family. A short time since Webster's mind became affected and now almost all hope of ever realizing anything on the savings of years is vanished.

THE FROG AND THE FLY.

Fun in Des Moines Newspaper Circles.

DES MOINES, May 24.—The Des Moines Daily News has made a great hit by painting a big colored cartoon on its building, headed "A Snap," and representing a bullfrog snapping up a fly, over the words "Daily News $1 a Year," the remarkable offer which has so largely increased the News' circulation. The cartoon has been the subject of much good natured raillery in local newspaper circles.

Rush Equals Records.

IOWA CITY, May 24.—In the dual meet, Rush, of Iowa college, defeated Prall, of the S. U. I. team, in the 100-yard dash in 9 4-5 seconds, breaking the state and equalling the world's amateur record. Rush also equalled John V. Crum's record of 5 2-5 seconds in the 50-yard dash, defeating Prall in that event, too.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Farm loans wanted by Equitable Life Insurance Co., of Des Moines. It's the best company in which to insure your life.

The Harrah & Stewart Mfg. Co., of Des Moines, Ia., have solved the problem of making a strictly high-grade, up-to-date bicycle for a nominal price, and the wheels they now have on the market are unexcelled in every respect. See them.

At Fort Dodge recently Gus Anderson, an employe of the Duncombe stucco mills, met death in a peculiar manner. He started to dig up an escape pipe which was leaking steam. The steam had saturated the surrounding soil to such an extent as to undermine it, and it caved in with him. Fellow workmen dug him out immediately, but he had inhaled poisonous gases from the coal cinders and escaping steam. He died a few hours afterward.

Anamosa dispatch: Daniel Evans, the husband of Amelia Evans, who was pardoned on the 11th, committed suicide by taking morphine. He was sentenced to the prison for life for being the instigator of the crime committed by his wife, the shooting of a man. His wife is almost gone with consumption, and the thought was more than he could stand. He is the father of a nice little boy, born in the prison. His folks will take the body home for burial.

Sioux City special: Since the Missouri river began falling after the rise of a few weeks ago it has been cutting banks badly on both sides of the river between Bismarck and Onawa, some distance south of Sioux City. Many land owners on its shores lost their entire farms. Recently the river began operations near Sloan, Woodbury county, toward shortening its course by cutting across a bend at the point in question. Directly in its path is a graveyard twenty-five or thirty years old. Before anyone knew what was happening the coffins were tumbling into the muddy current at the rate of four or five a day. The custodians of the grounds promptly notified friends of parties buried there that they would be unable to remove the bodies in time and that the relatives would have to assist in the work if they cared to save the remains from the stream. Since then the bodies have been hurried back from the bank as rapidly as possible. Indications are that the cemetery will soon be swept entirely away.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

BERLIN, May 17.—The correspondent of the Staats Zeitung of New York has telegraphed to his newspaper saying that an agent of King George of Greece has purchased Villa Klusemann at Muhlwang, near Gmunden, in Upper Austria. The correspondent added that, according to current gossip, King George will eventually retire to his new estate in Austria.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 18.—The Janana governor telegraphs that a division of Turkish troops under Osman Pasha, after having fought two days before Artaagainst much superior forces of the Creeks, succeeded in inflicting very great losses upon the enemy and dislodging the Greeks from the strong position occupied.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 18.—All the powers have agreed to protest against the cessation of Thessaly to Turkey and the abolition of capitulations.

LONDON, May 19.—The Daily Telegraph's special correspondent with the Turkish forces in Thessaly, says: "Edhem Pasha has moved on from point to point and finally occupied Domokos. The Greeks have sustained a crushing defeat."

ATHENS, May 19.—The following telegram has been received from Prince Constantine: "Our right wing under Col. Mastrapas has been compelled to retreat. It still holds Voussi, but may find it necessary to retire on Phourka Pass. It was necessary to bring up all the reserves in order to repulse the furious attacks of the enemy. Our wounded have been sent to Lamia. The conduct of the army was praiseworthy."

ATHENS, May 19.—The greatest indignation and unbelief is expressed at the reported terms of peace offered by Turkey—the loss of Thessaly and a heavy indemnity. Minister Scoloudis said in an interview that the terms had not yet been officiallly presented by the porte. He said: "Greece would rather see the Turks in Athens and leave it to our people to get out of the difficulty produced thereby, than accept such terms."

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 18.—A sudden and unexpected change in the political situation occurred shortly before noon. Russia quietly showed her hand and thereby forced Turkey and Germany out of the game to all intents and purposes. Until then Turkey, supported by Germany, practically defying Russia France, Austria, Great Britain and Italy, and insisting on the annexation of Thessaly in addition to a huge war indemity, was seemingly determined to march on Athens.

ATHENS, May 20.—A Lamia dispatch announces that the white flag is hoisted between the Greek and Turkish armies, and that Crown Prince Constantine is authorized to suspend hostilities with a view to arranging for an armistice.

PARIS, May 20.—It is semi-officially announced that the ambassadors of the powers at Constantinople are drafting a counter proposal to the reply received to their last note to the Turkish government. These will serve as a basis for the preliminaries of peace negotiations which will be discussed and settled by the powers and the Turkish government, the atter having requested their mediation.

CANDIA, May 22.—The Cretan insurgents have received instructions from Athens to accept an autonomous form of government on condition that the Turkish troops be previously withdrawn from the island. The insurgents appear to favor this plan for the settlement of their grievances.

ATHENS, May 24.—The Greek minister of foreign affairs declared to the foreign envoys that Greece will not pay any indemnity to Turkey nor agree to the rectification of the frontier.

TO STOP CUBAN BLOODSHED.

President Determined on Another Formal Step.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The cabinet considered the question of our relations to Cuba. The passage of the Morgan resolution by the senate was regarded as threatening to interfere seriously with the efforts ef the executive to do something substantial for the Cubans. The details of McKinley's plan have not yet been disclosed, but it was clearly manifested at the meeting that the president had determined on another forward step and to use his power to stop the bloodshed in Cuba, so far as can be done without involving the United States in war.

Favor Free Coinage.

SALT LAKE, May 21.—The Western Federation of Miners, after a secret session of eight days, adjourned sine die. Edward Boyce, of Wardner, Idaho, was endorsed by re-election to the presidency of the federation. Resolutions were passed for free coinage of gold and silver, for initiative and referendum, and for the affiliation of unions with any party that declares for these reforms.

SPANISH PREMIER SPEAKS.

Says Spain Will Never Accept Mediation in Cuban Affairs.

MADRID, May 23.—Senor Canovas, the premier, replying to an interpellation in the chamber of deputies, said the government could only attach credit to such information as was sent by Captain General Weyler. He severely blamed the American newspapers for disseminating false news, and cited as a case in point recent statements attributed to Consul General Lee. The premier said: "Spain's relations with other powers continue cordial, but the advice which the Americans are offering us as to Cuba can not be followed, because Spain will never accept any intervention in a matter which peculiarly concerns herself. The government has accepted full responsibility for everything which has been done by Captain General Weyler."

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF POLICY.

Senators Will Oppose the Tobacco and Beer Clauses.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The democratic senators met in caucus and decided to inaugurate a fight upon the tariff bill as soon as the bill is taken up by a motion to strike out the internal revenue features relating to tobacco and beer. This result was reached after a discussion in which practically all the senators present participated. The conclusion was unanimous that this was the wise course to pursue. The proposed beer tax is condemned as a war tax. The discussion on other features of the tariff was only desultory and no conclusion was reached. It was apparent that every democratic senator present would vote against the bill. The general sentiment of the caucus opposed any policy of delay.

A TERRIBLE CRIME.

Tramps Burn a House and Cremate the Four Inmates.

MONTICELLO, Ky., May 21.—News has just reached here of the cremation of a farmer named Thomas Biddle, his wife and three children, living on White Oak creek, across the line in Tennessee. Some tramps asked permission of Biddle to build a fire in his barn to keep warm during the night. Biddle refused, and ordered them to leave. The same night Biddle's house was burned and he, his wife and three children were burned to death. It is supposed the tramps fired the house out of revenge.

BOXED A SENATOR'S EARS.

Duke of Tetuan Then Resigns His Cabinet Portfolio.

MADRID, May 22.—The Duke of Tetuan, minister of foreign affairs, has resigned as a result of an incident in the senate, when he boxed the ears of Senator Comas. Senor Canovas, the premier, will take the portfolio ad interim. The liberal senators have decided to attend no more sessions of the senate until full satisfaction has been accorded to Senator Comas and the liberal party by the Duke of Tetuan. The incident was caused by an attack on the liberal attitude toward America.

FIVE BOYS DROWNED.

Tried to Cross Chicago River on an Improvised Raft.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Five small boys were drowned in that portion of the the south branch of the Chicago river known as Mud Lake, while trying to cross the stream on an improvised raft. There were six on board, but one saved himself by jumping.

Bomb Sent to the President.

BUENOS AYRES, May 24.—Another attempt has been made to assassinate President Borda, of Uruguay, says the correspondent in Montevideo. The first attempt was made by a boy, who tried to shoot the president; the last by means of a bomb, which was sent to the president from La Plata, Argentine. The bomb was in a box, arranged so that it would explode when opened. Fortunately suspicion was aroused and the box was turned over to the police and destroyed.

Against Cuban Belligerency.

CARACAS, Venezuela, May 23.—The committee on foreign affairs of the house has reported unfavorably upon a resolution recognizing the belligerency of the rebels in Cuba. The committee declared that whatever sympathy individually members of the house may have for the insurgents, such a sentiment cannot be expressed officially, it being unconstitutional to pass the resolution.

BREVITIES.

Philadelphia a few days ago dedicated a splendid monument to Gen. George Washington. President McKinley unveiled the monument.

Elverton R. Chapman, under sentence at Washington for contempt for refusing to answer the senate committee's questions in the sugar investigation, was taken to the district jail in a private carriage, and will remain there for twenty-five days. His meals will be sent from a hotel.

THE TREASURE OF FRANCHARD.

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE next morning there was a most unusual outcry in the Doctor's house. The last thing before going to bed, the Doctor had locked up some valuables in the dining-room cupboard; and behold, when he rose again, as he did about four o'clock, the cupboard had been broken open, and the valuables in question had disappeared. Madame and Jean-Marie were summoned from their rooms, and appeared in hasty toilets; they found the Doctor raving, calling the heavens to witness and avenge his injury, pacing the room barefooted, with the tails of his nightshirt flirting as he turned.

"Gone!" he said; "the things are gone, the fortune gone! We are paupers once more! Boy! what do you know of this? Speak up, sir, speak up! Do you know of it? Where are they?" He had him by the arm, shaking him like a bag, and the boy's words, if he had any, were jolted forth in inarticulate murmurs. The Doctor, with a revulsion from his own violence, set him down again. He observed Anastasie in tears. "Anastasie," he said, in quite an altered voice, "compose yourself, command your feelings. I would not have you give way to passion like the vulgar. This—this trifling accident must be lived down. Jean-Marie, bring me my smaller medicine chest. A gentle laxative is indicated."

And he dosed the family all round, leading the way himself with a double quantity. The wretched Anastasie, who had never been ill in the whole course of her existence, and whose soul recoiled from remedies, wept floods of tears as she sipped, and shuddered, and protested, and then was bullied and shouted at until she sipped again. As for Jean-Marie, he took his portion down with stoicism.

"I have given him a less amount," observed the Doctor, "his youth protecting him against emotion. And now that we have thus parried any morbid consequences, let us reason."

"I am so cold," wailed Anastasie.

"Cold!" cried the Doctor. "I give thanks to God that I am made of fierier material. Why, madame, a blow like this would set a frog into a transpiration. If you are cold, you can retire; and, by the way, you might throw me down my trousers. It is chilly for the legs."

"Oh, no!" protested Anastasie; "I will stay with you."

"Nay, madame, you shall not suffer for your devotion," said the Doctor. "I will myself fetch you a shawl." And he went upstairs and returned more fully clad and with an armful of wraps for the shivering Anastasie. "And now," he resumed, "to investigate this crime. Let us proceed by induction. Anastasie, do you know anything that can help us?" Anastasie knew nothing. "Or you, Jean-Marie?"

"Not I," replied the boy steadily.

"Good," returned the Doctor. "We shall now turn our attention to the material evidences. (I was born to be a detective; I have the eye and the systematic spirit.) First, violence has been employed. The door was broken open; and it may be observed, in passing, that the lock was dear indeed at what I paid for it: a crow to pluck with Master Goguelat. Second, here is the instrument employed, one of our own table-knives, one of our best, my dear; which seems to indicate no preparation on the part of the gang—if gang it was. Thirdly, I observed that nothing has been removed except the Franchard dishes and the casket; our own silver has been minutely respected. This is wily; it shows intelligence, a knowledge of the code, a desire to avoid legal consequences. I argue from this fact that the gang numbers persons of respectability—outward, of course, and merely outward, as the robbery proves. But I argue, second, that we must have been observed at Franchard itself by some occult observer, and dogged throughout the day with a skill and patience that I venture to qualify as consummate. No ordinary man, no occasional criminal, would have shown himself capable of this combination. We have in our neighborhood, it is far from improbable, a retired bandit of the highest order of intelligence."

"Good heaven!" cried the horrified Anastasie. "Henri, how can you!"

"My cherished one, this is a process of induction," said the Doctor. "If any of my steps are unsound, correct me. You are silent? Then do not, I beseech you, be so vulgarly illogical as to revolt from my conclusion. We have now arrived," he resumed, "at some idea of the composition of the gang—for I incline to the hypothesis of more than one—and we now leave this room, which can disclose no more, and turn our attention to the court and garden. (Jean-Marie, I trust you are observantly following my various steps; this is an excellent piece of education for you.) Come with me to the door. No steps on the court; it is unfortunate our court should be paved. On what small matters hang the destiny of these delicate investigations! Hey! What have we here? I have led you to the very spot," he said, standing grandly backward and indicating the green gate. "An escalade, as you can now see for yourselves, has taken place."

HEY! WHAT HAVE WE HERE?

CHAPTER XIV.

URE enough, the green paint was in several places scratched and broken; and one of the panels preserved the print of a nailed shoe. The foot had slipped, however, and it was difficult to estimate the size of the shoe, and impossible to distinguish the pattern of the nails.

"The whole robbery," concluded the Doctor, "step by step, has been reconstituted. Inductive science can no further go."

"It is wonderful," said his wife. "You should indeed have been a detective, Henri. I had no idea of your talents."

"My dear," replied Desprez, condescendingly, "a man of scientific imagination combines the lesser faculties; he is a detective just as he is a publicist or a general; these are but local applications of his special talent. But now," he continued, "would you have me go further? Would you have me lay my finger on the culprits—or rather, for I cannot promise quite so much, point out to you the very house where they consort? It may be a satisfaction, at least it is all we are likely to get, since we are denied the remedy of law. I reach the further stage in this way. In order to fill my outline of the robbery, I require a man likely to be in the forest idling, I require a man of education, I require a man superior to considerations of morality. The three requisites all center in Tentaillon's boarders. They are painters, therefore they are continually lounging in the forest. They are painters, therefore they are not unlikely to have some smattering of education. Lastly, because they are painters, they are probably immoral. And this I prove in two ways. First, painting is an art which merely addresses the eye; it does not in any particular exercise the moral sense. And second, painting, in common with all the other arts, implies the dangerous quality of imagination. A man of imagination is never moral; he outsoars literal demarkations and reviews life under too many shifting lights to rest content with the invidious distinctions of the law!"

"But you always say—at least, so I understood you"—said madame, "that these lads display no imagination whatever."

"My dear, they displayed imagination, and of a very fantastic order, too," returned the Doctor, "when they embraced their beggarly profession. Besides—and this is an argument exactly suited to your intellectual level—many of them are English and American. "Where else should we expect to find a thief?—And now you had better get your coffee. Because we have lost a treasure, there is no reason for starving. For my part, I shall break my fast with white wine. I feel unaccountably heated and thirsty to-day. I can only attribute it to the shock of the discovery. And yet, you will bear me out, I supported the emotion nobly."

The Doctor had now talked himself back into an admirable humor; and as he sat in the arbor and slowly imbibed a large allowance of white wine and picked a little bread and cheese with no very impetuous appetite, if a third of his meditations ran upon the missing treasure, the other two-thirds were more pleasingly busied in the retrospect of his detective skill.

About eleven Casimir arrived; he had caught an early train to Fontainebleau, and driven over to save time; and now his cab was stabled at Tentaillon's, and he remarked, studying his watch, that he could spare an hour and a half. He was much the man of business, decisively spoken, given to frowning in an intellectual manner. Anastasie's born brother, he did not waste much sentiment on the lady, gave her an English family kiss, and demanded a meal without delay.

"You can tell me your story while we eat," he observed. "Anything good today, Stasie?"

He was promised something good. The trio sat down to table in the arbor, Jean-Marie waiting as well as eating, and the Doctor recounted what had happened in his richest narrative manner. Casimir heard it with explosions of laughter.

A STATE OF WAR EXISTS.

The Senate So Declares in Regard to Cuba by a Large Majority.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The long and exciting debate on the joint resolution recognizing the existence of a state of war in Cuba and declaring that strict neutrality shall be maintained by the United States, passed the senate by the decisive vote of 41 to 14. The announcement was received with tumultuous applause, which drew from Senator Hawley an emphatic protest against "mob demonstration." The resolution passed is as follows: "Resolved, etc, That a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba, and that the United States of America shall maintain a strict neutrality between the contending parties, according to each all the rights of beligerents in the ports and territory of the United States."

SPAIN HAS A CRISIS.

Senor Sagasta, Ex-Premier, Reproaches the Government.

MADRID, May 21.—At a meeting of liberal senators and deputies, Senor Sagasta, former premier, made a speech, in the course of which he said: "We have 200,000 troops in Cuba, but we are not even master of the territory trodden by our soldiers. At the same moment Carlinism is organizing itself in the peninsula and menaces us with a new war, thanks to the impunity it enjoys, while the seeds of separation are germinating in some of the provinces. The picture could not be gloomier. We have war in Cuba, in the Philippines, and we have attempts at civil war at home. The government is not responsible for them but it is unfortunate in its administration. Reform in Cuba will not solve the Cuban question."

RELIEF WORK BEGINS.

Consuls Are Instructed to Draw Funds Immediately.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The secretary of state has directed Consul General Lee to draw, for immediate purchase of supplies and medicines for relief of American citizens and the transportation of such as are without means and desire to return to the United States, not to exceed $10,000. He is is also instructed to furnish the United States consuls in Cuba at his discretion funds for this purpose. Consul Brice, at Matanzas, has been instructed by the secretary of state to apply to the consul general for funds with which to relieve American citizens.

GIVEN NINETEEN YEARS.

Defaulting City Treasurer Bolln, of Omaha, Sentenced.

OMAHA, May 21.—The supreme court of Nebraska has affirmed the finding of the district court, which sentenced Defaulting City Treasurer Bolln, of this city, to nineteen years in the penitentiary. Bolln will be taken to the penitentiary at once. He was convicted of embezzling $105,000 of city funds.

Cubans Have Four War Ships.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Behind the movement for the passage of the Cuban belligerency resolution is a solemn pledge made by the Cuban junta to its most active supporters in congress that four effective men-of-war, flying the Cuban flag, are only awaiting this recognition to take to the sea. These vessels, it is declared, will be obtained in England, and it is asserted that arrangements have already been perfected by which they will be manned, thoroughly equipped, and be ready to sail the very day the belligerency of the Cubans is recognized.

Oom Paul Negotiating.

LONDON, May 24.—The Daily Chronicle says it understands that Dr. W. J. Leyds, who has been in London for some time on a confidential mission for the South African republic, will take back to the Transvaal Mr. Chamberlain's proposals for a settlement of existing difficulties and that there is every prospect for a settlement that will be approved both in England and at the Cape.

Coal Miners Accept Cut Rate.

STREATOR, Ill., May 23.—The general suspension of miners has been broken by the employes of the Star Coal company. About 500 of them signed contracts for 60 cents per ton, and they started to work. The Spring Hill third vein mine of the same company began work at the compromise price. The Acme Coal company is negotiating on the same basis.

Miles in Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 23.—United States Minister Terrell escorted Major General Nelson A. Miles of the United States army, who was accompanied by his aide-de-camp, Captain Ganns, and two secretaries of the embassy, to the ceremony of the Seiamlik, after which General Miles was received by the sultan, who gave him a special audience.

FOOTWEAR.

The Portuguese shoe has a wooden sole and heel, and a vamp made of patent leather, fancifully showing the flesh side of the skin.

The Persian footgear is a raised shoe and is often a foot high. It is made of light wood, richly inlaid, with a strap extending over the instep.

The Algerian shoe in appearance is not unlike the English wooden clogs. The shoe is made entirely of leather in the simplest form, and usually without any ornamentation.

Familiar Instance.

"Half the world never knows what the other half is doing," sagely remarked Mr Billus.

"That's generally true," retorted Mrs. Billus, eyeing him sharply, "as to the better half."

DRUNK FOR TWENTY YEARS.

A correspondent writes: "I was drunk on and off for over twenty years, drunk when I had money, sober when I had none. Many dear friends I lost, and numbers gave me good advice to no purpose; but, thank God, an angel hand came at last in the form of my poor wife, who administered your marvelous remedy, "Anti-Jag," to me without my knowledge or consent. I am now saved and completely transformed from a worthless fellow to a sober and respected citizen."

If "Anti-Jag" cannot be had at your druggist, it will be mailed in plain wrapper with full directions how to give secretly, on receipt of One Dollar, by the Renova Chemical Co., 66 Broadway, New York, or they will gladly mail full particulars free.

For His Wife and His Typewriter.

"Give me five cents worth of caramels," he said to the clerk.

"Yes, sir," said the clerk, handing them out. "Will there be anything else?"

"Yes, now fix me up a two-pound box of the finest candy you've got in the house."

Where Fishing is Good.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka at Waterville, and Madison Lake on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad. Wall-eyed pike, bass and grappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of the older and better known localities. Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable. For further information address A. B. Cutts, G. P. & T. A., M. & St. L. R. R., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMETISM.

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumetism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleepe. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or pain and finds it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by J. L. Harr.

Nuptial Ties.

MARRIED.—Birney—Hartz:—Wednesday evening, May 19th. 1897. At 9 o'clock last evening at the Anderson Hotel, the wedding ceremony was solemnized of Dr. V. C. Birney, of Green, Iowa, and Miss Ida Hartz, of Charles City, Iowa.

The guests began to arrive in carriages at 8 o'clock and were ushered into the spacious parlors, which were beautifully decorated with plants in honor of the occasion. At 9 o'clock the bride and groom appeared in the bridal parlor, taking their places at the south side of the room. As they entered the room the company of guests arose and stood during the ceremony, which was pronounced by Rev, Rogers of this city, at the conclusion of which the happy pair received the hearty congratulations of their many friends.

The bride wore a pale green brocaded silk with chiffon lace trimming and bride's roses. The groom was clad in convential full dress suit.

After the exchange of pleasantries in conversation, the guests led by the bride and groom marched to the dinning room where an elaborate feast was in waiting. The large table at which all the company were seated together, was beautifully decorated with maiden hair ferns, smilax and lillies of the valley. The menu which was served in courses, was one of the finest ever served in the city, comprised as follows:

MENU.

Blue Points.
Radishes.
Soft Shell Crabs, Sauce Tartar
Sliced Tomatoes.
Broiled Spring Chicken.
New Potatoes Saute.
Claret Punch.
Broiled Jack Snipe on Toast.
Watercrees.
Lobster Salad.
Strawberries and Ice Cream
Cake.
Cheese and Crackers.
Coffee.

After the delectable banquet the guests took their leave, bidding Mr. and Mrs. Birney bon voyage over the seas of life just begun. The presents received by the bride and groom were numerous and very fine. In this union the lives of two estimable people are united. The groom in now a prominent practicing physician at Greene, Iowa, and member in high standing of the following fraternal orders: Masonic lodges, I. O. O. F., K. Ps., also the Mystic Shrine El-Kahir Temple of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The bride is one of the fair and winsome daughters of Charles City, and enjoys a wide circle of friends. The Doctor and wife leave today for their home at Greene. Iowa. — Mason City Globe-Gazette.

DECORATION DAY.

MAT BARLOW'S MONUMENT.

A STORY OF DECORATION DAY.

THE man's name was Matt, and it suited him. Great is the conjuring power of names. After knowing dozens of men whose characters flatly contradict the idea we associate with the names given them by undiscerning sponsors in baptism, we still cling to those ideas, and to us Tom is a wavering, weak-kneed individual, Joe suggests a reckless, pranksome fellow whose heart is in the right place and his tongue hung loose at both ends, and John suggests the picture of a steady, solid, sober personage, who seems a bit of a prig until we think of Henry, who creates about him an absolutely intolerable atmosphere of moral and spiritual snobbishness.

He whose name of Matt fitted him better than the shabby, shoddy garments which hung about him in dispirited folds was short and square set and stooping.

Yet he was not so old as age goes—Yet he was not so old as age goes—only 35, and as he told the man who occupied the same bench, he had only been on the road for ten years.

"I've been trampin' it for nigh on to fifteen," said his companion, a man of about his own age, but whose dress and person presented an appearance of even more acute forlornity. Surely, no two more unsightly human blots ever disfigured a landscape than these, who lounged untidily on the benches of Washington square, blind to the blue and gold brightness of the early morning of one of the first Memorial Days this city ever celebrated. Now and then smart blue coated soldiers, with pinks in their button holes, either singly or in groups of two or three, stepped rapidly through the square, too intent on reaching the rendezvous where they were to assemble for the grand parade to waste a glance on the two vagabonds who had met, fraternized and exchanged experiences and confidences within the space of the last half hour.

"Fifteen years at trampin' is as good as a hundred," continued the first speaker, meditatively. "Seems as if a man gits it inter his bones by then, an' it wouldn't be any good fer his own self to want ter stop it, let alone other folks. Now, I'd been on the road fer five years when this war business broke out. Directly it came I went to Canady. I wasn't goin' ter take no chances. I didn't see nothin' of it, nor care nothin' fer it, an' wen it was over I come back and bummed about the country ever sence, without findin' things much changed anyways from what they was before. That's why I don't take no interest in this here racket over Decoration Day."

At that moment the thrilling music of the fife and drum, as a small detachment of soldiers wended their way down Walnut street, flashing the Stars and Stripes in the eyes of the spectators who instantly collected at doors and windows, sounded in vivid contrast to his speech, and in Matt Barlow's dull face there flickered a faint sparkle of surprise. "I don't feel that way," he said, hesitatingly; "I'm kinder glad there's braver men than—you an' me" something had gotten into his voice and made it almost inaudible—"to fight for the country we're bummin' round in; an' I'm goin' out to the cemeteries to do honor to the soldiers, dead an' livin', who did it—if there's any honor to anybody in a feller like me bein' round anywheres. You see, it's different with me; I used to be in—in ther army myself." He hurried out the words half in fear, half bravado, as though flinging a challenge, and then, with a sharp indrawing of his breath, narrowly watched his companion as though dreading their effect.

But his hearer was a man without curiosity. "Thasso?" he asked, indifferently, and returned, as though he had no interruption to the subject of his former monologue: "Yes, it's as I say, be throwin' about the country for a few years an' you ain't good fer nothin' else an' you don't ask fer nothin' else. Man looked like a minister come along this here square just yest'dy 'n jawed me 'bout 'bracin' up an' bein' some use in ther communerty an' all that. 'Here,' he says, 'I'll give you the address of a burer of charity in this city where they're anxious to put able-bodied fellers like you on farms in the west.' Laws, he might as well saved his breath to cool his puddin'. I've got ther card, but ther burer'll never git me. Goin' a'ready? Well, s'long; we may meet ternight on this bench agin; I don't expect ter go nowhere else if ther cops leaves me alone."

"Maybe we will and maybe not. I've got folks here in Philadelphia, an' it's half likely I may look 'em up." An unaccountable trembling had come into Barlow's voice as he answered and into his feet as he shuffled off with an air remotely imitating energy, and into his fingers as he ran them down into his coat pocket and drew out a dingy pocketbook, besides as flat as a pressed autumn leaf. He took out an equally dingy piece of newspaper and studied the words printed on it as thoughtfully as though he had not known them by heart for a month or more:

"If John Barlow, of Northumberland county, Pa., sometime a resident of Philadelphia, will communicate with the undersigned he will hear something to his advantage. The name and address of the American representative of a well known English law firm followed.

"It means some o' them English relations o' course," mused Matt Barlow as he had used a dozen times before. "I uster hear Grandfather Barlow talk of money that had oughter come to us from the other side by rights, but never expected nothin' to come of it. Wonder if Lucy seen it? Wonder if—" and then the thoughts which gathered round that name became of a character not to be uttered aloud to a drink-sodden, frowsy tramp, even if he happened to be oneself. As he waited on the corner for the crawling horse-car which amply met Philadelphia's demand for rapid transit in 1874, he did mutter a few words audibly:

"She'll act queer at first—if she ain't married again—yes, there ain't no doubt but she'll act queer. But I kin make her understand that at first it was as much as my life was worth to turn up anywheres, and then, when the war was over, 'twas too late; she wouldn't have had me, Lucy wouldn't! But now that I kin bring something to her an' the children, as well as myself, by comin' back, it ain't so much of a prodigal son business."

"A deserter! A deserter!"

The vagabond woke from an uneasy dream in which all the people in the car seemed pointing scornful fingers at him and hissing that title of reproach in his ear. He started as the blue-uniformed conductor laid a hand on his shoulder, to say sternly: "Wake up, you, or I'll put you off the car. You disturb everybody with your mutterings."

It had been a good many years since Matt Barlow had allowed himself to recall exactly why it was that he was wandering homeless about the country indifferent to the fact that his family must mourn him as dead, or why it was that he half hoped that they did so mourn him. But to-day it was all waking, waking within him under the influence of the day, together with the new desire he had vaguely formed to take a fresh start in life. When, a half hour later, he stood in the densely packed crowd in the cemetery and waited for the ceremonies of Decoration day to begin, he strained his eye to see the inscription on the huge obelisk, half buried in floral tokens, around which the guard of honor stood, but the sun was in his eyes. Of course it was the sun.

"What soldiers is that monument raised to, sissy?" he asked, huskily, of a tall girl of 12 or 13, who stood beside him, holding a smaller boy by the hand.

"'To the imperishable memory of the heroes of the —th Pennsylvania Volunteers, who fell in defense of their country, this shaft is erected,'" read the girl in a clear voice. "Them's the survivors," she added in kindly explanation, as the sound of the band and the flutter of the red, white and blue banner was dimly discerned in the distance, "coming to lay flowers on it and make speeches."

"DIED FOR HIS COUNTRY."

Matt Barlow shook so that he was forced to steady himself by graspnig the shoulder of the small boy, who gazed up at him with a wondering face which struck some faint chord of recognition within him. "They won't know me," he muttered to himself in quavering accents. "Lucy herself, nor my own mother wouldn't know me as I look now. An', anyhow, they couldn't do nothin' to me.

The tune played was, to him, not "Marching Through Georgia," but

"Honor gone, all's gone; Better never have been born."

over and over. The tattered battle flags carried with reverent hands above the heads of the marching ranks, almost as the host is carried in Old World religious processions, made his heart first burn within him, then sicken at the thought that his place should not have been here among those who watched it from afar off.

"Either with them—or them!" he thought fiercely, first glancing at the ranks of battle-scarred soldiers, then at the tall gray shaft, which seemed a finger to write on the skies its witness to the glory of the fallen members of the —th Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Some distraction from the thoughts of the moment was absolutely necessary. He picked up the 10-year-old boy, saying to his sister, "Bub here can't see, way down on the ground," and swung him to his shoulder. The boy smiled friendly wise into the rough face and remarked with a wavering sweep of his forefinger:

"That's my father's monument."

"Your father's, hey?"

"Yes. He was the bravest man in the —th Pennsylvania. My mother tells us so often. He died for his country."

"Who was your father?" Struck again by that dim resemblance to someone he had known, he asked the question, half shrinking from the reply, yet never dreaming what it would be.

"Matthew Barlow, an' my name's Matthew Barlow, but hers—" indicating the girl—"ain't. She's Dora Matilda, after her aunt."

Well, and wherein lay the horror of it? Had he not wished and intended to hunt up his family and be reunited to the children who had been babies when he saw them last? And here he had stumbled across them without the least trouble. Across them—and across his own monument!

"Where's your mother?" he asked in a whisper, not daring to look behind him.

"Out working. She cleans offices, mother does, an' she couldn't afford to take to-day off, 'cause it's desperate hard to get along anyhow, she says, and—"

"Matty!" In the girl's tone of gentle rebuke there was a familiar cadence he wondered at himself for not noticing before. Rousing himself, he said to her tentatively:

"How do you know your father's dead? Maybe he'll come back some day with a lot of money and make you all rich."

Dora Matilda shook her head. "He'd have come back to us before this," she said confidently. "He was reported missing after the battle of Bull Run and mother says she's sure he's dead. She says, too, that she'd rather he'd left us what he did—an example of being brave and willing to die for the Union—than hundreds of gold and silver dollars."

"Your mother ain't married again, then?"

Surely it was Lucy's own self in the haughty flinging back of the head and the answer which rung proudly out, "Certainly not!"

The deserter suddenly set the boy down. Something bore too heavily on his shoulders. It was that great shaft of stone, his monument. The band kept on pretending to play patriotic songs, but really beating the air with the refrain, "Honor gone, all's gone!" Had he dreamed of something he was to bring to these children, by answering the advertisement which was to lead him, perhaps, to unlimited wealth and comfort? What wealth, what comfort could replace to them—or to him—the heroic image which his return would blot out from their young mind? The ten years of poverty which had been bitter to him had been sweet to them with a sweetness he could never know again. Let them work and toil on, and even if they tasted the bitterness of starvation or death, it would be better than anything he could give them, who, as the martial music kept reminding him, had better never have been born!

"Sister works too," the boy prattled on, "in a factory, and she saves money through the year to buy flowers for Decoration Day. Then when all the folks have gone away we put them on father's monument."

Matt Barlow reached out his hands toward the bunch of limp roses and fading mignonette which the girl held, then as suddenly withdrew it. "Keep 'em," he said gruffly, almost violently. "I thought I wanted one, but I don't."

That evening, as the stars and the gas lamps began to twinkle in unequal rivalry over Washington square, the man who had been sleeping heavily on one of its benches opened his eyes in response to a slight shake. Instinctively he felt in his pocket for his pipe while he inquired laconically:

"Back?"

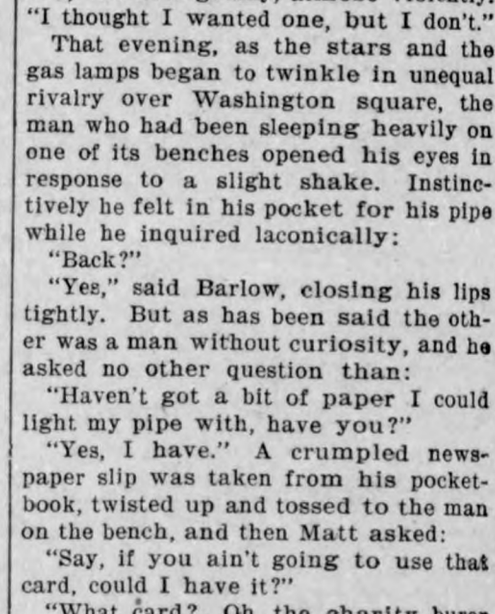
"Yes," said Barlow, closing his lips tightly. But as has been said the other was a man without curiosity, and he asked no other question than:

"Haven't got a bit of paper I could light my pipe with, have you?"

"Yes, I have." A crumpled newspaper slip was taken from his pocketbook, twisted up and tossed to the man on the bench, and then Matt asked:

"Say, if you ain't going to use that card, could I have it?"

"What card? Oh, the charity burer thing! Ye ain't goin' out west on a farm, are you? Might as well be dead as workin', an' buried as on a farm."



"I AM DEAD."

"I am dead an' buried," said Matt Barlow, slowly. "An' got a monument raised over me."

The Lowest Rates Ever Made to an Exposition in This Country.

The Exposition in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the admission of Tennessee into the Union is not a local affair by any means. It far surpasses in extent of buildings, beauty of grounds, interesting exhibits and number of both foreign and home attractions any exhibition ever held in this country, with the possible exception of the Columbian of 1893. Located as it is on the main line of Louisville & Nashville Railroad it is the direct line of travel between the North and South, and can be visited en route with loss of but little time. The extremely low rates that have been established make it cheaper to go a little out of your way, even, to take in this great show, while its own attractions will well repay a special visit. PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Recommends the Appropriation of $50,000 for Relief of Americans in Cuba.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Following is the president's message on Cuba: To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States: Official information from our consuls in Cuba establishes the fact that a large number of American citizens in the island are in a state of destitution and suffering for want of food and medicine. This applies particularly to the rural district of the central and eastern parts. The agricultural classes are forced from their farms into the nearest towns, where, without work or money, the local authorities of the towns, no matter how kindly disposed, are unable to relieve the needs of their own people and are altogether powerless to help our citizens. The latest reports from Consul General Lee estimate that from six to eight hundred Americans are without means of support. I am assured by him that provision can be made at once to relieve them. To that end I recommend congress to make an appropriation of not less than $50,000 to be immediately available for use under the direction of the secretary of state. It is desirable that a part of the sum which may be appropriated by congress should, in the discretion of the secretary of state, also be used in the transportation of American citizens who desire to return to us and are without means to do so. [Signed]

WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, May 17.—Cuba engrossed the attention of the senate to-day. The president's message urging an appropriation of $50,000 for the relief of suffering Americans in Cuba was received and the appropriation was voted. Morgan's Cuban resolution came up and a heated debate ensued, but it went over without a vote being reached.

HOUSE.

The house confronted the Cuban question, made a party issue of it, and finally adjourned without taking any action. The president's message was received and read with enthusiasm, and on its heels Mr. Hitt asked unanimous consent for consideration of a bill in response to the president's request. Bailey, of Texas, asked for consent to consider in connection with the bill an amendment which embodies Senator Morgan's resolution for recognition of the Cubans as belligerents. Opposition at once developed, and without action adjournment was taken until Thursday.

SENATE.

Washington, May 18.—Cuba again occupied the attention of the senate and drew large crowds to the galleries. Two notable speeches were made, one by Mason, of Illinois, in favor of the Morgan resolution, and the other by Hoar, of Massachusetts, in opposition to it. Mason's speech was an eloquent one and was loudly applauded. After explaining the true condition of affairs in Cuba, Mr. Mason exclaimed, "Mr. President, if we did not have a ship in the water and every gun was melted into a plowshare, if every bayonet was buried, if every ship we ever had was sunk in the middle of the sea, there is no nation in the world, much less Spain, that would ever dare strike our colors on American soil." A vote was not reached.

SENATE

Washington, May 19.—Morgan's Cuban resolution was the subject of another heated debate to-day. A vote is expected on the question to-morrow.

SENATE.

Washington, May 20.—Morgan's Cuban resolution passed the senate to-day by the decisive vote of 41 to 14. The result was received with loud applause. No other business was transacted and the senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.

The resolution appropriating $50,000 for relief of Americans in Cuba passed without a dissenting vote, although the democrats tried to force consideration of the Morgan belligerency resolution. Adjournment was taken till Monday.

1,200 Need Relief.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Consul General Lee has telegraphed the state department that the number of Americans in need of relief in Cuba is much larger than at first supposed. The number may reach 1,200.

Woman's Nerves.

Mrs. Platt Talks About Hysteria.

When a nerve or a set of nerves supplying any organ in the body with its due nutriment grows weak, that organ languishes.

When the nerves become exhausted and die, so to speak, the organ falls into decay. What is to be done? The answer is, do not allow the weakness to progress; stop the deteriorating process at once!

Do you experience fits of depression, alternating with restlessness? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one moment you laugh and the next fall into convulsive weeping?

Again, do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you, all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound, pain in ovary, and pain especially between the shoulders, sometimes loss of voice and nervous dyspepsia? If so, you are hysterical, your uterine nerves are at fault. You must do something to restore their tone.

Nothing is better for the purpose than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it will work a cure. If you do not understand your symptoms, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will give you honest, expert advice, free of charge.

MRS. LEVI F. PLATT, Womleysburg, Pa. had a terrible experience with the illness we have just described. Here is her own description of her sufferings:

"I thought I could not be so benefited by anything and keep it to myself. I had hysteria (caused by womb trouble) in its worst form. I was awfully nervous, low-spirited and melancholy, and everything imaginable.

"The moment I was alone I would cry from hour to hour; I did not care whether I lived or died. I told my husband I believed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would do me good. I took it and am now well and strong, and getting stouter. I have more color in my face than I have had for a year and a half. Please accept my thanks. I hope all who read this and who suffer from nervousness of this kind will do as I have done and be cured."

The glorious Fourth will be celebrated at Garner on July 3rd. 1897. Everything is being done to make the celebration of the day of Independence a grand success. A grand program is being prepared and no pains will be spared to make this a glorious day. The gates of the city will be thrown wide open and everybody will be welcome. Committees have been appointed to arrange for the day and a good time may be expected, as Garner's celebrations always are fine. Fireworks, Music, Parades, Speaking and everything in the line of amusements has been arranged. President of the day A. C. Ripley and Marshal, capt. E. C. Collins. Everybody invited.

There were some 30 and over people from Klemme at Garner Sunday afternoon, to witness the memorial service. Although the day was cold. windy and dusty yet there was a large number in attendance. After short exercises at cemetery and decorating graves, the crowd repaired to the opera house where the exercises were continued. The exercises in the opera house consisted of singing, America, by the choir and audiance, reading the orders of the day by the Commander A. B. Shafer and Adt. H. H. Buse; singing by the choir; reading Lincoln's Gettysburg speech by Miss Emma Stewart and the Memorial address delivered by Rev. Father Nagle, which was pronounced by all to be the most eloquent address ever delivered in Garner on any subject. It brought tears and cheers alternately and repeatedly. The house was fairly packed until it could contain no more. The absence of prayer in the opera house exercises was very unusual.

THE TRUE REMEDY.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, "cheif." says, "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others. but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other Remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record or cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at Harr's.

Opinions have made some men presidents; others, anarchists.

Surmises are not facts. Suspicions which may be unjust need not be stated.

The dignity of manhood is lowered when men give honor to wealth that they withhold from worth.

It is easy to get men to see that matters are not right, but much harder to get them ready to make them right.

When the people permit men to buy the public offices, they must expect that such men will sell the public welfare.

A man who boasts that he never changes his opinions either claims infallibility, or else concludes that he has not sense enough to learn anything.

Tarrytown has begun to tax the Goulds more in proportion to their wealth. Will the Goulds now tarry in Tarrytown? Will they flit to some other place, and then to some other, when required to pay anything on their vast wealth?

One of the latest sanitary devices is a germ-proof note-paper. But what shall this profit the recipient if the writer uses unsterilized ink, encloses the letter in a bacteria-infected envelope, and attaches to one corner thereof a postage stamp that is a veritable bacilli ranch?

Elmer Geiselman, a member of one of the most respected families around Wooster, Ohio, was found guilty of assault with intent to rob. He is one of five men supposed to be members of a gang who have terrorized the farming community for years by bursting in doors with battering rams. All of the others are under indictment. Elmer will be the first to do some checker playing with his nose.

In a recent lecture Judge Daniel Bedinger Lucas of West Virginia suggested that a monument be erected on the Potomacs at Shepherdstown by the Virginias and Maryland to the memory of James Rumsey of Maryland, who, it is said, had launched at that point the first boat propelled by steam. In the early days of the state of Maryland, after the revolutionary war, Rumsey and Fitch were applicants for aid in developing their invention, and their petitions were referred from session to session.

Vaccination against typhoid fever seems to be an assured resource in the war on disease. Two professors connected with the Army Medical School at Netley, England, have elaborated a process of antityphoid vaccination. Cultures of the bacilli are used in the process. Observations were made upon a number of persons, mostly medical men, with satisfactory results. A medical journal says the vaccinations can be practised without risk, and their adequacy, also, can be easily controlled by examinations of the blood. Persons exposed to the risk of typhoid infection may secure immunity through this process if the present degree of success is maintained.

"Come with me this evening and see my boys." The speaker was a leading business man of New York city. The friend went and found that the boys were in the Children's Aid Society rooms. The banker who had given the invitation took charge of the meeting, read the Bible, prayed and talked to these city waifs. "How long have you been doing this thing without my ever having suspected it?" asked the friend. "Sixteen years," was the reply. Every other Sunday night in all those years the rich banker had gone to meet his boys and to tell them of God and duty. That banker was Howard Potter, who has just died in London, where he was head of the London branch of a house known the world over.

The question of the right of an individual to whistle is involved in a trial soon to come off in a New York court. A man undertook to silence a whistler by hitting him with a brick, and is held for assault and battery. The outcome that would please the greatest number of citizens would be an equitable balancing of the injury done on each side. Probably the assault with a brick was a greater injury than the assault with offensive sounds, but there was undeniable provocation. There is no harm in whistling while going after the cows or walking home along a country road on a dark night, but that is very different from insisting upon whistling in a passenger's ear in a public conveyance or in front of a window near which a person is working.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

RECORDS BROKEN.

Iowa College Athletes Get First Honors at the State Field Meet.

DES MOINES, May 31.—At the state field meet of the colleges of Iowa eight state records were broken. They were in the shot put, 100-yard dash, half mile bicycle race, 220-yard dash, running high jump, 120-yard hurdle race, 2-mile bicycle race and 220-yard hurdle race. The world's record for a circular track, in the 220-yard dash, was equalled by Rush; and the state record, in the 50-yard dash, was equalled also by Rush, in :05 2-5. The western amateur record in the 100-yard dash was lowered by Rush, in :09 4-5. In all the other events excellent marks were made. Iowa college carried off first honors, with the state university second.

DROWNED IN STORM LAKE.

Death of Miss Maxwell, Rowing On Rough Water.

STORM LAKE, May 29.—Four persons—two gentlemen and two ladies—took a boat to cross the lake. The lake was rough and the boat capsized and all were thrown into the water. The occupants of the Casino went to the rescue and rescued Miss Mabel Kinne, her cousin, Ray Kinne, and Mr. Fletcher, all of Storm Lake. The two latter had to be resuscitated. Miss Shirlie Maxwell, a teacher, whose home was in Lenox, was drowned. She had just closed her school year and expected to return home at once.

NEWTON HAS A TRAGEDY.

E. M. Wilson Fatally Stabbed by Bert Emery During a Quarrel.

NEWTON, May 30.—E. M. Wilson, proprietor of one of the largest liveries in Newton, was probably fatally stabbed by Bert Emery during a quarrel in the office of the barn. Wilson is badly cut in three places, a large knife being used. The trouble arose over a horse trade. Emery, who is from one of the best families in Newton, has been arrested and is in jail. Wilson's condition is serious.

CHILD SCARED TO DEATH.

Fright the Cause of the Death of a Little Girl.

OSKALOOSA, May 28.—The first case of being absolutely "scared to death" ever known in Mahaska county is reported from Muchakinock. Little Susie, the 4-year-old daughter of Sam Watkins, was so badly frightened by a cow that nothing could be done to relieve the nervousness, and after suffering four days she died. She was perfectly healthy, so that no other reason can be assigned for her death.

BIG FAILURE AT KEOKUK.

Hambleton Mills Have $30,000 and Owe $20,000.

KEOKUK, May 28.—The Hambleton Milling Company has made an assignment. The assets are $30,000 and the liabilities $20,000. The company lost heavily by the recent floods, several large cribs of corn at Gregory, Mo., being swept away. The business depression of the past three years also had the effect of causing the company great loss.

Indictment Was Dismissed.

DES MOINES, May 28.—In the United States court in the case of the government against Dr. J. W. Kime, on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails, the defense moved to dismiss the indictment and to require the defendant to give bonds to appear at the next session of the grand jury. This move was due to a technical error in the indictment. The mistake was sufficient to invalidate the indictment and the motion was sustained, and the defendant furnished the required bond.

The Omaha Commission Organizes.

DES MOINES, May 29.—The Iowa trans-Mississippi exposition commission met at the office of Governor Drake and organized by the election of the following officers: President, S. H. Mallory; vice-president, Allan Dawson; secretary, F. N. Chase; treasurer, Geo. W. McCoid; chief of promotion, J. S. Browning.

Counterfeiters Are Found Guilty.

DES MOINES, May 29.—In the federal court in the trial of the case of the United States against Edward Meyer and William Williams, indicted for counterfeiting silver dollars, defendants were found guilty. The men engaged in the business on a wholesale scale at Durant, Scott county.

Fatal Accident at Quimby.

CHEROKEE, May 28.—While a train crew was doing the switching in the yards at Quimby, the east-bound wayfreight on the Onawa branch ditched two cars, smashing them badly. Two tramps who were stealing a ride on the trucks were probably fatally injured.

Baby Drowned in a Bucket.

FAIRFIELD, May 30.—A nine-months-old baby of Mrs. O. S. Hall, climbed to the edge of a bucket and was drowned before its mother discovered it.

BANK ROBBERS.

Shatter the Safe of a Carlisle Bank, But Get Nothing.

CARLISLE, May 29.—The Carlisle Savings bank was entered and the safe door blown off its hinges by dynamite and powder. The burglars were evidently professionals. The bank is in the center of the town and is a frame building. The safe set in the back part of the main room and is a very heavy one. The burglars drilled a hole in the door and inserted powder and a dynamite stick. The concussion blew the door off and also blew out the front windows and wrecked the door. The noise was heard several hundred yards away. The burglars were afraid to stop long and skipped, leaving some of the dynamite and powder in the bank. It is said they secured nothing. The burglars first broke into the telegraph office and stole the operator's key so that he could not send messages; then looted a blacksmith shop and got tools with which to break into the bank.

FELL SEVENTY FEET.

Cedar Rapids Man Suffers Minor Injuries From a Fall.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 27.—Eugene Russ, an employe of the Cereal Milling Company, fell from the top floor of the elevator to the bottom, a distance of 70 feet, a trap door giving way and allowing him to go down. Not a bone was broken, but it is feared he sustained internal injuries. The physicians think there is a good chance for his recovery.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 27.— Eugene Russ, the employe of the Cereal Milling company, who fell from the top floor of the elevator to the bottom, a distance of seventy feet, a trap door giving way and allowing him to go down, is dead. Not a bone was broken, but he suffered internally.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE.

An Iowa Newspaper's Successful Undertaking.

DES MOINES, May 31.—The Daily News is eclipsing its past brilliant record for enterprise by sending two persons to Alaska, two to the Tennessee Centennial, and two to Chicago, with all expenses paid, the fortunate ones being selected by vote of its readers. Last winter the same journal sent two ladies to the city of Mexico, two to New Orleans and two to Chicago. The News is making a wonderful success of its policy of giving the people a daily paper for $1 a year. Its circulation is already double that of any other Iowa daily.

A Rehearing Denied.

DES MOINES, May 31.—The supreme court has refused a rehearing in the famous Geiger-Payne breach of promise suit from Ringgold county, which was appealed to the supreme court by the defendant, Payne. According to the supreme court, Mr. Payne will have to pay the bill of $16,000 damages brought against him by his former sweetheart, Rhoda Geiger.

Mulct Tax Decision.

DES MOINES, May 31.—In the case of Marshall county vs. Knoll, the supreme court decided that when the property will not meet the mulct tax the bondsmen of a saloonkeeper are liable.

Struck By a Derrick.

EMMETSBURG, May 31.—While working in the city well the derrick fell, killing John Welsh, Sr., a bystander, aged 84 years, and seriously injuring James McBride, a workman.

IOWA CONDENSED.

The national or gold democrats had a conference at Des Moines recently and decided to hold a state convention in that city on July 7.

The Forest City planing mill, which had been closed since last July, was destroyed by fire a few nights since. The loss is $18,000, with no insurance. The fire is supposed to have been set by tramps.

The 14-year-old son of H. O. Smith a few days ago shot the son of R. R. Wells, of the same age, in the face, under the alleged impression that young Wells was a tramp. The injured boy will recover. They live east of Primghar.

At Corydon recently, about 3 o'clock a. m., fire was discovered in the building occupied by the Citizen's State Bank. It was quickly communicated to the adjoining building on the south, occupied by Hayen's meat market, and thence to the Farmer's and Trader's Bank building. All three were totally consumed, together with their contents. W. S. Sproatt's brick drug store on the north was badly damaged.

While Mrs. R. E. Lee, of Clinton, was attempting to light a fire with a lamp, a few days ago, her clothes ignited. She was severely burned. Mrs. Smith is partially paralyzed, and has not been about much for a year, and becoming helpless, fell to the floor, where her daughter found her, having been awakened by her mother's cries. Aid was summoned and the wounds dressed, but owing to their nature and the condition of her general health, it is thought that recovery is impossible.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

ATHENS, May 25.—The Greek government, in reply to the notification by Edhem Pasha that he was empowered to negotiate the terms of peace, informed the ministers of the powers that as Greece had already confided her interests to the powers there was no reason why she should negotiate directly with Turkey.

LONDON, May 25.—The correspondent of the Times at Constantinople says: "The powers have instructed their ambassadors to act as their representatives in mediating between Turkey and Greece. A collective note will be handed to the porte forthwith. Palace circles now realize that great maladdress has been displayed on the Turkish side."

VIENNA, May 26.—A Constantinople dispatch says: Germany has finally approved the conditions of peace and the identical note of the powers has been presented to the Turkish government.

LONDON, May 26.—A dispatch to the Standard from Berlin says the powers, including Turkey, have assented to the appointment of Prince Francis Joseph of Battenberg as governor general of Crete. The Athens correspondent of the Standard says the powers have assured Greece that the porte will not be allowed to evade the conditions of the armistice.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 26.—The aspect of eastern affairs is less peaceful. Turkey is sending 7,000 more troops to Thessaly, and it is said that the sultan has promised his ministers not to relax his hold upon that province. The note of the powers certainly does not yield on a single point, and states even that the peace conference must be held at Constantinople and not at Pharsala, but the sincerity of both Germany and Russia is doubted, and any sign of dissension among the powers makes room for obstinacy on the part of the sultan.

LONDON, May 27.—An Athens special says: Great Britain has declared her intention of abandoning the concert of the powers if it be determined that the occupation of Thessaly by the Turkish troops shall be prolonged until Greece pays the war indemnity demanded by Turkey.

BERLIN, May 28.—According to a dispatch from Constantinople, the Russian foreign minister told the Turkish ambassador at St. Petersburg that Turkey must renounce her impossible intention to annex Thessaly. He added that in his opinion the claim had only been advanced in order to prolong negotiations, or as a pretext for renewing the war, which Europe would on no account permit.

LONDON, May 29.—The Morning Post's correspondent at Constantinople says: The embassies have received word from their respective ministers at Athens that the position of the Greek royal family is now critical. King George is practically barricaded in the palace and it is reported that he is making preparations to leave Athens in order to evade the fury of the populace. The relations between the king and M. Ralli, the premier, are very much strained, and the general situation is extremely serious.

PARIS, May 31.—The Journal's Athens special asserts that Crown Prince Constantine after the retreat from Domokos attempted to commit suicide, learning of the intense feeling against him, but was prevented by his officers.

ATHENS, May 31.—The Turks have occurred Tsopanatos, in the neutral zone. Greece has protested against this to the powers.

SPAIN IS SEEKING TO DODGE.

She Wants to Postpone a Crisis Until the Coming Fall.

MADRID, May 29.—The government is hurrying business as fast as possible in the absence of the liberals. The bill of indemnity for the Cuban home rule policy was passed through the chamber fast as the rules would permit, and the senate is expected to do the same, whereupon the sittings of both houses will be suspended sine die. The government hopes to postpone a crisis until autumn.

GUNS FOR GERMAN ARTILLERY.

Reichstag Readily Votes an Army Credit of 30,000,000 Marks.

BERLIN, May 28.—The reichstag adopted a credit of 30,000,000 marks for the purpose of rearming the German artillery with improved field pieces. Herr Richter, the radical leader, said his party was willing to vote for that purpose three times as much as the rejected naval budget. "We know well," he said, "that in the matter of artillery what is spared in iron we might perhaps have to make up in blood."

Cure Lockjaw.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—A treatment for lockjaw has been successfully tried at the German hospital under the direction of Dr. Conrad Well. The case is the first experiment with this new treatment west of the Mississippi and one of the very few experiments in this country.

IN CUBA.

HAVANA, May 26.—Late reports state that speeches indicate that there is fear in the United States that United States consuls in Cuba will be in danger when it is known that their reports will have thoroughly exposed Weyler's methods and the emptiness of his announcements of pacification. The consuls are not a bit alarmed. Consul General Lee's stirring report is only a confirmation of the earlier reports which he sent to Olney. His ground has always been that Spain showed no indication of being able to crush the insurrection. It is true, Lee made no personal attack on Gen. Weyler, but he was outspoken with regard to the results which Weyler had achieved.

HAVANA, May 26.—China's Havana representative has received instructions from home that in the future the lives and property of Chinese residents in Cuba must be respected, otherwise China may concede belligerent rights to Spain's enemy in the Philippines. Reports for the past six months have reached the Chinese consul here of outrages committed upon his countrymen by Weyler's columns in various sections of Cuba. Harmless, unarmed Chinese peasants, working upon sugar estates, were killed.

700 ON A STRIKE.

Convicts Object to Food and Refuse to Work.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., May 30.—Seven hundred convicts, comprising the jute mill force, rebelled at the prison fare and refused to resume work unless an improvement in the menu was promised. The warden and prison director investigated the food question, and pronounced the complaint to be without cause. The prisoners still refuse to work, and the rebellious 700 were ordered placed in solitary confinement on bread and water until they agreed to conform to prison rules.

IOWA PENSION OFFICE STAYS.

Evans Recommends and McKinley Will Adopt His Report.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President McKinley has under consideration and will shortly act upon a report submitted by Commissioner of Pensions Evans on the consolidation of pension agencies ordered by President Cleveland shortly before the change of administration. The report recommends a complete revocation of the order, allowing the agencies to stand in the same position as if the order had not been made.

HAVEMEYER ACQUITTED.

Sugar Trust Wins a Victory Over the Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—In the trial of Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the sugar trust, for refusing to give the information wanted by the senate sugar investigating committee, the jury, in accordance with the instructions of the court, returned a verdict of not guilty.

BREVITIES.

During a display of fireworks at Nantes, France, four persons were killed and a score injured by the explosion of a bomb.

Bauer and Nodd, anarchists who were accomplices of Alexander Bergman, in an attempt to assassinate H. C. Frick during the Homestead strike of 1892, have been released from the penitentiary. They were given a royal welcome by the anarchists of Allegheny City.

A Southern railway train going from Chattanooga to Knoxville ran over and horribly mutilated the bodies of two men near Mouse Creek, Tenn. Judging from all appearances, it is believed that the men were murdered and their bodies placed on the track to ward off suspicion from the murderer. One of the men was Henry Peterson, a resident of Athens, Tenn.; the other was an unknown negro.

London dispatch: Referring to the expected trial of Signor Crispi for complicity in the Bank of Naples scandals, the Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "Two months ago Signor Crispi had an audience of King Humbert, and complained bitterly of the campaign against him. He declared that he would defend and justify his connection with the transactions in question and then added: 'Permit me to tell you plainly, sire, what the upshot will be. Two persons go into exile. I as a poor man, and you, sire, with your millions.'"

After rendering final decisions in thirty-six cases and giving attention to other business incidental to the last sitting of the term, the United States supreme court a few days ago adjourned until next October. When the court crier announced the final adjournment for the term there were apparently 380 cases on the docket undisposed of, but there were actually 359 cases, twenty-one having already been argued and submitted. This is a smaller number than the records of the court have shown for thirty years.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"CONTRARY WINDS" THE SUBJECT LAST SUNDAY.

From the Following Text, "The Wind Was Contrary"—Matt. 14:24—The Voice of Christianity the Only Alternative in Misfortune.

AS I well know by experience on Lake Galilee, one hour all may be calm and the next hour the winds and waves will be so boisterous that you are in doubt as to whether you will land on the shore or on the bottom of the deep. The disciples in the text were caught in such a stress of weather and the sails bent and the ship plunged for "the wind was contrary." There is in one of the European straits a place, where whichever way you sail the winds are opposing. There are people who all their life seem sailing in the teeth of the wind. All things seem against them. It may be said of their condition as of that of the disciples in my text: "the wind was contrary."

A great multitude of people are under seeming disadvantage, and I will today, in the swarthiest Anglo-Saxon that I can manage, treat their cases; not as a nurse counts out eight or ten drops of a prescription, and stirs them in a half-glass of water, but as when a man has by a mistake taken a large amount of strychnine, or Paris green, or belladonna, and the patient is walked rapidly round the room, and shaken up, until he gets wide awake. Many of you have taken a large draught of the poison of discouragement, and I come out by the order of the Divine Physician to rouse you out of that lethargy.

First, many people are under the disadvantage of an unfortunate name given them by parents who thought they were doing a good thing. Sometimes at the baptism of children, while I have held up one hand in prayer, I have held up the other hand in amazement that parents should have weighted the babe with such a dissonant and repulsive nomenclature. I have not so much wondered that some children should cry out at the christening font as that others with such smiling face should take a title that will be the burden of their lifetime. It is outrageous to afflict children with an undesirable name because it happened to be possessed by a parent or a rich uncle from whom favors are expected, or some prominent man of the day who may end his life in disgrace. It is no excuse, because they are Scripture names, to call a child Jehoikim, or Tiglath-Pileser. I baptized one by the name Bathsheba! Why, under all the circumambient heaven, any parent should want to give to a child the name of that loose creature of Scripture times I cannot imagine. I have often felt at the baptismal altar, when names were announced to me, like saying, as did the Rev. Dr. Richards, of Morristown, N. J., when a child was handed him for baptism and the name given: "Hadn't you better call it something else?"

Impose not upon that babe a name suggestive of flippancy or meanness. There is no excuse for such assault and battery on the cradle when our language is opulent with names musical and suggestive in meaning, such as John, meaning "the gracious gift of God;" or Henry, meaning "the chief of a household;" or Alfred, meaning "good counsellor;" or Joshua, meaning "God, our salvation;" or Ambrose, meaning "immortal;" or Andrew, meaning "manly;" or Esther, meaning "star;" or Abigail, meaning "my father's joy;" or Anna, meaning "grace;" or Victoria, meaning "victory;" or Rosalie, meaning "beautiful as a rose;" or Margaret, meaning "a pearl;" or Ida, meaning "godlike;" or Clara, meaning "illustrious;" or Amelia, meaning "busy;" or Bertha, meaning "beautiful," and hundreds of other names just as good, that are a help rather than a hindrance.

But sometimes the great hindrance in life in not in the given name, but in the family name. While legislatures are willing to lift such incubus, there are families that keep a name which mortgages all the generations with a great disadvantage. You say: "I wonder if he is any relation to So-and-so," mentioning some family celebrated for crime or deception. It is a wonder to me that in all such famlies some spirited young man does not rise, saying to his brothers and sisters: "If you want to keep this nuisance or scandalization of a name, I will keep it no longer than until the quickest course of law I can slough off this gangrene." The city directory has hundreds of names the mere pronunciation of which has been a life-long obstacle. If you have started life under a name which either through ridiculous orthography or vicious suggestion has been an encumbrance, resolve that the next generation shall not be so weighted. It is not bemeaning to change a name. Saul of Tarsus became Paul the Apostle. Hadassah, "the myrtle," became Esther, "the star." We have in America, and I suppose it is so in all countries, names which ought to be abolished, and can be, and will be abolished for the reason that they are a libel and a slander. But if for any reason you are submerged either by a given name or by a family name that you must bear, God will help you to overcome the outrage by a life consecrated to the good and useful. You may erase the curse from the name. If it once stood for meanness, you can make it stand for generosity. If once it stood for pride, you can make it stand for humility. If it once stod for fraud, you can make it stand for honesty. If once it stood for wickedness, you can make it stand for purity. There have been multitudes of instances where men and women have magnificently conquered the disasters of the name inflicted upon them.

Again, many people labor under the misfortune of incomplete physical equipment. We are by our Creator so economically built that we cannot afford the obliteration of any physical faculty. We want our two eyes, our two ears, our two hands, our two feet, our eight fingers and two thumbs. Yet what multitudes of people have but one eye, or but one foot! The ordinary casualties of life have been quadrupled, quintupled, sextupled, aye, centupled, in our time by the Civil War, and at the North and South a great multitude are fighting the battle of life with half, or less than half the needed physical armaments. I do not wonder at the pathos of a soldier during the war, who, when told that he must have his hand amputated, said: "Doctor, can't you save it?" and when told that it was impossible, said, with tears rolling down his cheeks: "Well, then, good-bye, old hand; I hate to part with you. You have done me a good service for many years, but it seems you must go. Good-bye."

A celebrated surgeon told me of a scene in the Clinical Department of one of the New York hospitals, when a poor man with a wounded leg was brought in before the students to be operated on. The surgeon was pointing out this and that to the students, and handling the wounded leg, and was about to proceed to amputation, when the poor man leaped from the table and hobbled to the door, and said, "Gentlemen, I am sorry to disappoint you, but by the help of God I will die with my leg on." What a terrific loss is the loss of our physical faculties!

Put to full use all the faculties that remain, and charge on all opposing circumstances with the determination of John of Bohemia, who was totally blind, and yet at a battle cried out, "I pray and beseech you to lead me so far into the fight that I may strike one good blow with this sword of mine." Do not think so much of what faculties you have lost as of what faculties remain. You have enough left to make yourself felt in three worlds, while you help the earth, and balk hell, and win heaven. Arise from your discouragements, O men and women of depleted or crippled physical faculties and see what, by the special help of God you can accomplish!

The skilled horsemen stood around Bucephalus, unable to mount or manage him, so wild was the steed. But Alexander noticed that the sight of his own shadow seemed to disturb the horse. So Alexander clutched him by the bridle, and turned his head away from the shadow, and toward the sun, and the horse's agitation was gone, and Alexander mounted him and rode off, to the astonishment of all who stood by. And what you people need is to have your sight turned away from the shadows of your earthly lot over which you have so long pondered, and your head turned toward the sun—the glorious sun of Gospel consolation, and Christian hope, and spiritual triumph.

Now, suppose a man finds himself in mid-life without education, what is he to do? Do the best he can. The most effective layman in a former pastoral charge that I ever heard speak on religious themes could, within five minutes of exhortation, break all the laws of English grammar, and if he left any law unfractured he would complete the work of lingual devastation in the prayer with which he followed it. But I would rather have him pray for me, if I were sick or in trouble, than any Christian man I know of, and in that church all the people preferred him in exhortation and prayer to all others. Why? Because he was so thoroughly pious and had such power with God he was irresistible; and as he went on in his prayer sinners repented and saints shouted for joy, and the bereaved seemed to get back their dead in celestial companionship. And when he had stopped praying, and as soon as I could wipe out of my eyes enough tears to see the closing hymn, I ended the meeting, fearful that some long-winded prayer-meeting bore would pull us down from the seventh heaven.

Not a word have I to say against accuracy of speech, or fine elocution, or high mental culture. Get all these you can. But I do say to those who were brought up in the day of poor schoolhouses and ignorant schoolmasters, and no opportunity: You may have so much of good in your soul and so much of heaven in your everyday life that you will be mightier for good than any who went through the curriculum of Harvard, or Yale, or Oxford, yet never graduated in the school of Christ. When you get up to the gate of heaven no one will ask you whether you can parse the first chapter of Genesis, but whether you have learned the fear of the Lord, which is the beginning of wisdom; nor whether you know how to square the circle, but whether you have lived a square life in a round world. Mount Zion is higher than Mount Parnassus.

But what other multitudes there are under other disadvantages! Here is a Christian woman whose husband thinks religion a sham, and while the wife prays the children one way the husband swears them another. Or here is a Christian man who is trying to do his best for God and the Church, and his wife holds him back and says on the way home from prayer-meeting, where he gave testimony for Christ: "What a fool you made of yourself! I hope hereafter you will keep still." And when he would be benevolent and give fifty dollars, she criticises him for not giving fifty cents. I must do justice and publicly thank God that I never proposed at home to give anything for any cause of humanity or religion but the other partner in the domestic firm approved it. And when it seemed beyond my ability and faith in God was necessary, she had three-fourths the faith. But I know men who, when they contribute to charitable objects are afraid that the wife shall find it out. What a withering curse such a woman must be to a good man!

Then there are others under the great disadvantage of poverty. Who ought to get things cheapest? You say those who have little means. But they pay more. You buy coal by the ton, they buy it by the bucket. You buy flour by the barrel, they buy it by the pound. You get apparel cheap, because you pay cash. They pay dear because they have to get trusted. And the Bible was right when it said: "the destruction of the poor is their poverty."

Then there are those who made a mistake in early life, and that overshadows all their days. "Do you not know that that man was once in prison," is whispered. Or, "Do you know that that man once attempted suicide?" Or, "Do you know that that man once absconded?" Or, "Do you know that that man was once discharged for dishonesty?" Perhaps there was only one wrong deed in the man's life, and that one act haunts the subsequent half century of his existence.

Others have unfortunate predominance of some mental faculty, and their rashness throws them into wild enterprises, or their trepidation makes them decline great opportunity, or there is a vein of melancholy in their disposition that defeats them, or they have an endowment of over-mirth that causes the impression of insincerity.

Others have a mighty obstacle in their personal appearance, for which they are not responsible. They forget that God fashioned their features, and their complexion, and their stature, the size of their nose, and mouth, and hands, and feet, and gave them their gait and their general appearance; and they forget that much of the world's best work and the Church's best work has been done by homely people; and that Paul the Apostle is said to have been hump-backed, and his eye-sight weakened by ophthalmia, while many of the finest in appearance have passed their time in studying killing attitudes, and in displaying the richness of wardrobes—not one ribbon, or vest, or sack, or glove, or button, or shoe-string of which they have had brains to earn for themselves.

An ancient warrior saw an overpowering host come down upon his small company of armed men, and mounting his horse he threw a handful of sand in the air, crying, "Let their faces be covered with confusion!" And both armies heard his voice, and history says it seemed as though the dust thrown in the air had become so many angels of supernatural deliverance, and the weak overcame the mighty, and the immense host fell back, and the small number marched on. Have faith in God, and though all the allied forces of discouragement seem to come against you in battle array, and their laugh of defiance and contempt resounds through all the valleys and mountains, you might by faith in God, and importunate prayer, pick up a handful of the very dust of your humiliation, and throw it into the air, and it shall become angels of victory over all the armies of earth and hell. The voices of your adversaries, human and satanic, shall be covered with confusion, while you shall be not only conqueror, but more than conqueror, through that grace which has so often made the fallen helmet of an overthrown antagonist the footstool of a Christian victory.

MORGAN EXPECTS WAR.

Believes Spain Will Declare War Against Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Senator Morgan looks forward to a declaration of war from Spain against the United States, says W. E. Curtis in his Chicago Record dispatch. He was asked how long such a war would last. "Perhaps twenty-five days," he replied. "What would it cost?" "About $50,000,000." The senator estimates the expense much below the figures which were mentioned at a recent gathering of the cabinet. There the opinion was expressed that the preparation alone of this country for hostilities with Spain would mean an expenditure of $500,000,000. It is significant that the expectation of decisive action by the administration has grown so strong as to prompt discussion in official circles of the probable cost of a declaration of war from Spain. Senator Morgan does not hesitate to declare that it would be the quickest and best way of settling the Cuban question. He has little doubt that events are leading to such a situation. He believes the belligerency resolution within a short time will pass the house of representatives, and then a declaration of war will come from Spain. He says he introduced the resolution with that expectation, because it seemed to offer the best way to the only proper settlement.

FACTS COME TO LIGHT.

Acknowledged That Weyler's Claim of Pacification Is a Comedy.

MADRID, May 27.—Extreme tension continues between the political parties. The Heraldo in defending Sagasto against the insinuations made by the conservatives frankly exposes the deplorable military situation in Cuba. The Heraldo says the whole district of Camaguey is in the power of the rebels, that there is only one Spanish column operating over a district of 32,000 square miles and that in whole eastern regions in Cuba the Spanish troops have never yet set foot. It calls the alleged pacification of Cuba a comedy. The same paper further insinuates that the messages purporting to be from Dupuy De Lome protesting against Sagastas, leader of the Spanish liberals, speeches against this conservative because the effect produced in the United States were written by conservatives in Madrid.

A WESTERN INDIAN UPRISING

People of Wyoming and Montana Are Frightened.

LINCOLN, May 30.—A Journal special from Arcadia, Wyo., says: Much excitement prevails throughout northern Wyoming and southern Montana. The Cheyenne Indians on the Tongue river are causing alarm and an uprising is feared. A sheep herder was murdered a few days ago and the sheriff demanded that the Indians surrender the murderer, but they refused. Women and children of the Tongue river settlement are leaving for Sheridan and a number of families have congregated at what is known as the O. W. ranch for protection.

The Resolution Will Be Reported.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—It is believed to be probable that the Tillman resolution ordering an investigation of the alleged dealings in sugar stocks by members of the senate will be reported back to the senate and be adopted. An effort to discourage an inquiry is being made, and it is apparent that many senators do not want any, but if there is an insistence upon an investigation it scarcely can be avoided.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, May 28.—Patents have been allowed to Iowa inventors but not yet issued, as follows: To I. T. Evans, of Clive, for an improvement in his triple V-shaped drag harrow covered by his prior patents. The improvements facilitate the self-adjustment of the parts as required to operate advantageously in passing over uneven surface. To Bessie Larson, of Ruthven, for an attachment to pole yokes to prevent the dangers incident to the accidental separation of the yoke from the pole when the horses and vehicle to which they are hitched are advancing. To the Rhoades & Carmean Buggy Co., of Marshalltown, for an improvement in four-wheeled vehicles to keep the eliptic springs perpendicular and to prevent the lurching motions incident to the body or box when the carriage is advanced on a rough road. To W. F. Gould, of Des Moines, for an improvement in steam engines for the purpose of maintaining steam tight chambers in a valve, while it is in motion, in such a manner that there will be sufficient steam confined in said chambers to keep the valve balanced on the valve seat, as required to reduce friction and wear and loss of power incident to the use of unbalanced valves. Our practice is not confined to Iowa. Inventors in other states can have our services upon the same terms as Hawkeyes.

Dishonored Drafts

When the stomach dishonors the drafts made upon it by the rest of the system, it is necessarily because its fund of strength is very low. Toned with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, it soon begins to pay out vigor in the shape of pure, rich blood, containing the elements of muscle, bone and brain. As a sequence of the new vigor afforded the stomach, the bowels perform the functions regularly, and the liver works like clock work. Malaria has no effect upon a system thus reinforced.

Secretary Wilson has given directions to Gen. Roy Grant, chief of the bureau of good roads at the department of agriculture. to construct a sample steel roadway at the most convenient location he can find at the Nashville exposition, where it may be seen and studied by the visitors who will attend the exposition during the summer. Secretary Wilson thinks the steel trackway for wagons is the easiest solution of the good-roads problem. particularly in the west where stone and gravel are scarce and the soil is deep and sticky. No road material promises so much hope to the western farmers and village population as the flat bars of steel at the present cost of manufacture and he proposes to have sample roads built, not only at the Nashville exposition, but at different points throughout the country, where they will afford practical object lessons to county commissioners and other officials having the highways under their charge. The steel manufacturers of the country are taking hold of the matter with much interest and are making experiments on their own account, which have already brought out valuable suggestions as to the details of construction. —Buffalo Center Tribune.

We desire to call the attention of all our readers to the First Annual Commencement of the Garner High School which will take place at the opera house, Friday evening, June 4. The teachers and scholars are putting forth every effort to make the entertainmeut a complete success, and the indications are that it will far surpass anything of the kind ever held in Garner. Wesly Aldridge has received notice of his appointment as a member of the examining committee in the law department of the Iowa State University June 2, 3, and 4. There will be eighty-five members in the class who will come up for examination, one of whom will be our young fellow citizen, John Hammill. Another thing which will make this a pleasant and desirable trip to Mr. Aldridge is that he recognizes in the other members of the committee several of his classmates when he was a law student at the „varsity." — Weekly News.

CHAPTER XIV.—(CONTINUED.)

"What a streak of luck for you, my good brother," he observed, when the table was over. "If you had gone to Paris, you would have played dick-duck-drake with the whole consignment in three months. Your own would have followed; and you would have come to me in a procession like the last time. But I give you warning—Stasie may weep and Henri ratiocinate—it will not serve you twice. Your next collapse will be fatal. I thought I had told you so, Stasie? Hey? No sense?"

The Doctor winced and looked furtively at Jean-Marie; but the boy seemed apathetic.

"And then again," broke out Casimir, "what children you are—vicious children, my faith! How could you tell the value of this trash? It might have been worth nothing, or next door."

"Pardon me," said the Doctor. "You have your usual flow of spirits, I perceive, but even less than your usual deliberation. I am not entirely ignorant of these matters."

"Not entirely ignorant of anything ever I heard of," interrupted Casimir, bowing, and raising his glass with a sort of pert politeness.

"At least," resumed the Doctor, "I gave my mind to the subject—that you may be willing to believe—and I estimated that our capital would be doubled." And he described the nature of the find.

"My word of honor!" said Casimir, "I half believe you! But much would depend on the quality of the gold."

"The quality, my dear Casimir, was——" And the Doctor, in default of language, kissed his finger tips.

"I would not take your word for it, my good friend," retorted the man of business. "You are a man of very rosy views. But this robbery," he continued—"this robbery is an odd thing. Of course I pass over your nonsense about gangs and landscape-painters. For me, that is a dream. Who was in the house last night?"

"None but ourselves," replied the Doctor.

"And this young gentleman?" asked Casimir, jerking a nod in the direction of Jean-Marie.

"He too?"—the Doctor bowed.

"Well; and, if it is a fair question, who is he?" pursued the brother-in-law.

"Jean-Marie," answered the Doctor, "combines the functions of a son and stable-boy. He began as the latter, but he rose rapidly to the more honorable rank in our affections. He is, I may say, the greatest comfort in our lives."

"Ha!" said Casimir. "And previous to becoming one of you?"

"Jean-Marie has lived a remarkable existence; his experience has been eminently formative," replied Desprez. "If I had to choose an education for my son, I should have chosen such another. Beginning life with mountebanks and thieves, passing onward to the society and friendship of philosophers, he may be said to have skimmed the volume of human life."

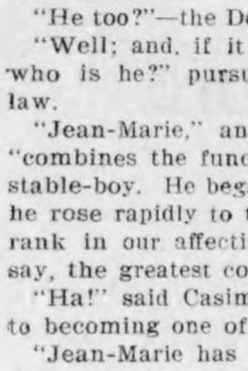
"Thieves?" repeated the brother-in-law, with a meditative air.

The Doctor could have bitten his tongue out. He foresaw what was coming, and prepared his mind for a vigorous defense.

"Did you ever steal yourself?" asked Casimir, turning suddenly on Jean-Marie, and for the first time employing a single eyeglass which hung round his neck.

"Yes, sir," replied the boy, with a deep blush.

CHAPTER XV.



CASIMIR turned to the others with pursed lips, and nodded to them meaningly. "Hey?" said he; "how is that?"

"Jean-Marie is a teller of the truth," returned the Doctor, throwing out his bust.

"He has never told a lie," added madame. "He is the best of boys."

"Never told a lie, has he not?" reflected Casimir. "Strange, very strange. Give me your attention, my young friend," he continued. "You knew about this treasure?"

"He helped to bring it home," interposed the Doctor.

"Desprez, I ask you nothing but to hold your tongue," returned Casimir. "I mean to question this stable-boy of yours; and if you are so certain of his innocence, you can afford to let him answer for himself. Now, sir," he resumed, pointing his eyeglass straight at Jean-Marie, "you knew it could be stolen with impunity? You knew you could not be prosecuted? Come! Did you or did you not?"

"I did," answered Jean-Marie, in a miserable whisper. He sat there changing color like a revolving pharos, twisting his fingers hysterically, swallowing air, the picture of guilt.

"You knew where it was put?" resumed the inquisitor.

"Yes," from Jean-Marie.

"You say you have been a thief before," continued Casimir. "Now, how am I to know that you are not one still? I suppose you could climb the green gate?"

"Yes," still lower, from the culprit.

"Well, then, it was you who stole these things. You know it, and you dare not deny it. Look me in the face! Raise your sneak's eyes, and answer!"

But in place of anything of that sort Jean-Marie broke into a dismal howl and fled from the arbor. Anastasie, as she pursued to capture and reassure the victim, found time to send one Parthian arrow—"Casimir, you are a brute!"

"My brother," said Desprez, with the greatest dignity, "you take upon yourself a license——"

"Desprez," interrupted Casimir, "for Heaven's sake be a man of the world. You telegraph me to leave my business and come down here on yours. I come, I ask the business, you say 'Find me this thief!' Well, I find him; I say 'There he is!' You need not like it, but you have no manner of right to take offense."

"Well," returned the Doctor, "I grant that; I will even thank you for your mistaken zeal. But your hypothesis was so extravagantly monstrous——"

"Look here," interrupted Casimir; "was it you or Stasie?"

"Certainly not," answered the Doctor.

"Very well; then it was the boy. Say no more about it," said the brother-in-law, and he produced his cigar-case.

"I will say this much more," returned Desprez; "if that boy came and told me so himself, I should not believe him; and if I did believe him, so implicit is my trust, I should conclude that he had acted for the best."

"Well, well," said Casimir, indulgently. "Have you a light? I must be going. And by the way, I wish you would let me sell your Turks for you. I always told you, it meant smash. I tell you so again. Indeed, it was partly that that brought me down. You never acknowledge my letters—an unpardonable habit."

"My good brother," replied the Doctor blandly, "I have never denied your ability in business; but I can perceive your limitations."

"Egad, my friend, I can return the compliment," observed the man of business. "Your limitation is to be downright irrational."

"Observe the relative position," returned the Doctor with a smile. "It is your attitude to believe through thick and thin in one man's judgment—your own. I follow the same opinion, but critically and with open eyes. Which is the more irrational?—I leave it to yourself."

"Oh, my dear fellow!" cried Casimir, "stick to your Turks, stick to your stable-boy, go to the devil in general in your own way and be done with it. But don't ratiocinate with me—I cannot bear it. And so, ta-ta. I might as well have stayed away for any good I've done. Say good-bye from me to Stasie, and to the sullen hang-dog of a stable-boy, if you insist on it; I'm off."

And Casimir departed. The Doctor, that night, dissected his character before Anastasie. "One thing, my beautiful," he said, "he has learned one thing from his lifelong acquaintance with your husband: the word ratiocinate. It shines in his vocabulary, like a jewel in a muck-heap. And, even so, he continually misapplies it. For you must have observed he uses it as a sort of taunt, in the case of to ergotize, implying, as it were—the poor, dear fellow!—a vein of sophistry. As for his cruelty to Jean-Marie, it must be forgiven him—it is not his nature, it is the nature of his life. A man who deals with money, my dear, is a man lost."

With Jean-Marie the process of reconciliation had been somewhat slow. At first he was inconsolable, insisted on leaving the family, went from paroxysm to paroxysm of tears; and it was only after Anastasie had been closeted for an hour with him, alone, that she came forth, sought out the Doctor, and with tears in her eyes, acquainted that gentleman with what had passed.

"At first, my husband, he would hear of nothing," she said. "Imagine! if he had left us! what would the treasure be to that? Horrible treasure, it has brought all this about! At last, after he has sobbed his very heart out, he agrees to stay on a condition—we are not to mention this matter, this infamous suspicion, not even to mention the robbery. On that agreement only, the poor, cruel boy will consent to remain among his friends."

"But this inhibition," said the Doctor, "this embargo—it cannot possibly apply to me?"

"To all of us," Anastasie assured him.

"My cherished one," Desprez protested, "you must have misunderstood it. It cannot apply to me. He would naturally come to me."

"Henri," she said, "it does; I swear to you it does."

"This is a painful, a very painful circumstance," the Doctor said, looking a little back. "I cannot affect, Anastasie, to be anything but justly wounded. I feel this, I feel it, my wife, acutely."

"I knew you would," she said. "But if you had seen his distress! We must make allowances, we must sacrifice our feelings."

"I trust, my dear, you have never found me averse to sacrifices," returned the Doctor very stiffly.

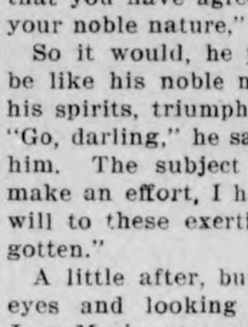
"And you will let me go and tell him that you have agreed? It will be like your noble nature," she cried.

So it would, he perceived—it would be like his noble nature! Up jumped his spirits, triumphant at the thought. "Go, darling," he said nobly, "reassure him. The subject is buried; more—I make an effort, I have accustomed my will to these exertions—and it is forgotten."

A little after, but still with swollen eyes and looking mortally sheepish, Jean-Marie reappeared and went ostentatiously about his business. He was the only unhappy member of the party that sat down that night to supper. As for the Doctor, he was radiant. He thus sang the requiem of the treasure:

"This has been, on the whole, a most amusing episode," he said. "We are not a penny the worse—nay, we are immensely gainers. Our philosophy has been exercised; some of the turtle is still left—the most wholesome of delicacies; I have my staff, Anastasie has her new dress, Lean-Marie is the proud possessor of a fashionable kepi. Besides, we had a glass of Hermitage last night; the glow still suffuses my memory. I was growing positively niggardly. Let me take the hint; we had one bottle to celebrate the appearance of our visionary fortune; let us have a second to console us for its occultation. The third I hereby dedicate to Jean-Marie's wedding breakfast."

CHAPTER XVI.



THE Doctor's house has not yet received the compliment of a description, and it is now high time that the omission were supplied, for the house is itself an actor in the story, and one whose part is nearly at an end. Two stories in height, walls of a warm yellow, tiles of an ancient ruddy brown diversified with moss and lichen, it stood with one wall to the street in the angle of the Doctor's property. It was roomy, draughty, and inconvenient. The large rafters were here and there engraven with rude marks and patterns; the handrail of the stairs was carved in countrified arabesque; a stout timber pillar, which did duty to support the dining-room roof, bore mysterious characters on its darker side, runes, according to the Doctor; nor did he fail, when he ran over the legendary history of the house and its possessors, to dwell upon the Scandinavian scholar who had left them. Floors, doors, and rafters made a great variety of angles; every room had a particular inclination; the gable had tilted toward the garden, after the manner of a leaning tower, and one of the former proprietors had buttressed the building from that side with a great strut of wood, like the derrick of a crane. Altogether, it had many marks of ruin; it was a house for the rats to desert; and nothing but its excellent brightness—the window-glass polished and shining, the paint well scoured, the brasses radiant, the very prop all wreathed about with climbing flowers—nothing but its air of a well-tended, smiling veteran, sitting, crutch and all, in the sunny corner of a garden, marked it as a house for comfortable people to inhabit. In poor or idle management it would soon have hurried into the blackguard stages of decay. As it was, the whole family loved it, and the Doctor was never better inspired than when he narrated its imaginary story and drew the character of its successive masters, from the Hebrew merchant who had re-edified its walls after the sack of the town, and past the mysterious engraver of the runes, down to the long-headed, dirty-handed boor from whom he had himself acquired it at a ruinous expense. As for any alarm about its security, the idea had never presented itself. What had stood four centuries might well endure a little longer.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The grace of the spirit comes only from heaven and lights up the whole bodily presence.—Spurgeon.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, May 24.—Tillman, of South Carolina, made the formal announcement of Senator Earle's death, and offered a resolution expressing the profound sorrow of the senate. As a further mark of respect the senate at 12:10 p. m. adjourned.

HOUSE.

The house adjourned at 11:25 p. m. on account of the death of Senator Earle of South Carolina. McMillan introduced a resolution for the consideration of the senate resolution recognizing the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents from day to day till disposed of. It was referred to the committee on rules.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The republican senators met in caucus on the tariff bill and decided to appoint three senators in addition to the members of the finance committee to assist in getting the bill through. It was also decided that there will be no set speeches for the republican side except that of Senator Aldrich. Republicans will present amendments to the finance committee and if they are rejected, will go to a caucus, which is to be called on each schedule.

SENATE.

Washington, May 25.—The president sent the following nominations to the senate: Edwin H. Conger, of Iowa, as minister to Brazil; Brigadier General John R. Brooke, to be major general. A resolution by Pettigrew, of South Dakota, was agreed to asking the president for information relative to the Union Pacific and Central Pacific, amount of dividends, the execution of the Sherman act, etc. Cullom introduced a bill for the complete revision of the interstate commerce law. The tariff bill came up and Aldrich stated that it was his purpose to keep the bill continuously before the senate to the exclusion of all other legislation till the business was finished. He then entered into a lengthy address in favor of the passage of the senate bill. He was followed by Vest in a vigorous speech against the republican tariff policy. Cannon introduced an amendment for bounty on agricultural exports and spoke briefly. He said the pending bill offered no protection to agricultural staples.

SENATE

Washington May 26.—The senate confirmed the nomination of E. H. Conger, of Iowa, as minister to Brazil. The tariff bill was taken up and an amendment by Vest reducing the tariff on boracic acid was defeated, 20 to 34. Seven paragraphs of the bill were considered during the day, the finance committee being sustained in each instance. The resolution was agreed to authorizing the secretary of the navy to employ any suitable ship in forwarding relief supplies to India.

SENATE.

Washington, May 27.—The senate made good progress on the tariff bill, disposing of about ten pages. Several votes were taken, the finance committee being sustained in each case by majorities varying from 6 to 15. Before taking up the tariff bill the final conference report on the sundry civil bill was agreed to, including the provision suspending until March 1 next the executive order creating extensive forest reserves.

HOUSE.

Lewis, of Washington, presented a resolution according belligerent rights to the Cubans, but the speaker ruled it out of order, holding that it could not be taken up at once, but must be referred to committee. As the committees have not yet been appointed, it appears that no action may be expected soon on Cuba.

SENATE.

Washington, May 28.—Tillman, of South Carolina, introduced a resolution for a special committee of five to inquire into the recent reports of speculation by senators in sugar stock and as to advance information by New York speculators as to the sugar schedule of the tariff bill. It was referred to the committee on contingent expenses. The tariff bill was taken up and such progress made that when it was laid aside Vest said more progress had been made in three days than in three weeks during the consideration of the Wilson bill.

SENATE.

Washington, May 29.—Progress on the tariff bill in the senate was checked to day, the plate glass paragraphs proving a source of controversy lasting throughout the day. As a result, little more than a page of the bill was disposed of. The finance committee succeeded without difficulty in resisting proposed amendments from democratic members of the committee, although each amendment was debated at great length. Morgan severely criticised the house for its inaction on important matters and made the point that congress was not now in session, in accordance with the constitution, the house of representatives having vacated its functions. Adjourned till Tuesday.

PLANNED TO KILL THE CZAR.

Arrest of a Russian Artisan Who Wanted to Become Famous.

BERLIN, May 28.—The Lokal Anzeiger of Aix-la-Chapelle publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg, saying that a young artisan has been arrested in the park of Tsarskoe-Selo, seventeen miles south of St. Petersburg, where the summer residence of the emperor is located, with a dagger and a revolver in his possession. The prisoner said he wanted to murder the czar, become famous and be hanged like other "heroes."

Goes to the Jubilee.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The president has signed the commission of Whitelaw Reid as special ambassador to represent him in the approaching English jubilee celebration.

Sentenced for Life.

ROME, May 31.—Pietro Accirite, the anarchist on trial for attempting to stab King Humbert, April 22d, was sentenced to the galleys for life.

Of Weakness in Men They Treat and Fail to Cure.

An Omaha Company places for the first time before the public a MAGICAL TREATMENT for the cure of Lost Vitality, Nervous and Sexual Weakness, and Restoration of Life Force in old and young men. No worn-out French remedy; contains no Phosphorous or other harmful drugs. It is a WONDERFUL TREATMENT—magical in its effects—positive in its cure. All readers, who are suffering from a weakness that blights their life, causing that mental and physical suffering peculiar to Lost Manhood, should write to the STATE MEDICAL COMPANY, Omaha, Neb., and they will send you absolutely FREE, a valuable paper on these diseases, and positive proofs of their truly MAGICAL TREATMENT. Thousands of men, who have lost all hope of a cure, are being restored by them to a perfect condition.

This MAGICAL TREATMENT may be taken at home under their directions, or they will pay railroad fare and hotel bills to all who prefer to go there for treatment, if they fail to cure. They are perfectly reliable; have no Free Prescriptions, Free Cure, Free Sample, or C. O. D. fake. They have $250,000 capital, and guarantee to cure every case they treat or refund every dollar; or their charges may be deposited in a bank to be paid to them when a cure is effected. PHYSICIANS BAFFLED.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of natural science in the famous Hartsville, (Ind.,) College, is well and favorably known, not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the United Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

PROF. R. S. BOWMAN.

Some time ago he had a severe illness which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter hearing of this, interviewed him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman was in the midst of his work when the reporter called, but he cheerfully gave him a hearing.

"A year ago last fall," said the professor, "I broke down with nervous exhaustion, and was unable to properly attend to my duties. I tried different physicians but with no relief, and also used many different proprietary medicines, spending almost fifty dollars for these medicines alone. I then succumbed to a siege of the grip in the middle of winter, and was left in a much worse condition. My kidneys were fearfully disordered, and my digestion became very poor. I was indeed in a bad condition.

"A minister in conference learning of my condition advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had heard much about the wonderful curative powers of this medicine, but it was with reluctance that I was finally persuaded to try it, as it seemed that nothing could do me any good. However, I procured three boxes of pills and took them strictly according to directions. By the time the last dose was taken I was almost cured, and in better health than I had been for years. I continued using the pills awhile longer and was entirely cured. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Such was Professor Bowman's wonderful story which was further endorsed by the following affidavit.

HARTSVILLE, Ind., March 16, 1897.

I affirm that the above accords with the facts in my case. R. S. BOWMAN.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 16th day of March, 1897.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

THE GRAIN-O LAW SUIT.

Rochester, N. Y., May 19, 1897.—The great $50,000 damage suit instituted by a Michigan cereal company against the Genesee Pure Food Company is at an end. They settled it and took it out of court for the ridiculously small sum of $500, and, as a practical result, Grain-O is in greater demand than ever. The new plant, only just completed, is to be duplicated, so that not only the old friends of the delicious food drink, which completely takes the place of coffee, but the new friends it is making every day can be supplied. The beverage which the children, as well as the adult, may drink with benefit will be furnished in unlimited quantities.

Suits may come and suits may go, but Grain-O goes on forever.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

A Bad Habit.

"What makes Grimley's bald spot look like a topographical sketch?"

"He will scratch his head with a lead pencil."

Educational institutions are of value in proportion to the completeness of their equipment and the favorable aspects of their environment. No institution in the world has gathered to itself such complete advantages in the way of equipment and educational ability as the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC in BOSTON. Its pupils are instructed as thoroughly and with as much care in the beginning of their courses, as in the highest grades that are offered, while the reputation of the institution and the record made by its graduates both at home and abroad, are at all times a guarantee of the ability of those who pass through its curriculum.

There is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O made of pure grains, that takes the places of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

REV. J. WESLEY MILLER, Cured of a BAD COUGH.

He writes on May 11, 1897: "I have been troubled for years with a cough in the winter season AND this last winter had a severe attack of bronchitis which left me worse if possible, than before, but after taking three 25c boxes of Dr. Kay's Lung Balm have been completely cured. My wife has been troubled with CONSTIPATION FOR 10 OR 12 YEARS and at times has gone as long as eight days without the bowels moving and has had to take medicine constantly but has never found anything that has done her so much good as

Dr. Kay's Renovator

She has taken four 25c boxes and while taking it, has been regular and has improved in her general health very much, and I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Kay's remedies to those who are afflicted."—J. WESLEY MILLER, Pastor, M. E. Church, Grandview, Ill. Dr. Kay's Renovator has cured so many of the worst cases of DYSPEPSIA that we consider it a specific for this disease and for proof we refer all to the testimonials of wonderful cures reported in our book. It has cured many bad cases of HEADACHE, and when caused by constipation or dyspepsia it is sure to cure every case, in fact, we believe it has no equal for headache from whatever cause. It always cures BILIOUSNESS and all forms of liver and kidney complaints, nervousness, neuralgia, impure blood, scrofula, skin diseases, pimples, boils, blotches, glandular enlargements, dropsy, RHEUMATISM and piles. It is sold by druggists or sent by mail at 25c and $1. Send stamp for Dr. B. J. Kay's "Home Treatment and Valuable Recipes," a 68 page book treating all diseases. Address Dr. B. J. Love's Repentance.

A MONTH, a little month ago,
She filled my fancy's dearest flight
And just because I loved her so
I waked, to think of her, at night!
But now I blush as I repeat
That I repose the whole night through,
Altho'—well, sugar's just as sweet,
And violets are just as blue.

Just thirty days and nights ago,
We went on many a joyous jaunt—
I only watched her eyes, you know,
While she gazed on the elephant—
Now, well—into those blooming doors
You couldn't drag me in with mules;
All elephants, I vote, are boors
And folks who stare at them are fools.

A month, a little month ago,
I loved to sit and watch her eat,
I loved to see the pale wine flow
Into her mouth so large and sweet;
Now, well, I am inclined to think
A fairy would be just my size
The sort of lady love who'd drink
And eat to me only with her eyes.

—J. P. B.

Well Qualified.

He—That man is billed to lecture tonight on "Whisky, the Curse of the Country."

She—No doubt he will be interesting, for he is certainly full of his subject.

Too Much for Her.

Biker—Talking about cattle, we came across a mighty wicked looking cow when I was out with Miss Blumer the other day.

Wheeler—What did she do?

Biker—Made a bee line for the next county.

Wheeler—What; deserted you and the tandem?

Biker—No, no, I was referring to the cow.

At Waterloo.

It was just previous to the battle of Waterloo. The Duke of Wellington was eating. Before he finished his repast he remarked: "I enjoyed that meat, especially the Bonaparte, and now of Corsican go some pastry. Bring me a Napoleon."

After the battle was over he said of the opposing general: "Waterlooser he was."

The Author Appeared.

Crissip—I hear that Scrawl had to make a speech at the first presentation of his play last night. What did he say?

Dale—He said if the audience would not tear up the seats they could have their money back.

Covetousness.

Flo—I'm afraid I must give up cycling. I find it so much more difficult to be good.

Tom—Why? Blasphemy?

Flo—No; but I'm always coveting my neighbor's wheel—Pick-Me-Up.

WISE ADVICE TO HUSBANDS.

Those Who Have Ailing Wives Will do Well to Accept It.

Do not wrangle and quarrel, and finally rush into the courts and try to get a separation from your faithful wife; but just stop a moment and think! Your wife, who was even-tempered and amiable, and all that was lovely when you married her, has changed. Now she is peevish, irritable, jealous, discontented and miserable—in a word, she has uterine disorder of some kind.

Law is not the remedy for this condition, she needs medical treatment, her uterine system is at fault.

My advice to you is, sit down and write a letter to that friend of women, Mrs Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., state fully and freely the whole case to her and she will honestly advise you what to do. Give your wife that chance, good man!

If you do not wish to write about your wife, bring her a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, watch its effects, you will soon see the beginning of the improvement; then get her another and keep it up until she is restored to you, the same lovely woman you married years ago.

Following we relate the circumstances of a case of this nature. Mrs. MELVA ROUTON, of Camby, Ind., says:

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be of great benefit to me. The doctors said I had womb trouble. I had the headache all the time, also a terrible backache, was nervous, cross and irritable. I looked so pale that people would ask me what was the matter. I suffered in this way for about four years, until one day about in despair my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I commenced its use, and much to every one's surprise, it cured me. It has completely changed my disposition for the better also. Several of my neighbors, knowing what the Pinkham medicine has done for me, are taking it, and are much pleased with the result."

The Man who is Raising a Big Crop

—realizes that the harvest time is ahead. Ideal farming comprehends not only the growing of the tallest grain—the most tons-to-the-acre of hay; the best farming—the farming that pays—must contemplate something more than this: for there is a harvest time, and just in proportion as a crop is saved successfully, speedily and economically, in just that proportion may be measured the season's profit or loss.

Harvesting Machines are the profit-bringing kind; they are built for long wear, hard work, light draft, and in short, to satisfy. There are other kinds that don't cost as much, but there's nothing cheaper than the best.

In June, '94, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave and now I consider that I am entirely cured. The Ladies Aid Society of the Eng. M. E. church will meet this week Saturday with Mrs. Marion Elder.

E. P. Schaefer has a large new ad. this week, and you will notice some astonishing figures. "Git there Eli."

On account of the rain, at the party at Merrick's Saturday night there were only about a dozen present; but those that were there report a splendid time.

Some for ten, some for twenty and some for thirty years have suffered from piles and then have been quickly and permanently cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the great remedy for piles and all forms of skin deseases. Harr.

A wedding at the chas. Stroemer home occured on Tuesday, the 8th., when Mr. Julius Prebe and Miss Bertha Stroemer were united in marriage. The happy couple are among the most prominent of Germantown young people and the TIMES extends congratulations. A reception was held in the evening and a charivari followed.

The corn crop is not a very promising crop at present. Owing to the cold' backward season, some seed has rotted and some of the seed planted did not germinate. Then the cut worm and the wire worm are distroying some fields, counsequently there will be a good many that will have to plant over all, or a portion of their fields.

Fred Skow and wife, the editor and wife and Hazel, drove to clear Lake Monday morning early, to Stratten,s Point, and proceeded to fish. We watched the bobbers faithfully until noon, took dinner, then to the boats and watched faithfully until night, took supper and arrived home at about 11:00 o'clock, enjoying the day very much. Did we get any fish? Guess.

TRESPASS NOTICE.

All parties whomsoever, are hereby forbidden to trespass on our land along the Iowa river without first obtaining permission.

SOMETHING TO DEPEND ON.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with La Gripp, and her case grew so serious that physicians at cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develope into hasty consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at Harr's Drug Store.

A family named Luck got stranded at St. Louis and had to be helped out by the Provident Association.

The pulpit is not getting ready to rush orders for Mrs. Stanton's "Woman's Bible," which is to be completed next month.

The police are looking for a glossy stranger, who, while pretending to sell starch sold bogus drafts in every town between St. Paul and Seattle. Beware of starch agents who desire accommodations.

The "gold brick" dealers are starting in this spring in fine style. Sales have already been made in Ohio, Indiana and Missouri, while one man in Macon, Ga., has paid $11,300 for two, the actual value of which is what they will bring for scrap brass. This country is still a great field for the fool killer.

The savings bank at Radcliffe, Iowa, has troubles of its own and its late cashier is now basking in the cool retreats of some far away kingdom with $15,000 of the depositors' funds. His wife is in the Independence insane asylum and a family of small children are objects of charity. What a sad picture is this! The Chinese penalties for crooked bankers would come pretty near fitting the former resident of Radcliffe.

A few months ago a fine dog belonging to A. L. Luetgert of Chicago was missing. The owner made a great fuss about it, hounding the police day and night in his effort to get them to find it. On May 2 Luetgert's wife was also missing, and instead of notifying the police, or showing much concern, he said little or nothing about her strange disappearance. This marked contrast in Luetgert's conduct made the police suspicious, and now they have disclosed what appears to be a horrible murder, and Luetgert is fast behind the bars. It is the little things in a man's conduct that tells.

It is said that the good roads committee of Massachusetts has struck upon a very novel but effective manner of promoting its work. Instead of using the money at its disposal to make continuous stretches of good roads as far as the money held out, it has alternated good roads with bad, each being one mile in extent. Thus, the driver hauling a heavy load to market, spins merrily along for a mile over an admirable road, and then strikes a mile of muck and mire. This makes him swear, of course, and when he finally gets through it to the next mile of good road, he appreciates it all the more. The committee claims by this method it can more easily and rapidly arouse a general interest in road improvement.

A witness in a murder case in Indiana recently testified that the evening before the tragedy he dined with the victim, and the latter, on paying the waiter, drew a five-dollar bill from a large roll containing fifty times that amount. This statement suggested a motive for the murder which had hitherto been incomprehensible. Future civilization may emphasize the fact that to offer temptation is as culpable as the crime it incites. The man who needlessly opens rolls of money in public places; the woman who displays valuable jewels in street cars; the merchant who thoughtlessly gives his young clerk tempting opportunities for peculation; the housekeeper who trusts without oversight all accounts to her cook, are not themselves wholly innocent when moral degeneration or a blasted character is the result. Ostentation, indolence, too great leniency open the downward path for natures that are unwary or perverse.

The London Economist says: "In the course of a report to the Foreign Office on the trade of the consular district of Barcelona, Mr. Consul Wyndham calls attention to the serious effect which the colonial rebellions have exercised on some of the local industries. His remarks are as follows: 'The rebellions in Cuba and Manila, which have continued throughout the year, have to a great extent paralyzed the commerce of Catalonia, as it is a manufacturing rather than agricultural district, and the largest part of the manufactured goods found a market in the Spanish colonies now nearly completely closed to them. Everywhere in Catalonia mills have been closed, or worked short time, and with diminished numbers of hands. As an example, take the town of Mataro, one of the principal manufacturing places of the district. Here we find out of eight factories making cotton goods five only are working, and these with only one-third of their complement of workmen, and on an average only four days in the week.'"

THE NEWS IN IOWA

BICYCLE LIGHT QUESTION.

Cedar Rapids Man Going Into Court to Ride Without Lantern.

CEDAR RAPIDS, June 4.—One of the ordinances of Cedar Rapids requires bicycle riders to carry bells and lamps. A few nights ago twenty-five riders were arrested who did not have lanterns. They were each fined $1. Dr. J. W. Hayes, ex-city marshal, was arrested the next night on the same charge. He will fight the case and test the constitutionality of the ordinance. The outcome will be of state wide interest.

DID STONE STEAL $43,000?

Receiver Reports Forgeries $20,000 and Overdrafts $23,000.

SIOUX CITY, June 5.—Receiver Goss reports that among the assets of the Sioux City Savings Bank there is $20,000 worth of paper which was forged by ex-Cashier Stone, and $23,000 worth of notes given for loans to himself, relatives and his private business institutions. All of it is non-collectable, but the directors will be held liable on the grounds of negligence. Stone has not been apprehended.

KILLED TWO SISTERS.

Fifteen-Year-Old Boy at Greene Has a Terrible Accident.

GREENE, June 4.—Fifteen-year-old L. Schwartz, son of a local farmer, killed his two sisters while attempting to unload a gun. The bullet passed through the neck of one and struck the other just above the heart. The lad had just returned from a hunt, and in attempting to unload his rifle it was discharged.

MAY PROVE TO BE MURDER.

Henry Pylee, of Macksburg, Strikes Lon Carter On the Head With a Flatiron.

CRESTON, June 6.—Word has reached Creston of an affray that occurred at Macksburg which is likely to result in murder. It is said that Henry Pylee struck Lon Carter over the head with a flatiron, and that Carter has not yet regained consciousness. The assault has caused considerable feeling.

Dr. Bobo On Trial.

ANAMOSA, June 6.—Great interest centers in the trial of Dr. L. K. Bobo, of Oxford, who is now on trial for murder, being charged with criminal practice on Miss Belle Sutliff, from the effects of which she died. There are 100 witnesses subpœnaed. The doctor sets up the plea that another physician, Dr. Cook, is guilty, and his evidence is all along that line. Dr. Bobo and his wife sit side by side during the trial. Dr. Bobo is six feet tall, of commanding figure, with an intelligent countenance, pleasant and agreeable manners and up to the time of this unfortunate occurrence bore an excellent reputation both as a physician and a man. The prominence of the parties involved has contributed to invest the trial with an unusual amount of interest.

Commissioners Must Stand Trial.

DES MOINES, June 5.—The commissioners of the soldiers' home at Marshalltown will have to stand trial for the alleged taking of soldiers' pensions from them as a condition of their remaining in the home. Judge Woolson overruled the motion to quash the indictment against them in the federal court and held that if the charges were proved as claimed the commissioners were liable to the penalties of the federal statute against placing liens on soldier's pensions, or retaining them in any way against their will.

Killing Frost.

DES MOINES, May 31.—Iowa was struck last night by a heavy frost. Grain merchants in the city report that in the vicinity of Fort Dodge, Gowrie and Marshalltown great damage was done to fruit. Vegetation in general was affected. In parts of Des Moines garden vegetables were nipped, and in some instances killed. Advices from Cherokee, Cedar Rapids and other places also bring news of damaging frosts. The damage in the northwestern part of the state will be especially heavy.

Killed Mrs. Dow.

MASON CITY, June 5.—In a dispute over some cattle between Frank Wiltz and Jerome Dow, farmers living just east of Charles City, Wiltz threw a stone at Dow, hitting Mrs. Dow, his sister, on the back of the head, killing her.

Boy Hung Himself.

ROLFE, June 5.—While Willie Fouch, son of Daniel Fouch, proprietor of the Rolfe roller mills, was playing with some other boys he got tangled up in the clothes line and accidentally hung himself.

Riel Guilty of Manslaughter.

DES MOINES, June 3.—The jury in the trial of Fred Riel on the charge of murdering Carl Leveke returned a verdict of manslaughter. Riel will probably get five years at Anamosa.

NEW ROAD TO THE COAST.

A $42,000,000 Company Going to Build West From Sioux City.

SIOUX CITY, June 4.—The Missouri River & Los Angeles Railway Company was organized at Dakota City, across the river from Sioux City. The capital stock of the new company is $42,000,000 and the incorporators are A. V. Larimer, F. McNulty, Donald McLean and Robert Buchanan, of Sioux City; Henry Woods, Dakota City, Neb.; E. P. Reynolds, Jr., Wymore, Neb., and C. D. Smiley, of South Sioux City, Neb. It is the intention of the incorporators to build a line of road from Sioux City to the Pacific coast which is to be entirely distinct from the Sioux City, O'Neill & Western Railway Company. The latter company already operates a line from Sioux City to O'Neill and Donald McLean has been working on a scheme in Sioux City for some months to get it extended to the coast. Now he says he will abandon that idea and will devote his attention to the new company. He gives as his reasons that the federal court will not sell the Pacific short line for less than $1,800,000 and the Combination Bridge Company wants $1,000,000 for its bridge over the Missouri river at Sioux City. He says he can build another road and bridge cheaper and his eastern backers have instructed him to do so.

DOLLAR DAILY A SUCCESS.

Bold Experiment in Iowa Journalism.

DES MOINES, June 7.—When the Des Moines Daily News was offered to subscribers for $1 a year in December, 1895, conservative newspaper men thought the offer ruinous, not to say preposterous. A different view prevails now. The newspaper directories all place the Daily News at the head of Iowa daily newspapers in circulation, and its advertising space is double in value that of any other Iowa daily. The offer is still open and the Daily News's subscription list is rapidly growing.

DES MOINES SHOOTING.

"Shorty" Ross, Woman of the Town, Shot by Her ex-Husband.

DES MOINES, June 7.—Bert Ross, discarded husband of Jennie Ross, better known as "Shorty," crazed by opium and whisky and insanely jealous, made a desperate attempt to kill his former wife in the brothel conducted by her in "Whitechapel." After he had shot her through the right lung, and while she was pleading for mercy, he turned on Policeman Clay Lewis and endeavored to kill him. He was overpowered and taken to jail.

ELDON BANK ROBBER GUILTY.

So Said a Jury at Ottumwa—Second Accused to Be Tried.

OTTUMWA, June 7.—In the first of the trials of the Eldon bank robbers Jesse K. Hamilton, of Chicago, was convicted by the jury after being out twenty minutes. It was thought almost universally that he would be acquitted. Stevens, the city marshal at Eldon, who confessed to having instigated the crime and watched while the others were committing it, will next be tried. His defense will be insanity.

IOWA CONDENSED.

The $20,000 offer of Abraham Slimmer, of Waverly, to Cedar Rapids, has been covered by local contributions and that city will have an old ladies' home to cost $40,000.

At Burlington recently a most distressing accident resulted in the shooting of 6-year-old Lizzie Fuerst by her eldest brother, Edward, aged 22 years. Edward was sitting on the bed in his room cleaning his Winchester repeating rifle, when his little sister came running up to him. Just then a cartridge in the weapon was exploded, the bullet passing through the little girl's body, killing her almost instantly.

Chicago dispatch: Governor Tanner has refused to recognize the requisition of Governor Drake, of Iowa, by which it was sought to take Thomas Gibson, William R. Hennig, Oliver R. Stratton and W. F. Chandler to Tama county, Iowa. Hennig and his partners, who are the owners of numerous bucket shops located throughout Iowa, are under indictments charging conspiracy to defraud, returned by the Tama county grand jury.

In the district court at Primghar the case of Charles McGee, of Sutherland, was tried. McGee was the marshal of Sutherland on February 11 last, when the store of Chas. Peaker was robbed. Several days later, through the efforts of McGee and others, the robbers, a couple of tramps, were caught and at the last term of court they pleaded guilty and were sentenced to eighteen months at Anamosa. They implicated McGee in the matter, saying that he planned the robbery, was present while they were in the store, and that he had agreed to prevent their capture if possible. They were brought back from Anamosa to testify in this case. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 1.—The Turkish government replied to the note presented by the ambassadors Saturday. The porte insists upon an armistice of a fortnight which can be renewed in the event peace negotiations are not concluded.

LONDON, June 3.—The Turks have promised to sign the extension of the armistice, and it is expected the peace negotiations will begin promptly at Constantinople. King George, it is understood, has yielded several points, with a view of hastening the negotiations of bringing about the Turkish evacuation of Thessaly.

ATHENS, June 5.—The cabinet decided to sign a sea armistice on the following conditions: "The Greek fleet will quit Ottoman waters. Vessels under Turkish or neutral flags, bound to or returning from Turkish ports and vessels north of the armistice line will not be examined. Vessels carrying troops and munitions for the Turkish army will not be allowed to enter ports north of the line. The Turkish fleet must not leave the Dardanelles. The dispatch of reinforcements to garrison towns in the archipeligo is prohibited."

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 7.—A conference lasting two hours was held between the ambassadors of the powers and Tewfik Pasha, the Turkisk minister of foreign affairs, at which the memoranda relative to the rectification of the frontier, to the capitulations in the case of Greek subjects in Turkey, and to indemnity, prepared respectively by Count Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, M. Cambon, the French ambassador, and Sir Phillip Currie, the British ambassador, were presented. The memoranda will be submitted to the sultan for his consideration.

THE CUBAN ARMY.

The Insurgent Army in Better Condition Than Ever Before.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Capt. W. D. Smith, of the Cuban army, in a brief interview with a representative of the Associated Press, said: "The Cuban army is now in better condition to resist the Spaniards and to maintain the fight for independence than it has since the beginning of the war. Gen. Gomez has a well disciplined army of 40,000 men. Our soldiers are rapidly procuring arms and every day serves to put them on a better footing in this respect. Our troops enjoy a vast advantage over the Spaniards in that they are not injuriously affected by the climate. Furthermore, we have no difficulty in feeding our troops. All talk about autonomy and of Spanish reforms for Cuba is so much breath wasted. There is not a man in the Cuban army who would agree to accept anything short of absolute independence." Capt. Smith is an American. He has been in Cuba for a year and is an officer in Gen. Gomez's body guard.

CALHOUN TO BACK LEE.

Satisfied That the Consul General's Report Was Correct.

NEW YORK, June 4.—A special dispatch to the Herald from Havana says Special Commissioner Calhoun will support the attitude of Consul General Lee on the Ruiz incident, having become convinced that the latter's attitude was absolutely correct. It also states that Mr. Calhoun will recommend that the Cuban war be stopped at all hazards. He will urge in support of this position the conditions of Americans and American interests there and with more force the frightful condition of the country folk which he knows from personal experience.

Democratic Gains.

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 4.—The election in the First district to elect a successor to Congressman Giles, deceased, resulted in favor of J. T. Lloyd, democrat, by a plurality of 5,516 over Clark, republican, and a majority of 4,423 over the combined vote of Miller, populist, and Clark. This is a gain of 782 over Giles' majority in November. The total vote is about 80 per cent of the November vote.

Great Mines to Be Operated.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 6.—On the authority of General Superintendent Lawall it is announced that commencing July 1 all the mines of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company will work full time. It is expected that full time will continue until December 1. The Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company employs nearly 8,000 men and boys.

Aldrich to Succeed Lee.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—It is understood that ex-Representative Aldrich, of Chicago, is to be appointed consul general at Havana, and that his appointment will be made in the near future.

Dictator of Guatemala.

NEW YORK, June 7.—A dispatch to the Herald from Panama says: President Barrios has publicly declared himself dictator of Guatemala.

GOOD NEWS FOR FARMERS.

Arctic overshoes will be cheaper next winter. Our readers have all heard something about the Rubber Trust, and have known that since the formation of the United States Rubber Co., rubber boots and shoes have been much higher than they used to be. Several new companies, however, have commenced the manufacture of rubber goods within the past year or two, and the usual result of competition has followed. Prices are down, and the public will get the benefit. The first new concern to enter the field was the Providence Rubber Company, of Providence, R. I. The head of the concern was the Hon. A. O. Bourn, who had been in Europe as Consul-General to Rome. The first western house to put these goods on the market was Bentley & Olmsted, of Des Moines, who last year had the exclusive agency for the northwest, for the above Rubber Company. These goods were sold at considerably lower prices than the Trust goods, and Bentley & Olmsted were warned by the Trust that if they continued to handle outside brands they would discriminate against them. They, however, were not to be intimidated, and have this year secured the exclusive agency for Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, the Dakotas, and all west of these states, of another new concern, Geo. Watkinson & Co. There has been great reason for complaint because rubber goods have not worn well. Mr. Watkinson, who is one of the oldest manufacturers of rubber goods, when starting his new factory at Philadelphia, realized that a big business could be built up on a better grade of goods. He is therfore making his goods of pure Para rubber instead of using part African, which is much cheaper, and has also added several new improvements, such as heavier soles and heels, and tips on heavy goods, with the intention of making the best wearing goods ever produced. Another new line of rubber goods made outside of the Trust, is made by the Hood Rubber Company, of Boston, who make a second quality line under the brand of the Old Colony. It remains to be seen whether the trust will be able to crush out these new concerns.

DESPAIR AT ATHENS.

No Hope of Saving Crops in Thessaly Makes Greeks Lose Heart.

Athens, June 2.—The virtual abandonment of the hope of saving the crops in Thessaly, added to the fear that the powers will not agree to compel Turkey to evacuate the province until a war indemnity shall have been paid by Greece, causes dejection, almost despair.

Those who have not abandoned hope persist in building upon the friendship of Great Britain and find comfort in the report that Contractor Kolla has been ordered to prepare to provision forty British warships at Phalerum, the belief being that such a display of naval force is intended as a menace to Turkey.

In the meantime Ottoman reinforcements continue to pour into Macedonia and Thessaly, while the Turkish movements at Lamia, where the Greek army now is, are regarded as highly suspicions.

The Turks, finding the difficulties of the commissariat insurmountable, have abandoned their positions in the Othrys mountains and will withdraw to the interior of Thessaly.

Bonner Is Easy for McCoy.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 2.—"Kid" McCoy made his appearance Monday night in the arena of the Quaker City Athletic Club in a bout with Jack Bonner, middle-weight champion of Pennsylvania, and made the latter look like a novice in the art of fisticuffs. The fourth, fifth and sixth rounds were all McCoy's, the Pennsylvania man resorting to hugging to save himself from a knock-out. Just as the gong sounded at the close of the sixth round Bonner swung wildly on the "Kid's" jaw, knocking him down, but he was up in a second. Bonner is not in McCoy's class.

Preacher Is Horsewhipped.

Metamora, Mich., June 2.—The Rev. Dr. W. H. Flint was horsewhipped on Main street Monday morning by Arthur Brownell, who alleges that Dr. Flint made statements reflecting upon his character, resulting in divorce proceedings. Mrs. Brownell died before the matter came to trial. On her deathbed, it is said, Mrs. Brownell accused Dr. Flint of making these statements. Brownell attempted to have Flint contradict them, but the latter denied circulating them, and refused to retract.

Commits Murder and Suicide.

San Antonio, Tex., June 1.—"Bud" Franks, a horse trader of this city, wound up a drunken spree by murdering his wife and then blowing out his brains. Franks chased the woman out of the house and followed her up the street, shooting as she ran. When the woman fell mortally wounded he put the pistol to his head and fired, killing himself instantly.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

BENEDICTION FOR DOCTORS LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Text: "And Asa, in the Thirty and Ninth Year of His Reign Was Diseased in His Feet Until His Disease Was Exceeding Great"--II. Chron. 16:12, 13.

AT this season of the year, when medical colleges of all schools of medicine are giving diplomas to young doctors, and at the capital and in many of the cities medical associations are assembling to consult about the advancement of the interests of their profession, I feel this discourse is appropriate.

In my text is King Asa with the gout. High living and no exercise have vitiated his blood, and my text presents him with his inflamed and bandaged feet on an ottoman. In defiance of God, whom he hated, he sends for certain conjurers or quacks. They come and give him all sorts of lotions and panaceas. They bleed him. They sweat him. They manipulate him. They blister him. They poultice him. They scarify him. They drug him. They cut him. They kill him. He was only a young man, and had a disease which, though very painful, seldom proves fatal to a young man, and he ought to have got well; but he fell a victim to charlatanry and empiricism. "And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet, until his disease was exceeding great; yet in his disease he sought not to the Lord, but to the physicians. And Asa slept with his fathers." That is, the doctors killed him. * * *

Men of the medical profession we often meet in the home of distress. We shake hands across the cradle of agonized infancy. We join each other in an attempt at solace where the paroxysm of grief demands an anodyne as well as a prayer. We look into each other's sympathetic faces through the dusk, as the night of death is falling in the sick room. We do not have to climb over any barrier today in order to greet each other, for our professions are in full sympathy. You, doctor, are our first and last earthly friend. You stand at the gates of life when we enter this world, and you stand at the gates of death when we go out of it. In the closing moments of our earthly existence when the hand of the wife, or mother, or sister, or daughter, shall hold our right hand, it will give strength to our dying moments if we can feel the tips of your fingers along the pulse of our left wrist. We do not meet today, as on other days, in houses of distress, but by the pleasant altars of God, and I propose a sermon of helpfulness and good cheer. As in the nursery children sometimes re-enact all the scenes of the sick room, so today you play that you are the patient and that I am the physician, and take my prescription just once. It shall be a tonic, a sedative, a dietetic, a disinfectant, a stimulus, and an anodyne at the same time. "Is there not balm in Gilead? Is there not a physician there?"

In the first place, I think all the medical profession should become Christians because of the debt of gratitude they owe to God for the honor he has put upon their calling. No other calling in all the world, except it be that of the Christian ministry, has received so great an honor as yours. Christ himself was not only preacher, but physician, surgeon, aurist, ophthalmologist, and under his mighty power optic and auditory nerve thrilled with light and sound, and catalepsy arose from its fit, and the club foot was straightened, and anchylosis went out of the stiffened tendons, and the foaming maniac became placid as a child, and the streets of Jerusalem became an extemporized hospital crowded with convalescent victims of casualty and invalidism. All ages have woven the garland for the doctor's brow. Homer said:

A wise physician, skilled our wounds to heal,
Is more than armies to the public weal.

Cicero said: "There is nothing in which men so approach the gods as when they try to give health to other men." Charles IX made proclamation that all the Protestants of France should be put to death on St. Bartholomew's day, but made one exception, and that the case of Pare, the father of French surgery. The battlefields of the American revolution welcomed Drs. Mercer and Warren and Rush. When the French army was entirely demoralized at fear of the plague, the leading surgeon of that army innoculated himself with the plague to show the soldiers that there was no contagion in it; and their courage rose, and they went on to the conflict. God has honored this profession all the way through. Oh, the advancement from the days when Hippocrates tried to cure the great Pericles with hellebore and flaxseed poultices down to far later centuries when Haller announced the theory of respiration, and Harvey the circulation of the blood,and Asceli the use of the lymphatic vessels, and Jenner balked the worst disease that ever scourged Europe, and Sydenham developed the recuperative forces of the physical organism, and cinchona bark stopped the shivering agues of the world, and Sir Astley Cooper and Abernethy, and Hosack, and Romeyn, and Griscom, and Valentine Mott of the generation just passed, honored God and fought back death with their keen scalpels.

If we who are laymen in medicine would understand what the medical profession has accomplished for the insane, let us look into the dungeons where the poor creatures used to be incarcerated. Madmen chained naked to the wall. A kennel of rotten straw their only sleeping place. Room unventilated and unlighted. The worst calamity of the race punished with the very worst punishment. And then come and look at the insane asylums of Utica and Kirkbride—sofaed and pictured, libraried, concerted, until all the arts and the adornments come to coax recreant reason to assume her throne. Look at Edward Jenner, the great hero of medicine. Four hundred thousand people annually dying in Europe from the smallpox, Jenner finds that by the inoculation of people with vaccine from a cow the great scourge of nations may be arrested. The ministers of the Gospel denounced vaccination; small wits caricatured Edward Jenner as riding in a great procession on the back of a cow; and grave men expressed it as their opinion that all of the diseases of the brute creation would be transplanted into the human family; and they gave instances where, they said, actually horns had come out on the foreheads of innocent persons, and people had begun to chew the cud! But Dr. Jenner, the hero of medicine, went on fighting for vaccination until it has been estimated that that one doctor, in fifty years, has saved more lives than all the battles of any one century destroyed.

Passing along the streets of Edinburgh a few weeks after the death of Sir James Y. Simpson, I saw the photograph of the doctor in all the windows of the shops and stores, and well might that photograph be put in every window, for he first used chloroform as an anaesthetic agent. In other days they tried to dull human pain by the hasheesh of the Arabs and the madrepore of the Roman and the Greek; but it was left to Dr. James Simpson to introduce chloroform as an anaesthetic. Alas for the writhing subjects of surgery in other centuries! Blessed be God for the wet sponge or vial in the hand of the operating surgeon in the clinical department of the medical college, or in the sick room of the domestic circle, or on the battle field amid thousands of amputations. Napoleon after a battle rode along the line and saw under a tree, standing in the snow, Larrey the surgeon operating upon the wounded. Napoleon passed on, and twenty-four hours afterward came along the same place, and he saw the same surgeon operating in the same place, and he had not left it. Alas for the battlefields without chloroform. But now the soldier boy takes a few breaths from the sponge and forgets all the pangs of the gunshot fracture, and while the surgeons of the field hospital are standing around him, he lies there dreaming of home, and mother, and heaven. No more parents standing around a suffering child, struggling to get away from the sharp instrument, but mild slumber instead of excruciation, and the child wakes up and says, "Father, what's the matter? What's the doctor here today for?" Oh, blessed be God for James Y. Simpson and the heaven descending mercies of chloroform.

The medical profession steps into the court room, and after conflicting witnesses have left everything in a fog, by chemical analyses shows the guilt or innocence of the prisoner, as by mathematic demonstration, thus adding honors to medical jurisprudence. * * *

It seems to me that the most beautiful benediction of the medical profession has been dropped upon the poor. No excuse now for any one's not having scientific attendance. Dispensaries and infirmaries everywhere under the control of the best doctors, some of them poorly paid, some of them not paid at all. A half-starved woman comes out from the low tenement house into the dispensary, and unwraps the rags from her babe, a bundle of ulcers, and rheum, and pustules, and over that little sufferer bends the accumulated wisdom of the ages, from Esculapius down to last week's autopsy. In one dispensary, in one year, one hundred and fifty thousand prescriptions were issued. Why do I show you what God has allowed this profession to do? Is it to stir up your vanity? Oh, no. The day has gone by for pompous doctors, with conspicuous gold-headed canes and powdered wigs, which were the accompaniments in the days when the barber used to carry through the streets of London Dr. Brockelsby's wig, to the admiration and awe of the people, saying: "Make way! here comes Dr. Brockelsby's wig." No, I announce these things not only to increase the appreciation of laymen in regard to the work of physicians, but to stir in the hearts of men of the medical profession a feeling of gratitude to God that they have been allowed to put their hand to such a magnificent work, and that they have been called into such illustrious company. Have you never felt a spirit of gratitude for this opportunity? Do you not feel thankful now? Then I am afraid, doctor, you are not a Christian, and that the old proverb which Christ quoted in his sermon may be appropriate to you: "Physician, heal thyself."

* * *

There are many who always blame the doctor because the people die, forgetting the Divine enactment: "It is appointed unto all men once to die." The father in medicine who announced the fact that he had discovered the art by which to make men in this world immortal, himself died at forty-seven years of age, showing that immortality was less than half a century for him. Oh, how easy it is when people die, to cry out: "malpractice." Then the physician must bear with all the whims, and the sophistries, and the deceptions, and the stratagems, and the irritations of the shattered nerves and the beclouded brain of women, and more especially of men, who never know how gracefully to be sick, and who with their salivated mouth curse the doctor, giving him his dues, as they say—about the only dues he will in that case collect. The last bill that is paid is the doctor's bill. It seems so incoherent for a restored patient, with ruddy cheeks and rotund form, to be bothered with a bill charging him for old calomel and jalap. The physicians of this country do more missionary work without charge than all the other professiones put together. From the concert room, from the merry party, from the comfortable couch on a cold night, when the thermometer is five degrees below zero, the doctor must go right away; he always must go right away. To keep up under this nervous strain, to go through this night-work, to bear all these annoyances, many physicians have resorted to strong drink and perished. Others have appealed to God for sympathy and help, and have lived. Which were the wise doctors, judge ye?

* * *

I do not mean to say that piety will make up for medical skill. A bungling doctor, confounded with what was not a very bad case, went into the next room to pray. A skilled physician was called in. He asked for the first practitioner. "Oh," they said, "he's in the next room praying." "Well," said the skilled doctor, "tell him to come out here and help; he can pray and work at the same time." It was all in that sentence. Do the best we can and ask God to help us. There are no two men in all the world, it seems to me, that so much need the grace of God as the minister who doctors the sick soul, and the physician who prescribes for the diseased body.

* * *

But I must close, for there may be suffering men and women waiting in your office, or on the hot pillow, wondering why you don't come. But before you go, O doctors, hear my prayer for your external salvation. Blessed will be the reward in heaven for the faithful Christian physician. Some day, through overwork, or from bending over a patient and catching his contagious breath, the doctor comes home, and lies down faint and sick. He is too weary to feel his own pulse or take the diagnosis of his own complaint. He is worn out. The fact is his work on earth is ended. Tell those people in the office there they need not wait any longer; the doctor will never go there again. He has written his last prescription for the alleviation of human pain. The people will run up to his front steps and inquire: "How is the doctor today?" All the sympathies of the neighborhood will be aroused, and there will be many prayers that he who has been so kind to the sick may be comforted in his last pang. It is all over now. In two or three days his convalescent patients, with shawl wrapped around them, will come to the front window and look out on the passing hearse, and the poor of the city, bare-footed, and bare-headed, will stand on the street corners, saying: "Oh, how good he was to us all!" But on the other side of the river of death some of his old patients, who are forever cured, will come to welcome him, and the Physician of heaven, with locks as white as snow, according to the Apocalyptic vision, will come out and say, "Come in, come in. I was sick and ye visited me!"

The Light of the World.

As the best light in the world is the warm light of the sun, so the best illumination of life is not from the moon-like beams of human speculation, but from the love of God. That love, like the sun, opens the universe, turns even clouds into glory, and lifts death itself to a mount of transfiguration.

The torpedo fish sometimes weighs eighty pounds, and a single shock from this fish will kill the strongest horse.

MOB LYNCHES A NEGRO.

Two Killed and Six Wounded by the Militia Before They Got Him.

URBANA, Ohio, June 4.—"Click" Mitchell, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Gaumer recently, was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary. At 1:30 a. m. a mob advanced on the jail and for two hours it was surrounded by a howling crowd of at least 1,000 to 1,500 people. Finally advances were being made so close to the guards that they opened fire upon the crowd and at least twenty shots were fired. The volley resulted in Harry Bell, of this city, and a young man named Hagins being instantly killed and a number of others seriously injured.

URBANA, Ohio, June 5.—After the militia had fired on the crowd, which was attempting to lynch "Click" Mitchell, Governor Bushnell ordered company B of the Third infantry from Springfield. They arrived and marched to the jail, where they found 2,000 people surrounding the structure. The mayor assured the commander that their services were not needed, as the people were law-abiding, and asked them to withdraw to the train, and in case their services were needed he would send for them. Without waiting for further orders they marched down the street to the depot. The local militia had previously refused to serve longer and went to the second story of the sheriff's residence and tried to sleep. With no resistance offered, the mob rushed into the jail, battered down the door to Mitchell's cell and hanged him to a tree. The result of the shooting was two killed and six wounded. Mitchell was convicted of criminally assaulting Mrs. Eliza Gaumer, widow of the late publisher of the Urbana Democrat.

BIG CROPS FOR KANSAS.

Highly Favorable Report Issued by the Agricultural Department.

TOPEKA, Kansas, June 6.—The agricultural department has issued a report of Kansas crops, showing the condition of winter wheat on May 31 to have been 83 per cent, an advance of 3 points over the report of May 20. Cool weather has been disastrous to chinch bugs and wheat has had remarkable growth. The cool weather has been bad for corn. The general condition for the state at this season is given at 84 per cent. Oats' average condition is 77 per cent. All other grains, grasses, vegetables and fruits are in prime condition. Reports of the excellent condition of stock are uniform. The range is the best in years and western Kansas is covered with fine herds.

ACTION IS IMPORTANT.

Modern Woodmen Will Remove Headquarters to Rock Island, Ill.

DUBUQUE, June 4.—At the national convention of the Modern Woodmen of America the election of officers was an emphatic endorsement of the present administration, nearly all being re-elected. The headquarters were ordered removed to Rock Island and the next head camp voted to Kansas City, Mo. Charges of misappropriation of funds, mismanagement, etc., fell flat, not so much as being considered by the convention. Many changes were made in the laws of the order.

After Ex-Governor Altgeld.

SPRINGFIELD, June 4.—The report of the special committee of the senate appointed to investigate the charges of misappropriation of funds of the University of Illinois by C. W. Spaulding, the treasurer of the university board and president of the defunct Globe Savings Bank, declares that ex-Governor Altgeld was a heavy borrower from the failed bank, that he must have known its condition when he recommended President Spaulding for treasurer of the university board, and that H. B. Prentice, formerly in charge of the banking department of the state auditor's office, was removed at Altgeld's request, after having insisted on a rigid examination of the Globe Savings Bank's affairs.

Weyler Bill Signed.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 4.—Governor Hastings has signed the Weyler bill to protect the employes of corporations in their rights to belong to labor organizations. The bill provides for a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $2,000, and imprisonment not exceeding one year, for any officer or agent of any corporation to discharge any employe for being a member of a labor organization or seek to dissuade him from joining or belonging to any such organization or to accept from any applicant for employment any agreement or promise not to join or belong to such organization.

Constable Killed Six.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 4.—A constable ejected the family of Bret Crowley for non-payment of rent when six children were down with the measles. A relapse followed in each case on account of exposure, and whooping cough, pneumonia and tuberculosis attacked the children. Five died and the sixth cannot live.

Backyard Repartee.

Heart Failure

Of course the heart fails to act when a man dies, but "Heart Failure," so called, nine times out of ten is caused by Uric Acid in the blood which the Kidneys fail to remove, and which corrodes the heart until it becomes unable to perform its functions.

Health Officers in many cities very properly refuse to accept "Heart Failure," as a cause of death. It is frequently a sign of ignorance in the physician, or may be given to cover up the real cause.

A SICKENING SPECTACLE.

Burlington, June 3.—A sickening spectacle was witnessed on the farm of D. Oetken, who lives four miles north of the city on the Irish Ridge road near Starr's cave.

He was going over a corn field with a disc harrow to which three horses were attached. While the driver's attention was momentarily diverted the horses began to run and as they ran their frenzy grew, for the harrow for bounding over stumps and the uneven ground, continued to strick them on the hind legs. This kept up while the maddened steeds made several circuits of the field and until the hind legs of the horses were literally hacked off by the cruel circular blades of the harrow. Mad with pain and fright the horses did not stop even then, but continued on the bloody stumps until they fell exhausted from loss of blood. As soon as possible they were shot to put them out of pain and misery.

The mad career of the horses about the field with the harrow bounding after and hacking the legs of the steeds is described as one of the most shocking, yet exciting, ever witnessed.—Cedar Rapids Republican.

From Wallaces' Farmer.

Raising Chickens.

I will write a short article on my way of taking care of little chicks from the time they are hatched until they are ready for market. In the first place I set as many hens on one day as I can, and when they hatch I put as many chicks with one hen as she can well care for, usually about twenty, and then I put them in a warm, dry coop and keep them in a day or two until the little chicks are strong enough to follow the hen and they have learned their coop I let them out during the day after the dew is off the grass, where the old hen can scratch for them as I think it is better for them to have bugs and grass than all grain. I feed them corn meal mixed with a little pepper. I keep enough corn meal mixed ahead to feed once so it will get well soaked before feeding. I usually throw out a little corn or other coarse grain for the old hen so she will not eat all the food from the little chicks.

As for myself. I have for the last five years raised from two hundred and fifty to three hundred chickens and have not sold any to the summer tourists either. Last year I sold $35.00 worth of chickens and have about sixty for my own use. Well, I guess I have written enough on this subject and if this does not find its way to the scrap basket I may write again.

Written by Malinda Lau and Floy Shafer.

A growing tendency on the part of the American people to make a great athletic field day of the 30th of May has brought forth the suggestion from many of those who believe that Memorial day should be observed more in the spirit in which it was originated that some Snnday in May or June be substituted. They argue that nothing could be more appropriate for the Sabbath than the memorial excerises of the Grand Army. The character of the day itself would add impressiveness and solemnity to the occasion. The exercises would be more generally attended and the lessons they teach would be more firmly impressed upon thh minds of the younger generation, whom it is especially desired to educate along this line.—St. Paul Dispatch.

The dwelling house of Chas. Brady, six miles south east of town got afire yesterday morning at about 6:30 o'clock and burned to the ground with all its contents except a couple of stoves and a few articles of furuiture in the lower story. The fire caught somewhere in the second story, probably from a disjointed stove pipe and spread so fast that no opportunity was afforded to save anything from that part of the house. Two small children, one about six or sevenyears of age and the other three or four years younger, were asleep in the upper story at the time. The older one awakening and seeing the danger, jumped out of bed and rousing the little one, groped her way through the blinding smoke with him to the stairway and affected their safe escape, A few moments later Mr. Brady sought to go upstairs to save whatever he could of the contents there but was obliged to beat a hasty retreat. There was about $550 insurance, which will cover only about one-half the loss. Mr. Brady will rebuild as soon as a settlement is effected with the insurance company.—Weekly News.

THE TREASURE OF FRANCHARD.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XVI.—(CONTINUED.)

Indeed, in this particular winter, after the finding and losing of the treasure, the Desprezes had an anxiety of a very different order, and one which lay nearer their hearts. Jean-Marie was plainly not himself. He had fits of hectic activity, when he made unusual exertions to please, spoke more and faster, and redoubled in attention to his lessons. But these were interrupted by spells of melancholia and brooding silence, when the boy was little better than unbearable.

"Silence," the Doctor moralized—"you see, Anastasie, what comes of silence. Had the boy properly unbosomed himself, the little disappointment about the treasure, the little annoyance about Casimir's incivility, would long ago have been forgotten. As it is, they prey upon him like a disease. He loses flesh, his appetite is variable, and, on the whole, impaired. I keep him on the strictest regimen, I exhibit the most powerful tonics; both in vain."

"Don't you think you drug him too much?" asked madame, with an irrepressible shudder.

"Drug?" cried the Doctor; "I drug? Anastasie, you are mad!"

Time went on, and the boy's health still slowly declined. The Doctor blamed the weather, which was cold and boisterous. He called in his confrere from Bourron, took a fancy for him, magnified his capacity, and was pretty soon under treatment himself—it scarcely appeared for what complaint. He and Jean-Marie had each medicine to take at different periods of the day. The Doctor used to lie in wait for the exact moment, watch in hand. "There is nothing like regularity," he would say, fill out the doses, and dilate on the virtues of the draught; and if the boy seemed none the better, the Doctor was not at all the worse.

Gunpowder Day, the boy was particularly low. It was scowling, squally weather. Huge broken companies of clouds sailed swiftly overhead; raking gleams of sunlight swept the village, and were followed with intervals of darkness and white, flying rain. At times the wind lifted up its voice and bellowed. The trees were all scourging themselves along the meadows, the last leaves flying like dust.

The Doctor, between the boy and the weather, was in his elements; he had a theory to prove. He sat with his watch out and a barometer in front of him, waiting for the squalls and noting their effect upon the human pulse. "For the true philosopher," he remarked delightedly, "every fact in nature is a toy." A letter came to him; but, as its arrival coincided with the approach of another gust, he merely crammed it into his pockets, gave the time to Jean-Marie, and the next moment they were both counting their pulses as if for a wager.

CHAPTER XVII.

AT nightfall the wind rose into a tempest. It besieged the hamlet, apparently from every side, as if with batteries of cannon; the houses shook and groaned; live coals were blown upon the floor. The uproar and terror of the night kept people long awake, sitting pallid faces giving ear.

It was past twelve before the Desprez family had retired. By half-past one, when the storm was already some past its height, the Doctor was awakened from a troubled slumber, and sat up. A noise still rang in his ears, but whether of this world or of the world of dreams he was not certain. Another clap of wind followed. It was accompanied by a sickening movement of the whole house, and in the subsequent lull Desprez could hear the tiles pouring like a cataract into the loft above his head. He plucked Anastasie bodily out of bed.

"Run!" he cried, thrusting some wearing apparel into her hands; "the house is failing! To the garden!"

She did not pause to be twice bidden; she was down the stair in an instant. She had never before suspected herself of such activity. The Doctor meanwhile, with the speed of a piece of pantomime business, and undeterred by broken shins, proceeded to rout out Jean-Marie, tore Aline from her virgin slumbers, seized her by the hand, and tumbled downstairs and into the garden, with the girl tumbling behind him, still not half-awake.

The fugitives rendezvoused in the arbor by some common instinct. Then came a bull's eye flash of struggling moonshine, which disclosed their four figures standing huddled from the wind in a ruffle of flying drapery, and not without a considerable need for more. At the humiliating spectacle Anastasie clutched her night-dress desperately about her and burst loudly into tears. The Doctor flew to console her; but she elbowed him away. She suspected everybody of being the general public, and thought the darkness was alive with eyes.

Another gleam and another violent gust arrived together; the house was seen to rock on its foundation, and, just as the light was once more eclipsed, a crash which triumphed over the shouting of the wind announced its fall, and for a moment the whole garden was alive with skipping tiles and brickbats. One such missile grazed the Doctor's ear; another descended on the bare foot of Aline, who instantly made night hideous with her shrieks.

By this time the hamlet was alarmed, lights flashed from the windows, hails reached the party, and the Doctor answered, nobly contending against Aline and the tempest. But this prospect of help only awakened Anastasie to a more active stage of terror.

"Henri, people will be coming," she screamed in her husband's ear.

"I trust so," he replied.

"They cannot. I would rather die," she wailed.

"My dear," said the Doctor reprovingly, "you are excited. I gave you some clothes. What have you done with them?"

"Oh, I don't know—I must have thrown them away! Where are they?" she sobbed.

Desprez groped about in the darkness. "Admirable!" he remarked; "my velveteen trousers! This will exactly meet your necessities."

"Give them to me!" she cried fiercely; but as soon as she had them in her hands her mood appeared to alter—she stood silent for a moment, and then pressed the garment back upon the Doctor. "Give them to Aline," she said—"poor girl."

"Nonsense!" said the Doctor. "Aline does not know what she is about. Aline is beside herself with terror; and at any rate, she is a peasant. Now I am really concerned at this exposure for a person of your housekeeping habits; my solicitude and your fantastic modesty both point to the same remedy—the pantaloons." He held them ready.

"It is impossible. You do not understand," she said, with dignity.

By this time rescue was at hand. It had been found impracticable to enter by the street, for the gate was blocked with masonry, and the nodding ruin still threatened further avalanches. But between the Doctor's garden and the one on the right hand there was that very picturesque contrivance, a common well; the door on the Desprez' side had chanced to be unbolted, and now, through the arched aperture a man's bearded face and an arm supporting a lantern were introduced into the world of windy darkness, where Anastasie concealed her woes. The light struck here and there among the tossing apple boughs, it glinted on the grass; but the lantern and the glowing face became the center of the world. Anastasie crouched back from the intrusion.

"This way?" shouted the man. "Are you all safe?"

Aline, still screaming, ran to the new-comer, and was presently hauled head-foremost through the wall.

"Now, Anastasie, come on; it is your turn," said the husband.

"I cannot," she replied.

"Are we all to die of exposure, madame?" thundered Doctor Desprez.

"You can go!" she cried. "Oh, go, go away! I can stay here; I am quite warm."

The Doctor took her by the shoulders with an oath.

"Stop!" she screamed. "I will put them on."

She took the detested lendings in her hand once more; but her repulsion was stronger than she. "Never!" she cried, shuddering and flung them far away into the night.

Next moment the Doctor had whirled her to the well. The man was there and the lantern; Anastasie closed her eyes and appeared to herself to be about to die. How she was transported through the arch she knew not; but once on the other side she was received by the neighbor's wife, and enveloped in a friendly blanket.

CHAPTER XVIII.

BEDS were made ready for the two women, clothes of very various sizes for the Doctor and Jean-Marie; and for the remainder of the night, while madame dozed in and out on the borderland of hysterics, her husband sat beside the fire and held forth to the admiring neighbors. He showed them, at length, the causes of the accident; for years, he explained, the fall had been impending; one sign had followed another, the joints had opened, the plaster had cracked, the old walls bowed inward; last, not three weeks ago, the cellar-door had begun to work with difficulty in its grooves. "The cellar!" he said, gravely shaking his head over a glass of mulled wine. "That reminds me of my poor vintages. By a manifest providence the Hermitage was nearly at an end. One bottle—I lose but one bottle of that incomparable wine. It had been set apart against Jean-Marie's wedding. Well, I must lay down some more; it will be an interest in life. I am, however, a man somewhat advanced in years. My great work is now buried in the fall of my humble roof; it will never be completed—my name will have been writ in water. And yet you find me calm—I would say cheerful. Can your priest do more?"

By the first glimpse of day the party sallied forth from the fireside into the street. The wind had fallen, but still charioted a world of troubled clouds; the air bit like frost; and the party, as they stood about the ruins in the rainy twilight of the morning, beat upon their breasts and blew into their hands for warmth. The house had entirely fallen, the walls outward, the roof in; it was a mere heap of rubbish, with here and there a forlorn spear of broken rafter. A sentinel was placed over the ruins to protect the property, and the party adjourned to Tentaillon's to break their fast at the Doctor's expense. The bottle circulated somewhat freely; and before they left the table it had begun to snow.

For three days the snow continued to fall, and the ruins, covered with tarpaulin and watched by sentries, were left undisturbed. The Desprezes meanwhile had taken up their abode at Tentaillon's. Madame spent her time in the kitchen, concocting little delicacies, with the admiring aid of Madame Tentaillon, or sitting by the fire in thoughtful abstraction. The fall of the house affected her wonderfully little; that blow has been parried by another; and in her mind she was continually fighting over again the battle of the trousers. Had she done right? Had she done wrong? And now she would applaud her determination; and anon, with a horrid flush of unavailing penitence, she would regret the trousers. No juncture in her life had so much exercised her judgment. In the meantime the Doctor had become vastly pleased with his situation. Two of the summer boarders still lingered behind the rest, prisoners for lack of a remittance; they were both English, but one of them spoke French pretty fluently, and was, besides, a humorous, agile-minded fellow, with whom the Doctor could reason by the hour, secure of comprehension. Many were the glasses they emptied, many the topics they discussed.

"Anastasie," the Doctor said on the third morning, "take an example from your husband, from Jean-Marie. The excitement has done more for the boy than all my tonics, he takes his turn as sentry with positive gusto. As for me, you behold me. I have made friends with the Egyptians; and my Pharaoh is, I swear it, a most agreeable companion. You alone are hipped. About a house—a few dresses? What are they in comparison to the 'Pharmacopoeia'—the labor of years lying buried below stones and sticks in this depressing hamlet? The snow falls; I shake it from my cloak! Imitate me. Our income will be impaired, I grant it, since we must rebuild; but moderation, patience, and philosophy will gather about this hearth. In the meanwhile, the Tentaillons are obliging; the table, with your additions, will pass; only the wine is execrable—well, I shall send for some to-day. My Pharoah will be gratified to drink a decent glass; aha! and I shall see if he possesses that acme of organization—a palate. If he has a palate, he is perfect."

"Henri," she said, shaking her head, "you are a man; you cannot understand my feelings; no woman could shake off the memory of so public a humiliation."

The Doctor could not restrain a titter. "Pardon me, darling," he said, "but really, to the philosophical intelligence, the incident appears so small a trifle. You looked extremely well—"

"Henri!" she cried.

CONGRESSIONAL.

HOUSE.

Washington, May 31.—When the journal was read Mr. Lewis (dem., Wash.) protested against its approval, saying that there was "no constitutional house that can legally approve the journal, and if there was, it could not be approved in the manner and form adopted," and gave notice that he merely filed his protest to act upon it in the future as might seem best. Adjourned till tomorrow.

SENATE.

Washington, June 1.—The new senator from South Carolina, John L. McTaurin, who succeeded the late Senator Earl, was present at the opening of to-day's session. This establishes the personal as it will remain for some time, viz.: Republicans 43, democrats 34, populists 7, silver republicans 5, vacancy 1, (Oregon), total 90. The tariff bill was taken up immediately after routine business. The senate made good progress on the bill, advancing to the important metal schedule. During the day the paragraphs covering marble and stone, china, glass, brick and tiles were completed with a few minor exceptions.

HOUSE.

The house witnessed a sharp attack on the speaker by Representatives Simpson and Richardson because of the non-appointment of committees. On motion of Dingley by 90 to 55, the house upheld the speaker's refusal to recognize the the resolution of Lewis, democrat, relative to Cuba as a privileged question. A special order was adopted for the immediate consideration of a resolution providing for the transportation of supplies to India and permitting the use of any vessel instead of restricting the sending of famine relief in American ships, and the resolution passed. Representative King, of Utah, introduced a resolution directing the speaker to appoint the committee on foreign affairs, on account of the pendency of grave questions relating to foreign affairs.

SENATE.

Washington, June 2.—The senate made greater progress on the tariff bill to-day than in any time since the debate opened, completing more than half the important metal schedule. The speaking was by the democratic senators, the republican senators taking no part in the debate, except at rare intervals, to answer question which would expediate the advance of the bill. An amendment relating to anvils, reducing the committee rate from 2 to 1 3-4 cents per pound was adopted. It was the first change made without the assent of the committee and it was due mainly to the listless manner of many senators in voting.

SENATE

Washington, June 3.—The senate again made good progress on the tariff bill to-day, covering about ten pages of the metal schedule and almost completing it. The formal contest against the measure was maintained, but all amendments tending to change the bill as reported were voted down and the finance committee sustained. Tillman made an effort to have the committee having in charge the sugar resolution discharged, thus bringing the resolution directly before the senate, but finally withdrew his motion.

HOUSE.

A little business of minor importance was transacted to-day by ananimous consent. Terry attacked the speaker for not appointing the committees, but the house sustained the speaker.

SENATE.

Washington, June 4.—The president sent the following nominations to the senate: Lawrence Townsend, of Pennsylvania, minister to Portugal; Elias H. Roberts, of New York, treasurer of the United States. The senate had a period of speech making to-day, and as a result little progress was made on the tariff bill. The advance covered about two pages, or seven paragraphs, and brought the senate up to the wood schedule, the first item of which was considered but not completed.

SENATE.

Washington, June 5.—When the senate laid aside the tariff bill to-night it had reached the sugar schedule, which has been the subject of so much interest and conflict. During the day many of the paragraphs of the wood schedule had been agreed to, but that restoring lumber to the dutiable list at $2 per 1,000 proved the greatest stumbling block, during which a wide divergence of views was developed on the democratic side of the chamber. The lumber paragraph was laid aside without action.

STAY FOR DURRANT.

Case of the California Murderer Carried to the Supreme Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—An application for leave to appeal to the supreme court of the United States has been granted in the case of Theodore Durrant. Although it is an open question whether in view of the denial of the writ of supersedeas the order of the court acts as a stay of proceedings, Attorney General Fitzgerald told Warden Hale to take no action in the premises pending the appeal. As the United States supreme court does not meet again until October next, this virtually means a respite of six months at least.

Angell Goes to Turkey.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The sultan of Turkey has withdrawn his objection to the appointment of James B. Angell as envoy extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the United States at Constantinople, and the professor will probably start for his post shortly.

A GOOD THING

For Women to Remember.

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham they are communicating with a woman—a woman whose experience in treating woman's ills is greater than that of any living physician—male or female.

A woman can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate her private troubles to a man—besides, a man does not understand—simply because he is a man.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they should have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price they can consult a woman, whose knowledge from actual experience is greater than any local physician living.

The following invitation is freely offered; accept it in the same spirit.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to freely communicate with Mrs. Pinkman at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only, thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken and has induced more than 100,000 sufferers to write her for advice during the past four months. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

WEYLER'S RECALL CERTAIN.

The Liberals Have Decided Upon It If They Come Into Control.

MADRID, June 6.—The recall of Weyler from Cuba is almost certain, as the liberals have decided to take this step if Sagasta assumes office. Pidal, president of the cortez, advised the queen regent to reform the conservative cabinet in the direction of honestly implanting reforms in Cuba, recalling Weyler and sending Campos to the island. Campos advised the queen not to form an intermediate cabinet, but trust the government to the party which offers the best and most definite solution for Cuba, and one which is most calculated to insure good relations with the United States while being consistent with the national dignity. In addition, according to the Correspondencia de Espana, he advised the queen to recall Weyler.

RECORDS BROKEN.

Amateur Athletic Records Take Tumbles at Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 7.—At the annual meet of the Western Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association on Bankers's athletic field, J. H. Maybury, the crack sprinter of the University of Wisconsin, broke the world's record for 220 yards around a turn, covering the distance in 21 2-5 seconds. In the hurdles, John Richards and A. Kraenzlein, both Wisconsin men, broke the western intercollegiate records for 120 and 220 yards respectively, and E. S. Runnell, of Minnesota, was successful in lowering the western intercollegiate record for the mile walk. J. H. Rush, the Grinnell sprinter who was expected by many to lower the colors of the speedy Maybury, withdrew on account of sickness.

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNS.

Crisis Comes at Last at Madrid—The Resignations Accepted.

MADRID, June 3.—The premier, Senor Canovas del Castillo, has tendered to the queen regent the resignation of the cabinet, owing to the difficulty the ministers experienced in carrying on the government in view of the parliamentary situation, caused by the refusal of the liberals to take part in the deliberation of the cortes. This attitude of the liberals is due to the personal encounter between the Duke of Tetuan, the minister for foreign affairs, and Prof. Comas, a liberal senator, on May 21, when the duke slapped the face of the senator after a heated debate on the Morgan belligerency resolution adopted by the United States senate. The queen regent accepted the resignation of the cabinet.

An officer and prize crew were placed in charge of the steamer and she was brought to this port under the escort of the war vessel. The Biscayne is also under arrest.

Stop! Women,

And Consider the All-Important Fact,

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience in treating woman's diseases is greater than that of any living physician—male or female.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man—besides, a man does not understand—simply because he is a man.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman, whose knowledge from actual experience is greater than any local physician in the world. The following invitation is freely offered; accept it in the same spirit:

MRS. PINKHAM'S STANDING INVITATION.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken.

Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

The Pill that Will.

"The pill that will," implies the pills that won't. Their name is legion. The name of "the pill that will" is Ayer's Cathartic Pill. It is a pill to rely on. Properly used it will cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, and the other ills that result from torpid liver. Ayer's pills are not designed to spur the liver into a momentary activity, leaving it in yet more incapable condition after the immediate effect is past. They are compounded with the purpose of toning up the entire system, removing the obstructing conditions, and putting the liver into proper relations with the rest of the organs for natural co-operation. The record of Ayer's Pills during the half century they have been in public use establishes their great and permanent value in all liver affections.

REV. GEO. BROWN OF EMERSON, IOWA, CURED OF DYSPEPSIA.

Some months ago I found myself in a very distressed condition from dyspepsia; every article of food seemed to ferment in the stomach, and a square meal was a forerunner of agony, so that I feared cancer of the stomach or some kindred evil, but the use of your Dr. Kay's Renovator after two or three doses brought relief and three boxes straightened me out so that with reasonable prudence, I have no trouble. Thankfully yours,

(REV.) GEO. BROWN, Pastor Baptist Church.

Emerson, Iowa, April 15, 1897.

Dr. Kay's Renovator.

DR. KAY'S RENOVATOR has cured so many of the worst cases of DYSPEPSIA that we consider it a specific for this disease and for proof we refer all to the testimonials of wonderful cures reported in our book. It has cured many bad cases of HEADACHE, and when caused by constipation or dyspepsia it is sure to cure every case, in fact, we believe it has no equal for headache from whatever cause. It always cures BILIOUSNESS and all forms of liver and kidney complaints, nervousness, neuralgia, impure blood, scrofula, skin diseases, pimples, boils, blotches, glandular enlargements, dropsy, RHEUMATISM and piles. It is sold by druggists or sent by mail at 25c and $1. Send stamp for Dr. B. J. Kay's "Home Treatment and Valuable Recipes," a 68-page book treating all diseases. Address Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co., Western Office, Omaha, Nebraska.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, '94, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave and now I consider that I am entirely cured. In this issue appears the announcement of M. B. Cooper as a candidate for the office of county treasurer. Mr. Cooper is a farmer, owning and operating successfully, one of the finest farms in Garfield township, is a straight republican and a man peculiarly fitted for this office by reason of experience and if elected would make an ideal treasurer,

DIED of Dropsy.—At the home of Mr. Hartbeck, Mr. Joseph Dense, Mrs. Hartbeck's father, Friday. Mr, Dense came here from Deleware county about six weeks ago and has been sick since his arrival. The funeral was held from the Germantown church on Saturday at 2.00 p. m. and the remains burried in the Germantown cemetery.

Mrs. Schlagel, living on the Cameron place southwest of town, was driving to town Friday when she met a team with a double carriage; her horses became frightened and ran about a mile and one half, resulting in a broken buggy and Mrs. Schlagel being hurt in the face by a kick from a horse. Julius Bettin came along and assisted her with the team into town.

Last week we commenced the publication of the announcement of W. H. Gowdy as a candidate for the office of county treasurer. Mr. Gowdy is a stanch republican, a man that stands well at home, is the present postmaster of Corwith; a man well qualified for the position, a good christian, and if elected, would look after the financies of the county with care and economy.

The dismissal of a British prison official for giving biscuits to a hungry child should be considered by the British nation before it starts its royal jubilee.

Scientists who do not want to go after the Pole can try to get to the summit of Mt. St. Elias, Alaska, nobody having yet been able to get up there. There is always a chance for the earnest man of science.

"Peace hath her victories." A special agent of the Department of Agriculture has left Washington for the Argentine Republic, where he is to plan a campaign against the locusts. No doubt this war seems to the agriculturists of our sister republic a far more vital matter than the struggle in Greece. A grasshopper in hand may appear more formidable than two Turks in the bush.

It will be sad for some of our ambitious heiresses if Labouchere's mischievous scheme to do away with titles should be adopted. He proposes that every child that is baptized be endowed by its parents and sponsors with the name of "duke," "marquis," "earl," "viscount," "lord," or even "sir," preceding the other Christian name. With titles in every family, they should become too common even for foolish Americans to buy.

Much has been said in the papers the past few years concerning the preservation of old letters. The indiscretion of editors in laying bare private matters has instigated many a man and woman to burn manuscript accumulations of untold value. It is wise to destroy immediately letters which contain unpleasant personalities, and not to save beyond the time of answering those void of especial interest or importance. It is also discreet to consider what literature, history and biography would have lost if the friends of Charles Lamb, Oliver Cromwell, Madame De Sevigne and a host of other men and women had indulged in the present crusade against the preservation of certain letters.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania has raised a new issue at Washington. He has refused to tip the waiters employed in the hotel where he boards, and everybody at the national capital is aghast at this new declaration of independence. The waiters were not quick to draw the lines. They waited weeks after the senator's appearance before they adopted extreme measures. Then, after there was no longer room to doubt that the Pennsylvanian would not "tip," they resolved to punish him. Accordingly at dinner one day last week four waiters in succession refused to serve the senator. A fifth was finally ordered to serve him, and obeyed, but resigned immediately afterward, and the white aproned brotherhood, making common cause with him, resigned that night.

The power which public opinion now exerts occupied an incidental paragraph in a recent speech by Lord Salisbury. Certainly two classes of deluded persons are those who care nothing for what people think and those who are entirely swayed by what people think. A man who refuses to wear a dress coat on occasions where dress coats are in order provokes needless criticism and wastes in a puny war energy that might be better employed; whereas a man who, unable to procure conventional evening attire, should absent himself on that account from a gathering where he would be welcome in afternoon dress, errs in the opposite direction. Public opinion is so powerful an element in life that it behooves the individuals of society to see to it that they contribute only sane and sound conclusions to the general resultant.

The newspaper that hesitates to publish an account of the occurrence or discovery of a secret marriage is a rarity, yet aside from actual crime few events are the cause of so much regret and misery. The young man who moved by romantic ideas or by any other motive, urges a young woman to agree to a clandestine marriage usually proves by that very act weakness and rashness of character; while statistics assert that the majority of such marriages result in divorce. The papers have recently given with a fullness of detail which has brought shame to a large circle of innocent relatives, the revelation of a secret marriage, six months before, of two college students, the subsequent discovery of which, with its attendant shock, notoriety and wounded pride, was the direct cause of death to a devoted parent. How impossible, on such a foundation of memory, to build any happy, sacred family life.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

SUES FOR $100,000.

American Book Company After President Gates of Iowa College.

DES MOINES, June 11.—The American Book company, though its local attorney, N. T. Guernsey, filed a petition in the federal court against President George A. Gates, of Iowa college, Grinnell, asking $100,000 damages for malicious libel. The action grows out of the pamphlet issued in March from the pen of President Gates entitled "A Foe to the Public Schools." It consisted of a severe attack on the American Book company, charging it with corrupting school boards and legislative bodies, intimidation of teachers, bribery and other crimes.

IN A RAIN BARREL.

John Sunday Commits Suicide in a Novel Manner.

OELWEIN, June 12.—John Sunday, about 70 years old, was found dead in a rain water barrel, having arisen some time during the night and deliberately committed suicide by putting himself headfirst in the barrel up to his waist. He was an old resident of Fayette county. Poor health and the illness of his wife are supposed to have led to temporary insanity. His aged wife was confined in her bed by illness and there was no one in the house then, and, though she heard him, she was unable to help him or give an alarm.

COURT HAD NO JURISDICTION.

Judge Shiras Makes an Important Ruling in the Waite Case.

FORT DODGE, June 11.—Judge Shiras decided in the United States court that an agent of the government, acting within the scope of his authority, is not within the jurisdiction of state courts. The decision was made in the case of the state of Iowa vs. ex-Pension Commissioner Waite, who was tried in the state court and convicted on the charge of intimidating witnesses to secure evidence which convicted and landed Van Leuven in the penitentiary. Waite was discharged.

MAY MAKE IT PERMANENT.

Bold Plan of Iowa's Leading Newspaper.

DES MOINES, June 14.—Since it became a one-cent paper in 1895, the Des Moines Daily News has increased its circulation from 4,000 to 15,000. It is now offered for $1 a year and its general manager, John J. Hamilton, announces that as soon as a circulation of 20,000 is attained, this amazingly low rate will be made permanent. The Daily News already has double the circulation of any other daily in Iowa.

BRIDE-TO-BE DISAPPEARED.

Davenport Man Disappointed—Iowa Girl Missing.

LYONS, June 14.—Miss Bertna Knaack, aged 22, a niece of Captain Knaack, of the Clinton-Davenport steamer Vern Swaine, mysteriously disappeared at or near Princeton, Iowa. Her wraps, hat and valise were found on the boat. She was to have been married to a prominent Davenport man on June 23. No trace of her can be found.

A. C. Payne Pays the Bill.

MT. AYR, June 12.—The last act in Iowa's most famous breach of promise case was enacted when A. C. Payne paid the $556 costs in the case of Rhoda A. Geiger vs. Payne. The total cost to the defendant, exclusive of lawyers' fees, has been $18,553.36. The verdict was for $16,000. During the time it has taken for argument for a new trial, appeal to the supreme court, and argument for a new trial in the latter court, the interest on the judgment has grown to nearly $2,000.

Crazy About the Girls.

BURLINGTON, June 11.—Frank Collen, a long time resident of West Burlington was sent to the insane asylum at Mt. Pleasant. His mania was for horses and to be married. He went about the county buying horses and buggies and not paying for them. He proposed marriage to a number of young ladies and got the fair sex of West Burlington badly wrought up by his actions.

Child Crushed to Death.

DAVENPORT, June 12.—Little Charles Sibel, the 7-year-old son of Mrs. Josephine Sibel, who resides at Fifth and Rock Island streets, was caught in the endless chain which conveys refuse wood and bark from the Weyerhauser & Denkmann mills to the wagons on the outside, and killed, being carried by the chain around the big sprockets and rollers.

Failed Bank Pays in Full.

ATLANTIC, June 12.—Receiver Bruff, of the Bank of Atlantic, has made his first report, showing a total of $66,852.05 received from real estate sales and collateral paper, and disbursements of about $60,000 on preferred claims, etc. The probabilities are that the claims of the creditors of the Whitneys and the Bank of Atlantic will be paid in full.

MANUFACTURERS ALERT.

Will Make a Display of Des Moines Products at Omaha.

DES MOINES, June 11.—The Des Moines Manufacturers' association has commenced already to plan an exhibit at the Trans-Mississippi exposition to be held at Omaha next year. The plan is to secure a considerable floor space in one of the buildings, and to make a general exhibit of all articles manufactured in Des Moines and to have the association bear the expense, the money to carry on the exhibit to be raised by an assessment on all members. Every manufacturer in the city will be asked to turn into the exhibit samples of the articles manufactured by him or by his company. These will all be displayed together as representative of the varied industries of Des Moines. It is intended to have accompany the exhibit several persons who will take particular pains to explain the merits of the articles without discriminating against them and to pass out to visitors at the exposition copies of an illustrated pamphlet it is proposed to get up describing the natural advantages of Des Moines, the extent of the fuel and clay deposits, the cheapness of coal, the trade territory tributary to the city, the railroad facilities and every other advantage possessed by the city.

MIDLAND CHAUTAUQUA.

Its List of Attractions Will Surpass All Previous Efforts.

DES MOINES, June 12.—The daily programme for the Chautauqua assembly, July 5 to 22, has been completed and furnishes the best possible testimonial of the high class of attractions that have been secured, and that will make this assembly one of the strongest in the country. The Midland Chautauqua is conceded to be a permanent institution. A new park has been opened, new buildings have been erected and a list of attractions has been booked which will easily surpass any ever offered at an assembly in Iowa. A big auditorium has been built in which about 4,000 people can be comfortably seated and 1,000 more can see and hear. The new auditorium, the strong programme and the natural beauty of the grounds guarantee a large attendance, not only from Des Moines, but from the surrounding towns. It is already known that there will be a large number of campers.

NOT GUILTY.

Verdict in the Case of Against the Soldiers' Home Commissioners.

DES MOINES, June 13.—In the trial of the case against the commissioners of the Iowa Soldiers Home before the federal court on the charge of violating the law in retaining the pensions of the inmates, the attorney general moved to dismiss the case as the evidence did not prove any violation of the federal law on the part of the officers and commissioners of the home. The motion was considered and the case dismissed.

A Bellevue Horror.

BELLEVUE, June 13.—About 11 o'clock p. m. the home of Mr. Holman was burned to the ground along with the barn, smoke house and all his buildings. His 11-year-old son, who slept in the southwest corner of the building, upon awakening went to his sister's room across the hall and was overcome with the smoke and went down into the ruins with the floor. Later his body was taken from the ashes. Only a small part of the trunk remained, and that part could not be recognized as a human body but for the skull.

LeMars Shoe Factory Burned.

LEMARS, June 14.—The LeMars shoe factory burned at 12:30 a. m. The loss is $50,000, the insurance is $30,000.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Sioux City dispatch: Although the officials of the American Express Company are keeping their own counsel, it is believed the corporation is thousands of dollars poorer than when George M. Adams, who was the local cashier, started "fishing" on the 30th, failing to return. At first a shortage of only about $100 was found in his accounts. Later a number of packages of several hundred dollars each were found to be missing. Now there is authority for there statement that a $2,000 package of currency has not reached the consignees. It is believed there will be other packages of even greater amount which will not be found. Pinkerton detectives, aided by the police and officers of the company, are working on the case night and day.

Jesse K. Hamilton, convicted recently at Ottumwa in twenty minutes by a jury, for complicity in the Eldon bank robbery, was sentenced to the penitentiary for eighteen months. There was a sensation when the judge asked him if he had anything to say. He scored the Pinkertons, the court, and said that if he could be convicted on the evidence introduced against him, any man in the court room could be convicted of any crime. The judge admitted to him that there was grave doubts as to his guilt in the mind of the court, but that the jury had said he was guilty, and that he would not go back on that. Nearly every one who heard the evidence believes the man innocent.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 10.—The British, Russian and Italian ambassadors are sending representatives to Thessaly with instructions to report upon the situation there.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 11.—The Turks are very angry at the alleged brusque declaration of Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, that England will never permit Christians to return to Turkish rule. It is also stated that the German ambassador is very much disconcerted to find Count Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, supporting Sir Philip Currie in this respect, and though it is still alleged that Germany is advising Turkey to put every man under arms, it is believed she has seen the advisability of falling into line with the other powers. Advices from Athens show that the gravity of affairs is fully recognized there. M. Skouloudis, the Greek foreign minister, said: "I do not hesitate to say that the present is a most critical moment for our existence as a nation." It is said that Turks have burned all the villages around Domokos, and have occupied and are strongly fortifying the villages of Hrikeri and Angistri, as well as defending the entrance to the harbor of Volo. The government of Greece has protested to the powers against the continued massing of Turkish troops in Thessaly and the hindrance placed by Turkey to navigation in the gulf of Embacia as violations of the armistice.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 13.—The foreign diplomats engaged in the negotiations for peace between Turkey and Greece have decided that the question of the amount of indemnity to be paid to Turkey by Greece shall be adjudged by a commission of experts.

TURKEY BREAKS ARMISTICE.

Mobilizes Troops, Fortifies Volo and Her Fleet Leaves Constantinople.

LONDON, June 14.—A special dispatch from Athens to the Exchange Telegraph reports that the armistice between Greece and Turkey has been broken by the Turks mobilizing reinforcements, fortifying Volo and Prevesa, and sending troops to various islands. The dispatch reports also that the Turkish fleet passed out through the Dardanelles at 10 o'clock p. m.

NATIVES UP IN ARMS.

British Troops Defeated by Rebellious Natives in Northern India.

BOMBAY, June 12.—A dispatch from Simila, the residence of the English government officials during the heated period of the year, announces serious trouble on the northern frontier and the massacre of a number of British officers and native soldiers in the government employ. From particulars obtained at present it seems that two guns belonging to the Bombay mounted battery, escorted by 300 men belonging to the First regiment of Shikas and the First Punjab regiment, were treacherously attacked in Tochi valley by a large force of hostile natives. The first report said Colonel Bunny, two officers and twenty-five privates were killed and three officers and twenty-five privates wounded, in addition to a number of horses and mules killed. Indications are that the affair is more than a mere conflict with warlike natives and that the notorious Mullah of Powindah is at the bottom of the trouble.

CANOVAS THREATENS WAR.

Says Spain Can Protect Herself from America.

MADRID, June 14.—Premier Canovas in an interview is quoted as saying that the alleged demands of the United States in the case of Dr. Ruiz must be exaggerated. The premier added, however, that if the widow demanded indemnity and the claim should be justified, Spain would see that justice was done. Canovas further said: "I don't believe McKinley has any unfriendly intentions against Spain, but if the United States departs from a friendly attitude, Spain will be able to defend her rights."

Pooling is Dead.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Railroad pooling is practically a dead issue at this session of congress. After a meeting of the senate inter-state commerce committee it was admitted by several senators on the committee that no pooling bill would be reported, notwithstanding the fact that one has been prepared and has been before the committee for four weeks.

Daughter Born to the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 11.—The czarina has been delivered of a daughter at the Peterhoff. The first child of their majesties was born November 3, 1895, and is also a daughter, the Grand Duchess Olga.

Nine Killed in a Wreck.

LONDON, June 14.—An excursion train was derailed near Welshampton. Nine persons were killed and twenty-five wounded.

A FIERCE BATTLE.

Brazilian Troops Defeat the Rebels, Who Lose 1,500 Men.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Herald's Rio Janeiro correspondent telegraphs that the federal troops defeated Conselheiro's main body of fanatics, numbering 9,000 men, in a hard fought and decisive battle. Gen. Oscar, who was at the head of the Brazilian colums, believes the movement is now crushed. The rebels have lost in killed and wounded 1,500 men, many being their chiefs. Conselheiro himself led the forces but retired when he saw that defeat was certain. The Brazilians lost many men, including several officers.

ENORMOUS BANK FAILURE.

More Than $1,000,000 Liabilities—Factories Suspend.

ST. PIERRE, Martinique, June 13.—Intense excitement prevails here in commercial circles, owing to the failure of the house of C. Aries & Co., which suspended payment with liabilities amounting to $1,000,000. There are large assets, but they are unavailable at present. The failure carries in its train the stoppage of six or seven sugar factories which have been supplied with funds by this firm through the sugar making season, and will throw several thousand persons out of employment.

TORNADO IN MINNESOTA.

One Man Killed and About a Score Injured.

LYLE, Minn., June 11.—A tornado which originated near the Iowa line passed northeast, sweeping everything before it in a track fully a half mile wide. Orchards, barns, telegraph poles, and a few houses were badly damaged. One farmer, Henry Hanson, was killed, and probably a score were injured. The damage was all in the country, and it will probably amount to $50,000 or $75,000.

Lono Quits in Disgust.

HAVANA, June 11.—Another of Weyler's generals, Lono, inspector general of the civil guard forces in Cuba and military governor of Havana, has resigned in disgust and expects to leave the island by the Trans-Atlantic liner June 30 for Spain direct. Lono regards Weyler's early recall as quite assurred and thinks Blanco or Lopez Dominguez will come out as his successor.

Signed by Tanner.

SPRINGFIELD, June 10.—Governor Tanner has signed the famous Allen street railway bill. The bill authorizes fifty years extension of existing street railway franchises, allows 5-cent fares to continue, permits the consolidation of companies and makes no provision for compensation to municipalities.

Ten Miners Killed by Falling.

LONDON, June 13.—In consequence of overwinding, a terrible accident has occurred in the Gaith colliery at Maesteg, Glamorganshire, Wales. The cage was precipitated to the bottom of a shaft 360 feet deep. Ten men were killed.

Interstate Commission Gives Up.

CHICAGO, June 13.—At the end of a seven days' investigation of the alleged cutting of grain rates the interstate commerce commission practically acknowleged its failure to secure evidence and adjourned to a date not fixed.

BREVITIES.

Snow fell at Orange City, N. J., on the 7th, but the flakes melted as they struck the ground. The squall attracted general attention, as few residents had ever seen snow in June.

In the United States court at Jacksonville, Fla., Judge Lock handed down a decision in the case of the steamer Three Friends, charged with violating the neutrality laws by carrying a filibustering expedition to Cuba and also as an armed vessel, dismissing the libel for forfeiture. Three other cases are pending against the vessel but they are likely to be dismissed, as the evidence is much the same as in the present case.

Madrid dispatch: At a cabinet council held at his residence Senor Canovas, the premier, announced that the queen regent had renewed his powers and those of the cabinet, in terms most flattering to him and all his colleagues. It is understood that the government does not contemplate any immediate change in the supreme command in Cuba. The surprise and displeasure of the various sections of the opposition are not easy to describe.

Thirty-two states were represented at the first meeting of the provisional committee of the national silver republican party which met in executive session at the Leland hotel, in Chicago recently. Besides the committeemen of the various states represented, over 100 silver republicans were present from all parts of the country. A national executive committee of seven was appointed to have general control of the conduct of the party. Resolutions were adopted favoring "the immediate establishment of bimetallism by independent action of the United States through the free coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1."

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XVIII.—(CONTINUED.)

"Well, well, I will say no more," he replied. "Though, to be sure, if you had consented to indue—A propos," he broke off, "and my trousers! They are lying in the snow—my favorite trousers?" And he dashed in quest of Jean-Marie.

Two hours afterward the boy returned to the inn with a spade under one arm and a curious sop of clothing under the other.

The Doctor ruefully took it in his hands. "They have been!" he said. "Their tense is past. Excellent pantaloons, you are no more! Stay! something in the pocket," and he produced a piece of paper. "A letter! ay, now I bind me; it was received on the morning of the gale, when I was absorbed in delicate investigations. It is still legible. From poor, dear Casimir! It is as well," he chuckled, "that I have educated him to patience. Poor Casimir and his correspondence—his infinitesimal, timorous, idiotic correspondence.

He had by this time cautionsly unfolded the wet letter; but, as he bent himself to decipher the writing, a cloud descended on his brow.

"Bigre!" he cried, with a galvanic start.

And then the letter was whipped into the fire, and the Doctor's cap was on his head in the turn of a hand.

"Ten minutes! I can catch it, if I run," he cried. "It is always late. I go to Paris. I shall telegraph."

"Henri! what is wrong?" cried his wife.

"Ottoman Bonds?" came from the disappearing Doctor; and Anastasie and Jean-Marie were left face to face with the wet trousers. Desprez had gone to Paris, for the second time in seven years; he had gone to Paris with a pair of wooden shoes, a knitted spencer, a black blouse, a country nightcap and twenty francs in his pocket. The fall of the house was but a secondary marvel; the whole world might have fallen and scarce left his family more petrified.

CHAPTER XIX.

IN the morning of the next day, the Doctor, a mere specter of himself, was brought back in the custody of Cassimir. They found Anastasie and the boy sitting together by the fire, and Desprez, who had exchanged his toilette for a ready-made rig out of poor materials, waved his hand as he entered, and sank speechless on the nearest chair. Madame turned direct to Casimir.

"What is wrong?" she cried.

"Well," replied Casimir, "what have I told you all along? It has come. It is a clean shave, this time; so you may as well bear up and make the best of it. House down, too, eh? Bad luck, upon my soul."

"Are we—are we—ruined?" she gasped.

The Doctor stretched out his arms to her. "Ruined," he replied, "you are ruined by your sinister husband."

Casimir observed the consequent embrace through his eyeglass; then he turned to Jean-Marie. "You hear?" he said. "They are ruined; no more pickings, no more house, no more fat cutlets. It strikes me, my friend, that you had best be packing; the present speculation is about worked out."

"Never!" cried Desprez, springing up. "Jean-Marie, if you prefer to leave me, now that I am poor, you can go; you shall receive your hundred francs, if so much remains to me. But if you will consent to stay"—the Doctor wept a little—"Casimir offers me a place—as clerk," he resumed. "The emoluments are slender, but they will be enough for three. It is too much already to have lost my fortune; must I lose my son?"

Jean-Marie sobbed bitterly, but without a word.

"I don't like boys who cry," observed Casimir. "This one is always crying. Here! you clear out of this for a little; I have business with your master and mistress, and these domestic feelings may be settled after I am gone. March!" and he held the door open.

Jean-Marie slunk out, like a detected thief.

By twelve they were all at table, but Jean-Marie.

"Hey!" said Casimir. "Gone, you see. Took the hint at once."

"I do not, I confess," said Desprez, "I do not seek to excuse his absence. It speaks a want of heart that disappoints me sorely."

"Want of manners," corrected Casimir. "Heart, he never had. Why, Desprez, for a clever fellow, you are the most gullible mortal in creation. Your ignorance of human nature and human business is beyond belief. You are swindled by heathen Turks, swindled by vagabond children, swindled right and left, upstairs and downstairs. I think it must be your imagination. I thank my stars I have none."

"Pardon me," replied Desprez still humbly, but with a return of spirit at sight of a distinction to be drawn; "pardon me, Casimir. You possess, even to an eminent degree, the commercial imagination. It was the lack of that in me—it appears it is my weak point—that has led to these repeated shocks. By the commercial imagination the financier forecasts the destiny of his investments, marks the falling house——"

"Egad," interrupted Casimir; "our friend the stable-boy appears to have his share of it."

The Doctor was silenced; and the meal was continued and finished principally to the tune of the brother-in-law's not very consolatory conversation. He entirely ignored the two young English painters, turning a blind eyeglass to their salutations, and continuing his remarks as if he were alone in the bosom of his family; and with every second word he ripped another stitch out of the air balloon of Desprez's vanity. By the time coffee was over the poor Doctor was as limp as a napkin.

"Let us go and see the ruins," said Casimir.

They strolled forth into the street. The fall of the house, like the loss of a front tooth, had quite transformed the village. Through the gap the eye commanded a great stretch of open snowy country, and the place shrank in comparison. It was like a room with an open door. The sentinel stood by the green gate, looking very red and cold, but he had a pleasant word for the Doctor and his wealthy kinsman.

Casimir looked at the mound of ruins, he tried the quality of the tarpaulin. "H'm," he said, "I hope the cellar arch has stood. If it has, my good brother, I will give you a good price for the wines."

"We shall start digging to-morrow," said the sentry. "There is no more fear of snow."

"My friend," returned Casimir sententiously, "you had better wait till you get paid."

The Doctor winced, and began dragging his offensive brother-in-law toward Tentaillon's. In the house there would be fewer auditors, and these already in the secret of his fall.

"Hullo," cried Casimir, "there goes the stable-boy with his luggage; no, egad, he is taking it into the inn."

And sure enough, Jean-Marie was seen to cross the snowy street and enter Tentaillon's, staggering under a large hamper.

The Doctor stopped with a sudden, wild hope.

"What can he have?" he said. "Let us go and see." And he hurried on.

"His luggage, to be sure," answered Casimir. "He is on the move—thanks to the commercial imagination."

"I have not seen that hamper for—for ever so long," remarked the Doctor.

"Nor will you see it much longer," chuckled Casimir, "unless, indeed we interfere. And by the way, I insist on an examination."

"You will not require," said Desprez, positively with a sob; and, casting a moist, triumphant glance at Casimir, he began to run.

"What the devil is up with him, I wonder?" Casimir reflected; and then, curiosity taking the upper hand, he followed the Doctor's example and took to his heels.

The hamper was so heavy and large, and Jean-Marie himself so little and so weary, that it had taken him a great while to bundle it upstairs to the Desprez's private room; and he had just set it down on the floor in front of Anastasie, when the Doctor arrived, and was closely followed by the man of business. Boy and hamper were both in a most sorry plight; for the one had passed four months underground in a certain cave on the way to Acheres, and the other had run about five miles, as hard as his legs would carry him, half that distance under a staggering weight.

"Jean-Marie," cried the Doctor, in a voice that was only too seraphic to be called hysterical, "is it—? It is!" he cried. "Oh, my son, my son!" And he sat down upon the hamper and sobbed like a little child.

"You will not go to Paris, now," said Jean-Marie sheepishly.

"Casimir," said Desprez, raising his wet face, "do you see that boy, that angel boy? He is the thief; he took the treasure from a man unfit to be entrusted with its use; he brings it back to me when I am sobered and humbled. These, Casimir, are the Fruits of my Teaching, and this moment is the Reward of my Life."

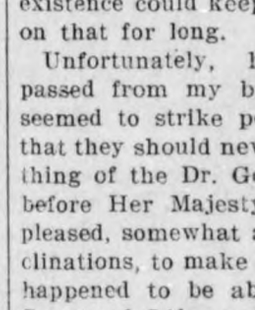
"'Tis well," said Casimir.

(The End.)

My Fellow Laborer.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

CHAPTER I.



SINCE my name has become so widely known in the world, and my discovery the subject of conversation wherever civilized men do congregate, I have, through the agency of one of the establishments that have recently sprung up, and which for a moderate fee distribute to individuals such cuttings from newspapers as may concern them, been made acquainted with a considerable amount of gossip more or less truthfully connected with my private affairs. This nuisance began to come upon me shortly after the publication some years since of my work, "The Secret of Life." The reader will remember, if this short history of facts is ever made public in years to come, that the appearance of this book created a great sensation, even in what is called English society.

Everybody appeared to have read "The Secret of Life," or pretended to have read it, and it was no uncommon thing to meet ladies who evidently knew far more about the whole matter than I did after many years' study. But it—society I mean— seems soon to have tired of the scientific aspect of the question, not even the interest attaching to the origin and cause of existence could keep its attention fixed on that for long.

Unfortunately, however, curiosity passed from my book to myself. It seemed to strike people as wonderful that they should never have heard anything of the Dr. Gosden (for this was before Her Majesty was graciously pleased, somewhat against my own inclinations, to make me a baronet), who happened to be able to discover the Secret of Life, and accordingly they, or rather some of the society papers, set themselves to supply the want. Thus it was that a good deal of rather ill-natured talk got about as to what had been the exact relationship between myself and my fellow-laborer, Miss Denelly. I say ill-natured advisedly, for there was nothing more than that; but still, at the best, it was, and indeed is calculated to give pain to myself and to the lady concerned, whose conduct throughout has been morally blameless, and such as I can conscientiously say on the whole commends itself to my reason however much it may jar upon my prejudices.

And now with this short apology to myself for setting down on paper a passage in my private history, I will tell the story, such as it is. I say "to myself," for probably it will never be made public, and if it is, it will be in accordance with the judgment of my executors after my death, so I shall have nothing to do with it.

I am now a middle-aged man, and have been a doctor for many years. While I was still walking the hospitals, my mother died and left me all her property, which amounted to four hundred a year, and on this slight encouragement, having quiet and domestic tastes, I went the way that young men generally do go when circumstances permit of it, and instantly got married. My wife, who possessed some small means, was a lady of my own age; and, owing to circumstances which I need not enter into here, had a cousin dependent upon her, a girl of about thirteen. That girl was Fanny Denelly, and my wife made it a condition of our marriage, to which I readily consented, that she should live with us.

I shall never forget the impression that the young lady made upon me when she came to join us in our little house at Fulham, after we went there to settle at the end of our honey-moon. As it happened, I had only seen her once or twice before, and then in the most casual way, or in the dusk, so this was the first opportunity I had of studying her. She was only a young girl between fourteen and fifteen, I think, but still there was something striking about her. Her hair, which was black and lustrous, was braided back from a most ample forehead. The eyes were large and dark, not sleepy like most dark eyes, but intelligent and almost stern in their expression. The rest of the face was well cut but massive, and rather masculine in appearance, and even at that age the girl gave promise of great beauty of form to which she afterward attained.

DYNAMITED A TRAIN.

Cuban Insurgents Wreck a Train and Kill Many Occupants.

HAVANA, June 11.—The passenger train from Havana for Matanzas was dynamited twelve miles from the city by a party of insurgents for plunder, as about $6,000 was in the express car. Both engineers, one fireman, one conductor and seven soldiers were killed and three passengers were severely injured, while thirty-two were more or less seriously bruised. Simultaneously with the explosion, the insurgents opened fire on the train, seriously wounding a captain. The two trains were dynamited with electric machines and bombs placed on a culvert at the curve. The body of an insurgent was found near the wire communicating with the bombs. It is supposed that he was killed by the shock. The military escort of the train quickly recovered and opened fire upon the insurgents, who had advanced toward the cars, and drove them off.

MAKES A BID FOR WAR.

Uruguay Lands Troops in Argentina and Sinks a Vessel Flying Her Flag.

BUENOS AYRES, June 12.—The government of Argentina has been officially informed that the gunboat Suarez, of the Uruguayan navy, landed a force of Uruguayan troops on the Argentine coast. After the troops had been landed the Suarez sunk a vessel flying the flag of Argentina. Immediately upon receipt of this information an Argentine gunboat was ordered to proceed to the point where the troops were landed and capture the Suarez, if there, and if not to pursue and take the vessel at all hazards if she was still in Argentine waters.

Fight Standard Oil.

TOPEKA, Kansas, June 13.—Governor Leedy says the new corporation organized by George M. Pullman, Nelson Morris and P. D. Armour, of Chicago, to contest with the Standard Oil company in the oil fields of southeastern Kansas, is ready for business and has already secured leases on 6,000 acres of the best oil lands in Wilson county. The Chicago men, he says, are making preparations to inaugurate an oil war against the Standard Oil company which will be the most stubbornly prosecuted of any known to the commercial world in recent years.

No Sugar Investigation.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The members of the committee on contingent expenses of the senate decide to report adversely Tillman's resolution for an investigation of alleged speculation in sugar. It is not known when the report will be made to the senate. The report, it is understood, will go fully into the merits of the question, showing that such investigations as that proposed are barren of results.

Non-Partisan Tariff Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The tariff commission league has opened headquarters in this city. Samuel B. Archer, secretary and treasurer of the league, will be in charge. The object of the association is to secure the passage of a bill for the appointment of a tariff commission whose duties will be to suggest to congress changes in rates of duty, and thus take the tariff question out of politics.

After Republican Teachers.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 13.—After a wrangle lasting over three hours the house of the legislature adopted a resolution to have a committee appointed to investigate the charge that there were northern professors occupying chairs in the Texas State University who were teaching republican politics and ridiculing the history of the "lost cause."

A Gun for Pitcher.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 12.—Prof. Hinton's patent base ball pitching gun was a decided success. Eight strikeouts, one base on balls, a wild pitch and four safe hits is the record in three innings. Nines representing the Ivy club and Tiger Inn, two of Princeton's social clubs, played a match game, using the gun to pitch for both.

Durrant Gets a Reprieve.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—The governor has decided to reprieve Durrant until July, pending a settlement whether the federal courts have a right to interfere in the execution of sentences imposed by state courts. The object of the reprieve is to avoid the necessity of re-sentencing the condemned man.

Anti-Christian Riots in China.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 11.—Anti-Christian riots have taken place in Liu Ching, China. A mob of fanatics, loudly proclaiming that Roman Catholics had kidnapped their children, rushed simultaneously on the mission building. Three Christians were killed outright, eight wounded and four captured.

M. D. O'Connell is Nominated.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The president has nominated Maurice D. O'Connell, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, to be solicitor of the treasury.

A Stout Backbone.

Is as essential to political health as to political consistency. For weakness of the back, rheumatism, and disorders of the kidneys, the tonic and dietetic action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the one thing needful. The stomach is the mainstay of every other organ, and by invigorating the digestion with this preparation, the spinal column, and all its dependencies are sympathetically strengthened. The dyspeptic and bilious will find it a pure vegetable stimulant and tonic.

What, Indeed?

"What, you married? You, who said you would never be any man's slave?"

"Well, what's that got to do with my getting married?"

Queer Fatal Accident.

Last Thursday evening at 7 o'clock occurred a terrible accident in Rolfe. Willie L. Fouch, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Fouch, was strangled to death on a clothesline in the back yard at his home, on Elm street at the Rock Island crossing.

Shortly before 7 o'clock Willie went out into the yard to play, and about ten minutes later his little sister Ellen, aged 5 years, ran into the house crying:

"Mama, Willie is caught and can't get down!"

Mrs Fouch hastened back with the little girl and found her son hanging in a loop in the line. She ran to the house for a knife and cut the boy down, screaming for help. The two traveling photographers who have been here some time and Mrs. Kelts responded and started to carry the body to the house, but Mrs. Kelts gave out and Mrs. F. G. Thorton assisted in getting the body into the house.

Physicians were sent for and Drs. Ames, Leithead and Beam were soon on the ground. They did everything possible to resuscitate the unfortunate lad. but life was extinct and their efforts were of no avail to bring back the life current.

The accident is a very strange one. Entending from the coal-house in the back yard to a post is a wire clothesline and suspended from this, close to the coal-house, was a rope about three feet long, the ends attched to the line about eighteen inches apart forming a loop. The day before Willie had been performing on this, using it as a sort of a trapeze and it is thought that this evening he must have slipped and fallen, the cord coming across his throat, this stunning him so that he was unable to help simself and strangled to death. The clothesline was so low he could easily have reached it standing on the ground and the loop must have hung nearly to his waist when he stood erect.

Mrs Fouch is completely prostrated, and her daughter Verdie is still unconscious from the shock as we go to press.

Willie L. Fouch was born at Maning, Carroll county, Iowa April 9, 1880, and was therefore a little over 14 years of age.

HOG CHOLERA.
From Wallaces' Farmer.

We are sorry to learn that hog cholera is putting in its appearance in some portions of the state. This is what might be expected. It is too much to expect that the germs with which the state was so fully stocked last fall should all be destroyed by one winter's freezing or washed away by the spring rains. We do not anticipate anything like as extensive a spread of disease as last year for the reason that the stock of hogs is much lighter to begin with and that a large number of the hogs have already passed through the cholera and are immune and the capacity of resistance of the disease in their pigs may be expected to be much greater. Wherever it does appear we advise at once the shutting off of corn feed and allow the hogs to take their chances in pastures, seeing that they have good shade and plenty of water, The hog that has the cholera must be treated much as we would with typhoid fever patients. Give little or nothing in the shape of feed and let that little be easily digestible and cooling in its nature. Make the hog as comfortable as possible and take the chances. Governor Drake advises us that he has selected Page county as the county in which to try the stamping out process. Should cholera make its appearance in that county the Department should be advised so that the work way be begun. The Department has no more important work on hand than that.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, '94, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave and now I consider that I am entirely cured. CAPTURE DON PEDRO.

WHEN we went west in search of gold, we stopped at Golden Gulch and staked out our claim. In a month's time we got things to running all right, and were congratulating ourselves that the west was not so "wild and woolly" as it is represented, when something happened that threw the camp into great excitement.

One night, Mr. Rogers, whose claim was next to ours, had a fine horse stolen from him. Confusion reigned! A thief in camp! Who could it be? Everybody was above suspicion, of course. Horse-stealing in the west is punished by death, but no trace of the thief could be found.

And so, a week passed. Then, one morning there arrived in camp a man dressed in a rich Mexican suit, with his sombrero pulled over his eyes and a gaudy silk handkerchief tied around his neck almost concealing his face. We could only see that he had small eyes and a black mustache. He was of slight build and not tall.

He "put up" at Jerry Griffin's "hotel," which was also postoffice, rumshop and general house-furnishing store at the Gulch, and gave his name as Don Pedro Gomalez. The miners looked with suspicion on this man from the first, and when, two nights later, Jack Allen was robbed of a bag of "dust," and Don Pedro "turned up missing," they were quick to denounce him as the thief.

Allen and Williams at once organized a posse of men to search the mountains for the Mexican. Father was one of the party. In vain I asked him to let me go. No, it was out of the question—I was too young, and as they might be gone all day I must stay at home and watch the claim. Mother had gone to Westend, the nearest town, with a neighbor's wife, the day before, so I would be alone in the cabin.

Jack Allen found what he said was a trail up the mountain, so the procession started after the thief. I was in a very bad humor when I thought what a bore it would be to stay on the claim all alone all day. I longed to have a chance to carry the new rifle that father had given me, with all a boy's eagerness to "shoot something."

The day passed slowly and I was glad when darkness came and the moon rose from behind a distant clump of bowlders. I went to the window and looked out. How still everything was! How bright the moonlight gleamed on the rocks! I began to wonder whether the men had captured Don Pedro, and how long they would be gone.

Suddenly a happy thought struck me—"I'll play cowboy all to myself!" I muttered, and running up the ladder to the loft I opened my trunk and took from it the buckskin suit that I wore to the masquerade last winter, and put it on. In my belt I stuck two rusty revolvers that I found on the floor, and then descended to the room below. I put on my father's big felt hat, stuck the biggest carving knife in my belt with the pistols, grabbed my rifle and began to parade up and down the room.

"THROW UP YOUR HANDS!"

When I had kept this up for a little while, I happened to look at the door and there I beheld a man who was watching me with a smile on his face. I gave a start, in which joy and terror were equally combined, for the man was of slight build and had black eyes and a black mustache! I was sure that it was Don Pedro, although I determined the ordinary citizens were to capture him. mined the my rifle at the man's head, I cried:

"Throw up your hands, stranger! Don't move, on your life!"

"Eh!" said my Don Pedro. "Why I ——"

"Hold 'em up!" I repeated savagely, and my visitor obeyed me.

"Now walk in!" I said, still keeping him covered. "And sit down on that stool!"

"With pleasure," said my captive; "but, my dear young man, are you not making a mistake? My name is Don—"

"Ah!" I cried triumphantly. "You admit it, although you are very cool about it—and I admire you for it. We western men like true grit!"

I am almost sure my captive chuckled at this.

"But wait," I went on, delighted at the sensation I would make when the men returned; "wait till the others get here! Don Pedro, do you see that tree out there? Watch it, for there you'll swing!"

My prisoner paled.

"Look here, young fellow!" he said, still keeping his arms elevated, "you present a decidely warlike appearance in that rig, and your actions are decidedly unpleasant. Don't you think you had better let the joke drop?"

I was almost letting the rifle drop, for it was very heavy, but I answered that Golden Gulch miners did not consider horse-stealing a joke, and gently reminded him that the rifle was loaded.

My arms were beginning to ache. Suppose the boys should not come back that night, what should I do? Just then I heard the clatter of horses' hoofs on the hard rocky road. Nearer and nearer came the sounds, and then the whole party swept down the mountain and drew rein in front of the cabin.

"Father! Jack! Dick!" I shouted, "I've caught him! He's in here at the mercy of my rifle!"

"Who?" came the answer from without.

"Why, Don Pedro Gomalez, the horse-thief!" I said, as my father and Jack Allen entered the cabin; "and there he is!"

I lowered my rifle and looked at my audience with a beaming face. Father and Jack looked at each other, then at me in my warlike costume, then at my prisoner and then—they burst out laughing!

"Well, I'll be pinched!" cried Jack, between laughs and roars. "Look at the togs the kid's got on!"

"Kid!" I yelled indignantly. "Is this my reward for the terrible ordeal I have just gone through?"

I ran from the cabin in a towering rage to the rest of the party outside, and saw a man bound on a horse and guarded by Dick and Mr. Rogers.

"Get on to de kid in war clothes!" cried Dick.

"Dick!" I gasped, pointing to the man on the horse. "Is that Don Pedro Gomalez?"

"That's what he calls himself," said Dick, "although his real name is plain Jim Haddon, horse-thief and general robber. We caught him half way across the mountain on Mr. Rogers' horse. We found Jack's gold dust on him, and he confessed both crimes."

"Dick," I cried, "if that is Don Pedro who is the man I've been holding at the end of my rifle all evening?"

"First I heard of it," said Dick, and I dragged him into the cabin.

By this time my Don Pedro had explained that his name was Donald Smith and that he was sent to the Gulch by a large San Francisco mining company to inspect and, perhaps, to buy some claims. He had arrived that evening, and finding the place deserted had ventured into the first cabin he found open, to be pounced upon by me.

You may imagine my feelings! Suppose Mr. Smith should repeat some of my big western talk—the boys would never quit guying me.

But he did not give me away, for which I thank him with all my heart. He only gave me a wink and asked me if, being a backwoodsman, I had ever heard of Davy Crockett's advice? He said it was "Be sure you're right—then go ahead!" and I think it's good advice, don't you?

Several miners sold out their claims to the company that Mr. Smith represented, and father finally did the same, for which I was glad, for I have never felt comfortable after the night I captured Don Pedro.

The New Bachelor.

Slowly he disrobed, placed his bloomers on a convenient chair, did up his whiskers and prepared to retire for the night. The final duties accomplished, he bent fearfuly down and peered under the bed. Then, with a sigh of relief, he arose from his uncomfortable posture.

"Thank heaven, there is no woman there!" he murmured, as he sat on the edge of the bed and daintily scratched the back of his neck.

"Supposing there had been?" he continued, suddenly. "Would I have screamed? Would I?"

For a moment he paused.

he then exclaimed natural, I wouldn't," lassoed her and tied he, "I would have lonier! But she will never come. Never! Never!"

And throwing himself, with a moan, on the bed, the new bachelor fell into a fitful, sobbing slumber.—New York World.

Lost Control of Her Nerves.

A HELPLESS, PAINFUL CONDITION.

From the Tribune, Minneapolis, Minn.

It is said that the present generation is living in an era of nervousness. Som attribute the cause to the climate of our country; if there is an atmospheric effect it certainly is the least of the causes that produce nervousness. The great freedom enjoyed by the American people is in a large measure to blame for the high-strung condition of our nerves. There is rustle and hustle on every hand. There are excursions, picnics and long journeys. We work days and plan during the nights, and in our hurry we bolt our food, sleep with irregularity, with a seldom a thought of our nerves.

MRS. C. H. GUISE.

Mrs. C. H. Guise, of 410 Central Avenue, East Minneapolis, had the misfortune to suffer constantly from nervousness, and her trouble was aggravated by want of sleep. Night after night of sleeplessness had created a worn out condition and she sometimes would jerk and jump unconsciously.

In relating her experience to a Tribune representative, she said:

"I wish to state to you the great benefit I have derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. For many months I was afflicted with nervous debility and could get no relief, until I began using the Pink Pills, the required result came very soon, and I hope I may have the privilege of recommending them to everyone suffering as I did, for I am certain the medicine gives instant relief without any bad results.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over-work or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SUMMER CARE OF BLANKETS.

Blankets which have been used all winter, no matter how white, are never clean, and should be washed before putting away. Many housekeepers satisfy themselves by shaking and airing their blankets rather than risk spoiling them in washing. But this is a mistake, for if the work is properly done no shrinking will take place, and the fleecy soft appearance may be retained, as well the color, for years. The necessary thing in washing blankets is to have plenty of soft water and good pure soap. Inferior soap is really the cause of the damage done woolen goods in washing. It hardens the fibre and yellows the fabric. When ready to begin the work shake the blankets free of dust, fill a tub half full of hot water. Dissolve a third of a cake of Ivory Soap in it. Put one blanket in at a time. Dip up and down and wash gently with the hands. Never rub soap on blankets, or wash them on the washboard. After the blankets are clean, rinse in warm water until free of suds. Add a little blueing to the last water. Shake and squeeze; then hang on the line until dry. Take down, fold, lay under a weight for a day or two, and pack securely in a box and cover.

Blankets thus washed will retain their original freshness as well as wear three times as long as if put away soiled year after year. ELIZA R. PARKER

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, June 7.—The senate disposed of the lumber paragraph, which has been more stubbornly contested than any feature of the bill thus far, by defenting the motion of Senator Vest to place white pine on the free list, by a vote of 20 yeas to 28 nays. The contest was mainly significant in breaking party lines, which have been maintained with few exceptions during the early stages of the debate. Eight democrats voted against Vest's proposition, and one republican and two silver republicans voted for the Vest motion.

HOUSE.

The house to-day passed the senate bills to amend the act authorizing the construction of bridges across the St. Louis and Pearl rivers and then adjourned until Thursday. The democrats opposed the adjournment in the interest of the Cuban and bankruptcy questions.

SENATE.

Washington, June 8.—By the decisive vote of 42 to 19 the senate to-day adopted an amendment to the tariff bill, placing raw cotton, the great product of the south, on the dutiable list at 20 per cent ad valorem. It is the first time in the history of the tariff legislation that a duty on cotton has been incorporated in a bill. The amendment was proposed by Mr. Bacon (dem.) of Georgia on his individual responsibility and without the approval of the finance committee, which thus far has been requisite to the success of every amendment except a minor one which went through by default.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

The republican senatorial caucus to-day voted to stand together on all schedules in the tariff bill. The caucus instructed the finance committee to report the new sugar schedule which places a duty of 1.95 cents per pound on all sugar which has gone through the process of refining instead of 1.871 cents per pound as provided by the house bill.

SENATE.

Washington, June 9.—Speeches were made on the tariff bill by Rawlins of Utah, Mills of Texas, Cannon of Utah and Butler of North Carolina. Only half a page of the bill, covering four brief and comparatively unimportant paragraphs, was disposed of during the day.

SENATE

Washington, June 10.—After an address by Tillman the senate, by a vote of 10 to 59, defeated an amendment by Cannon, providing for an export duty on agricultural products. Debate on the sugar schedule occupied the remainder of the day, speeches being made by Jones of Arkansas, White, Vest, Lindsay and Caffery.

HOUSE.

The house passed two unimportant resolutions and then adjourned till Monday.

SENATE.

Washington, June 11.—The first test vote on the sugar schedule was taken in the senate to-day, resulting in the adoption of the republican caucus amendment changing the house rate of 1.95 per pound by the close vote of 32 yeas to 30 nays. It was the closest vote thus far taken on an issue of importance and was accepted as showing that any amendment having the sanction of the caucus was assured of adoption. The main speech of the day came from Mr. Allison, in charge of the bill, and was in the nature of an answer to the charges made against the sugar schedule as a whole and a defense of it. The first paragraph of the sugar schedule was not finally disposed of up to the time adjournment.

HOUSE.

Washington, June 12.—The senate spent the day in the consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill. But little progress was made. A sensation was sprung when McEnery, dem., of Louisiana, made a speech in favor of the sugar schedule as presented by the finance committee.

THE PRESIDENT AND CUBA.

Studying the Plans for Dealing With the Question.

CHICAGO, June 12.—In a special dispatch to the Times-Herald Walter Wellman says: "The president now has in mind three distinct methods of dealing with the Cuban question: 1. Direct intervention for the purpose of putting a stop to the war, leaving the future government of Cuba to be determined by negotiations. 2. A proposal to Spain that Cuba be granted her independence for bonds of indemnification, payment to be guaranteed by the United States. 3. A tender of mediation, with a suggestion that Cuba be given complete local self-government like that of Canada, with the United States joining Spain in a guarantee of future peace and order. For the first step the last of these three plans seems now to be most in favor, but it is impossible now to say which of these methods of procedure the president will adopt. He does not know himself."

Congressman Stevens Vindicated.

ST. PAUL, June 12.—On motion of County Attorney Anderson, Judge Lewis [illegible] a verdict in favor of Congressman F. C. A fireman three blocks from the scene of the explosion had his head completely torn off.

WHITE TOPAZ.

Beautiful Stones to Be Seen at the Diamond Palace.

Every day in the week and every hour in the day one can see crowds around the show windows of THE CHICAGO DIAMOND PALACE. The cause of it all is the now widely known White Topaz. The White Topaz, or carbonated diamonds, have come to be recognized as the nearest thing on earth to genuine diamonds, so near indeed is it that the proprietors of the DIAMOND PALACE do not hesitate to place real diamonds in their windows amidst their display of White Topaz, and allow the public to pick them out at the selling price of the Topaz.

The latter stones have all the lovely brilliancy of the diamonds, sparkling steadily and with wonderful fire. The thousands of these stones in the windows forms one of the most gorgeous displays and has proven an attraction which is one of the features of Chicago.

In order to find out the advertising medium best suited to their business, this enterprising concern offers to send a genuine White Topaz to all those who will cut out and send them their advertisement, which appears elsewhere in this paper, together with 25c in stamps.

THE DIAMOND PALACE, like all successful institutions, has many imitators, who endeavor to sell cheap rhinestones and other pastes claiming they are topaz. We caution the public to be careful, as THE DIAMOND PALACE, American Express building, Chicago, are the sole importers of these stones.

How Successful Farmers Operate This Department of the Farm—A Few Hints as to the Care of Live Stock and Poultry.

(Condensed from Farmers' Review stenographic report of Wisconsin Round-up Institute.)

A. C. TAYLOR spoke on how to get good cows. There are three things that enter into successful dairying: First, the dairy tendency of the cows; second, the fertility of the farm and its ability to provide food for the cows. The third thing to be taken into consideration is the dairyman. Then it is necessary that there be the ability to apply modern dairy methods. If he be not a dairyman he will never succeed.

Q.—Should a dairyman raise his own cows?

A.—Yes, sir; if he can, and as much as possible.

Q.—Can you increase the percentage of fat in the milk of cows?

A.—That can be done only by good breeding.

Charles Thorp spoke on handy things on the dairy farm. He said that every man should have a dairy house on his farm. His dairy house is located near the well, where every dairy house should be located for the purpose of having the water handy. The house is 30 by 14, the first twelve feet being used for the dairy room proper. Then there is the cream vat, which is a great saving of labor, and should be a part of every outfit. By its use we have to churn only once a week. It used to be necessary to churn every day or every other day. Now the cream can be held sweet by the means of ice for a long time. The next six feet of the building is used for a storage room. The rest of the building is used for an ice room, which every man should have.

Mr. Thorp then showed his system of making artificial ice by natural cold. He had on exhibition a model of a long box in which the ice is frozen. The box in which he freezes his ice is 14 feet long, 2 feet wide and 1 foot deep. The inside of the box is waxed with paraffine wax, which makes it easy to remove the ice when it is frozen. The waxing must be done during a warm day, and the wax should be used boiling hot, so the wax will stick to the box. In freezing he puts in only three inches of water at a time and lets that freeze before putting in more. He has been using three of these boxes for the last few years. With three of these boxes you can fill an ice house very quickly. When you loosen the ice from one of these boxes you have a single cake of ice 14x2x1, which is sawed into cakes the size desired.

A feed cutter comes very handy on a farm, if it be not in such shape that it has to be set up every time it is to be used.

Q.—How do you build an ice house and how do you pack the ice?

A.—I would build it about as I would any common building, but I would make the walls double, with lath and plaster on the inside, and then I would paint the walls. I pack the ice with dry snow, and the cracks between the cakes I pack with dry snow also. I do not put the ice against the outside wall, but leave a six-inch space which I fill with saw-dust.

John W. Decker spoke on cheesemaking. The cheese industry is in better shape than it has been before for many years, due largely to the passage of laws against filled cheese. New York and Wisconsin are the great cheesemaking states. At the South and in some parts of the North dairying is not carried on to any great extent. So the states that make cheese will have to supply not only themselves but the others. Canada has been supplying the English trade. That is the trade that we are trying to supply with our product, and that trade requires a very firm article in the way of cheese.

Standard Varieties of Chickens.

The Golden Wyandotte is marked like the Silver, excepting that the color is golden-bay and black instead of white and black. The White variety is, perhaps, the favorite of the Wyandotte classes, from the fact that it is not so difficult to breed to feather, the plumage being pure white throughout. They are for this reason the more practical fowl for the farmer, or those who keep poultry for market. The Buff Wyandotte is in color a rich, deep, clear buff, uniform in shade throughout, except the tail, which is of a deeper buff or copperish-bronze color. The Blacks are of a rich, glossy black, with greenish sheen, excepting breast primaries, secondaries, tail and fluff, which are pure black. The standard weight of cocks is 8½ pounds; hens, 6½ pounds; cockerels, 7½ pounds; and pullets, 5½ pounds.

Developing Layers.

The early hatched pullets are now large enough to permit of intelligent selection. The culls should be disposed of, and the best reserved for laying and breeding, says Farm Journal. If the cockerels have become sufficiently matured to be troublesome, they should be separated from the pullets and fattened for market. Although the price may be low now, it seldom pays to keep early hatched birds for fall and winter sales. To develop the pullets into good laying hens, an exclusive diet of corn must be avoided. They need bone and muscle, but to get enough of this out of corn they must eat an excessive quantity of it and this will produce too much fat. This caution must be heeded when the pullets have only a limited run and but little pasture. In these circumstances with the corn ration, green grass, clover, green fodder and some vegetables, with milk and cut bone, or meat meal must be supplied to secure a healthy development. The farmer's flock that has the range of the fields, and access to a great variety of food, may thrive on a ration of corn because it is not their exclusive diet. We have, however, often seen farmers' premises where for two or three hundred yards from the buildings the poultry had eaten every green thing except weeds that was not enclosed by chicken proof fences. Such runs become polluted and the fowls suffer for the lack of insects and green food. The owner feeds the customary corn ration and wonders why his flock do not thrive and the pullets do not lay. The development of pullets for laying is very much like that of heifers for giving milk. Concentrated grain diet overtaxes the digestive organs and produces fat. Bulky succulent food, that which contains the bone and muscle making material, is necessary to secure the healthy digestion and thrifty growth.

Intelligent Dairying.—Dairying requires constant study and intelligent thought, it requires years in which to build up a profitable herd of cows and to learn how to feed and care for them an to handle the product. The man who can successfully breed and feed a dairy cow has a mind above the average. He is a student, a keen, bright business man, and you will not find this class of men dissatisfied with their business. It is the class of men who are constantly changing from one branch to another—men who do not do much figuring and cannot tell how much their cows earned individually or collectively—who have intense hatred for the Babcock test and for all creamery men.—Kansas Farmer.

It is a good thing to have two poultry yards, so that in one either oats or some other grain can be sown that will get a start and furnish the hens a good supply of green food.

When butter is worked very dry the grains of salt left in it are not dissolved and remain in a gritty condition.

THREE HAPPY WOMEN.

Each Relieved of Periodic Pain and Backache. A Trio of Fervent Letters.

Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my health was gradually being undermined. I suffered untold agony from painful menstruation, backache, pain on top of my head and ovarian trouble. I concluded to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound, and found that it was all any woman needs who suffers with painful monthly periods. It entirely cured me. MRS. GEORGIE WASS, 923 Bank St., Cincinnati, O.

For years I had suffered with painful menstruation every month. At the beginning of menstruation it was impossible for me to stand up for more than five minutes, I felt so miserable. One day a little book of Mrs. Pinkham's was thrown into my house, and I sat right down and read it. I then got some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I can heartily say that to-day I feel like a new woman; my monthly suffering is a thing of the past. I shall always praise the Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. MRS. MARGARET ANDERSON, 363 Lisbon St., Lewiston, Me.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of painful menstruation and backache. The pain in my back was dreadful, and the agony I suffered during menstruation nearly drove me wild.

Now this is all over, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's medicine and advice.—MRS. CARRIE V. WILLIAMS, South Mills, N. C.

The great volume of testimony proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a safe, sure and almost infallible remedy in cases of irregularity, suppressed, excessive or painful monthly periods.

The convention at Garner last week was a success and all who were present enjoyed the meetings. The Epworth League is growing rapidly throughout the land and is a great help to the M. E. church and should be upheld by all church members. The address in the evening by the state President was full of good things for the 20th century Epworthian and the solo singing was exceptionally fine. Such gatherings are very helpful, enthusing and entertaining. Our president H. T. Walensky was honored by being elected a delegate to the state convention to be held at Ottumwa in November.

What it Means.

When we advertise that we will guarantee Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters, Bucklin's Arnica Salve, or Dr. King's New Life Pills, it means that we are authorized by the proprietors to sell these remedies on a positive guarantee, that if purchaser is not satisfied with results, we will refund the purchase price. These medicines have been sold on this guarantee for many years and there could be no more conclusive evidence of their great merit. Ask about them and give them a trial. Sold at Harr's.

IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

What is war, anyway, compared with dodging bicycle scorchers?

Christina looks quite too sweet to be the sovereign of such a monster as Weyler.

Every bicycle rider is a self commissioned surveyor of highways. It is no longer possible for a guilty road to escape detection.

It is ruled in New Jersey that a wheelman who is damaged by a collision on Sunday has no standing in court. This is a real tack in the tire, for when is so much wheeling done as on Sunday?

Herr Rubricius, the Australian chemist, has found that boiler incrustation may be prevented by applying to the feed water 90 per cent of soluble chromates and 10 per cent of soda, thus transforming the carbonates in the water in soluble chromates, which settle in the form of slime, and do not adhere to the walls of the boiler, the slime being easily washed out.

One of the greatest railroad companies in the United States has done away with the "butchers." That is the name by which the impudent boys are known who sell chewing gum, poor cigars, bad novels and worse periodicals in cars. For this relief all passengers on that road, and all persons who hope for the final triumph of morality and good manners, will be thankful.

A Pennsylvania judge has censured the state prison inspectors for buying clothing at six dollars and a ahalf a suit for discharged prisoners, when his honor wears nothing more costly than a five dollar suit. This recalls the case of the man who objected to carrying home a ham neatly sewed up in cloth resembling buckskin, on the ground that the hammer was better dressed than he was.

Many markets, many prices. Milton received for "Paradise Lost," the sum of five pounds, in cash, with a promise of more. On the other hand, an egg of the great auk, an extinct bird, was recently sold in London for two hundred and eighty guineas. Were Milton's poem put up at auction today, this discrepancy would quickly disappear; but even if it did not, the singer would still be deathless and the bird extinct.

The stand taken by the Philadelphia superintendent of police in reference to the May day parades of trades unions and socialistic societies is an example for the authorities in other large cities. He drew the line at the emblem of anarchy. There is no reason why the workingmen's organizations should not have their parades and festivities; but the banner they carry should be the flag of the country in which they live, and not the red emblem.

The little kingdom of Korea, whose affairs furnished the ostensible provocation of the war between Japan and China, and whose king has recently been under the guardianship of Russia, has passed under what is practically a joint protectorate of Japan and Russia. The two governments have signed an agreement by which each is to station a limited force of troops in Korea for the protection of their settlements. Both powers also agree to give Korea financial aid; Japan is to control the telegraph lines, except a new line to Seoul, which Russia is to build. The agreement seems to settle rivalries which at one time were rather a threatening aspect.

The secretary of the navy is establishing at the League Island navy-yard near Philadelphia a "reserve squadron" of naval vessels not needed for immediate and active use. The cruiser Columbia, and possibly some of the smaller cruisers, together with most of the coast-defense monitors, will be kept there. The ships will not be wholly dismantled, as formerly when "laid up" in ordinary, but will retain their heavy armament, and several officers and a small crew will be left on each. They will be so nearly in readiness for use that not more than twenty days will be needed to fit them to go to sea. One reason for the establishment of the "reserve squadron" is the saving of expense; but the chief reason is that modern war-ships require such large crews to man them fully that our force is insufficient.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

COUNTY OFFICER SHORT.

Treasurer of Boone County Turns Over His Office about $10,000 Short.

BOONE, June 18.—For the third time in her history Boone county suffers a loss by the defalcatien of a county treasurer. Treasurer W. D. Moore has resigned his position and turned over three or four thousand dollars worth of property to his bondsmen. The supervisors had been investigating his records and the result showed him to be short to the probable amount of $10,000. Moore was serving his second term as treasurer. He was badly in debt when he took the office and it is said he has used the county's money from time to time to pay his private creditors, who were pressing him. He has been able to conceal his shortage by getting money from the banks whenever the cash in the treasury was to be counted, returning the money after the count had been made. This time the supervisors suspected him and got him cornered, and then he acknowledged that he was short, but said the amount was less than six thousand. A count was made and $17,256.25, cash, was found in the treasury. The amount should be somewhere in the neighborhood of $28,000 or $30,000. The exact amount cannot be told until further investigation is made.

HEAVY LOSS TO THE STATE.

Library of the State University Destroyed by Fire.

IOWA CITY, June 20.—The general library building of the State University of Iowa was struck by lightning at 4 o'clock a. m. and in an hour the accumulation of books that had been gathered from the infancy of the institution was almost a total loss. One fireman, Kirk Leek, was killed by the falling in of the roof. The library was located in the third story of the old chapel building and the galleries above. The physical laboratory of the university was located in the first floors and much valuable apparatus is ruined. As the state carries no insurance on its public property, the institution is a complete loss. President Schaeffer says $100,000 will cover the loss of such property as can be replaced; but there are many thousands of books that can not be replaced. The Talbott collection, presented to the state by D. H. Talbott, the eccentric scientist of Sioux City, was destroyed.

PLANS FOR A CENTURY.

Des Moines News and the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, June 21.—The Des Moines Daily News has closed a 90-year contract with the Associated Press. The contract is important because it secures the full news dispatches for almost a century to the only first-class daily in the world offered for $1 a year.

Infant Murdered and Buried.

CEDAR RAPIDS, June 18.—The body of an infant, evidently but a few days old, was found in the pasture of Wm. Rapps, two miles north of the city. Mr. Rapps saw two women whom he did not know digging in his pasture about dusk. When he went for the cows he approached the spot where he had seen the women digging and noticed a pile of fresh dirt. About two feet beneath the surface was found sod, newspapers and a shoebox. On opening the box the body of an infant fully developed, but not more than a few days old, was disclosed. The neck of the infant was black and blue and there are indications that it met its death by strangulation.

Boy Thieves.

CHEROKEE, June 19.—Two boys, Frank and Rudolph Krepha, were arrested for larceny. They stole a shot gun and a single harness from Elwood Carr, who had a search made, when it was found that the boys' thieving has assumed large proportions. They pleaded guilty, and, being under age, were sent before Judge Wakefield, of Sioux City, who will probably send them to the reform school.

Maines Again in Court.

GUTHRIE CENTER, June 18.—John P. Maines, of Menlo, who has such a marriageable fame in Des Moines and elsewhere, was in town with his newly married wife and two boys. Mr. Maines and his tenant of the big farm were before Justice Lenon to settle a scrap in which a revolver and a foot adze cut quite a figure. Matters were adjusted and the Maineses returned home to spend their honeymoon.

Young Man Killed by Lightning.

MT. PLEASANT, June 21.—A young man by the name of Featherby was struck by lightning at Mt. Union, fifteen miles northeast of Mt. Pleasant, and died within half an hour afterward.

Gold Democrats Issue a Call.

DES MOINES, June 19.—W. C. Mullin, chairman of the state central committee of the national democratic party, has issued the call for the state convention. It will be held in Des Moines Wednesday, July 7.

SCOTT COUNTY TRAGEDY.

Husband Poisons His Wife and Kills Himself.

DAVENPORT, June 19.—News is received of a double tragedy, in which John Gugelheimer and his wife were the victims. The couple reside about six miles northeast of Davenport, their two daughters constituting the other members of the household. Death was caused by poisoning, strychnine being taken by each. Whether it was murder or a mutual agreement to commit suicide will never be known. Gugelheimer is reported to have said several times that when he died his wife would go too, which is the only evidence favoring the murder theory. The body of Gugelheimer was found by the daughters, who attracted several neighbors. A search was made and the body of Mrs. Gugelheimer was found in the cellar. The result of the coroner's inquest was a verdict to the effect that both came to their death by poisoning, the dose being administered by the husband. John Gugelheimer was 55 years of age. He had been an inmate of Mt. Pleasant asylum several times, but showed no signs of insanity recently.

Bertram Postoffice Robbed.

CEDAR RAPIDS, June 21.—The postoffice at Bertram was robbed and stamps to the value of about $32 stolen.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Milton W. Knox was killed at a crossing near Keokuk by a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy engine. Knox was driving to town and did not know of the approach of the engine, which was an extra. The horses escaped without injury. Knox was hurled 100 feet.

A farmer named Alex. W. McClintic, of Black Hawk township, Jefferson county, was found dead in his orchard a few days ago. Considerable mystery is connected with this death that a jury only can solve. At the April term of the district court Alex. W. McClintic sued his wife for a divorce, and for grounds stated he was ill treated and in fear of his life at the hands of his wife and her brothers. There are still seven suits pending, in which all of the above are parties.

Sioux City dispatch: Reports from Sioux Rapids, this state, announce that "Messiah" Schweinfurth is planning for the establishment of a "heaven" in the northern part of Buena Vista county. He has been spending some days in the locality conferring with land owners relative to the purchase of a suitable tract of land. He is at present contemplating the location of a colony on a four section tract north of Sioux Rapids. Contrary to the usual condition, residents in the vicinity are favoring his plan and offering inducements to him to make his home among them.

Clinton dispatch: Sheriff Hudson, Deputy Sheriff Joe Moran and Deputy United States Marshals Roberts and Sims arrested a man at the Columbia hotel in Clinton giving the name of D. M. Johnson, on a charge of bank robbery at Carlisle. He bears an alias of H. G. Wellman, and the officers suppose he is Bliss, the famous New York bank robber, as he answers the description in every way, and officers here feel confident he is the man. In his grip were papers and signatures purporting to be G. H. Montague's, a government inspector whom he was accused of impersonating. The man is about 60 years of age, 5 feet, 10 inches tall and of medium build. The officials took him to Cedar Rapids.

C. Burrell, principal of the Jesup city schools, has been acquitted of the charge of assault and battery upon the person of Frankie Young, a 13-year-old girl, and daughter of George Young, one of the wealthiest and most prominent farmers in the county. the evidence showed that Frankie did not begin studying an arithmetic lesson as promptly as Burrell desired, and was called to the desk, in company with others, to receive punishment. She became frightened and ran away, falling on the school house steps. She was picked up and severely beaten by the teacher with a heavy wooden ruler. Her shoulder was dislocated, both arms and body carrying marks of the whipping. The justice held that the punishment was not inflicted with malice, and would leave no permanent injury, therefore found for the defense.

At Dubuque recently Judge Shiras threw out of court the actions on behalf of the Northwestern Iowa Grain Shippers to recover $15,000 from several railroad corporations for alleged excessive charges. He overruled the demurrer to the C., M. & St. P. answer and held, with Mr. Burton Hanson, solicitor for the C., M. & St. P., that the rate fixed by the corporations under the conditions of publication, etc., required by the interstate commission is to be considered the reasonable rate until altered by the inter-state commerce commission; that in actions of this kind, rates thus established must be considered the standard of reasonableness and if the shipper objects to such rate his remedy is not in a proceeding for extortion but in a petition to the interstate commerce commission for a reduction of rates.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

LONDON, June 15.—The Times correspondent at Constantinople says: "The sultan has appealed to Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William to support his claim to annex Thessaly to the Ottoman empire. This proceeding highly displeases the ambassadors of the other powers, who are expected to mark their displeasure by refusing to negotiate the other points in Turkey's demand until the evacuation demand is settled."

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 16.—The porte will form twenty new cavalry regiments in the Elassona and Salonica districts, and an imperial irade raises the war footing up to 700,000 men, while 1,300,000 rifles have been purchased.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 17.—The ambassadors of the powers submitted to the Turkish government a scheme for delimination of the frontiers of Greece and Turkey as drawn up by military attaches of the different embassies during their recent visit to Thessaly. It gives Turkey the mountain crests on the frontiers of Thessaly, but the Turks are not allowed to retain any of the villages of Thessaly.

CURRENCY REFORM DELAYED.

No Appointment of a Commission at the Present Session Likely.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—It appears to be well settled that no effort will be made by the president to secure authority for the appointment of a currency commission at this session of congress. Until within a week or so the president had believed such a measure might be passed in the closing days of congress, while the two houses were in conference on the tariff bill. But the president is now advised by the republican leaders in the senate that it would be useless to present this question. The silver senators have decided to oppose any such measure, and they could easily bring about so much delay that the game would not be worth the candle. Unless some change comes in the situation the president will be compelled, reluctantly, to permit this important matter to go over to next winter.

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE ACTION

Will Try to Secure the Repeal of Laws Discriminating Against Americans.

NEW YORK, June 18.—"After the queen's jubilee, United States ambassadors to Great Britain and Germany and the United States minister to Belgium will take vigorous steps to secure a modification of the laws against American sheep and cattle and meats which now mean a loss to American agricultural interests of millions of dollars per year." So spoke Bellamy Storer, the new United States minister to Belgium, just before sailing for his post. "This action," continued Mr. Storer, "will be simultaneous. The administration at Washington is determined to protect American agricultural interests and will do its utmost to have discriminative laws in European countries against our products changed. The administration called the attention of all United States representatives to urgent vigorous action."

AN ILLINOIS TORNADO.

Buildings at the Institution for Feeble Minded Destroyed.

LINCOLN, Ill., June 20.—A tornado which passed over the central and southern portions of Logan county destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of property and completely demolished immense cow barns on the farm of the state institution for the feeble minded. Twenty-six persons seeking refuge from the storm were buried in the debris. Four of the refugees, boy pupils from Chicago, were taken out dead. Five others were severely injured, one of whom, the farm superintendent, will probably die.

SPAIN IS HOT.

Payment for the Ruiz Murder Displeases the Dons.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The World's Madrid special says: Premier Canovas is willing to pay the widow of Dr. Ruiz $40,000 if the United States will not press an official claim. The announcement of this fact has aroused vehement public opposition, which the Madrid press is inflaming. The newspapers blame the government for allowing Ruiz to be killed but censure it for acknowledging it. They say Spain is under the "iron heel of the Yankees."

SEAL MISSION SUCCESSFUL.

Protection of Seal Assured—Russia Co-operates.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A cablegram received at the state department from ex-Secretary Foster, who has been at St. Petersburg engaged in negotiations with the Russian government for the better protection by mutual agreement of the seal life in the North Pacific and Bering seas, announces the complete success of his mission. The commissioner is now on his return to the United States.

TREATY IS SIGNED.

Hawaii Now Practically a Part of the United States.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Representatives of the governments of the United States and Hawaii gathered at the state department and signed the annexation treaty. It provides that the government of Hawaii shall cede to the United States all rights of sovereignty in and over the Hawaiian islands, and that these islands shall be an integral part of the territory of the United States. The islands shall be admitted into the union as a territory and local laws be passed by the local legislature, but subject to the approval of the president until congress shall apply the laws of the United States to the islands. Further immigration of Chinese laborers is prohibited, pending congressional action, and all entry of Chinese from Hawaii into the United States is likewise prohibited. The United States assumes the public debt of Hawaii, but with the stipulation that this liability shall not exceed $4,000,000. The treaty, before it becomes effective, shall be ratified by the proper authorities of the United States and Hawaii.

DELAY FOR THE TREATY.

Hawaiian Annexation Cannot Be Accomplished This Session.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The impression is now prevalent in the senate even by the friends of Hawaiian annexation that the treaty cannot be ratified at the present session if there is any such opposition as is promised. The program now is that the treaty will be reported from the committee and that after the tariff bill has been passed it will be called up. The senate will be asked if a time for a vote can be fixed, and upon the objections by the opponents of the treaty, its friends will say they are content to allow it to lie over until the next session. It is believed that senators who are now undecided may become influenced favorably after mature consideration and after finding out what the drift of sentiment is in their states. It is well known that senators cannot be held in Washington during the hot weather after the tariff bill is passed.

Banker Spaulding Escapes.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Charles W. Spaulding, ex-president of the defunct Globe Savings Bank, and ex-treasurer of the State University, was acquitted of the charge of embezzlement. The verdict was a general surprise, as the instructions of the court to the jury left scarcely any chance for an acquittal. The trial was one of twenty-seven indictments and he will be tried again.

Ran 11 Miles 1,230 Yards an Hour.

LONDON, June 21.—F. E. Bacon, the champion long distance runner, ran against the one hour record of 11 miles, 970 yards, which he succeeded in breaking, covering 11 miles, 1,230 yards. There was a steady downpour of rain throughout the race.

Earthquake Kills 6,000.

SIMLA, June 21.—It is announced that over 6,000 lives were lost by the earthquake disturbances which recently visited the province of Assam. A message of condolence was received from Queen Victoria.

Cyclone in France.

PARIS, June 21.—The Gaulois says that twenty persons were killed and eighty injured by a cyclone which swept the villages of Bessons, Colombus and Asnieres.

BREVITIES.

The president has appointed Stewart L. Woodford, of New York, to be minister to Spain, and he has accepted. Mr. Woodford is 62 years old. He served in the war and became brigadier general. Afterwards he was military commander of Charleston and Savanah. He was lieutenant governor of New York in 1866. He presided over the Grant electoral college of that state in 1872.

An attempt was made to assassinate President Faure, of France, while the president was en route to Longchamps to witness the race for the Grand Prix. While M. Faure's carriage was passing a thicket near the Cascade restaurant, the bomb was exploded, creating the wildest excitement among the throng of spectators, but it fortunately happened that no one was injured by the flying pieces of metal. The missile proved to be a piece of tubing about six inches long and two inches in diameter, with a thickness of half an inch, charged with powder and swan shot. A man in the crowd, suspected as the prime mover, was at once arrested. He is believed to be insane, as he shouted so loudly as the carriage passed along as to attract general attention in the crowd. The news of the attempt spread like wildfire through the city, and when M. Faure returned to the Elysee the streets along the route where it was known he would drive were crowded with people, who cheered him vociferously.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"A QUEEN'S REIGN" LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

Preached at Beatrice, Nebraska, from the Bible Text, "What Wilt Thou Queen Esther?"—Esther, Chapter V. Verse III.—Victoria Has Done Some Good Things.

THIS question, which was asked of a queen thousands of years ago, all civilized nations are this day asking of Queen Victoria. "What will thou have of honor, of reward, or reverence, or service, of national and international acclamation? What wilt thou, the Queen of the nineteenth century?" The seven miles of procession through the streets of London day after tomorrow will be a small part of the congratulatory procession whose multitudinous tramp will encircle the earth. The celebrative anthems that will sound up from Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral in London will be less than the vibration of one harpstring as compared with the doxologies which this hour roll up from all nations in praise to God for the beautiful life and the glorious reign of this oldest Queen amid many centuries. From five o'clock in the morning of 1837, when the Archbishop of Canterbury addressed the embarrassed and weeping and almost affrighted girl of eighteen years with the startling words, "Your Majesty," until this sixtieth anniversary of her enthronement, the prayer of all good people on all sides of the seas, whether that prayer be offered by the three hundred millions of her subjects or the larger number of millions who are not her subjects, whether that prayer be solemnized in church, or rolled from great orchestras, or poured forth by military bands from forts and battlements and in front of triumphant armies all around the world, has been and is now, "God save the Queen!" Amid the innumerable columns that have been printed in eulogy of this Queen at the approaching anniversary — columns which, put together, would be literally miles long—it seems to me that the chief cause of congratulation to her and of praise to God has not yet been properly emphasized, and in many cases the chief key-note has not been struck at all. We have been told over and over again what has occurred in the Victorian era. The mightiest thing she has done has been almost ignored, while she has been honored by having her name attached to individuals and events for whom and for which she had no responsibility. We have put before us the names of potent and grandly useful men and women who have lived during her reign, but I do not suppose that she at all helped Thomas Carlyle in twisting his involved and mighty satires, or helped Disraeli in issuance of his epigrammatic wit, or helped Cardinal Newman in his crossing over from religion to religion, or helped to inspire the enchanted sentiments of George Eliot and Harriet Martineau and Mrs. Browning, or helped to invent any of George Cruikshank's healthful cartoons, or helped George Grey in founding a British South African Empire, or kindled the patriotic fervor with which John Bright stirred the masses, or had anything to do with the invention of the telephone or photograph, or the building up of the science of bacteriology, or the directing of the Roentgen rays which have revolutionized surgery, or helped in the inventions for facilitating printing and railroading and ocean voyaging. One is not to be credited or discredited for the virtue or the vice, the brilliance or the stupidity, of his or her contemporaries. While Queen Victoria has been the friend of all art, all literature, all science, all invention, all reform, her reign will be most remembered for all time and all eternity as the reign of Christianity. Beginning with that scene at five o'clock in the morning, in Kensington Palace, where she asked the Archbishop of Canterbury to pray for her, and they knelt down, imploring Divine guidance, until this hour, not only in the sublime Liturgy of her Established church but on all occasions, she has directly or indirectly declared, "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, his only begotten Son." I declare it, fearless of contradiction, that the mightiest champion of Christianity today is the throne of England. The Queen's book, so much criticised at the time of its appearance, some saying it was not skilfully done, and some saying that the private affairs of a household ought not so to have been exposed, was nevertheless a book of vast usefulness from the fact that it showed that God was acknowledged in all her life and that "Rock of Ages" was not an unusual song in Windsor Castle. Was her son, the Prince of Wales, down with an illness that baffled the greatest doctors of England? Then she proclaimed a day of prayer to Almighty God, and in answer to the prayers of the whole civilized world the Prince got well. Was Sebastopol to be taken and the thousands of bereaved homes of soldiers to be comforted, she called her nation to its knees, and the prayer was answered. See her walking through the hospitals like an angel of mercy! Was there ever an explosion of fire damp in the mines of Sheffield or Wales and her telegram was not the first to arrive with help and Christian sympathy? Is President Garfield dying at Long Branch, and is not the cable under the sea, reaching to Balmoral Castle, kept busy in announcing the symptoms of the sufferer?

I believe that no throne since the throne of David and the throne of Hezekiah and the throne of Esther has been in such constant touch with the throne of heaven as the throne of Victoria. From what I know of her habits, she reads the Bible more than she does Shakespeare. She admires the hymns of Horatio Bonar more than she does Byron's "Corsair." She has not knowingly admitted into her presence a corrupt man or dissolute woman. To very distinguished novelists and very celebrated prima donnas she has declined reception because they were immoral. All the coming centuries of time cannot revoke the advantages of having had sixty years of Christian womanhood enthroned in the palaces of England. Compare her court surroundings with what were the court surroundings in the time of Henry VIII., or what were the court surroundings in the time of Napoleon, in the time of Louis XVI., in the time of men and women whose names may not be mentioned in decent society. Alas! for the revelries, and the worse than Belshazzar feasts, and the more than Herodian dances, and the scenes from which the veil must not be lifted. You need, however, in order to appreciate the purity and virtuous splendor of Victoria's reign to contrast it somewhat with the gehennas and the pandemoniums of many of the throne rooms of the past and some throne rooms of the present. I call the roll of the queens of the earth, not that I would have them come up or come back, but that I may make them the background of a picture in which I can better present the present septenarian, or soon to be an octogenarian, now on the throne of England, her example so thoroughly on the right side that all the scandal-mongers in all the nations in six decades have not been able to manufacture an evil suspicion in regard to her that could be made to stick: Maria of Portugal, Isabella and Eleanor and Joanna of Spain, Catharine of Russia, Mary of Scotland, Maria Tersea of Germany, Marie Antoinette of France, and all the queens of England, as Mrs. Strickland has put them before us in her charming twelve volumes; and while some queen may surpass our modern queen in learning, and another in attractiveness of feature, and another in gracefulness of form, and another in romance of history, Victoria surpasses them all in nobility and grandeur and thoroughness of Christian character. I hail her! the Christian daughter, the Christian wife, the Christian mother, the Christian Queen! and let the Church of God and all benign and gracious institutions the world over cry out, as they come with music and bannered host, and million-voiced huzza, and the benedictions of earth and heaven, "What wilt thou, Queen Esther?"

* * *

But as all of us will be denied attendance on that sixtieth anniversary coronation, I invite you, not to the anniversary of a coronation, but to a coronation itself—aye, to two coronations. Brought up as we are, to love as no other form of government that which is republican and democratic, we, living on this side of the sea, cannot so easily as those living on the other side of the sea, appreciate the two coronations to which all up and down the Bible you and I are urgently invited. Some of you have such morbid ideas of religion that you think of it as going down into a dark cellar, or out on a barren commons, or as a flagellation; when, so far from a dark celler, it is a palace, and instead of a barren commons it is a garden, atoss with the brightest fountains that were ever rainbowed, and instead of flagellation it is coronation, but a coronation utterly eclipsing the one whose sixtieth anniversary is now being celebrated. It was a great day when David, the little king who was large enough to thrash Goliath, took the crown at Rabbah—a crown weighing a talent of gold and encircled with precious stones—and the people shouted, "Long live the king!" It was a great day when Petrarch, surrounded by twelve patrician youths clothed in scarlet, received from a senator the laurel crown, and the people shouted, "Long live the poet!" It was a great day when Mark Antony put upon Caesar the mightiest tiara of all earth, and in honor of divine authority Caesar had it placed afterward on the head of the statue of Jupiter Olympus. It was a great day when the greatest of Frenchmen took the diadem of Charlemagne and put it on his own brow. It was a great day when, about an eighth of a mile from the gate of Jerusalem, under a sky pallid with thickest darkness, and on a mountain trammeled of earthquake, and the air on fire with the blasphemies of a mob, a crown of spikes was put upon the pallid and agonized brow of our Jesus. But that particular coronation, amid tears and blood and groans and shivering cataclysms, made your own coronation possible. Paul was not a man to lose his equilibrium, but when that old missionary, with crooked back and inflamed eyes, got a glimpse of the crown coming to him, and coming to you, if you will by repentance and faith accept it, he went into ecstacies, and his poor eyes flashed and his crooked back straightened as he cried to Timothy, "There is laid up for me a crown of righteousness," and to the Corinthians, "These athletes run to obtain a corruptible, we an incorruptible crown." And to the Thessalonians he speaks of "the crown of glory," and to the Philippians he says, "My joy and crown." The Apostle Peter catches the inspiration and cries out, "Ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away," and St. John joins in the rapture and says, "Faithful to death, and I will give thee a crown of life," and elsewhere exclaims, "Hold fast, that no man take thy crown." Crowns! crowns! crowns! You did not expect, in coming here today, to be invited to a coronation. You can scarcely believe your own ears; but in the name of a pardoning God and a sacrificing Christ, and an omnipotent Holy Spirit and a triumphant heaven, I offer each one a crown for the asking. Crowns! Crowns! How to get the crown? The way Victoria got her crown, on her knees. Although eight duchesses and marquises, all in cloth of silver, carried her train, and the windows and arches and roof of the Abbey shook with the Te Deum of the organ in full diapason, she had to kneel, she had to come down. To get the crown of pardon and eternal life, you will have to kneel, you will have to come down. Yea! History says that at her coronation not only the entire assembly wept with profound emotion, but Victoria was in tears. So you will have to have your dry eyes moistened with tears, in your case tears of repentance, tears of joy, tears of coronation, and you will feel like crying out with Jeremiah, "Oh, that my head were waters and mine eyes fountains of tears." Yes, she was during the ceremony seated for awhile on a lowly stone called the Lia Fail, which, as I remember it, as I have seen it again and again, was rough and not a foot high, a lowly and humble place in which to be seated, and if you are to be crowned king or queen to God forever, you must be seated on the Lia Fail of profound humiliation. After all that, she was ready for the throne, and let me say that God is not going to leave your exaltation half done. There are thrones as well as crowns awaiting you. St. John shouted, "I saw thrones!" and again he said, "They shall reign forever and ever." Thrones! Thrones! Get ready for the coronation. But I invite you not only to your own coronation, but to a mightier and the mightiest. In all the ages of time no one ever had such a hard time as Christ while he was on earth. Brambles for his brow, expectoration for his cheek, whips for his back, spears for his side, spikes for his feet, contumely for his name, and even in our time, how many say he is no Christ at all, and there are tens of thousands of hands trying to push him back and keep him down. But, oh! the human and satanic impotency! Can a spider stop an albatross? Can the hole which the toy shovel of a child digs in the sand at Cape May swallow the Atlantic? Can the breath of a summer fan drive back the Mediterranean euroclydon? Yes, when all the combined forces of earth and hell can keep Christ from ascending the throne of universal dominion. David the Psalmist foresaw that coronation, and cried out in regard to the Messiah, "Upon himself shall his crown flourish." From the cave of black basalt St. John foresaw it, and cried, "On his head were many crowns." Now do not miss the beauty of that figure. There is no room on any head for more than one crown of silver, gold or diamond. Then what does the Book mean when it says, "On his head were many crowns?" Well, it means twisted and enwreathed flowers. To prepare a crown for your child and make her the "Queen of the May," you might take the white flowers out of one parterre, and the crimson flowers out of another parterre, and the blue flowers out of another parterre, and the pink flowers out of another parterre, and gracefully and skillfully work these four or five crowns into one crown of beauty. So all the splendors of earth and heaven are to be enwreathed into one coronal for our Lord's forehead—one blazing glory, one dazzling brightness, one overpowering perfume, one down flashing, up-rolling, out spreading magnificence—and so on his head shall be many crowns.

If the landed surface of the globe were divided and allotted in equal shares to each of its human inhabitants, it would be found that each would get a plot of 23½ acres.

The Story of Dawson's Conquest; or Real Glory Springs from the Silent Victories—The Main Thing—How Did He Know?

After Years.

HE'D been up in the attic,
This little wife of mine,
A-rummaging and tumbling,
For what, I can't divine.
But suddenly I noticed
A silence weird and strange,
And wondered what had happened
To cause this pen-sive change.

For quite an hour I listened,
And then, alarmed, I stole
Up to the lonely chamber,
My conscience to console.
And, well, would you believe it?
I found her reading low
Love-letters that I wrote her
Some fourteen years ago!

Her face was wreathed in blushes,
Her dreamy eyes half closed;
Her heart was beating wildly—
You'd thought I'd just proposed.
Strewn 'round her were those tokens
That spoke from heart to heart;
Good saints! what founts of passion
A faded sheeet will start.

Well, then I turned and left her
Dreaming in ecstacy
On what a mad young lover
Her husband used to be.
But soon she came and kissed me—
To which I'm scarce averse;
"Dear, you're the same old rascal,"
She whispered, "—only worse!"

—C. E. Barns.

How Did He Know?

Willy—Mother, give me some of the jam you made today. It's awfully good.

Mother—What! Did you taste it?

Willy—No, ma'am.

Dawson's Conquest.

Things had gone his way downtown, and Dawson was in quite an amiable and even melting mood when he came home in the evening and settled himself for a quiet hour with his cigar and book. Presently he said to his wife:

"Now, here's something that's got good sound sense to it. You listen to it. 'Real glory springs from the silent conquest of ourselves.' That's the talk! Give me the man who is master of himself. I have a perfect contempt for those unbalanced fellows who go all to pieces over nothing, and—— Why, what's the matter with this lamp? It gives a miserable light."

"I guess it needs trimming," replied Mrs. Dawson.

"Why didn't you have it trimmed before night?"

"I didn't know that it needed trimming."

"I should think it was your place to know what condition the lamps are in."

"Humph! It's your place to know lots of things you don't know. If you'd known, as a man ought to know, the condition of the drainage pipes on his own ground, we wouldn't have had that sickness last spring and——"

"Oh, there you go and bring up those infernal old drainage pipes!" howled the convert to the self-control theory, as he flung his book clear across the room and kicked the hassock at his feet against a frail table and sent it over with a crash. "It beats —— that a man can't have a minute's peace in his own home. I'll just be eternally ding-squizzled if I don't join a club or board away from home if I can't have any peace under my own roof! What with smoky old lamps and your tongue going like a trip-hammer all of the time and the young ones bawling and the servants quarrelling and dirt and disorder everywhere and——"

"A beautiful specimen of self-conquest you are, Mr. Dawson!"

"Don't you say 'self-conquest' to me or I'll—I'll—well, I'll not be responsible for what happens! The cussed fool that wrote that didn't have to put up with smoky lamps and —— Well, leave the room if you want to, madam! I'm going to leave the house, and you can be thankful if I don't come home dead drunk! Hanged if you can't!"

Somebody Else Was.

Young Bride—I didn't accept Tom the first time he proposed.

Miss Ryval (slightly envious)—I know you didn't.

Young Bride—How do you know?

Miss Ryval—You weren't there.

PLANNING A MOVEMENT.

Gomez Getting Ready for an Important Coup.

NEW YORK, June 19.—The Herald's Havana special says: Gomez contemplates a decidedly aggressive movement to beg'n some time next month. The plans which he has been forming for the last few months are now matured and Cubans are looking for big movements very soon. Gomez is concentrating his forces in the Havana province and will probably make a demonstration near Havana. Quintin Banderas, with 1,600 orientals, is reported to have arrived in Melana. Havana province. It is known that he left Trinidad and was marching through Matanzas several days ago. Gomez called a council of war, which will be held in a day or two, when he will disclose his plans to his officers.

WISCONSIN INVESTIGATIONS.

State Institutions' Management Arraigned on Serious Charges.

MILWAUKEE, June 19.—A movement is being formulated to investigate the management of nine of the principal state institutions of Wisconsin on serious charges. Proceedings are already pending against Superintendent J. G. Hart, of the industrial school for boys at Waukesha, on charges of drunkenness and cruelty. The chief institutions against the management of which complaint is made, are the asylum at Mendota, with about 500 inmates, the northern hospital for the insane at Oshkosh, with nearly 600 inmates, and the state prison at Waupon, with about 625 inmates. The number of boys confined in the state school now being investigated is about 350. Undue cruelty, it is understood, is the principal complaint in each instance.

HORRIBLE CRIME.

Wealthy Man Murdered and Six Thousand Dollars Stolen.

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—At Meramec Highlands, a summer resort near St. Louis, D. C. Collins, a wealthy citizen of Nashville, was lured into a clump of bushes, beaten over the head with a hammer, probably fatally injured and robbed of $6,000 in cash, the proceeds of the sale of Hotel Nashville. His assailant was Martin Ensly, whom he had known intimately since boyhood. Ensley is from Memphis and a son of Enoch Ensley, one of the most prominent mine owners and planters of the south. Ensley turned up afterwards covered with blood, claiming that he and a friend had been assaulted, but it chanced that the attack was seen by two men, who also saw Ensley pass the proceeds of the robbery to a confederate, who escaped.

TONS OF TEA EN ROUTE.

Importers Want It to Arrive Ahead of the Dingley Bill.

TACOMA, Wash., June 19.—More tea is now afloat on the Pacific ocean than ever before at one time. Importers in New York and other eastern cities made large purchases in China and Japan for immediate delivery and are having it hurried across the Pacific in order to enter it before the Dingley bill goes into effect. Thousands of tons of the new crop of tea have been landed in America and 12,000,000 pounds are on the ocean between Yokohama and Tacoma. The Canadian line is also bringing heavy shipments.

Attempt at Train Robbery.

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Word has been received here of an attempt to rob the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern express from New York, near Salem, Ills. Three or four hard characters of Salem, some of them ex-convicts, banded together for general criminal work, decided on robbing the train mentioned. One member of the gang weakened, however, and informed the sheriff of Salem, who went to the scene shortly before time for the train to arrive. A posse found the track piled high with ties. The robbers fled, but Abe Tweed was brought down with a probably fatal wound. Thomas Schumacker surrendered and the third robber escaped.

Horror in India.

CALCUTTA, June 19.—Almost the entire province of Assam has been devastated by earthquakes. Courts, jails, hospitals and treasuries have collapsed and the loss of food supply is enormous. The crops are mostly ruined and great scarcity of food is expected. Traffic is difficult as many roads are completely demolished. The shocks still continue, and much alarm is felt, especially as the renewed shocks are reported from various places in Bengal. Heavy rains are immensely increasing the damage.

A Millionaire Jailed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—W. B. Bradbury, the millionaire, will have to serve the sentence of twenty-four hours' imprisonment in the county jail imposed upon him by Police Judge Low recently on his conviction for the second time of spitting in street cars. Judge Wallace, of the superior court, affirmed the judgment.

Indications still warrent the belief that the tariff bill will pass the Senate before the end of the month, and that the conference over the differences between the House and Senate will be an unusually short one.

On account of the threatening weather the Iowa State Sunday School convention which closed Juue 18th. at Storm Lake, was not well attended as was anticipated, although the program was carried out and the convention was a success.

With one member of the Democratic team pulling in the direction of free trade, another towards protection, still a third in favor of free silver, and a fourth headed resolutely toward the gold standard, the Jeffersonian band wagon is not making much progress.

Dun's Review for last week shows that more business was done in May than in April and the April business was only 10 per cent less than that of the best year on record. Business at present is being done at a smaller margin of profit, but the amount of business handled is large and this will in turn stimulate other lines and bring about general activity.

The trade reviews and the daily papers of the country unite in the assertion that business is brightening in all parts of the United States. More men are employed, the volume of new orders increasing. and the amount of work done is steadily gaining. With the final action on the tariff bill, which may be expected during the present month, an increased improvement is confidently expected.

POULTRY NOTES.
From Wallaces' Farmer.

A good hen ought to lay ten dozen eggs a year.

Eggs ought to be sold by the pound instead of by the dozen.

At about three months of age, broilers are best to broil.

Chickens need grit of some kind just as much as horses need teeth.

Poultry manure is valuable if properly taken care of and judiciously applied.

Charcoal broken in small pieces is a good tonic for the digestive apparatus of chickens.

The successful poultry raiser grows into the business. To go into it does not always mean success.

Young chicks need plenty of feed and they need it regularly. They should be especially well fed while growing feathers.

Parties who wish to purchase caponizing instruments, killing knives, markers, etc., can obtain them at reasonable prices througo Wallaces' Farmer.

It's a bad thing to have the chickens get into the habit of roosting in trees and on fences—a habit that it is hard to break them of. Fix the chicken house so it will be comfortable during the summer nights.

Use plenty of kerosene emulsion in the chicken house every two or three weeks during the summer. It's easier to keep vermen from getting started than to kill them. Burning straw in the houses once a month will be of great help in keeping free from lice.

My Fellow Laborer.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

CHAPTER I.—(CONTINUED.)

A year after my marriage my wife unhappily became the victim of a bad accident in a cab, as a result of which our child John was a cripple from his birth. To this unfortunate babe, Miss Denelly, or Fanny, as we called her, took a violent affection, which, as the child's intelligence expanded, was amply returned. Indeed, he cared more for her than for his mother and myself put together, and I think that the cause of their mutual attachment was to be found in Fanny's remarkable strength of body and character. The poor, weak, deformed boy rested on solid depths of nature, as some by faith are able to rest on Providence, with a sense of absolute security. However much pain he was in he would become quiet when she came and took him in her strong arms and nursed him. Oddly enough, too, it was almost the same thing with my wife.

She had never got over the effects of her accident, and the shock of the birth of our crippled boy. Indeed, as the years went on, she seemed to grow weaker and weaker, and to rely more and more absolutely on Fanny.

The germ, small as a mustard seed, which has now, after so many years of experimental labor and patient thought, grown up into the great tree of my discovery, lay in my mind in the form of a dormant speculation from the very commencement of my medical career. After my marriage it began to grow and take root there, but for some years I went on with my everyday practice, which was that of a consulting doctor in the city, and said nothing about it. The fact was that the whole seemed too wild, and I was afraid of being set down as one of those enthusiasts who spend all their lives in chasing a shadow.

At last, however, my secret grew too heavy for me to bear, and one night, after dinner, acting on some sudden impulse, I began to unfold it to my wife and Fanny. At first my wife was much interested, and said that it all sounded like one of Poe's tales, but presently, when I got more to the intricate parts of my theory, for it was nothing but a theory then, she fell into a brown study, and after a while broke into the conversation. I thought she was following my line of argument, and about to question it, and was rather disgusted when she said:

"Excuse me, Geoffrey, but did you remember to send that check for the coals?"

I suppose I looked put out, at any rate I stopped abruptly.

"Don't be vexed with me for interrupting, dear," she went on, "but I want to know about the coals, and haven't been able to get a word in edgeways for the last twenty minutes."

'Quite so," I replied, with dignity. "Pray don't apologize; no doubt the coals are more important than my discovery."

"Nonsense, dear," she answered, with a smile; "of course, if there was anything in what you say, it would be very important. But if your story is true, you are as bad as that man Darwin, who believes that we are all descended from monkeys, and what we are told in the Bible about Eve being made out of Adam's rib falls to the ground. So you see it must be nonsense, and the coals are the most important after all."

Now my dear wife was one of the sweetest as she certainly was one of the best, women in the world, but on one point she was always prepared to lose her temper, and that point was Adam's ribs. So, being aware of this, I held my tongue, and after talking a little more about the coals, she said that she did not feel well, and was going to bed.

CHAPTER II.

ALL THE time that I had been holding forth, until my eloquence was quenched by the coal question, Fanny was sitting opposite me, watching my face with all her eyes. Evidently she was interested in what I had to say, though she sat so silent. She was now seventeen or eighteen years of age, and a very fine young woman indeed, but a remarkably silent one.

When my wife had bidden us goodnight and gone, I filled my pipe and lighted it, for I was ruffled, and smoking has a soothing effect upon my nerves.

"Geoffrey," said Fanny, when I had finished, for she always called me Geoffrey, "is this idea of yours a new one? I mean, has it ever entered anybody's brain before?"

"So far as I am aware," I answered, "it is the one exception that was wanted to prove Solomon's rule—it is absolutely and completely new." (This has subsequently turned out to be the fact.)

"If I understand you rightly, your idea, if it can be established, will furnish a rational explanation of the phenomenon of life."

"Quite so," I answered, for her interpretation was in every way accurate, almost pedantically so.

"And," she went on, "the certainty of the practical immortality of the soul, or rather of the 'ego' or individaul identity, will follow as a necessary consequence, will it not?"

"Yes. Individual immortality of everything that has life is the keystone of the arch. If that is wanting there is nothing is my discovery."

"And this immortality will be quite independent of any known system of religion?"

"Certainly, as most people understand religion, namely as typified by the tenets of a particular sect, but not by any means independent of natural religion, and on the other hand altogether dependent on the existence of a supreme, and in the end, all-triumphant power of good, which, if my theory can be upheld, will then be proved beyond the possibility of a doubt."

Fanny thought for a moment or two, and then spoke again.

"Do you know, Geoffrey, if you carry this through, you will go down to posterity as one of the greatest men in the whole world, perhaps as the very greatest!"

I knew from the tone of her voice that she meant what she said, and also that if all this could be proved, her prophecy would probably be fulfilled.

"Yes," I said, "but I suppose that to work the whole thing out, and prove it, would take a life-time. To begin with, the premises would have to be established and an enormous amount of special knowledge acquired, from the groundwork of which, and from the records of thousands of noted cases of mental phenomena, that it would take years to collect, one would have to work slowly up toward the light. A man would be obliged to give his entire time to the subject, and in my case even that would not suffice, for I am no mathematician, and, unless I am mistaken, the issue will depend almost entirely upon the mathematical power of the investigator. He could not even employ anybody to do part of the work for him, for the calculator must himself be imbued with the spirit that directs the calculations, and be prepared to bend them this way or that, to omit this factor and to pick up the other as circumstances require. Now, as you, know I am little short of a fool at mathematics, and therefore on this point alone I am out of the race, and I fear that the Secret of Life will never be discovered by me, though perhaps I shall be able to put some one else on the track of it."

"Yes," said the girl, quietly, "that is true enough, but you forget one thing. If you are not a mathematician, I am, and I can enter into your ideas, Geoffrey, for I believe that we have grown very much alike during the last four or five years—I mean in mind."

I started, for both her statements were perfectly accurate. The girl had remarkable mathematical faculty, almost approaching to genius. I had procured for her the best instruction that I could, but she had now arrived at that point when instructors were of no further use to her. In those days, of course, there were not the facilities for female education that there are now, and though it is not so very long ago, learning in woman was not thought so very highly of. Men rather said, with Martial: "Sit non doctissima conjunx," and so her gift had hitherto not proved of any great service to her. Also she was right in saying that we had grown alike in mind and ways of thought. She had come into the house quite young, but young as she was, she had always been a great companion to me. Not that she was much of a talker, but she understood how to listen and to show that she was giving her attention to what was being said, a thing that in my opinion a very few women can do. And I suppose that in this way, she, in the course of time, became thoroughly imbued with my ideas, and, in short, that her mind, as I thought, took its color from my own. At any rate, it did so superficially, and I know that she would understand the drift of my thoughts long before anybody else did, and would even sometimes find words to clothe them before I could myself.

"Why should we not work on the Secret of Life together, Geoffrey?" she said, fixing her dark eyes on my face.

"My dear," I answered, "you know not what you do! Are you prepared to give up your youth, and perhaps all you life, to a search and a study which may and probably will after all prove chimerical? Remember that such a thing is not to be lightly taken up, or, if once taken up, lightly abandoned. If I make up my mind to understand it, I shall practically be obliged to give up my practice as a doctor to do it: and the same, remember, applies to you, for I should prove a hard task-master. You would have to abandon all the every-day aims and pleasures of your sex and youth, to scorn delights and live laborious days, on the chance of benefiting humanity and for the certainty of encountering opposition and ridicule."

"Yes," she said, "but I am willing to do that. I want to become somebody and to do something with my life, not just to go out like one little candle in a lighted ballroom and never be missed."

"Very well, Fanny, so be it. I only hope you have not undertaken a task beyond your strength. If you have not, you are a very remarkable woman, that is all."

At that moment our conversation was disturbed by the sound of a person falling heavily on the floor of the room above us, which was occupied by my wife.

Without another word we both turned and ran up-stairs. I knocked at the door, but, getting no answer, entered, accompanied by Fanny, to find my dear wife lying in her dressing gown in a dead faint before the toilet table. We lifted her up to the bed, and with great difficulty brought her round, but this fainting fit was the commencement of her last illness. Her constitution appeared to have entirely broken up, and all we could do was to prolong her life by a few months.

It was a most heart-breaking business, and one on which even at this distance of time I do not care to dwell. I was deeply attached to my wife; indeed, she was my first and only love in the sense in which the word is generally used; but my love and care availed but little against the forward march of the Destroyer. For three months we fought against him, but he came on as surely and relentlessly as the tide, and at last the end was upon us. Before her death her mind cleared, as the sun often does in sinking, and she spoke to me so sweetly, and yet so hopefully, that her tender words almost broke my heart. And yet it was a happy death. I have seen many people die, but I never remember one who was so completely borne up across the dark gulf upon the wings of child-like faith. All her fears and griefs were for me, for herself she had none. When at last she had kissed her boy and bade him farewell—thank Heaven he was not old enough to understand what it meant—and said her last word to me, she sent for Fanny and kissed her too.

"Good-bye, my love," she said; "you must look after Geoffrey and the boy when I am gone," and then, as though a sudden idea struck her, she took the girl's hand and placed it in mine. "You will just suit each other," she said, with a faint smile, and those were the last words she spoke.

Fanny colored and said nothing. I remember thinking afterward that most women would have cried.

And then the end came and left me broken-hearted.

It was the night after the funeral, and I was walking up and down my little study, struggling against a distress that only seemed to further overwhelm me the more I tried to bear up against it, and thinking with that helpless bittterness that does come upon us at such times, wrapping us, as it were, in a mist of regret, of the many little things I might have done to make my dear wife happier while she lived, and of the irreparable void her loss had left in my life. It was well for her, I was sure of that, for what can be better than to sleep? But in those days that certainty of a future individual existence, which I have now been able through my discoveries to reach to, was not present with me. It only loomed as a possibility at the end of an untraveled vista. She was gone, and no echo came from where she was. How could I know that I had not lost her forever? Or, even if she lived in some dim heaven, that I too should make my way thither, and find her unchanged; for remember that change is death! It has all passed now. I am as sure as I write these words that at no distant date I shall stand face to face with her again, as I am that the earth travels round the sun. The science that has unalterably demonstrated the earth's course has also vindicated that inborn instinct of humanity so much attacked of late days, and demonstrated its truth to me beyond the possibility of doubt. But I did not know it then.

"I shall never see her again, never!" I cried in my agony, "and I have nothing left to live for!"

"Perhaps you will not," said a quiet voice at my elbow, "but you have your child and your work left to live for. And if there is anything in your discovery, you will see her through all the ages."

It was Fanny, who had come into the room without my noticing it, and somehow her presence and her words brought comfort to me.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, June 14.—The senate spent the day in consideration of the sugar schedule. Lindsay's amendment to place all sugars on the same basis was repealed, 26 to 29. Tillman, in an address, said that the senate would stand convicted if it failed to investigate the charges of corruption in regard to sugar. Hoar, replying, said the charges were infamous.

HOUSE.

A petition said to contain 6,000,000 names urging congress to recognize the Cuban beligerents, was presented by Sulzer, of New York. Adjourned till Thursday.

SENATE.

Washington, June 15.—The senate made a great stride forward to-day by completing the consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill, except that provision relating to Hawaii, which went over. As agreed to, the schedule places on sugar not above No. 16, Dutch standard, 1 cent per pound, 1.30 of a cent for every degree above 75, and sugars above No. 16, Dutch standard, 1.95 cents per pound, but on sugars testing below 87 degrees, 1.10 cents per pound shall be deducted.

SENATE.

Washington, June 16.—The senate to-day agreed to the rates on agricultural products as fixed by the republican members of the finance committee; also the rates on fish and dried fruits. A message was received from the president announcing the Hawaiian treaty, and the senate went into executive session. No action was taken.

SENATE

Washington, June 17.—The senate made greater progress to-day on the tariff bill than any day since the debate opened. Two entire schedules, covering twenty pages, were completed, namely, schedule H, on wines, spirits and beverages, and schedule I, on manufactured cotton goods. This brings the senate to the flax schedule, with the important wool schedule standing next.

HOUSE.

At to-day's session the house passed Lacey's bill for the relief of the residents of Greere county, Oklahoma.

SENATE.

Washington, June 18.—The tariff bill came to a halt in the senate to-day, less than one page of the flax schedule being disposed of. The debate drifted into political channels, Senators Bacon, Vest, Jones, of Arkansas, and Tillman taking part in an exposition of the democratic doctrine on the tariff. It led to several lively exchanges, during which the cleaning of political "dirty linen" was frequently referred to.

SENATE.

Washington, June 19.—The day was rendered noteworthy in the senate by the defeat of the finance committee on four important paragraphs in the flax, hemp and jute schedule of the tariff bill. These were the paragraphs relating to floor mattings, plain jute fabrics, burlaps and cotton bagging. The democrats were enabled to carry their points against these paragraphs by the assistance of the silver republicans and populists and by the help of Messrs. Carter and Hansbrough, straight republicans, on the paragraph relating to matting. It was the first vote during the consideration of the bill on which any republican had broken away from the party, and naturally occasioned some comment.

MAKES A STATEMENT.

Sherman Favors Annexation of Hawaii Under Circumstances.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—In view of the fact that false and misleading statements have been sent out from Washington as to Sherman's position on the question of the annexation of Hawaii, the secretary said that as a rule he was opposed to the United States acquiring outlying territory, but regarded the condition of the Hawaiian island as exceptional on account of the claim of Japan to these islands. He therefore approved the treaty making Hawaii a possession of the United States, but not entitled to admission as a state.

Honorable and Lasting Fame.

DES MOINES, June 16.—To reach and occupy the position of president of the United States is generally regarded as the acme of American honor and fame. But the position alone does not assure true honor or lasting fame. If a man who attains that position has a taint upon him, the office of president cannot remove it. If he is corrupt, incompetent or unfaithful, his prominent position serves to make his dishonor conspicuous, and his fame will soon turn into a lasting disgrace. "Jimmy" Buchanan and "Andy" Johnson can be named as examples of the truth of our words. The chance of becoming president is as one to many millions—very small. The chances of getting corrupt and disgraced in aspiring to the presidency seems to be in the reverse order—very large. We therefore wish to direct American youths to a broader and safer road to true honor and lasting fame. The rapid increase of our population demands thousands of new inventions for the necessities of our multiplying millions. To be the author of a machine that will give aid, comfort and delight to the present and coming generations may be a nobler triumph than to win a presidential race. It is a hope, too, that many may realize. The ambition of the humble mechanic that looks for honor and fame by seeking to give the world a benefaction in the shape of an invention is far above the infatuation which ruins "presidential candidates." The names of American inventors and public benefactors will be revered when the names of some of our presidents and would-be presidents will be forgotten, or only remembered with indifference, regret or contempt.

Drs. Maybe and Mustbe.

You choose the old doctor before the young one. Why? Because you don't want to entrust your life in inexperienced hands. True, the young doctor may be experienced. But the old doctor must be. You take no chances with Dr. Maybe, when Dr. Mustbe is in reach. Same with medicines as with medicine makers — the long-tried remedy has your confidence. You prefer experience to experiment — when you are concerned. The new remedy may be good — but let somebody else prove it. The old remedy must be good — judged on its record of cures. Just one more reason for choosing AYER'S Sarsaparilla in preference to any other. It has been the standard household sarsaparilla for half a century. Its record inspires confidence — 50 years of cures. If others may be good, Ayer's Sarsaparilla must be. You take no chances when you take AYER'S Sarsaparilla.

REV. J. B. WADE, Cured of CONSTIPATION.

"I am astonished at the mildness and yet the efficiency of Dr. Kay's Renovator in moving constipated bowels, and in producing a regular natural discharge. I have been afflicted with constipation for 25 years."—(REV.) J. B. WADE, Morrison, Colorado.

Dr. Kay's Renovator

This remarkable medicine has cured so many of the worst cases of constipation that it certainly REMOVES headache, biliousness, indigestion, as well as every other trouble which finds its cause in constipation. It strikes to the very root of the trouble and cures THE very worst cases which seem to be obscure and in which physicians and all other remedies fail to cure or give relief. It is the best medicine for impure blood, the CAUSE of which may be scrofula, erysipelas, or other troubles, all of which are treated in our new book, "Dr. Kay's Home Treatment," a 68-page treatise on diseases which will be sent to any address for stamp. DOCTORS HAD GIVEN HER UP.

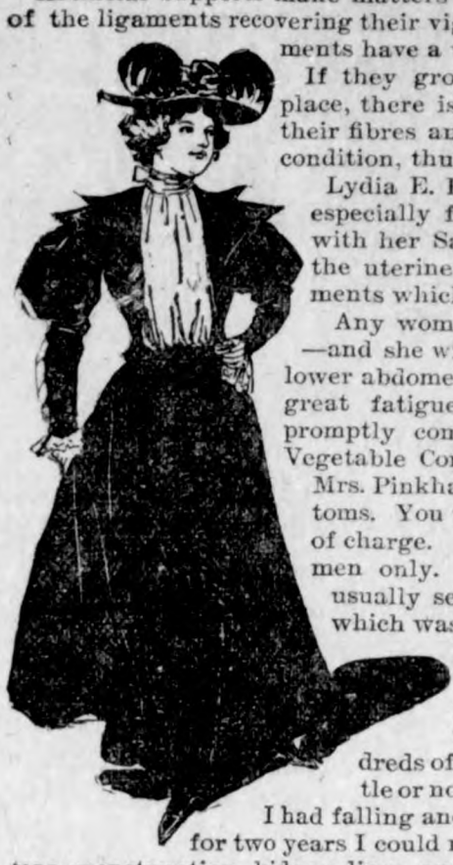
A Convincing Letter From One of Mrs. Pinkham's Admirers.

No woman can look fresh and fair who is suffering from displacement of the womb. It is ridiculous to suppose that such a difficulty can be cured by an artifical support like a pessary.

Artificial supports make matters worse, for they take away all the chance of the ligaments recovering their vigor and tone. Use strengthens, the ligaments have a work to do.



If they grow flabby and refuse to hold the womb in place, there is but one remedy, and that is to strengthen their fibres and draw the cords back into their normal condition, thus righting the position of the womb.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is designed especially for this purpose, and, taken in connection with her Sanative Wash, applied locally, will tone up the uterine system, strengthening the cords or ligaments which hold up the womb.

Any woman who suspects that she has this trouble—and she will know it by a dragging weight in the lower abdomen, irritability of the bladder and rectum, great fatigue in walking, and leucorrhœa—should promptly commence the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If the case is stubborn, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn., Mass., stating freely all symptoms. You will receive a prompt letter of advice free of charge. All letters are read and answered by women only. The following letter relates to an unusually severe case of displacement of the womb, which was cured by the Pinkham remedies. Surely it is convincing:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier cured me when the doctors had given me up. I had spent hundreds of dollars searching for a cure, but found little or no relief until I began the Pinkham remedies. I had falling and displacement of the womb so badly that for two years I could not walk across the floor. I also had profuse menstruation, kidney, liver, and stomach trouble. The doctors said my case was hopeless. I had taken only four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and one of the Blood Purifier when I felt like a new person. I am now cured, much to the surprise of my friends, for they all gave me up to die. Now many of my lady friends are using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through my recommendation, and are regaining health. It has also cured my little son of kidney trouble. I would advise every suffering woman in the land to write to Mrs. Pinkham for aid."—MRS. EMMA PANGBORN, Alanson, Mich.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, '94, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave and now I consider that I am entirely cured. Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Harr's Drug Store.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. A young woman who is under hypnotic control in Mount Clemens, Mich., "sings in a language she doesn't understand." She may be fitting herself for an operatic career.

The Philadelphia Press notes that "Lansing, Mich., attributes the falling off in its number of saloons to the bicycles." It is also true that saloons have caused a falling off of bicycles.

In his account of the Sharkey-Maher fight Corbett neglected to state that he wished the police or somebody had stopped another fight in the same round that was made the last in the New York mill.

That's a pretty story that was told to the Sunday-school children at the recent celebration of the bicentennial at Trinity church in New York. A little chambermaid applied to the bishop for confirmation, and being asked on what grounds she based her request she said that she always swept under the rugs.

According to information received at Washington, D. C., an egg famine has resulted in Cuba from the war, and United States Vice Consul Hyatt at Santiago suggests that there is an excellent market there for American eggs. The eggs sell in Cuba for about 40 cents a dozen. The duties amount to about 10 cents a dozen.

Evidence that the world moves was to have been expected from the Universal Postal Congress in Washington. Perhaps the most striking bit of testimony was the decision of Korea to come into the postal union. It is only a few years since Korea was known throughout the civilized world as the "hermit kingdom," but there is nothing hermit-like in this desire of the Koreans.

Curse cards are being used in Switzerland and Germany to check profanity. People go about with the cards in their pockets, and whenever they hear bad language present one to the swearer to sign. The card has printed on it a pledge to abstain from swearing for a specified time or to pay a pfenning an oath to some charity. Nearly 40,000 cards have been distributed in Switzerland, where there are three languages to swear in.

Deming, New Mexico, dispatches say: At no previous time has there been such activity in the Mexican cattle trade as now. In the first four months of the year 825 cars have been loaded and shipped from the Deming yards, containing a total of 33,000 head. In March 10,000 head were shipped out of Mexico at this point. For April the Mexican cattle shipments from here amount to about 21,000 head. From the state of Chihuahua the figures are far greater. The increase has been tremendous. During April of 1896 14,904 head of beef cattle were shipped from Chihuahua to the United States, while the April shipments for this year have reached as high as 72,644, and this is 72,000 head in excess of the shipments for the preceding month.

According to the official statistics of our commerce the first consignments of Egyptian cotton coming directly to the United States were received during the fiscal year 1884, and amounted to 174,346 pounds. From this small beginning our direct imports rapidly increased until in the fiscal year 1896 they had reached no less a figure than 43,574,769 pounds. With the exception of Egypt, the only cotton-producing country from which the United States imports any considerable amount is Peru. The Peruvian cotton, like the Egyptian, owes its use in this country to certain peculiarities of quality that make it better fitted for some special purposes than our own varieties, but neither the Peruvian nor the Egyptian can properly be said to come into direct competition with our native cottons. As compared with the Egyptian, however, the quantity of Peruvian cotton imported is very small. The largest importation ever recorded, that for the fiscal year 1893, amounted to only 3,411,619 pounds.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

WHITCOMBE CAPTURED.

Officers With Guns Arrest Him in Nebraska.

SIOUX CITY, June 25.—Charles Whitcombe has been captured. Whitcombe is charged with a most remarkable series of crimes. It is charged against him that he has robbed and held up thirty-six farmers in Cherokee county alone. The capture was effected at the Winnebago reservation in Nebraska at the point of a revolver by Sheriff Borowsky, of Dakota county, Nebraska, who, assisted by Sheriff Wheeler, of Cherokee county, Iowa, brought Whitcombe to Sioux City and lodged him in the county jail. The list of Whitcombe's alleged robberies is very long. He first appeared in Iowa in Cherokee county last spring. As a result of his operations there, it is said, thirty-six farmers complained to the county authorities that he not only stole horses, buggies, wagons, harness, etc., but in numerous instances entered farm houses and at the point of a revolver held up the occupants for everything they had of value. Finally Cherokee county became too warm to hold him and he skipped. But before going he defied Sheriff Wheeler by, it is alleged, stealing from him three horses, a harness and a buggy.

MUSIC AT CHAUTAUQUA.

One of the Finest Programs Ever Presented.

DES MOINES, June 25.—The program of the Midland Chautauqua is especially full and varied in musical attractions. A junior chorus class will be conducted daily by Mrs. H. R. Reynolds, beside the regular assembly chorus. Nearly every day there will be some leading musical attraction. Several concert troops have been engaged. The Arion Lady Quartet will be here four days and the Wagner Male Quartet four other days. There will also be two great music days. Miss Marie L. Chambers will conduct recitals, besides singing frequently as as a prelude to lectures or entertainments. The Harmony Male Quartet will furnish music several days. There will also be two great music days, July 9 and 20. No expense or labor has been spared to make these grand events. The best talent from this city and special soloists from Chicago and Denver have been engaged. Also the Apollo club, Des Moines orchestra, High School Glee Club, Miss Harriet D. Beyon, Henri Ruifrok, Arthur Heft, Afro-American Glee Club, Miss Marie Nielson. On these days there will be two grand concerts, one at 2 p. m. and the other at 8 p. m.

WRECKS ON MILWAUKEE.

Two of Them Occurred Near Dedham—Several Are Badly Injured.

DEDHAM, June 27.—A Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul freight, going east, broke in two parts on a grade just west of town, and the caboose and one car rolled down a twenty-foot embankment. The following were injured: Conductor Raif, arm broken; Warren Howard, salesman, Marshalltown, badly injured; two brakemen, from Perry, badly injured. A wrecking train, with surgeons, was sent immediately to assist Dr. Harover, local surgeon, in caring for the injured. When running at a high rate of speed, it collided with a freight going west, and both engines were badly demolished. The engineers and firemen of both trains jumped just before the collision, thus saving themselves from possible death. Dr. R. R. Williams, of Manning, and Dr. Graham, of Manilla, who were on the wrecking train, were both badly injured.

Bolting Populists.

DES MOINES, June 25.—The bolting populists met and perfected an organization by the selection of a state central committee of which A. W. C. Weeks is chairman. It was decided, after considerable debate, not to issue a call for a convention at once, but to commence to prosecute the work of organization, and to devote a month or six weeks to this work. It was practically decided to call the convention in Des Moines during the week of the state fair.

Robbers at Grand Junction.

GRAND JUNCTION, June 26.—Robbers entered the store of Maloney & Whalen by boring a hole through the shutters near the back end of the building and lifting the catch on the inside. They turned their attention mostly to ladies' underwear and ladies' gloves and shoes. It is hard to tell just what the loss is, but it is estimated at from $50 to $100.

Remarkable Wheat Crop.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 28.—The most remarkable wheat crop ever known is now being harvested throughout eastern Tennessee. The season has been a perfect one and farmers had planted an usually large crop. The output will be enormous.

A STORM CROSSES IOWA.

It Did a Great Deal of Damage in Cedar Rapids and Vicinity.

CEDAR BAPIDS, June 25.—A severe wind, lightning and hail storm struck this section of the state. The storm came up so suddenly that people were caught out in all parts of the city. The cloud was low, of greenish color, and when the rain began to fall it became so dark that objects could not be distinguished across the street. The water came down like a waterspout, flooding cellars and doing much damage. Prior to the storm the air was sultry, with low barometer, all the indications pointing to cyclones. The storm proves quite serious and the losses are heavy. The smoke stack of the street railway power house was blown down and all cars are stopped. Trees were uprooted in all parts of the city and the ground is everywhere strewn with trees and branches. Many heavy plate glass windows were broken by sheer force of wind, small buildings were blown down and others unroofed. In some houses all the west windows were blown in. The storm was heavier south, but nothing cyclonic is reported. The damage to fruit and rye will be heavy. Advices from Marshalltown, Atlantic, Audubon, Burlington and other places report similar damage.

WENT UP IN SMOKE.

Marshalltown Times-Republican Plant Destroyed by Fire.

MARSHALLTOWN, June 28.—The Evening Times-Republican plant, one of the best equipped offices in the state, was almost completely gutted by fire at 4 o'clock a. m. The perfecting press was ruined. Water and smoke damaged the composing and editorial rooms. The Marshall Printing company, a job and book bindery establishment, was completely destroyed. The Times-Republican loss is $15,000; insurance, $15,000. The printing company loss is $12,000; insurance, $2,000. The loss on building is $3,000. A new press will be purchased at once, and the paper will be on its feet in a short time.

WILL SUE M'FARLAND.

Attorney General Remley Is Preparing the Case.

DES MOINES, June 24.—Attorney General Remley is preparing a petition in an action to be brought at the September term of the district court against Wm. H. McFarland, ex-secretary of state, and his bondsmen, to recover to the state the amounts it is charged by the investigating committee appointed at the special session last winter were wrongfully retained by him during his term of office. The amount to be sued for is estimated at nearly $20,000. It is also understood that the criminal charges against Mr. McFarland have not been dropped.

SHELBY SAVES $13,777.

County Claim in Broken Bank is Preferred.

HARLAN, June 25.—Judge W. I. Smith has handed down his decision in the first of the cases growing out of the Harlan bank failure. The court orders that the county funds deposited in the bank be a preferred claim. The amount is $13,777, with interest from December of last year. County Treasurer A. Pritchard and his bondsmen are correspondingly relieved.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Herbert Newton, 6 years old, of Cedar Rapids, set a pan of gasoline on fire. The oil exploded and he was fatally burned.

"Divine Healer" Schrader is proving a drawing card at Riverside Park, Sioux City. He has blessed all who have applied to him and according to the patients effected a number of seemingly miraculous cures. Schrader will remain a week. His quarters at the Friendship Hotel are besieged by invalids and cripples seeking cure at his hands.

Cora Martin, colored, was shot and badly hurt at a house in the Whitechapel district of Des Moines recently. The assailant was her husband, who lives at Newton and who, according to reports, heard that she was living with a man named Wallace. He went to the house and called her down stairs. They had a talk and she declined to go away with him and he then pulled a revolver and shot her.

About one hundred editors of democratic newspapers met in Des Moines a few days ago and effected a permanent organization, elected Frank Q. Stuart, editor of the Chariton Democrat as president, and selected him to remain in Des Moines during the coming campaign and edit the democratic literature which will be furnished papers. The Iowa Bimetallic Press Association was the name selected. L. E. Fay, of Clinton County Advertiser, was made vice president; Ed. Meredith, of the Farmers' Tribune, secretary, and S. W. Mercer, of the Iowa State Press, treasurer.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN EUROPE.

LONDON, June 21.—Turkey will withdraw from Thessaly. A satisfactory adjustment has been reached by the representatives of the powers and the porte. A treaty of peace will be signed, and Turkey will get a slight rectification of frontier. The only open question is the method of guaranteeing the indemnity. But this will probably be secured by the powers themselves. An alternative suggestion is that a committee of wealthy Greeks residing in foreign countries may be appointed to administer Greek finance and to stand as security for the payment of the indemnity. The amount of the indemnity which Greece will pay, it is believed, will be £5,000,000, the largest amount the Greeks could pay. The news that this result has been reached is received with general satisfaction in London, and will tend to allay any special popular hostility toward the Ottoman envoy at the jubilee festivities.

PETTIGREW STRICKEN.

Sustains a Partial Stroke of Apoplexy While Addressing the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Senator Pettigrew was overcome in the midst of a violent speech in the senate. He hesitated, failed to enunciate his words and took his seat with the sentence unfinished. Water was brought to him by his friends, who gathered about, and he appeared to revive quickly and business proceeded. Dr. Bain, who was summoned, said the illness was caused by a clot of blood on the brain, but no serious results are expected, if he remained quiet. The senator walked to the carriage with a sprightly gait and without assistance. He said he had no pain, but talked with difficulty and very indistinctly. The doctor said there is no immediate danger, though he pronounced the attack to be in the nature of a slight stroke of apoplexy, causing facial paralysis.

SPANISH MINISTER'S DATE.

Woodford Goes to Madrid in July—Riots in Spain.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—In an interview with the president respecting his mission to Spain, Mr. Woodford learned that he would not leave for Madrid before the latter part of July.

MADRID, June 25.—Serious rioting has taken place at Mieres, in Ovedia province, which is supposed to be due to the increased taxes on food. There was heavy fighting between 8,000 miners and the Spanish troops, consisting of civil guards and the prince's regiment. Two rioters were killed and five severely and many slightly wounded. Two soldiers were killed and several wounded.

SAY GOMEZ IS DEAD.

First He Was Killed; Now He is Seriously Hurt.

HAVANA, June 28.—Rumors have been afloat, probably emanating from official circles, that General Maximo Gomez, the insurgent commander-in-chief, has been killed in a fight near the military line in the province of Puerto Principe. The reports have not been confirmed. Later the report of the killing of Gomez was modified to the statement that he has been seriously wounded, but nobody outside of official circles believes this report to be true.

MAHER AND SHARKEY SIGN.

They Will Fight Before Some Club Outside of California.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Articles for a fight to a finish between Peter Maher and Thomas Sharkey were drawn up at the office of the Police Gazette and subsequently signed in Jersey City by representatives of the two heavyweights. The fight will be before the club, outside of California, offering the best purse, and a side bet of $5,000. The fight is to take place within three months after the final deposit is made on August 2. The referee is to be mutually agreed upon, and Al Smith will be final stakeholder.

No U. P. Foreclosure.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—In response to a resolution of inquiry from the senate in regard to the foreclosure proceedings against the Union Pacific, the attorney general says he knows of no suit to procure a judicial declaration of forfeiture of the rights, privileges, franchises, etc., of the Pacific railroad companies, based upon Section 11, of the act of 1878, or otherwise.

African Expedition Slaughtered.

BRUSSELS, June 25.—The Reform says it learns from good sources that the entire Dhanis expedition to the headwaters of the Nile, including Baron Dhanis himself, has been massacred. The expedition consisted of 6,000 men.

A Deadly Cyclone in Kansas.

SALINA, Kansas, June 26.—News has reached here of a terrific cyclone which passed fifteen miles northwest of Salina. As far as is known three are dead and a number dangerously injured.

CZAR HAS SPOKEN.

Reed Completes the Work of Making Up Committees for Next Term.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Speaker Reed will name his committees the day the present session closes. This will give each chairman time to get his bills in shape for filing, appoint his sub-committees and have everything in shape for the regular session of congress when it meets in December. By following this course there will be no waiting until after the holidays for the house to organize. The list as it now stands makes but few changes in the chairmanships from those of the last house. Among the chairmen of the most important committees are the following: Appropriations, J. G. Cannon, Illinois; banking and currency, J. H. Walker, Massachusetts; coinage, weights and measures, C. W. Stone, Pennsylvania; enrolled bills, Alva L. Hagar, Iowa; foreign affairs, R. R. Hitt, Illinois; interstate and foreign commerce, Wm. P. Hepburn, Iowa; judiciary, D. B. Henderson, Iowa; military, J. A. T. Hull, Iowa; mines and mining, R. G. Cousins, Iowa; naval affairs, C. A. Boutelle, Maine; public lands, John F. Lacey, Iowa.

CUBAN PACIFICATION.

Spanish and Insurgents Are Both Confident.

NEW YORK, June 25.—A letter written by General Gomez, dated May 13, has been received by the Cuban junta. It relates that the rains having been begun, fighting is over for the season. During the period of inactivity the Cuban army will be reduced to 3,000 men, but, writes the commander-in-chief, these men are well equipped, well fed, sturdy and efficient soldiers. The Spanish army, the Cuban general describes as ill-equipped and ill-fed. On his famous march from Havana through Matanzas to Las Villas (or Santa Clara) General Weyler led 25,000 or 35,000 soldiers. One-third of that number died from small pox and fevers. The hospitals are full, and the Spanish troops discouraged. Many men have received no pay for five or six months. But for the stubbornness of Spain the war would be deemed now at an end with the glory all attaching to the Cuban army.

HORRIBLE WRECK.

Wabash Passenger Plunges in a Gorge—A Score Killed.

KANSAS CITY, June 28.—A St. Louis express on the Wabash railway, plunged through a trestle at Missouri City, Mo., carrying down the entire train, with the exception of the rear a Pullman. The number of dead is estimated at from nine to twenty-five. The known dead number nine. A dozen are more or less injured. The gorge, which a few hours previously was practically empty, had become a raging torrent by a tremendous rain storm and the structure weakened. A farmer returning home from Missouri City waited for the coming of the train and tried to flag it, but owing to the terrific downpour the engineer failed to see him. A passenger on the rear car of the wrecked train flagged a freight within 300 feet of the last coach.

BREVITIES.

The jury in the case of J. S. Bartley, ex-state treasurer of Nebraska, charged with embezzlement, returned a verdict of guilty.

The Duquesne forge, Garland chain works and Westinghouse electric works, at Pittsburg, have started with a force of 20,000 men, previously unemployed.

Over a million people witnessed the six-mile pageant attendant upon the queen's jubilee exercises. It was probably the grandest affair the world has ever seen.

The secretary of the treasury has received information of the capture of the suspected filibuster Dauntless, off Indiana Key, Fla., with men, arms and ammunition on board.

At Odessa recently mob of 300 infuriated peasants seized and savagely lynched one Dudnik, a murderer. Dudnik was charged with the commission of nineteen murders.

A dispatch from Madrid says: Premier Canovas del Castillo declares that in the event of a conflict between the United States and Spain the latter country is capable of rising to the same emergency.

A Madrid dispatch says since January 1, last, $8,100,000 has been paid into the government treasury by Spanish parents redeeming their sons from military service in Cuba and the Philippines. This money, it is announced, has been turned over to the navy department to meet the expenses of increasing the navy.

In Washington recently the court instructed the jury in the case of Broker John W. McCartney, for alleged contempt of the senate sugar trust committee, to return a verdict of acquittal. McCartney is the last of the accused witnesses to be tried, so the record stands: Acquittals six, convictions one, namely Broker Chapman, who served 25 days in jail.

My Fellow Laborer.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

CHAPTER III.

ABOUT three months after my dear wife's death, Fanny Denelly and I commenced our investigations in good earnest. But, as I had prophesied, I soon discovered that I could not serve two masters. It was practically impossible for me to carry on the every-day work of my profession, and at the same time give up my mind to the almost appalling undertaking I had in hand. Any spare time that was left to me, after providing for my day's work, was more than occupied in collecting notes of those particular kinds of physical and mental, or, to coin a word, spirituo-mental phenomena—some of which are, as readers of "The Secret of Life" may see, exceedingly rare—that I required as a groundwork of my argument, and with the carrying on of a voluminous correspondence with such scientific men all over the world as did not set me down as a dreamer, or worse. So I had to make up my mind either to do one thing or the other, give up my search after the moral philosopher's stone, or surrender the lease of my chambers in the city. For some months I worked double tides, and hesitated, but at last my decision could no longer be postponed, it must be one thing or the other. So in my perplexity I consulted Fanny, and having laid the whole matter before her, asked her which course she thought I ought to take. Her answer was prompt and unhesitating. It was to the effect that I should give up my profession and devote myself exclusively to my investigations.

"You have six hundred a year to live on," she said, "and therefore will not starve; and, if you succeed, you will achieve immortal fame; for you will have found the way to minister to a mind diseased, and, if you fail, you will have acquired an enormous mass of knowledge which you may be able to turn to account in some other way. I have no doubt myself on the matter. Think of what the reward before you is."

I did not quite like Fanny's way of putting the matter. She always seemed to me to dwell too much upon the personal advantages that would result from my success. Now such a quest as mine is not for the individual; it is for the whole wide world, and for the millions and millions who are yet to live upon it. What does it matter who finds, provided that the truth is found? Why, any right-thinking man should be glad, if his circumstances will permit of it to give his life to such a cause; aye, even if he knows that, so far as he is concerned, he will never reach the goal, but be trodden down and forgotten. He should be glad and happy, I say, if he can only think that some more fortunate seeker will be able to step a pace to forward on his prostrate form. But, after all, even the best and widest-minded women, as I have found them, will look at things in a strictly personal light. I do not think that as a class they care much for humanity at large, or would go far out of their way to help it; of course, I mean if they are certain that nobody will hear of their good work. But this is only an opinion.

I pointed this out to Fanny, who shrugged her handsome shoulders, and said that really she did not think it mattered much which way one looked at it; the great thing was to succeed.

Well, I took her advice, partly because it fell in with my own views, and partly because I have always paid more attention to Fanny than to any other living creature. Indeed, to this day I hold her judgment in almost childish veneration. It was a hard wrench to me, giving up the outward and visible following of my profession, more especially as I was then in a fair way to achieve considerable success in it; but it had to be done. I felt it my duty to do it, and so I made the best of it. What was still harder, however, was the reception that my decision met with among such few relatives as I possessed, and my friends and acquaintances. They remonstrated with me personally and by letter, and annoyed me in every way, and upon every possible occasion. Even relatives with whom I had never had the slightest intercourse thought this a good opportunity to inaugurate an epistolary acquaintance. One old aunt wrote to ask what amount of truth there was in the rumor that I had given up my profession, and what I had taken to in place of it? I replied that was devoting myself to scientific research. An answer came by return of post, to the effect that, having heard that I was doing so well as a doctor, she had recognized my talents in her will. This she had, on receipt of my letter of explanation, at once given instructions to alter by the ommission of my name; she was not going to have her money squandered on scientific researches, which always ended in smoke. "Science, indeed," her letter ended. "Why you might as well have taken to looking for the North Pole or even literature!"

Finding my resolution unalterable—for one of my few good points is that I do not turn back—I was, however, soon given up by the whole family as an irreclaimable ne'er-do-well, and it was, I believe, even hinted among them that I was not altogether responsible for my actions. At any rate, the rumor did get round, and whether it was owing to this or to the fact that I could no longer be looked upon as an individual who was likely to make money, I soon noticed a decided change in the manner of my acquaintance, professional and lay, toward me. Before, their attitude had at least been respectful; now it was, if not contemptuous, at least tinged with superior pity.

Well, I put up with it all humbly enough, but now that my position is such that these very people who have treated me with contumely for so many years, go about and boast of their intimacy with me, and are even so kind as to supply the papers with the supposed details of my private life, I will confess that the pill was a bitter one for me to swallow. Not that I was altogether without comfort, faintly foreseeing the hour of triump that has come.

Besides, even when we must perforce do worship to Mammon and bow the knee to Baal, there are yet consolations. It is something to feel with the keen instinct which knows no error that the minds of those contemptuous scoffers, who think so well of themselves and so ill of you, are to your mind as the ditch-mud is to the mirror reflecting heaven's own light; that in you there dwells a spark of the glorious creative fire of which they know nothing, and cannot even understand; and that they, the rich, the respected, the prosperous and unctuously happy, are as far beneath you, whom they despise as an unsuccessful dreamer, in all that really tends to make a man divine, as their dogs and horses are beneath them.

That was how I thought in those days, and think so still, though now that it is showered in upon me, I do not care much for that world-wide praise I used to covet in my bitterer and more lonely moments, when imminent failure seemed to press me round like the darkness closing in. It is too rank and too undiscerning, and much of it is merely tribute to success and not to the brain and work that won it.

In short, as will be understood with difficulty, being human, I felt all this neglect of which I have striven to show the color, pretty sharply, and though I submitted, and was perfectly able to analyze its causes, it gave my mind a misanthropic turn, from which it has never quite recovered, for the world's adulation can never atone for the world's contempt, or even for the neglect of those around us who make our world. And thus as time went on I gradually acquired a greater and greater dislike to mixing in society, and began to attach myself more and more to my studies and to Fanny, who became by degrees the only person that I thoroughly trusted and relied on the world.

When my dear wife had been dead eighteen months, it occurred to me that there were inconveniences attaching to our mode of life, and that if she saw matters in the same light, it would be well to draw the bond of friendship and affection yet closer by marriage. Not that I was in love with Fanny Dennelly in the sense in which the term is generally used. Indeed, it was one of her great charms in my eyes that it seemed possible to live on the terms of the closest friendship and affection with her without any nonsense of the sort being imported into the intimacy, either on one side or the other. Also, as far as I was concerned, I had buried all passion of that kind with my dear wife, and my speculations occupied my mind far too entirely to allow of the entry into it of any of those degrading imitations to which imaginative and intelligent men are, oddly enough, especially liable if they are not very hard worked, probably on account of the greater irritability and sensitiveness of their brains.

What I looked forward to in marrying Fanny Denelly was a reasonable and sensible companionship, entered into for the comfort of congenial society and to furtther the end to which we had both devoted our lives. Also I wasdesirous of giving my unfortunate boy a permanent substitute for his dead mother, and one whom he dearly loved. Accordingly, I took occasion one evening after dinner to speak to Fanny about the question, before we settled down to our night's work. This I did with some trepidation, for however well you may think you understand a woman, it is not always possible to know how she will take a matter of the sort. Still I put the best face on it that I could, and talked for a quarter of an hour without stopping.

All the time she sat still with her hands behind her head, and her dark eyes fixed upon my face, and never said a word.

"You are a very curious man, Geoffrey," she answered, with a little laugh when at last I had done.

"Why?" Iasked.

"Because you have put the whole question to me as though marriage were a chapter out of 'The Secret of Life.'"

"Well, for the matter of that, so it generally is," I said.

"And you have not said one word of affection. It has all been business, from beginning to end."

"My dear Fanny," I answered, "you know how deeply I am attached to you. I did not think it necessary to enlarge upon the point."

"Yes," she answered, gently, and with a new light shining in her eyes, "but it is a point that women like to hear enlarged upon. I am only a woman, after all, Geoffrey. I am not all scientific and mathematical."

I saw that I had made a mistake, and had appealed too much to the reasoning side of her nature as opposed to the sentimental. To tell the truth, when one lives day by day with a woman, and all one's talk is of the highest problems of existence, one is apt to forget that these matters are, after all, only more or less accidental to her, and that the basis of flesh and blood, on which they are built up, remains the same. In short, one gets to view her more in the light of a man.

A man can lose his old Adam in studies or aspirations, or in devotion to a cause; but a woman, so far as my experience goes, and as the moral of this story tends to prove, can never quite get rid of the original Eve.

"My dearest Fanny," I said, "forgive me," and then I took another line of argument with her which I need not enter into—for that tale has been told so often before, and besides one always looks back at those sort of things with a kind of mental blush. Sufficient to say that it proved effective.

"I will marry you, dearest Geoffrey," she murmured at last, "and I hope that in looking together for the Secret of Life, we shall find the secret of Happiness also."

"Very well, love," I said; "and now that we have settled that, let us get to our work. We have lost an hour already!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

INFLUENCE OF MUSIC.

Effects of Different Harmonies on the Human Heart and Respiration.

MM. Binet and J. Courtier give in the Revue Scientifique an account, translated for the London Lancet, of experiments made by themselves and others on human beings and animals of the effects of music on the heart and respiration. M. Patrizi, an Italian physiologist, had a patient with a wound in the skull which laid bare the brain. He was thus enabled to observe the actual effect of music on the cerebral circulation. Music occasioned an increase in the size of the brain itself. The effect on the cerebral circulation was variable, the vessels being sometimes constricted and sometimes dilated. At other times no effect was produced. MM. Binet and Courtier experimented on a musician. Isolated notes, chords in unison and discords were first tried. Both major chords struck in a lively manner and discords quickened the respiration, the latter more especially. Minor chords tended to retard respiration. When melodies were tried it was found that all, whether grave or gay, produced quickened respiration and increased action of the heart. The lively tunes produced the greatest acceleration. The subject also sometimes unconsciously endeavored to synchronize his respirations with those of the singer. In rallentando and diminuendo pasages the respiration was retarded. Where the sound was wholly uncomplicated by emotional ideas, as in single notes or chords, the heart's action was accelerated, but not in so marked a degree as when a melody either grave or gay was played. During operatic pieces or those well known to the subject the acceleration attained its maximum. The subject had a strongly marked capillary pulse. The influence of music on the capillary circulation was tested by a plethysmograph attached to the right hand. The capillary tracing usually showed a diminution of pulsation. This diminution was occasioned by the sound of single notes, chords or discords. In sad melodies, especially minor ones, there was almost no diminution, while in lively airs the diminution was marked.

Decidedly Objectionable.

The Tenant—I want to change my office for one on the second floor. The Agent—What's the trouble? The Tenant—You know I'm on the fourteenth floor now. Well, every time my wife's mother comes up to see me it gives her palpitation of the heart so to come up on the elevator that she invariably insists upon stopping in my office two hours for the palpitations to ease down. Gimmie a room that can be reached by a stairway.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WHEN Freedom from her mountain height
Unfurled her standard to the air,
She tore the azure robe of night,
And set the stars of glory there;
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes
The milky baldric of the skies,
And striped its pure, celestial white
With streakings of the morning light;
Then, from his mansion in the sun,
She called her eagle bearer down,
And gave into his mighty hand,
The symbol of her chosen land.

Majestic monarch of the cloud!
Who rear'st aloft thy regal form,
To hear the tempest trumping loud,
And see the lightning lances driven,
When strive the warriors of the storm,
And rolls the thunder-drum of heaven—
Child of the sun! to thee 'tis given
To guard the banner of the free,
To hover in the sulphur smoke
To ward away the battle-stroke,
And bid its blendings shine afar,
Like rainbows on the cloud of war,
The harbingers of victory!

PREDICTIONS OF JOHN ADAMS

Extract from a Letter to His Wife, July 3, 1776.

Philadelphia, July 3, 1776.

Had a declaration of independence been made seven months ago, it would have been attended with many great and glorious effects. We might, before this hour, have formed alliance with foreign states. We should have mastered Quebec, and been in possession of Canada.

You will, perhaps, wonder how such a declaration would have influenced our affairs in Canada; but, if I could write with freedom, I could easily convince you that it would, and explain to you the manner how. Many gentlemen in high stations, and of great influence have been duped, by the ministerial bubble of commissioners, to treat; and in real, sincere expectation of this event, which they so fondly wished, they have been slow and languid in promoting measures for the reduction of that province. Others there are in the colonies who really wished that our enterprise in Canada would be defeated; that the colonies might be brought into danger and distress between two fires, and be thus induced to submit. Others really wished to defeat the expedition to Canada, lest the conquest of it should elevate the minds of the people too much to hearken to those terms of reconciliation which they believed would be offered us. These jarring views, wishes and designs occasioned an opposition to many salutary measures which were proposed for the support of that expedition, and caused obstructions, embarrassments, and studied delays which have finally lost us the province.

All these causes, however, in conjunction, would not have disappointed us if it had not been for a misfortune which could not have been foreseen, and perhaps could not have been prevented—I mean the prevalence of the smallpox among our troops. This fatal pestilence completed our destruction. It is a frown of Providence upon us, which we ought to lay to heart.

But, on the other hand, the delay of this declaration to this time has many great advantages attending it. The hopes of reconciliation which were fondly entertained by multitudes of honest and well-meaning, though shortsighted and mistaken people, have been gradually, and at last totally extinguished. Time has been given for the whole people maturely to consider the great question of independence, and to ripen their judgment, dissipate their fears, and allure their hopes, by discussing it in newspapers and pamphlets—by debating it in assemblies, conventions, committees of safety and inspection—in town and county meetings, as well as in private conversations! so that the whole people, in every colony, have now adopted it as their own act. This will cement the union, and avoid those heats, and perhaps convulsions, which might have been occasioned by such a declaration six months ago.

But the day is past. The second day of July, 1776, will be a memorable epocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations, as the great Anniversary Festival. It ought to be commemorated, as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp, shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of the continent to the other, from this time forward forever.

You may think me transported with enthusiasm; but I am not. I am well aware of the toil and blood and treasure that it will cost us to maintain this declaration, and support and defend these states. Yet, through all the gloom, I can see the rays of light and glory; I can see that the end is more than worth all the means, and that posterity will triumph, although you and I may rue, which I hope we shall not.

True Americanism.

Behold what a great fire a little matter kindleth! Senator Sumner's speech on the Alabama question, which excited only passing notice here at that time, set all England ablaze. The reason of this is plain. The English people have been constantly deceived by Americans traveling in that country as to the real state of feeling toward them in the United States. There are but few Americans who are republicans or democrats to the core; and when they go abroad and dine at the tables of English monarchists they shed their Americanism with alacrity, and toady to the ignorance and bigotry of their entertainers, and asseverate that the warmest fraternal feelings are cherished by the people of the United States for their "English brethren," whereas the fact is, there is a strong and deep-seated feeling in America of resentment or hostility to Great Britain. Do not misunderstand us. We are not for war with any nation; on the contrary, we are for building up this nation in wealth, in civilization, in refinement, in political strength, in military power, in all things that go to make us broad and tall and great; and then we are for having this nation, in the majesty of its might, stand for peace, for humanity and a common brotherhood. Is there not, at last, to be realized on earth the conception of a missionary nation—a people too great and too numerous to be anything else but magnamimous and kind and loving? Let us give the pulsations of the mighty heart of this nation to the welfare of the world, and settle all petty national quarrels in a spirit characteristic of a generous and a mighty people.—New York Ledger.

THE GRANDEST REMEDY.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by the use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for coughs colds and consumption. It don,t fail. Trial bottles free at Harr's.

There is a time for everything; and the time to attend to a cold is when it starts. Don't wait till you have consumption but prevent it by using One Minute Cough Cure, the great remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Harr.

The Corn Root Louse.

The daily papers contained a somewhat sensational report a week or two ago of the appearance of what was regarded as a new pest in the corn fields. Professor Osborn informs us that the pest referred to is simply our old friend the corn root louse. This louse has been very general this year, as we anticipated, and we might say that we fully expect it will be in the years to come unless farmers learn the lesson, namely, rotate. It is not safe to plant corn three years in succession on any field. If we do, the corn root louse and the corn root worm will compel us whether we will or no either to plant something else on the same ground or take what we get.—Wallaces' Farmer.

Corn Crop in Minnesota.

The chances for a corn crop in Minnesota are of the slimmest kind. The Minnesota farmers laughed last week when we asked them how their corn was, and the usual reply was: "If you find any corn in Minnesota you will have to dig for it". We fear the same is true in Northern Iowa. However, the climate of these statee can almost work miracles, and where the corn is started and a good stand by the 10th of June it is not safe to predict a very great failure although such is entirely possible and we might say within the range of probabilities. — Wallaces' Farmer.

PARTY PLATFORMS.

DEMOCRAT.

The democracy of Iowa in convention assembled send greeting to the nearly 7,000,000 patriots who participated and aided in the battle of the people in their struggle for their rights in the last campaign, by giving renewed expression of devotion to the principles of the democracy of the nation as set forth in the platform adopted by the democratic party at Chicago in 1896. We lay special emphasis upon that portion of the national platform of the democratic party on the financial question, believing that the very existence of the farming, laboring and commercial interests of this country depends upon a change of our financial policy, and we enter into the first campaign after the great battle of the people against the combined corporate and money power, in which that peerless statesman and patriot, W. J. Bryan, was our leader, with the reassertion "that we demand the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

We declare that the methods resorted to by the leaders of the republican party in the late national campaign have justly alarmed the entire country. Their flagrant acts of bribery, intimidation, colonization and deception, overawed, and were intended to overawe, the electorate, and thus prevented a free and an honest expression of public opinion. We affirm this to be a direct attack upon popular government and a declaration of war against free institutions. If submitted to without rebuke the presidential office will be permanently under the domination of money and of the corrupt influences which money controls.

Syndicates Denounced.

The purpose of these high-handed and criminal methods is evident from the results following their success, the trusts, the combines, the syndicates, the corporations, all united to make the government an agency for the promotion of their special interests and welfare. They contributed millions upon millions to Mark Hanna's campaign fund, and having triumphed by the corrupt use of these vast sums they are about to recoup themselves from the pockets of the people. The notorious almost avowed, purpose of the tariff bill now under consideration in the senate is to re-pay the trusts, and the mine, the mill, and the factory barons for their pecuniary aid to McKinley; the railroads are to be compensated by a pooling law; and it is on the program, as announced by Secretary Gage, to requite the banking corporations by retiring the greenbacks and Sherman treasury notes, and increasing the interest bearing debt five hundred million dollars for their exclusive benefit. The prosperity which was promised was prosperity to these special interests, and not to the people at large. The people have not realized it, and while legislation is for the classes instead of the masses, they never will. It is to further the ends of those who do not produce, but absorb wealth, and legislation in whose behalf is rapidly segregating society into the few very rich and the very many poor, that Speaker Reed arbitrarily refuses to permit the national house of representatives to legislate, and denies to the American people the representation in the government to which they are entitled by the fundamental law.

False Promises.

We point to the fact that the claims of the democratic party in the last campaign have proven true, and that the claims made by the republican party have proven false, and not one of the pledges made by that party has been fulfilled. The citizen was urged to vote for McKinley and prosperity; confidence was to be restored; the mills were to open up; unemployed men would find work; the farmer would find a profitable market for his products. All these and more were promised to take place as soon as it should be known that McKinley was elected. Months have passed since that event, and instead of the fulfillment of these promises, prosperity has not made its appearance; the mills and shops are closing down; the army of unemployed is growing larger and the farmers of Iowa since his election are marketing their products at a less price than ever before.

The Temple Amendment.

We demand that the statute in operation in Iowa for more than a generation, holding railroad corporations to a strict accountability for negligent injury to their employes, shall be restored, by proper amendment, to its original scope and intent. We hold that the clause of said law, which provides that "no contract which restricts such liability shall be legal and binding," is eminently fair and just; that contracts in contravention of the spirit of this provision are against public policy and should be void; and we demand that the protection to life and limb, embodied in this provision, shall be fully restored, in order that corporations engaged in the operation of railways shall not be allowed by insurance contracts or otherwise to escape liability for their acts of negligence, or shift this just responsibility upon the shoulders of their employes. We hold that any other rule is an inducement to negligence and sets a premium on wrongdoing.

State Board of Control.

We reaffirm the position of the democratic party in this state in demanding that our state institutions be governed by a non-partisan board of control, which can intelligently comprehend their relative wants and economically and justly apportion among the whole that which their just needs demand, thus doing away with the expensive and disgraceful scramble for appropriations and contests for preferment carried on by the officials of the several institutions before each legislature.

The Looted State Treasury.

We denounce the scandalous looting of the state treasury recently brought to light, whereby an army of unnecessary and over-paid employes have been saddled upon the state, and other extravagances whereby the rate of taxation has been greatly increased. A public debt of nearly $1,000,000 has been incurred, while the ability of the people to pay taxes has been diminished.

The Anti-Fusion Act.

We denounce the republican party in Iowa for resorting to the last refuge of the enemy of popular government, in passing the anti-fusion act, denying the right of the majority to rule.

Printing and Binding Steal.

We denounce the republican party of Iowa for enacting and maintaining a law that permits the state printer and state binder to charge extortionate fees for work done, thus robbing the people through unjust taxation.

We demand that no state officer, whose duty it is to pass upon questions pertaining to the insurance, building and loan, banking or other corporate business, shall hold any official position or own any stock in any such corporation.

The Book Trust.

We favor such legislation as will relieve the people of Iowa from the extortions practiced by school book monopolies.

The Cheshire Amendment.

We point to the defeat of a measure to reform the taxation laws applying to public corporations, in such manner as to place upon them a fair proportion of the public burdens, we call attention to the fact that the execution of the present inadequate taxation laws by republican officials has tended constantly toward minimizing the proportion of the public burden borne by these interests, while the taxes of the rest of the people have constantly increased. We demand the passage by the next general assembly of laws to equalize these burdens by bringing under the purview of the tax gatherers intangible as well as tangible values.

Co-operation Invited.

We go before the people of this state with the conviction that the interests of the whole people demand a change in the policy and management of our state affairs, and we invite the co-operation of every patriotic citizen so believing.

POPULIST.

The democratic, populist and free silver republican parties of Iowa in convention assembled, unite in the following declaration of principles. We congratulate our respective parties upon having polled for their splendid leader, Hon. Wm. J. Bryan of Nebraska, the largest vote ever cast in Iowa for a presidential candidate prior to the election of November, 1896, and we rejoice in expressing our supreme confidence that the vote for the state ticket in 1897 will be larger still.

We, the populists of Iowa, in convention assembled, hereby declare these our principles.

We are first and unalterably in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 with gold, and we heartily endorse the declaration of the republican party of Iowa in 1877, that "The silver dollar, having been the legal unit of value from the foundation of the federal government until 1873, the law by which its coinage was suspended should be repealed at the earliest possible moment and silver made with gold a full legal tender for the payment of all debts both public and private.

We declare that the methods resorted to by the leaders of the republican party in the late national campaign have justly alarmed the entire country. Their flagrant acts of bribery, intimidation, colonization and deception overawed, and were intended to overawe, the electorate and thus prevent a free and honest expression of public opinion. We affirm this to be a direct attack upon popular government and a declaration of war against free institutions. If submitted to without rebuke the presidential office will be permanently under the domination of money and of the corrupt influences which money controls.

That all supplemental currency should be issued by the government and should be a full legal tender for all debts, and we view with alarm the threat of the present administration to withdraw and to destroy the government issue, and look upon the movement as a further crime in decreasing the amount of money in use, while population is increasing, and increasing the bonded debt in times of peace.

We characterize the "anti-fusion" law as the most infamous measure ever enacted by a partisan legislature, and one calculated to legislate the dominant party into power in Iowa by disarming and disfranchising the sovereign electors in whose hands there rests the security of our institutions and the rights and liberties of our people.

We denounce the republican party for its contemptible subserviency to corporate interests as demonstrated by the conduct of the last legislature, affecting employes of corporations.

We demand legislation to protect all employes of said corporations in their natural rights.

We favor the economical administration of national, state, county and municipal affairs, and recommend retrenchment in expenditures instead of increased taxation to meet the current deficiencies in income.

We denounce in unmeasured terms the prevailing corruption in our state administration, recently brought to light, and we declare that the deplorable and humiliating disclosures call imperatively for a sweeping change of officials thoughout.

We also recommend to the favorable consideration of the voters of Iowa that fundamental idea of people's government the initiative and referendum.

We favor a just income tax and denounce double taxation under our present law as an outrage on the overburdened toiler in field and factory.

SILVER REPUBLICAN.

The free silver republican party of Iowa, in convention assembled, hereby declare these are our principles:

We are first and unalterably in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, and heartily endorse the declaration of the republican party of Iowa in 1877, that "the silver dollar, having been the legal unit of value from the foundation of the federal government until 1873, the law by which its coinage was suspended should be repealed at the earliest possible day, and silver made with gold a legal tender for the payment of all debts, both public and private."

That the epithet "cheap money," as applied to the old standard silver dollar of the United States, is both disloyal and dishonest. It had its origin and use with the money shark during the war of the rebellion, in denouncing the legal tender notes, and it is now the favorite term of those who want to make money scarce and high, so they may take advantage of it, and pay upon the necessities and distresses of the government and people.

We reaffirm the doctrine of the resolution passed by a republican congress in 1878, known as the Matthews resolution, to the effect that the payment of all national obligations in the silver dollar of 412½ grains standard is not in violation of the public faith nor in derogation of the public creditor.

We further affirm that the national debts, having been contracted under the legal ratio of 16 to 1, the proposition made by the republican party to make the gold standard permanent and to ignore the constitutional sphere of silver, is rank repudiation of the contract, and we therefore denounce it as both dishonest and un-American.

We demand that the statute in operation in Iowa for more than a generation, holding every railroad corporation to strict liability for negligent injury to employes, through the acts of agents or other employes, shall be restored acording to its original and beneficent spirit. We point particularly to that part of the statute which unequivocally declares that "no contract which restricts such liability shall be legal or binding," and we especially demand that this protection to life and limb, so guaranteed, shall be restored, in order that it shall not be possible for railroad corporations to escape liability by the indirection of an alternative contract. We denounce the practice of shifting upon the shoulders of employes the burden that properly belongs to the employer. We denounce the subserviency of the present legislature to corporation demands, as proved by the defeat of the measure to restore this ancient right, and, as patriotic citizens, we view with shame and alarm the eveidence these undemocratic influences have been able to control the state government, thereby defeating the ends of manifest justice.

Reduction in Salaries.

We denounce the republican party for criminal wastefulness and extravagance in state affairs. We charge it with having increased the tax levy almost 50 per cent, at the same time running almost a million dollars behind on unpaid outstanding warrants, while the ability of the people to pay has decreased fully one-half. And we demand the reduction of all public salaries to meet the new condition of things.

We are in favor of equal and just taxation, that the burdens of government may be borne equitably by all, and we are opposed to any policy that grants special privileges to any class.

The unjust discriminations in favor of the moneyed aristocracy is an abuse of the taxing power that threatens to reduce the producers of wealth to a servile tenancy as degrading as the feudalism of mediaeval times.

We favor the taxation of railroad express, telegraph, telephone and sleeping car companies at rates corresponding with the rates at which other property in other states is taxed.

We favor the economical administration of national, state, county and municipal affairs and recommend retrenchment in expenditures, instead of increased taxation, to meet the current deficiencies in income.

We denounce in unmeasured terms the prevailing corruption in our state administration recently brought to light, and we declare that the deplorable and humiliating disclosures call imperatively for a sweeping change of officials throughout.

Relying upon the ultimate wisdom and patriotism of the people of Iowa, and appealing alike to their intelligence, experience and moral sense, we invite their co-operation in abridging official malfeasance, dethroning corporate power and bringing again to our beloved commonwealth the blessings of prosperity already too long delayed.

FUSION IS COMPLETE

SILVER FORCES AGAIN UNITE ON A TICKET.

Fred White for Governor, B. A. Plummer for Lieutenant Governor, and Kinne for the Supreme Court.

DES MOINES, June 24.—The democratic state convention was called to order by Chairman Healy, who announced Fred E. White, of Keokuk county, as temporary chairman, and S. W. Mercer, of Johnson county, as secretary. Mr. White addressed the convention, his address being received with great enthusiasm. The convention authorized the state central committee to act as a conference committee to meet with similar committees appointed by the populist and silver republican conventions.

Permanent organization was effected with J. M. Parsons, of Rock Rapids, as chairman, the other temporary officers being made permanent. After a short address, the conference committee reported that an agreement had been reached by which the nominations would be divided as follows: Governor and supreme judges to the democrats; lieutenant governor and state superintendent to the free silver republicans; railroad commissioner to the populists. Nomination of candidates being in order a large number of candidates were placed in nomination. An informal ballot resulted as follows: White, 617½; Burgess, 132; Bashor, 55½; Dayton, 120; Roberts, 65; Leach, 26; Williams, 127; Healy, 32; Boies, 9; Daly 14; Carpenter 2; Stubbs, 14. Before the second ballot was completed Mr. White was nominated by acclamation. The committee on resolutions then reported and its report was at once adopted.

The platform committee was as follows: First district, H. M. Eichers, Webster; Second, W. I. Hayes, Clinton; Third, John S. Murphy, Dubuque; Fourth, J. P. Blaise, Cerro Gordo; Fifth, J M. Terry, Lee; Sixth, G. M. Tripp, Jasper; Seventh, E. B. Evans, Polk; Eighth, F. Q. Stuart, Lucas; Ninth, George W. Cullison, Shelby; Tenth, M. F. Healy, Webster; Eleventh, John L. Barter, Sac. The convention then proceeded to the nomination of a candidate for judge of the supreme court. Judge L. G. Kinne and Judge Freeland, of Wayne county, were the only candidates, the ballot resulting 997 for Kinne and 200 for Freeland. The nominations made by the other conventions were then endorsed and the convention adjourned.

DES MOINES, June 24.—The populist state convention was called to order by J. Bellangee, chairman of the state central committee. After an address by C. O. Holly, A. W. C. Weeks, of Mahaska county, offered a resolution to instruct the committee on credentials to reapportion the representation on the vote for Crane in 1895, but it was tabled.

The roll was called for members of committees, the committee on resolutions being composed as follows: First district, L. C. Liming, Van Buren; Second, J. N. Newman, Muscatine; Third, J. C. Ferris, Franklin; Fourth, L. D. Van Gorden, Atlamakee; Fifth, L. S. Wood, Linn; Sixth, Perry Engle, Jasper; Seventh, John Kent, Dallas; Eighth, W. H. Robb, Union; Ninth, L. B. Tabor, Guthrie; Tenth, A. B. Starrett, Humboldt; Eleventh, I. R. Carroll, O'Brien.

A conference committee was appointed to confer with a similar committee from the democratic and silver republican conventions. Mr. Weeks objected to giving this committee any authority, but the chairman decided that it had authority. Weeks called upon all populists who were in favor of only populists controlling a populist convention to meet at the Kirkwood for a conference. At the conference the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, that a committee of five be appointed to sit in the convention and whenever that body takes any action that makes it a democrat, and not a populist convention, said committee should protest, and then arise and lead the true blue populists out of the hall.

Permanent organization was effected with the following officers: Chairman, Gen. J. B. Weaver, of Jasper; secretary, W. N. Hinton, of Albia; assistant secretary, Alf Wooster; reading clerk, Charles Weller. Ex-congressman Towne, of Minnesoto, made an appeal for harmony among the silver forces. The chairman of the conference committee announced that an agreement had been reached by which the democrats were to name the candidates for governor and supreme judge, the silver republicans were to nominate candidates for lieutenant governor and superintendent, and the populists were to name a candidate for railroad commissioner. A. W. C. Weeks objected to the plan and offered a resolution that the populist state central committee be instructed to file a petition with the secretary of state for the nomination by the populists of a a full ticket. The motion was defeated, and Weeks led twenty-seven members of the convention from the hall, declaring that the convention had repudiated the principles of populism. The committee, after adopting its platform, completed its work by nominating S. B. Crane for railroad commissioner.

DES MOINES, June 24.—J. B. Romans, of Denison, was temporary chairman of the convention of silver republicans and F. O. Hinckman, of Guthrie county, temporary secretary. Permanent organization was effected by the selection of D. E. Collins, of Palo Alto county, for chairman, and G. F. Rinehart, of Jasper, for secretary. Ex-Congressman Towne addressed the convention briefly, after which the platform was considered and adopted. Nominations being in order, the convention selected B. A. Plummer, of Forest City, for lieutenant governor, and G. F. Rinehart, of Newton, for superintendent of public instruction.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, June 21.—The senate made giant stretches on the tariff bill to-day, covering fifty-six pages and establishing a record for progress during this tariff debate. The last two schedules of the dutiable list, covering paper and manufactured sundries, were completed with the exception of the paragraphs on hides, gloves, coal and some lesser articles, which went over. This advanced the senate to the free list, which was completed in three hours.

SENATE.

Washington, June 22.—Fair progress was made on the wool schedule. The duty on first class wool was agreed to at 10 cents per pound and on second class wool 11 cents, which is between the house and senate rates in each case. The rates on third class wools went over. Carter and Foraker charged Allison with violating an agreement on the wool schedule. Allison vehemently denied it and the episode was quite exciting.

SENATE.

Washington, June 23.—After a contest lasting throughout the day, the senate completed the paragraphs of the wool schedule relating to raw wool and advanced into the features relating to manufactured woolen goods. Much time was consumed by political discussion. Morgan introduced a bill for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands.

SENATE

Washington, June 24.—A stubborn contest over the duties on manufactured woolen goods occupied the attention of the senate throughout to-day. It was a day of constant roll calls and of cross-fire debates on the effect of the duties in advancing rates. Many amendments were proposed to reduce the rates, but these were rejected by decided majorities. Less than five pages were disposed of during the day.

SENATE.

Washington June 25.—The senate to-day completed the wool schedule, the silk schedule and the tobacco schedule of the tariff bill and with this accomplishment the tariff leaders had the satisfaction of knowing that all of the schedules of the bill and the free list had been gone over once. There now remains only to go through the bill a second time, passing on the items passed over. These are very numerous and important, including hides, gloves, coal, tea and beer. After that the internal revenue features of the bill will be all that remains.

SENATE.

Washington, June 26.—The senate started to-day on its second passage through the bill, the purpose being to dispose of all items previously passed over. The paragraphs considered were in the chemical and earthenware schedule, and failed to elicit more than technical debate.

CORNELL WINS.

New York College Won the Great Boat Race.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 26.—Cornell won the great triangular intercollegiate boat race on the Hudson, Yale was second and Harvard was third. The order at the end of the first mile was: Cornell, Harvard, Yale; the order at the end of the second and third miles was: Cornell, Yale, Harvard. Cornell ended five lengths ahead of Yale and Yale four lengths ahead of Harvard.

England May Protest.

LONDON, June 26.—In the commons, in response to a question by Becket, conservative, whether her majesty's government was aware that Queen Liliuokalani was deposed by a small body of American residents who assumed sovereignty and were about to turn the islands over to the United States, the parliamentary secretary, Curzon, said the government did not feel called on to express an opinion relative to the circumstances out of which the present situation in Hawaii had arisen. It would, however, be the object of the government to see that whatever rights belonged to Great Britain and British subjects were fully maintained.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, June 25.—Patents have been allowed to Iowa inventors but not yet issued, as follows: To J. McCormick, of Spencer, for a sprocket chain adapted to transmit power and motion from a drive shaft to another shaft that extends at right angles to the drive shaft. To C. Hohnsbehn, of Waverly, for an improvement in the cream separator for which he has prior patents. An approximately bell shaped partition applied to the bowl is the main feature of the improvement. To J. M. Fuller, of Newton, for a tender for traction engines connected therewith in such a manner that the tender will not interfere with the movement of the engine in rounding curves, backing, or going over irregular surfaces. To Dr. W. S. Simpson, of Grinnell, for a spring mattress for beds that prevents the annoyances and discomforts incident to the sagging when a person is incumbent thereon. Auxiliary springs in brackets fixed to the corners of the bed support the mattress. To C. A. Suma, of Ida Grove, for a flue cutter adapted to cut off a tube in a boiler by simply striking a single blow with a hammer on the handle of the complete device. To E. A. Losee, of Lake City, for an automatic stock waterer that allows animals to drink from cups at pleasure without wasting water. To R. Turner, of Des Moines, for the typewriter known as the "Jewett" and manufactured by the Duplex Typewriter Co., of Des Moines. Valuable information about securing, valuing and selling patents sent free to any address.

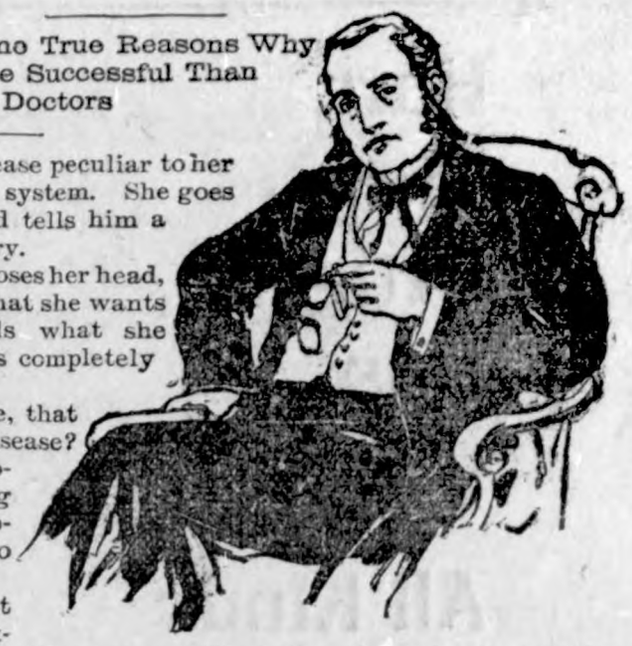
WHY SO MANY REGULAR PHYSICIANS FAIL

To Cure Female Ills—Some True Reasons Why Mrs. Pinkham is More Successful Than the Family Doctors



A woman is sick; some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story.

She holds something back, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and thus completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it any wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still, we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician.

It was for this reason that years ago Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., determined to step in and help her sex. Having had considerable experience in treating female ills with her Vegetable Compound, she encouraged the women of America to write to her for advice in regard to their complaints, and, being a woman, it was easy for her ailing sisters to pour into her ears every detail of their suffering.

In this way she was able to do for them what the physicians were unable to do, simply because she had the proper information to work upon, and from the little group of women who sought her advice years ago a great army of her fellow-beings are to-day constantly applying for advice and relief, and the fact that more than one hundred thousand of them have been successfully treated by Mrs. Pinkham during the last year is indicative of the grand results which are produced by her unequaled experience and training.

No physician in the world has had such a training, or has such an amount of information at hand to assist in the treatment of all kinds of female ills, from the simplest local irritation to the most complicated diseases of the womb.

This, therefore, is the reason why Mrs. Pinkham, in her laboratory at Lynn, Mass., is able to do more for the ailing women of America than the family physician. Any woman, therefore, is responsible for her own suffering who will not take the trouble to write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

"There, don't take on so," said her friend in tones of pity, "it might have been your bicycle."

A New Variety.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

Of all the girls there were or are, the girl graduate is the sweetest by far.

It appears to be the belief in Washington that a sugar king can do no wrong.

Mr. Wanamaker evidently believes that the epigram is every bit as effective as the upper cut.

It is quite evident that Russia doesn't propose to take any "innocent bystander" chances in that settlement.

The lawyers in Perry county, Ohio, have struck. They decline to try any more cases before Judge Wright, whom they consider not just right.

It cost an Atlanta merchant $10.75 for "kissing a pretty customer when she was not looking." Wonder what he would have had to pay if she had been looking?

The United Brethren church proposes to strike out the word "obey" in all marriage rites henceforth. The united sisters have long been accustomed to strike out the obedience.

The hesitancy on the part of some railroad men to express an opinion as to legislation legalizing pooling indicates not that they have no convictions, but that they wish to ask only what they can get.

Dexter Gigger and his brother, Elbridge, the sole survivors of what was once the powerful Hassanamisco tribe of Indians, in Maine, are petitioning the Legislature of that state for an annuity of $250 each. There are two other survivors, both old women, who receive a pension of $300 and $200 respectively.

A Broklyn clergyman has invented an instrument that will photograph any sound that can be heard by the human ear. The inventor would better not attempt to sell one of his machines at the Illinois executive mansion. The governor will probably not care to preserve any photograph of the things he is hearing just now.

Dean Matthews of Des Moines, Iowa, said in a recent sermon on "Young Women in Business Circles:" "Young women, you have gone into the markets of the world as workers. Prepare to do your work on an equality with man, and do not think it charity or ask it as a favor. And above all, don't cry." The admonition is timely. At the same time a woman who is always womanly will receive consideration if not favors.

Philip D. Armour does not like the butterine law, but it is his own fault that the foundation for his collar is warm these days. Mr. Armour well knew how to maintain the manufacture of butterine, and it is to his credit that the law ruining his big industry was passed. When it comes to "buttering legislative fingers" butterine serves every purpose of butter. That Mr. Amour did not embroider the reputation of La Salle street for that sort of thing is proved by the passage of the law.

A counterfeit of a peculiar character is at present widely current in the west. This is a fifty-cent piece, which appears to be made of coin silver, or, at any rate, silver which differs but slightly from that used in the mints. This counterfeit is one of the most dangerous that has yet made its appearance, and, naturally enough, because it is not made, as so many others have been, of base coin. It has been in existence now for two years or more, and in spite of the efforts made by the secret service officials, its source has not been located. The coin appears to be a counterfeit, in fact, only in the sense that it is not minted by the government. Its existence is rendered possible by the difference between the face and the bullion value of the coin.

The annual report for 1896 of the superintendent of insurance of New York upon life, casualty and assessment insurance companies shows that the gross assets of the life companies are $1,228,324,341.74, an increase of $85,904,415.21 over last year. New York state companies have $739,614,213.86 assets, an increase of $50,193,725.31. The liabilities are $1,053,608,138.07, increase $70,938,385.69. The liabilities of New York state companies are $629,860,200.38. The gross divisible surplus is: New York state companies, $109,754,013.48; companies of other states, $64,962,190.19. THE NEWS IN IOWA

REMARKABLE MARRIAGE

Woman Claims to Know Nothing of It—Man Wants it Affirmed.

SIOUX CITY, July 1.—The most remarkable case ever begun in court was commenced by J. L. Lewis, who asks the district court to affirm the marriage with Anna E. Erickson, which he claims was performed under the common law in January, but which she denies ever having been a party to while conscious. The girl, who is not more than 20, had Lewis arrested recently for assault and battery, and his defense then was that she was his wife and he could beat her if he saw fit. The court did not seem to agree and the girl went back with her father, while Lewis was fined, the fine being suspended. He now asks that the marriage be affirmed. The girl is working out as a domestic. Originally she worked in Lewis's office. They roomed in adjoining apartments at the Great Northern for some time, and while there, Lewis claims, they married themselves under the common law.

TROLLEY CAR FATALITY.

Inexperienced Crew Kills a Small Boy at Burlington.

BURLINGTON, July 1.—The great strain on the motor lines here during the Chautauqua has made it necessary to employ new and inexperienced motormen and conductors. A new crew while running a car at nearly twenty miles an hour, down a steep grade, ran over Lee Spitzmueller, aged 7 years, cutting him squarely in two, leaving half of his body on each side of the track. A few hours before the same crew ran into a hack, wrecking it and breaking the driver's leg.

COL. GATCH DEAD.

Sudden Summons of the Veteran Des Moines Lawyer.

DES MOINES, July 2.—Colonel C. H. Gatch, ex-senator from Polk county, and one of the most prominent men of the state, died yesterday, after a short illness. Col. Gatch was born in Ohio in 1825. He was a state senator in Ohio in 1858, a delegate to the national republican conventions of 1856 and 1884, district attorney of Polk county, and a member of the Twenty-first general assembly.

OSKALOOSA COLLEGE.

Lack of Funds Forces It to Abandon Its Work.

OSKALOOSA, July 2.—Oskaloosa College has practically ceased to be a college for the time being. At a meeting of the trustees it was decided to take off the last three years of study and confer no degrees. President J. M. Atwater has resigned. The change was inevitable, owing to lack of funds. It will hereafter be a preparatory school for Drake University.

Off for Toronto.

DES MOINES, June 30.—While the Y. P. S. C. E. people are getting ready to start for the western lands, another formidable body of young people is planning an exodus to the domains of Queen Victoria to attend the Third International Conference of the Epworth League. Mr. C. B. Roberts, of Adel, one of the publishers of the Adel News, and a member of the transportation committee of the state organization, is planning to have a large party leave Des Moines on July 13, with special through sleepers to Toronto. An excursion across the lake to Niagara will be one of the principal attractions of the trip.

Iowa Library to Be Replaced.

DES MOINES, July 1.—Regents of the state university met here to formulate plans for replacing the library recently destroyed by fire. They decided to ask for an emergency appropriation of $15,000 and a tenth of a mill tax for four years, which would produce $55,000 a year. A committee consisting of Regents Swalm, Abernethy, Gilliland, Pickett, Holbrook and Ingham was appointed to present the matter to the legislature.

Ottumwa Babe Murdered.

OTTUMWA, July 1.—The body of a babe was found in the Des Moines river five miles south of Ottumwa. The body had been in the water for a week, and was badly decomposed. An inquest was held, but nothing was developed. From the position of the body when found, it had probably floated down from the city and doubtless was thrown in the river at Ottumwa.

Organized Against Rats.

OTTUMWA, June 1.—The business men and citizens of Lovilia have organized a club and will make weekly attempts to exterminate the enormous number of rats in that neighberhood. One day a week will be set apart for the work and the 200 members of the club will all participate.

Railroad Man's Suicide.

CEDAR RAPIDS, June 30.—Frank Liddle, a Cedar Rapids railroad man out of work, committed suicide by shooting himself in his room in a hotel. He left a letter saying his mother-in-law was to blame, but his wife says he has been insane for some time.

FIGHT MAY END FATALLY.

Tom Jordan Assaulted by McCartney Brothers Near St. Anthony.

MARSHALLTOWN, July 3.—County Attorney B. F. Cummings went up to St. Anthony to investigate the circumstances of an assault on Tom Jordan, who is in a precarious condition as a result of injuries inflicted by Pat and Mike McCartney, neighbors. Jordan's chances for recovery are not very good. The forehead is gashed and several deep knife wounds are made on the body. One of these is in the shoulder, one in the left side, barely missing the abdominal cavity, but the most dangerous wound is on the right side, the knife penetrating the liver. The McCartney brothers are said to be old bachelors, well along in years, and reside across the road from Jordan. Jordan is an industrious farmer with a family, his wife being a niece of the McCartneys. The families, it seems, had previously had trouble, but of late all had been peaceable. On the afternoon preceding the row one of the McCartneys and Jordan went to St. Anthony together, accompanied by Jordan's daughter. When they reached home Jordan got out and helped carry the groceries into McCartney's house. The girl took the team home, and the next seen of her father was when he came staggering home covered with blood. The supposition is that Jordan was knocked down with a hoe and stabbed. The cause of the trouble is not known, and Jordan has been unable to give the particulars.

GRIEF FOR THE SETTLERS.

Sweeping Decision in the O'Brien County Land Cases.

DES MOINES, July 1.—The commissioner of the general land office has rendered another decision on the O'Brien county forfeited railroad lands, which, if affirmed by the secretary of the interior, will result in the changing of owners of much of the valuable and improved lands in O'Brien county. The decision involves the northwest quarter of section 5, in Baker township, which is owned by purchase from the Sioux City & St. Paul railroad by John Schneider, and has improvements on it worth $4,000 or $5,000, besides the value of the land. The commissioner makes a very lengthy decision, the gist of which is that Schneider purchased the land from the company when he knew that the railroad had no title to it, and the company could convey none.

SUES THEM BOTH.

State Seeks to Recover From Secretary McFarland and Suel J. Spaulding.

DES MOINES, July 1.—Ex-Secretary of State McFarland and Suel J. Spaulding, the latter ex-secretary of the pharmacy commission, have been sued in the district court of Polk county, through their bondsmen, for amounts alleged to be due the state. McFarland's bondsmen are asked to pay the amount he is alleged to have secured from the census employes by causing them to return to him a part of their salaries in consideration of their having been continued in the employ of the state. Spaulding's bondsmen are asked to pay the amount he is said to have appropriated from the pharmacy commission treasury when acting as its secretary and treasurer.

FOUR KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Horrible Work of a Storm in Plymouth County.

SIOUX CITY, July 1.—A family of four persons was killed on a farm in Plymouth county, about eighteen miles north of Sioux City by a bolt of lightning during a storm. The lightning struck the home of Mrs. Charles McCausland, killing her, her son, Charles, her step-son, Frank Mills, and the hired girl. Three days passed before the calamity was discovered, when neighbors found that all were dead.

Treasurer Moore's Shortage.

BOONE, July 3.—The board of supervisors finished checking up the books of defaulting Treasurer Moore, and announce the shortage to be $13,740.81. Of this Moore returned $4,000 to his bondsmen in checks and securities, making their loss just that much less. Moore has disappeared.

Thieves in Lee County.

KEOKUK, July 3.—The dry goods store of McDonald & Meek at Bonaparte was burglarized and a large quantity of clothing and furnishing goods taken. David Simmons also suffered the loss of a valuable horse. There is no clew to the thieves.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Fred Bridwell, of Villisca, was recently shot in the arm by unknown parties. He was out calling on a lady friend during the evening and on leaving was fired upon by parties unknown, he says. The wound is not considered very serious. Jealousy is supposed to be the cause.

A dispatch says that the auditor of Polk county, deducting from the returns made by the assessors, finds the total value of the personal property and of the real estate in Polk county is $23.434,035. The personal property is valued at $8,252,999, and the real estate is valued at $14,178,701 by the assessors. He also finds that Polk county has 2,849 dogs.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

FRANCE AND SIAM.

More Than Likely the French Will Call Siam to Account in Short Order.

BANKOK, July 1.—Siam's relations with France are strained. It is reported that 100 Siamese under the royal commissioners have invaded the province of Gourg, in Luang Psrabang, collected taxes, sacked and burned villages and carried off a number of prisoners. The Siamese also invaded the Cambodian province and at Pnompenh they pillaged a number of villages. The Siamese officials also prevent the Latonians on the right bank of the Mekong river from returning to the left bank. French registration is not acknowledged in Bankok, nor in the provinces. The papers of French proteges are torn up by the police and the claims of French protection not allowed. The Cambodians, Annamites, Laotians, Chinese, Swiss, Greeks, Turks and Arabs who are French proteges are seized for military service and the wives of defaulters imprisoned. The international court refuses to hear French complaints.

CENSUS OF RUSSIAN EMPIRE.

First General Figures Ever Taken Show a Total of 129,211,113.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—For the first time in history a general census has been taken of the population of the Russian Empire, which is shown to number 129,211,113, of which total 64,616,280 are males, and 64,594,833 females. United States Consul General Karal, at St. Petersburg, who transmits the figures to the state department, says they show that in forty-five years the population of Russia has doubled, and during the last twelve years it has increased 20 per cent. To take this census the Russian government employed an army of 150,000 persons, and its completion in three months is regarded as a great achievement, in view of the vast expanse of territory to be covered and the illiteracy of the population.

REBELS DEFEATED.

The Brazilian Troops Win a Decisive Victory.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Telegraphic advices from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, are to the effect that General Oscar, the commander of the government troops, has commenced a decisive fight against the fanatics. The attack in general is in accordance with carefully laid plans. Wherever possible artillery was turned upon the fanatics, intrenchments were destroyed and a great loss of life is reported in official dispatches. The rebels, it was reported, yielded before the federal troops at several points.

MILLS ARE CLOSED.

Iron Workers Numbering Nearly 100,000 Are Idle.

PITTSBURG, July 2.—As a result of the failure of the joint wage conference of the Amalgamated Associated Iron and Steel Workers and the manufacturers to agree upon a scale at the Youngstown conference, all union mills have closed down. Between 75,000 and 85,000 men are idle. President Garland says he looks for a settlement after the annual repairs at the mills are completed.

Uruguay's Rebels.

BUENOS AYRES, July 1.—The correspondent in Montevideo, Uruguay, telegraphs that the government has received information that the rebels have established a provisional government in Rivera. The revolutionary forces are now being distributed over all the north of Uruguay, with the view of driving back the government troops wherever possible and taking possession. Four hundred rebels recently captured in Argentine territory have been released.

Louis Gallot Is Found Guilty.

NEW ORLEANS, July 1.—Louis Gallot, who, in conjunction with Bookkeeper Louis C. Colomb, abstracted about $300,000 from the Union National Bank by juggling with the balances so as to always show a credit to Gallot in the bank, was found guilty on about sixty counts in the indictment against him. The discovery of the frauds led to the closing of the bank, and Colomb committed suicide before he could be arrested.

Two Trains Crash.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Three were killed and twenty to thirty injured in a rear end collision on the Galena division of the Chicago & Northwestern railway at West Chicago, thirty miles from the city. The dead are: John Gooding, Fon Du Lac, Wis.; Mrs. R. Shipman, Appleton, Wis., and an unidentified man, supposed to have been a tramp, riding between the engine and baggage car.

The Record Goes Down.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 1.—Arthur Gardiner, of Chicago, at the national circuit bicycle meet, broke the world's one mile handicap record. Gardiner's time was 2:05 1-5. The world's previous record was 2:05 3-5, made by Mertens this year.

CREATES A CRISIS.

Resignation of Crespo's Cabinet Causes Excitement in Venezuela.

CARACAS, Venezuela, July 1.—The resignation of the cabinet has created a crisis not only in the administration of the government, but also among the people. The excitement runs high, the sensational action of the ministry, which was, however, not wholly unexpected, being the paramount topic of discussion in crowded cafes and clubs. President Crespo was unable to harmonize the differences in his official family over the Guiana boundary and arbitration treaty, the element contending that the provisions of that agreement ignored the sovereignty of Venezuela in stipulating that the United States and Great Britain only and not Venezuela should name the members of the tribunal of arbitration and having continued implacable.

SPECIAL CURRENCY MESSAGE.

Commission Plan May Be Endorsed by McKinley.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The question of whether the president will send a special message to congress recommending the creation of a currency commission will be definitely decided in a few days. The president is strongly inclined at this time to send a special currency message to congress, regarding himself as in a considerable measure pledged to this course.

Peace Negotiations.

LONDON, July 1.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says: "Emperor Nicholas has again written to the sultan urging him to accelerate the peace negotiations by renouncing demands with which it is impossible for Greece to comply. As a result of this letter the sultan has virtually accepted the terms of the powers, leaving only details to be settled."

Spanish Province Burned.

LONDON, July 3.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Madrid says that a huge fire has been raging in the mountains of the province of Tucharia, in southern Spain. The flames have extended over an area of twenty miles, destroying villages, cattle and other property. It is feared that there has been considerable loss of life.

Ohio Democrats.

COLUMBUS, O., July 1.—The Ohio state democratic convention declared for free silver and nominated Horace L. Chapman for governor. There is an implied arrangement for John R. McLean for senator. Mr. Chapman is a large owner and operator of coal mines. He never held any office and had never been a candidate.

Presidential Nominations.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The president has nominated W. W. Rockhill, District of Columbia, minister and consul general to Greece, Roumania and Servia; A. S. Hardy, of New Hampshire, minister resident and consul general to Persia; A. E. Sith, of Illinois, consul to Victoria, B. C.

Rich Silver Vein Discovered.

ASPEN, Colo., July 1.—At a depth of 1,000 feet, a body of metallic ore, that runs 24,000 ounces of silver, has been struck in the Mollie Gibson mine. It is believed that the lost ore chute has been recovered. This discovery caused Mollie Gibson stock to advance 20 cents a share.

BREVITIES.

The estimate of Chicago's population by the publishers of the city directory, just printed, is 1,823,000, an increase of 76,000 over last year.

It is announced that as a result of the recent experimental shipment of American butter to England under the patronage of the agricultural department, an order has just been placed by a London firm of merchants for the entire daily product of the Iowa Agricultural College, which was one of the two places from which the butter was taken. The product is 800 pounds daily, and other merchants are attesting in letters the good results achieved by the experiment.

The campaign which is now beginning in east Cuba will be the grandest military effort made by the Spanish army in the island since the war began in 1895. The rainy season, the intense heat now prevailing all over the island, and the dire increase by yellow fever at this time of year of the death rate among the Spanish soldiers, have not prevented the advance of General Weyler against General Calixto Garcia. It is known here that a few days ago the prime minister cabled to Weyler that it was necessary to "crush the revolution in a short time, at no matter what sacrifice of life." Spain knows that time is the greatest ally of the patriots, as each day of the war means $250,000 more of expense for the Spanish treasury. If Weyler should remain inactive during the summer the prolongation of the struggle one year more would be certain. In the face of this dark prospect for Spain, Canovas has decided to throw the last card. In Puerto Principe and Santiago de Cuba, where the summer is even more trying than in the west, the "sacrifice of life," of which the Spanish minister speaks, will be really terrible in the Spanish army. The war will also be without mercy on both sides.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

SAVE THE CITIES, THE SUBJECT OF LAST SUNDAY.

From the Text: Ezekiel, Chapter XXVII, Verse 3, as Follows: "O Thou That Art Situate at the Entry of the Sea" —Moral Leprosy the Destroyer.

THIS is a part of an impassioned apostrophe to the city of Tyre. It was a beautiful city—a majestic city. At the east end of the Mediterranean it sat with one hand beckoning the inland trade, and with the other the commerce of foreign nations. It swung a monstrous boom across its harbor to shut out foreign enemies, and then swung back that boom to let in its friends. The air of the desert was fragrant with the spices brought by caravans to her fairs, and all seas were cleft into foam by the keel of her laden merchantmen. Her markets were rich with horses and mules and camels from Togarmah; with upholstery, and ebony, and ivory from Dedan; with emeralds, and agate, and coral from Syria! with wine from Helbon; with finest needlework from Ashur and Chilmad. Talk about the splendid state rooms of your Cunard and Inman and White Star lines of international steamers—why, the benches of the state rooms in those Tyrian ships were all ivory, and instead of our coarse canvas on the masts of the shipping, they had the finest linen, quilted together and inwrought with embroideries almost miraculous for beauty. Its columns overshadowed all nations. Distant empires felt its heartbeat. Majestic city, "situate at the entry of the sea."

But where now is the gleam of her towers, the roar of her chariots, the masts of her shipping? Let the fishermen who dry their nets on the place where she once stood; let the sea that rushes upon the barrenness where she once challenged the admiration of all nations; let the barbarians who built their huts on the place where her palaces glittered, answer the question. Blotted out forever! She forgot God, and God forgot her. And while our modern cities admire her glory, let them take warning of her awful doom.

Cain was the founder of the first city, and I suppose it took after him in morals. It is a long while before a city can ever get over the character of those who founded it. Were they criminal exiles, the filth, and the prisons, and the debauchery are the shadows of such founders. New York will not for two or three hundred years escape from the good influences of its founders—the pious settlers whose prayers went up from the very streets where now banks discount and brokers shave, and companies declare dividends, and smugglers swear custom house lies; and above the roar of the drays and the crack of the auctioneers' mallets is heard the ascription, "We worship thee, O thou almighty dollar!" The church that once stood on Wall st. still throws its blessing over all the scene of traffic, and upon the sips that fold their white wings in the harbor. Originally men gathered in cities from necessity. It was to escape the incendiary's torch or the assassin's dagger. Only the very poor lived in the country, those who had nothing that could be stolen, or vagabonds who wanted to be near their place of business; but since civilization and religion have made it safe for men to live almost anywhere, men congregate in cities because of the opportunity for rapid gain. Cities are not necessarily evils, as has sometimes been argued. They have been the birthplace of civilization. In them popular liberty has lifted up its voice. Witness Genoa, and Pisa, and Venice. The entrance of the representatives of the cities in the legislatures of Europe was the death blow to feudal kingdoms. Cities are the patronizers of art and literature—architecture pointing to its British museum in London, its Royal library in Paris, its Vatican in Rome. Cities hold the world's scepter. Africa was Carthage, Greece was Athens, England is London, France is Paris, Italy is Rome, and the cities in which God has cast our lot will yet decide the destiny of the American people.

At this season of the year I have thought it might be useful to talk a little while about the moral responsibility resting upon the office bearers of all our cities—a theme as appropriate to those who are governed as the governors. The moral character of those who rule a city has much to do with the character of the city itself. Men, women and children are all interested in national politics. When the great presidential election comes, every patriot wants to be found at ballot box. We are all interested in the discussion of national finance, national debt, and we read the laws of congress, and we are wondering who will sit next in the presidential chair. Now, that may be all very well—is very well; but it is high time that we took some of the attention which we have been devoting to national affairs and brought it to the study of municipal government. This it seems to me now is the chief point to be taken. Make the cities right, and the nation will be right. I have noticed that according to their opportunities there has really been more corruption in municipal governments in this country than in the state and national legislatures. Now, is there no hope? With the mightiest agent in our land, the glorious gospel of Jesus Christ, shall not all our cities be reformed, and purified, and redeemed? I believe the day will come. I am in full sympathy with those who are opposed to carrying politics into religion; but our cities will never be reformed and purified until we carry religion into politics. I look over our cities and I see that all great interests are to be affected in the future, as they have been affected in the past, by the character of those who in the different departments rule over us, and I propose to classify some of those interests:

In the first place I remark: Commercial ethics are always affected by the moral or immoral character of those who have municipal supremacy. Officials that wink at fraud, and that have neither censure nor arraignment for glittering dishonesties, always weaken the pulse of commercial honor. Every shop, every store, every bazaar, every factory in the cities feels the moral character of the city hall. If in any city there be a dishonest mayoralty, or an unprincipled common council, or a court susceptible to bribes, in that city there will be unlimited license for all kinds of trickery and sin; while, on the other hand, if officials are faithful to their oath of office, if the laws are promptly executed, if there is vigilance in regard to the outbranchings of crime, there is the highest protection for all bargain making. A merchant may stand in his store and say: "Now, I'll have nothing to do with city politics; I will not soil my hands with the slush;" nevertheless the most insignificant trial in the police court will affect that merchant directly or indirectly. What style of clerk issues the writ; what style of constable makes the arrest; what style of attorney issues the plea; what style of judge charge the jury; what style of sheriff executes the sentence—these are questions that strike your counting rooms to the center. You may not throw it off. In the city of New York, Christian merchants for a great while said: "We'll have nothing to do with the management of public affairs," and they allowed everything to go at loose ends until there rolled up in the city a debt of nearly $120,000,000. The municipal government became a hissing and a byword in the whole earth, and then the Christian merchants saw their folly, and they went and took possession of the ballot boxes. I wish all commercial men to understand that they are not independent of the moral character of the men who rule over them, but must be thoroughly, mightily affected by them.

So, also, of the educational interests of a city. Do you know that there are in this country about seventy thousand common schools, and that there are over eight millions of pupils, and that the majority of these schools and the majority of those pupils are in our cities? Now, this great multitude of children will be affected by the intelligence or ignorance, the virtue or the vice, of boards of education and boards of control. There are cities where educational affairs are settled in the low caucus in the abandoned parts of the cities, by men full of ignorance and rum. It ought not to be so; but in many cities it is so. I hear the tramp of coming generations. What that great multitude of youth shall be for this world and the next will be affected very much by the character of your public schools. You had better multiply the moral and religious influences about the common schools rather than abstract from them. Instead of driving the Bible out, you had better drive the Bible further in. May God defend our glorious common school system, and send into rout and confusion all its sworn enemies.

I have also to say that the character of officials in a city affects the domestic circle. In a city where grogshops have their own way, and gambling hells are not interfered with, and for fear of losing political influence officials close their eyes to festering abominations—in all those cities the home interests need to make imploration. The family circles of the city must inevitably be affected by the moral character or the immoral character of those who rule over them.

I will go further and say that the religious interests of a city are thus affected. The church today has to contend with evils that the civil law ought to smite; and while I would not have the civil government in any wise relax its energy in the arrest and punishment of crime, I would have a thousand-fold more energy put forth in the drying up of the fountains of iniquity. The church of God asks no pecuniary aid from political power; but does ask that in addition to all the evils we must necessarily contend against we shall not have to fight also municipal negligence. Oh, that in all our cities Christian people would rise up, and that they would put their hand on the helm before piratical demagogues have swamped the ship. Instead of giving so much time to national politics, give some of your attention to municipal government.

I take a step further in this subject, and ask all those who believe in the omnipotence of prayer, day by day, and every day, present your city officials before God for blessing. If you live in a city presided over by a mayor, pray for him. The chief magistrate of a city is in a position of great responsibility. Many of the kings and queens and emperors of other days have no such dominion. With the scratch of a pen he may advance a beneficent institution or balk a railway confiscation. By appointments he may bless or curse every hearthstone in the city. If in the Episcopal churches, by the authority of the Litany, and in our non-Episcopate churches, we every Sabbath pray for the president of the United States, why not, then, be just as hearty in our supplications for the chief magistrates of cities, for their guidance, for their health, for their present and everlasting morality?

My word now is to all who may come to hold any public position of trust in any city. You are God's representatives. God, the king and ruler and judge, sets you in his place. Oh, be faithful in the discharge of all your duties, so that when all our cities are in ashes, and the world itself is a red scroll of flame, you may be, in the mercy and grace of Christ, rewarded for your faithfulness. It was that feeling which gave such eminent qualifications for office to Neal Dow, mayor of Portland, and to Judge McLean, of Ohio, and to Benjamin F. Butler, attorney-general of New York, and to George Briggs, governor of Massachusetts, and to Theodore Frelinghuysen, senator of the United States, and to William Wilberforce, member of the British parliament. You may make the rewards of eternity the emoluments of your office. What care you for adverse political criticism if you have God on your side? The one, or the two, or the three years of your public trust will pass away, and all the years of your earthly service, and then the tribunal will be lifted, before which you and I must appear. May God make you so faithful now that the last scene shall be to your exhilaration and rapture. I wish now to exhort all good people, whether they are the governors or the governed, to make one grand effort for the salvation, the purification, the redemption of our American cities. Do you not know that there are multitudes going down to ruin, temporal and eternal, dropping quicker than words from my lips? Grogshops swallow them up. Gambling hells devour them. Houses of shame are damning them. Oh, let us toil, and pray, and preach, and vote until all these wrongs are righted. What we do we must do quickly. With our rulers, and on the same platform, we must at last come before the throne of God to answer for what we have done for the bettering of our great towns. Alas! if on that day it will be found that your hand has been idle and my pulpit has been silent. Oh, ye who are pure and honest, and Christian, go to work and help to make the cities pure, and honest, and Christian.

Lest it may have been thought that I am addressing only what are called the better classes, my final word is to some dissolute soul to whom these words may come. Though you may be covered with all crimes, though you may be smitten with all leprosies, though you may have gone through the whole catalogue of iniquity, and may not have been in church for twenty years, you may have your nature entirely reconstructed, and upon your brow, hot with infamous practices and besweated with exhausting indulgencies, God will place the flashing coronet of a Savior's forgiveness. "Oh, no!" you say, "if you knew who I am and where I came from, you wouldn't say that to me. I don't believe the Gospel you are preaching speaks of my case." Yes, it does, my brother. And then when you tell me that, I think of what St. Teresa said when reduced to utter destitution, having only two pieces of money left, she jingled the two pieces of money in her hand and said: "St. Teresa and two pieces of money are nothing; but St. Teresa and two pieces of money and God are all things." And I tell you now that while a sin and a sinner are nothing, a sin and a sinner and an all forgiving and all compassionate God are everything.

Who is that that I see coming? I know his step. I know his rags. Who is it? A prodigal. Come, people of God; let us go out and meet him. Get the best robe you can find in all the wardrobe. Let the angels of God fill their chalices and drink to his eternal rescue. Come, people of God, let us go out to meet him. The prodigal is coming home. The dead is alive again, and the lost is found.

Pleased with the news, the saint below
In songs their tongues employ;
Beyond the skies the tidings go,
And heaven is filled with joy.

Nor angels can their joy contain,
But kindle with new fire;
"The sinner lost is found," they sing,
And strike the sounding lyre.

When a man is easily influenced it is generally by persons without influence in the community.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, June 28.—The senate made good progress on the tariff bill to-day, disposing of the paragraphs relating to hides, which has been the source of much controversy. As finally agreed on, the duty on hides is placed at 20 per cent ad valorem, in place of 1½ cents per pound as originally reported by the finance committee. The discussion was protracted, drifting into general debate of trusts and from that back to the sugar trust.

SENATE.

Washington, June 29.—After tedious consideration of the tariff bill throughout to-day, the senate wound up with a half hour of lively and amusing colloquy between Senators Tillman and Chandler. The former had proposed an amendment to the tariff bill, providing a $1 a head tax on immigrants and a restriction against all not coming to the United States to become citizens. The amendment was defeated.

SENATE.

Washington, June 30.—The president has nominated John Russell Young, of Pennsylvania, librarian of congress; Francis B. Loomis, of Ohio, minister to Venezuela, and Philip C. Hanna, of Iowa, consul at Trinidad, West Indies.

SENATE.

Washington, June 30.—As a result of the rapid work on the tariff bill, the close of the long debate in the senate and the final vote are felt to be near at hand. Two of the most important provisions—those pertaining to the Hawaii treaty of reciprocity and the duty on coal—were perfected today, while another source of much conflict, the reciprocity section, was matured by the finance committee and presented to the senate. The Hawaiian provision of the house bill was restored after brief debate and without the formality of a vote.

SENATE

Washington, July 1.—The finance committee suffered several unexpected reverses during the progress of the tariff bill to-day, being defeated on three important votes. Cotton bagging was placed on the free list by a vote of 30 to 25, and cotton ties also by a vote of 29 to 23. The duty on white pine lumber was reduced from $2 to $1 per 1,000 by a vote of 32 to 31.

HOUSE.

Speaker Reed's do-nothing policy was attacked by Settle, of Kentucky, but the republicans upheld the speaker by a vote of 9 to 105. Lacey introduced an amendment to the fish law providing for the protection of birds.

SENATE.

Washington July 2.—Reciprocity and retaliation were the two phases of the tariff bill to occupy the attention of the senate to-day to the exclusion of all other subjects. Both provisions were agreed to, although the debate on the reciprocity clause was protracted to 6 o'clock.

The Legislature.

DES MOINES, July 2.—The legislature reconvened yesterday, and a short session of each house was held in the afternoon. Practically nothing of importance was done, and a resolution providing for final adjournment to-day was adopted by both houses.

DES MOINES, July 3.—The legislature adjourned sine die yesterday morning. Practically nothing was done at the two-days' session except to make a few minor corrections in the code work. Resolutions thanking Lieutenant-Governor Parrott for his able work as presiding officer were passed, and he in turn thanked the senators for their kindness.

Sixteen Seamen Drowned.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 1.—A collision took place in the Dardanelles between the German vessels Rembeck and Berthilde. The former sank almost immediately and fourteen of her crew were drowned, while a boat that was sent to the rescue by the Austrian guardship was capsized, drowning two.

Woodford Sworn.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Stewart L. Woodford, the new minister to Spain, called at the state department and took the oath of office. Mr. Woodford expects to sail for his post about July 20.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, July 1.—One of a number of applications for United States Letters Patent that are now being prosecuted in the patent office has recently been formally allowed. These inventions relate to methods and apparatus for manufacturing calcium carbide and also generators for converting this calcium carbide into acetylene illuminating gas, and the inventors are prominent business men of Holstein, Iowa, Messrs. C. L. Wilson, C. Muma, J. W. Unger, H. Schneckloth, A. P. Brosius and W. Kuchel. The allowance of these patents will undoubtedly mean much to the manufacturing interests of northern Iowa for the reason that the company above named intend to establish a plant for the manufacture of the calcium carbide and also the generating machines. Acetylene gas, the new illuminant, is produced by combining calcium carbide and water, and the light that is produced by burning this gas is of a purer white than electricity itself and is very brilliant. The generating machines invented by the company are of a size and capacity designed to be placed in ordinary dwelling houses where by charging the generator every day or week the gas may be used just as freely as with the ordinary city gas and a better light is provided at a much less cost. Valuable information about securing, valuing and selling patents sent free to any address.

BIMETALLISM BY AGREEMENT.

United States, France and England Said to Be Agreed.

LONDON, July 1.—The National Review contains an article announcing an important bimetallic development at the hands of the United States monetary commission, consisting of Messrs. Wolcott, Stevenson and Paine, which will arrive here in a few days. The commission, according to the National Review, will present to the British government a joint statement from France and the United States declaring that "it is their intention to determine the disastrous experiments inaugurated in 1873, and claiming our good will and active concurrence." The National Review adds: "We are able to announce that England's reply will be that the government is willing to reopen the Indian mints, to make a further substantial contribution to the rehabilitation of silver by extending its use in England and by increasing the legal tender of silver, making silver the basis of notes, empowering the bank of England to use its silver reserve and that material assistance and strong moral support will be given to the object the United States and France have in view."

IN THE RAILWAY WORLD.

Less Track Laid During First Half of 1897 Than for Years.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The Railway Age reports that only 622 miles of track have been laid in the United States during the first half of 1897. This is less than the corresponding period of any year since 1875, with the exception of 1894, when only 525 miles of track had been laid up to July 1. In twenty-six of the states and territories no track has been laid this year. Judging from the construction now under way on the different lines, the total amount of track laid during the entire year will be close to 2,000 miles—about the same amount that was laid during each of the last three years. So far this year Louisiana leads with 111 miles of track laid and California is second with ninety-three.

CUBAN NEWS.

Disease Among Spanish Troops—Rivera Dangerously Ill.

HAVANA, July 3.—Disease among Spanish troops in Santiago de Cuba has been so severe that when Weyler ordered the move into the interior against the rebels, the only soldiers available were convalescents. All over the island disease among the Spanish troops is increasing at a fearful rate. Out of 1,000 men in the Vegara batallion in Pinar del Rio nearly 700 are rendered unfit for service by malaria and dysentery. The hospitals in Havana are crowded to overflowing. General Rius Rivera is dangerously ill. The prison doctors performed a delicate operation on him and he is now in a critical condition.

TURKEY CLAIMS THESSALY.

Sultan Will Not Relinquish His Newly Captured Territory.

LONDON, July 2.—A dispatch to the Times from Coustantinople says: Tewfik Pasha will announce to the ambassadors of the powers that the cabinet maintains the indefeasible right of Turkey to retain Thessaly by virtue of conquest.

LONDON, July 2.—A dispatch to the Standard from Constantinople says that Edhem Pasha, commander-in-chief of the Turkish forces in Thessaly, has tendered his resignation to the sultan on the ground that under the proposed peace conditions he will be unable to guarantee the discipline of the army.

RIOTS IN CALCUTTA.

Many Killed in Fight Between Police and Rioters.

CALCUTTA, July 3.—During a fight in the suburb of Chilporo between the police and rioters, many policemen were injured. A party of twenty-four native police was surrounded by a mob and roughly handled. All are expected to die. The rioters suffered heavily, but carried off their dead and wounded.

Bannock Indians Make Trouble.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Three hundred Bannock Indians have broken away from the Fort Sneil reservation in Idaho, and their actions have alarmed the settlers in the adjacent territory. Gov. Stueneberg has been appealed to for protection, and he has telegraphed the Washington authorities for assistance. The war department has been called upon for troops to go to the scene.

Twenty Thousand Homeless.

LONDON, July 2.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Braila, the principal port of Roumania, says that 20,000 inhabitants in Galates, in Moldavia, on the left bank of the Sereth and the Prutho with that river, are homeless as a result of recent floods. Most of them are destitute and camping in the streets, where they are fed by the military.

Railroad men, manufacturers, and business men of all sections and parties report marked improvement in business and confidence, and predict that the renewal of activity is permanent in its character.

Democratic support for the protective tariff is one of the causes of the improved conditions through the country. Business men who are constantly studying these conditions are of the opinion that the tariff bill which has just been framed will remain on the statute books for a long time because of the growth of the protective sentiment among the Democrats, and that with its permanency there will be permanent business prosperity.

Just one-twelfth of the McKinley administration has passed and in that time Republicans have done more in the way of carrying out the pledges of the platform than was ever accomplished in double that time by any previous administration. When you consider that this has been done with a Senate in which the Republicans are in a minority you should celebrate the close of the first four months instead of grumbling because the full years' undertaking has not been completed.

From Wallaces' Farmer.

Calves are worth too much now to be fed on sour skim-milk.

Many cows are better and many owners are worse than they get credit for being.

Not withstanding the warning that has been repeatedly given in this paper, the creamery promoter seems to be finding his annual crop of suckers.

The Babcock test gives the cow credit for what she actuall does; the churn does not. That is why it is fairer to test the cows by the Babcock.

A calf has to be a migaty good one to pay 12 to 20 cents a pound for butter fat, and only rich men can afford to feed calves such an expensive artical of diet.

The man who tries to learn the dairy business only from his own experience might as well make up his mind right now that he will always be about fifty years behind the times.

To make sure that the cows gets as much water as they need have a tank full ready for them when they are brought from the pasture at night. Milk is about 85 per cent. water.

If a man looses in the winter what he made in the summer, it stands to reason that he won't be very far ahead at the end of the year. If a man does as well in providing winter feed as nature does in providing summer he will not loose in winter.

"There is no step backward to business, although the season of midsummer quiet is near. Improvement continues, gradual and prudently cautious as before, although in many branches evident where no signs of it appeared a few weeks ago. Business men of the highest standing in all parts of the country have gradually perceived that the tide has begun to rise and are regulating their contracts and investments and plans for the future with a confidence quite unknown to them a short time ago. Great changes before the adjournment of Congress are hardly to be expected, but removal of uncertainty is with reason expected to bring into operation buying forces which have been restricted for months. Meanwhile it is encouraging that crop prospects still grow brighter; that the industries meet a gradually increasing demand for products; that labor questions which had a threatening aspect have been adjusted and that the Treasury maintains its ample strength notwithstanding some exports of gold brought about by premiums paid on behalf of foreign governments." — Dun's Review, June 26.

CHAPTER IV.

WHEN once we had made up our minds to get married, we both of us came to the conclusion that the sooner we did so the better; more especially as the introduction of a new factor into our relationship was to my unaccustomed mind in a certain sense improper and irksome, although by no means unpleasant. Also it wasted time and tended to direct our attention from the vast undertaking to which we were pledged. Accordingly, within a very few days of the occurrence already described, I visited a register, and having, as it seemed to me, paid several unnecessary fees, provided myself with a license. On my way back I walked down Fleet street, thinking amiably of getting married and Dr. Johnson, and intending to take the omnibus at Charing Cross. As I went I happened to look up, and my eye fell upon a notice to the effect that a certain well-known life assurance company had its offices within the building opposite. Then it was that the idea first occurred to me that I ought to insure my life, so that, should anything happen to me, Fanny might have something to keep her from poverty. As it was, she would have absolutely nothing. All that I had, and that my wife had brought with her, was strictly settled upon the boy John in such a way that I could not even give my subsequent wife a life interest in it, or a part of it. I stopped there in the street, and having given the matter a few moments' consideration, came to the conclusion that it was my duty to provide for Fanny to small extent—say two thousand pounds.

Upon this decision, I crossed the road-way, and, entering the office, some inquiries from a clerk. As it happened, the doctor attached to the company was at that moment in attendance and disengaged, so thinking that I could not do better than get a disagreeable business over at once, I sent up my card and asked to see him. The messenger returned presently, with a request that I would "step up," which I accordingly did, to find myself, to my astonishment, in the presence of an old fellow-student of my own, with whom I had in former days been tolerably intimate, but whom I had not seen for years. We greeted each other cordially enough, and after a few minutes' talk I told him the business I had in hand, and he began his medical examination with the series of stock questions which doctors always put upon these occasions.

The only point upon which he dwelt at all was insanity, and he was so persistent upon this matter that I perceived he had heard some of the rumors about me being mentally deranged, which my friends and relations had so materially assisted to spread. However, I got through that part of the business, and then I undid my shirt, and he proceeded with the physical examination. First he applied the stethoscope to my heart, and quickly removed it, evidently satisfied. Then he placed it over my right lung and listened. While he did so, I saw his face change, and a thrill of fear shot through me as it suddenly came to my mind that I had experienced some trouble there of late, of which I had taken no notice, and which had, indeed, quite passed out of my mind. Next he tried the other lung, and placed the stethoscope on the table.

"What is the matter?" I asked, keeping as calm a face as I could, for I could tell from his look that there was something very wrong.

"Come, Gosden, you are a medical man yourself, and a clever one, and there is no need for me to tell you about it."

"Upon my word," I answered, "I know nothing of what you mean. I have not bothered about my own health for years; but, now I think of it, I have had some local trouble on the chest, last winter especially. What is it? It is better to know the worst."

"Our rule here," he answered dryly, "is not to make any communication to the person examined; but, as we are brother practitioners, I suppose I may dispense with it, and tell you at once that I cannot recommend your life to the board to be insured upon any terms. That is what is the matter with you, old fellow," and he went on, in terms too technical for me to write down here, to describe the symptoms of one of the most deadliest, and yet most uncertain, forms of lung disease, in short to pass sentence of death upon me.

I do not think I am a coward, and I hope I took it well. The bitter irony of the whole thing lay in the fact that while I was in active practice, I had made this form of disease a special study, and used to flatter myself that I could stop it, or at any rate stave it off indefinitely, if only I could get at it in time. I might have stopped my own, if I had known about it. Ah! who shall heal the physician?

"Well, there you are, Gosden," went on my friend; "you know as much about it as I do; you may live three years, and you may live thirty, but the odds are against you lasting five. You know what an uncertain thing it is. There is only one thing certain about it, and that is, that it will kill you sooner or later. I speak plainly because we are both accustomed to face these sort of facts. Perhaps you had better take another opinion."

I shook my head. Now that my attention had been called to it, no opinions could help me. He was perfectly right, I might go very shortly, or I might live till well on into middle life. As the event has proved, I have lived, but I am not far from the end of my tether now.

"Are you of opinion," I asked, "that my form of disease is likely to prove hereditary?"

I knew what his answer would be, but I put the question as a forlorn hope.

"Of course. I should consider that it would certainly be hereditary; and, what is more, it is extremely probable that your wife would contract it also. But why do you ask? You are not going to get married again, are you?"

"I am engaged to be married."

"Well," he replied, "of course it is an awkward thing to talk to a man about, but if you take my advice, you will be a little more honorable than most people are under the circumstances, and break the match off."

"I am quite of your opinion," I said, "and now I will bid you good-day."

"Well, good-bye, Gosden. I don't think it will be of any use my making a report to the board unless you wish it. Don't worry yourself, old fellow, and keep your chest warm, and you may see fifty yet!"

In another minute I was in Fleet street again, and felt vaguely astonished that it should look just the same as it did a quarter of an hour before. Most of us have experienced this sensation when some radical change of circumstance has suddenly fallen upon us. It seems curious that the great hurrying world should be so dead to our individuality and heedless of our most vital hopes. A quarter of an hour before, I was a man with a prospect of a long and useful, perhaps a most eminent career. Also I was just going to be married to a congenial wife. Now I was, as I then thought, doomed to an early grave, and as for the wife, the idea had to be abandoned. I was in honor bound to abandon it for her sake, and for the sake of possible children.

Well, I walked to Charing Cross, and took the omnibus as I had intended. I remember that there was a fat woman in it, who insisted upon carrying a still fatter pug dog, and quarreled with the conductor seriously in consequence. All this took place in the month of December, and by the time I got home it was beginning to grow dark. I went straight into the study: Fanny was there, and the lamp was lighted. When I entered she flung down her pen, and jumping up, came forward and kissed me; and, as she did so, I thought what a splendid looking woman she had grown into, with her intellectual face and shapely form, and somehow the reflection sent a sharp pang through me. Now that I knew that I must lose her, it seemed to me that I loved her almost as I had loved my dead wife, and indeed I have often noticed that we never know how much we value a thing till we are called upon to resign it. Certainly I noticed it now.

"Well, dear," she said, "have you got it? Why, what is the matter with you?"

"Sit down, Fanny," I answered, "and I will tell you, only you must try to bear it as well as you can."

She seated herself in her calm, determined way, although I could see that she was anxious, and I began at the beginning, and went straight through my story without skipping a word. As soon as she understood its drift her face set like a stone, and she heard me to the end without interruption or movement.

"Well, Geoffrey," she said, in a low voice, when at last I had done, "and what is to be the end of it all?"

"This: that our marriage cannot come off—and death!"

"Why cannot our marriage come off?"

"I have told you why, dear. A man afflicted as I am has no right to send his affliction down to future generations. People are fond of calling the inevitable result of such conduct the decree of Providence, but it is the cause of most of the misery of the world, and as medical men know well enough, a wicked and selfish thing to do."

"The world does not seem to think so. One sees such marriages every day."

"Yes, because the world is blind, and mad, and bad."

"I don't agree with you, Geoffrey," she answered, with passion. "Our lives are our own, posterity must look after itself. We have a right to make the best of our lives, such as they are, without consulting the interests of those who may never exist. If they do exist, then they must take their chance, and bear their burdens as we bear ours. All this talk about the future and posterity is nonsense. What will posterity care for us that we should care for it? We cannot affect it one way or the other; it is hopeless to expect to turn Nature out of her path. We are nothing but feathers blown about by the wind, and all we can do is to go down where the wind blows us, and when we fall, we fall as softly as we may."

I looked up in astonishment. I had no idea that Fanny held views as merciless, and, opposed to all pure altruism as they were, in a sense, unanswerable. Indeed, I had heard her express notions directly contrary, and at the moment was totally at a loss to account for the change. Of course, however, the explanation was easy enough. Theory had come into conflict with interest, and, as is often the case, even in the most highly developed people, it was so much the worse for the theory.

"I am sorry to hear you speak so, dear," I said. "I hoped and thought that you would have supported me in a very painful resolution. The blow is hard enough to bear, even with your help; without, it is almost unendurable."

She rose from her chair, and then for the first time I realized the depth of her emotion. Her beautiful eyes flashed, her bosom heaved, and she slowly crushed the paper she held in her hand to shield her face from the fire, into a shapeless mass, and then threw it down.

"You have no heart," she said. "Do you suppose it is nothing to me, who was going to marry you within a week, to lose my husband and to be obliged to fall back again into this half life, this very twilight of a life? Oh! Geoffrey, think again," and she stretched out her arms toward me, and looked at me, and spoke in accents of impassioned tenderness. "Think," she went on, "can you not give up your scruples for me? Am I not worth straining a point in your conscience? There is nothing in the world, Geoffrey, that a man can profit by in exchange for his love. Soon this disease will take a hold of you, and then you will grow weak, and miserable, and incapable of enjoyment. Live now while you can, and leave the consequences to Providence, or rather to the workings of those unchanging rules which we call Providence. Look at me: I am beautiful, and I love you, and my intellect is almost as great as your own. Don't throw me away for a theory, Geoffrey."

All the time that she was speaking she drew slowly nearer to me, her arms outstretched and her great eyes glowing and changing in the shaded light. And now the arms closed round me, and she lay upon my heart and gazed into my face, till I thought that I should be overcome. But, thank Heaven! somehow for conscience' sake I found the resolution to hold to what I knew to be right. I think it was the recollection of my dear wife that came over me at that moment, and induced a sudden feeling of revulsion to the beautiful woman who lay in my arms, and who did not scruple to resort to such means to turn me from my duty. Had it not been for the thought, I am sure that being but a man, and therefore weak, I should have yielded and then there would have been no possibility of further retreat. As it were, I with a desperate effort, wrenched myself free from her.

"It is of no use, Fanny," I cried, in despair. "I will not do it? I think that it would be wicked for a man in my condition to get married. This distresses me beyond measure; but if I yielded to you I should be doing a shameful thing. Forgive me, Fanny, it is not my fault, I did not know. It is hard enough," I added, with a natural burst of indignation, "to be suddenly doomed to a terrible death without having to go through this agony," and with a sudden motion I flung the wedding license into the fire.

She watched it burn, and then sunk back in the chair, covered her face in her hands and said no more. In this position she remained for nearly half an hour. Then she rose, and with a stern, cold face that it almost frightened me to look upon, returned to her work, which was now once more the chief bond between us; nor was the subject of our engagement alluded to again for many months. Nobody had known of it, and nobody knew that it had come to an end. And so it died and went the way of dead things into what seems to be forgetfulness, but is in truth the gate-way into those new and endless halls of perpetuated life on whose walls evil and unhappy records of the past, blazoned in letters of fire, are the lamps to light us down from misery to misery.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A New London (Conn.) man was fined the other day for defiling a street car and endangering dresses by expectoration. It was the first case of its kind in the state.

MISPLACED ECONOMY.

It Is Usually Practiced by the Fair Sex.

There is certainly such a thing as an exaggeration of economy and a misplacement of effort, as in the case of the genius who advises making court plaster at home out of tightly stretched black silk and gum arabic or the one who gives us a long formula for the compounding of a glue to mend china, says the New York Post. An investment of a dime around the corner from anywhere procures a supply of either commodity that will last a year. Such thrift is like that of the woman who bought 5 cents' worth of sugar of lead to set the dye in some calico. She used half and her economy would not permit her to throw the rest away. Instead she tucked it under the edge of a carpet, where she thought it would be safe, and forgot all about it. Later she left home on a visit. She had been away only one day when, in thinking, as women will, of the impossible things she could worry over she suddenly remembered the poison, and at once found it a very good and rational cause for anxiety. How easy for one of the children to find it in one of those poking moods which at any moment may attack a child! It was at night that the vexing thought came, and she was sleepless till morning arrived and with it the opportunity to send a warning dispatch. As a mere financial transaction it was not profitable, for the dispatch cost her forty cents. There was the sleepless night to reckon, too.

RUSSIAN POLICY.

Christian Empire is the controlling force of Russian diplomacy. Midway in this century Russia attacked Turkey in a war for the recovery of the places made memorable by Jesus Christ in Palestine, as well as for the occupation of Constantinople. She counted upon Austrian support, since Russian troops had succored the emperor in invading Hungary and causing a revolution. When France and England fought against Russia in the Crimea, Austria held aloof, and the cause of the Turk triumphed with the help of his allies.

When the war was over, Russian statesmen had only one idea. That was to punish Austria for her ingratitude. They encouraged Napoleon III. to fight Italy's battle. They allowed Prussia in 1866 to invade Austria, to take away from her the leadership of Germany, and rejoiced when Austria lost two provinces.

When Austria was well punished, Russia again declared war against Turkey in 1877. Again the Holy Land was the cause of the declaration. Christian pilgrims were being persecuted there. Germany and Austria remained neutral, but at the close of the war England, under Lord Beaconsfield, was in the way of Russia's complete triumph. The treaty which had been dictated at the gates of Constantinople was revised by the congress of Berlin. Russia lost through infamous English intrigue much that she had gained by war.

For years Russia has been steadily working against England at Constantinople and in Europe. She has completely supplanted England in the sultan's councils. She has made an alliance with France, and during the last year has been drawing Austria and Germany to her support. This has been the Russian method of punishing England for her meddlesome activity in the Balkans in 1878. England will soon receive an awful blow from Russia.

All this time Russia has been dreaming of universal empire in the East. It is her ambition to control Constantinople, to occupy Jerusalem, and to exercise dominion whereever the sultan now has power. She bides her time; she punishes those who oppose her will; but she never forgets her dream of reclaiming the sacred places of Palestine from the desecrating Turk.

Small and feeble nations stand in her way unless dependent upon her. For that reason she preferred a divided Bulgaria to a united Bulgaria, which might aspire to hold Constantinople. She does not want rivals on the ground when the Turkish empire finally is overthrown.

Russia is willing to wait until the fruit is so ripe that it will fall into her hands without the shaking of the tree. She is already the power behind the throne in Constantinople. She wants dominion in an undivided empire. That is the dream of Holy Russia, and the Christian world hopes that it will be a reality some day.

Of Weakness in Men They Treat and Fail to Cure.

An Omaha Company places for the first time before the public a MAGICAL TREATMENT for the cure of Lost Vitality, Nervous and Sexual Weakness, and Restoration of Life Force in old and young men. No worn-out French remedy; contains no Phosphorous or other harmful drugs. It is a WONDERFUL TREATMENT—magical in its effects—positive in its cure. All readers, who are suffering from a weakness that blights their life, causing that mental and physical suffering peculiar to Lost Manhood, should write to the STATE MEDICAL COMPANY, Omaha, Neb., and they will send you absolutely FREE, a valuable paper on these diseases, and positive proofs of their truly MAGICAL TREATMENT. Thousands of men, who have lost all hope of a cure, are being restored by them to a perfect condition.

This MAGICAL TREATMENT may be taken at home under their directions, or they will pay railroad fare and hotel bills to all who prefer to go there for treatment, if they fail to cure. They are perfectly reliable, have no Free Prescriptions, Free Cure, Free Sample, or C. O. D. fake. They have $250,000 capital, and guarantee to cure every case they treat or refund every dollar; or their charges may be deposited in a bank to be paid to them when a cure is effected. BEAUTY IS BLOOD DEEP.

PURE, HEALTHY BLOOD MEANS BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION.

Intestional Microbes Poison the Blood When the Bowels Are Constipated. Drive Them Out by Making the Liver Lively.

"Beauty is skin deep." That is wrong. Beauty is blood deep.

A person constipated, with a lazy liver, bilious blood, dyspeptic stomach, has pimples and liver spots and a sole leather complexion.

No one with a furred tongue, a bad breath, a jaundiced eye, can be beautiful, no matter how perfect are form and features.

To be beautiful, to become beautiful, or remain beautiful, the blood must be kept pure and free from bile, microbes, disease-germs and other impurities.

Cascaret Candy Cathartic will do it for you quickly, surely, naturally. They never grip nor gripe, but make the liver lively, prevent sour stomach, kill disease-germs, tone up the bowels, purify the blood, and make all things right, as they should be. Then beauty comes of itself, and to stay.

Buy and try Cascarets today. It's what they do, not what we say they do, that will please you. All druggists, 10c, 25c or 50c, or mailed for price. Send for booklet and free sample. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago, Montreal, Can., or New York.

The Georgia Princess and a Stuck Up Niggah—A Clever Suggestion Illustrating a Bicycle Term—Whim Whams of the Day.

A Touching Tale.

TOUCHED him, and in a trice,
He grew to me as cold as ice.
With stony eye he looked me o'er,
And then he spoke.
Ah, none can tell,
Or know the pain that vexed me sore
As from his lips that sentence fell.
The world may laugh at what is told,
Regardless or my grief and pain;
But while the story's doubtless old
I say it went against the grain
To be refused (point blank, I own)
That time I "touched" him for a loan.

A Georgia Princess.

When Vivekanandi, the Hindu monk, visited Chicago during the World's Fair, he was greatly delighted one afternoon to learn that the "International Beauty show" on the Midway Plaisance contained an East Indian princess. He lost no time, says the Chicago Times-Herald, in visiting the show. In one of the booths was a dusky damsel, arrayed in East Indian costume, and prominently placarded as a charmer from the land of the Gangees.

Vivekanandi addressed her politely in Hindustanee, and for his pains was rewarded by a stare of blank astonishment. Then he tried Cingalese with no better success, and also the several allied dialects of the interior provinces of India. At last the dusky beauty spoke in sheer self-defense:

"Go 'way man," she said, "you mus' be crazy!"

"Excuse me," remarked Vivekanandi, in faultless English, "but will you kindly tell me where you were born?"

"I'se born in Savannah, an' I'se dun lived in Georgy all mah life," she said, "but yo' can't fool wid me, if you' is a stuck up no'thern niggah!" And he didn't try to do so.

A Clever Suggestion.

"Oh, I know what we'll do. Let's race round the fountain three times, and the one who wins gets the apple."

Whim-Whams.

"I see the bicycle in all directions," said the speaker.

"It wabbles, does it?" suggested a bystander.

Motherhood.

A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution.

The child fairly drinks in health from its mother's robust constitution before birth, and from a healthy mother's milk after.

Is not that an incentive to prepare for a healthy maternity?

Do you know the meaning of what is popularly called those "longings," or cravings, which beset so many women during pregnancy?

There is something lacking in the mother's blood. Nature cries out and will be satisfied at all hazards.

One woman wants sour things, another wants sweets, another wants salt things, and so on.

The real need all the time is to enrich the blood so as to supply nourishment for another life, and to build up the entire generative system, so that the birth may be possible and successful.

If expectant mothers would fortify themselves with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for twenty years has sustained thousands of women in this condition, there would be fewer disappointments at birth, and they would not experience those annoying "longings."

In the following letter to Mrs. Pinkham, Mrs. Whitney demonstrates the power of the Compound in such cases. She says:

"From the time I was sixteen years old till I was twenty-three, I was troubled with weakness of the kidneys and terrible pains when my monthly periods came on. I made up my mind to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon relieved. After I was married, the doctor said I would never be able to go my full time and have a living child, as I was constitutionally weak. I had lost a baby at seven months and a half. The next time I commenced at once and continued to take your Compound through the period of pregnancy, and I said then, if I went my full time and the baby lived to be three months old, I should send a letter to you. My baby is now seven months old and is as healthy and hearty as one could wish.

"I am so thankful that I used your medicine, for it gave me the robust health to transmit to my child. I cannot express my gratitude to you; I never expected such a blessing. Praise God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and may others who are suffering do as I did and find relief, and may many homes be brightened as mine has been."—MRS. L. Z. WHITNEY, 5 George St., E. Somerville, Mass.

HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

Tea, coffee and spices should be kept in tightly closed tin or glass jars if the flavor is to be properly retained.

A good hair tonic is made by mixing one pint of bay rum, one dram of quinine and one ounce of glycerine.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentery and diarrhoea.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhoea.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentery.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

The Iowa State Camp Meeting conducted by Evangelists Cordner and Pugh of Chicago, will be held at Clear Lake, July 20 to 30th.

Quarterly meeting was held in the Germantown church Sunday by the Presiding Elder Koerner, who conducted three services. Morning, afternoon and evening.

In this issue appears the announcement of Chas. W. Thompson of Corwith, as a candidate for the office of County Superintendent. Mr. Thompson is undoubtedly well qualified for the office, having been principal of the Corwith public school for four years. During this time he has made many friends who are loud in his praise as a gentleman and scholar.

Tom Duff of Britt makes his announcement through the columns of this paper as a candidate for County Treasurer. Of his qualification the SIGNAL has the following:

"Tom Duff, of Britt, enters the political field as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the county republican primaries. Tom is an out and out republican and always keeps within the party lines. He is an old resident of this county and ought to be known by nearly every voter. Is well qualified for the office in every respect and would make a number one treasurer."

Republican Caucus.

A caucus of the republican voters of German township will be held at the Center school house, Saturday, July 10th. between the hours of 7 o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of electing 4 delegates to the couuty convention to be held at Garner July 14, 1897. All persons believeing in the principles of the republican party are invited to participate.

IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

KLEMME - - IOWA.

The army worm may do more damage in the state than would an army in force.

If those seniors and sophomores of the Chicago university don't reform they will land in the state legislature.

The sultan doubts his ability to comply with the demands of the powers. But perhaps the powers will help him to comply with their demands.

If the reports of renewed Turkish massacres of Christian missionaries be true it behooves the European powers to take another fall out of poor little Greece.

Of course, the sultan brought the Turco-Grecian war to an abrupt termination, just as soon as he was given to understand that unless he did so General Miles would have to miss the queen's jubilee.

The contest between romance and realism has reached an acute stage. An offer is made, in a newspaper column devoted to such proffers, to exchange "Tom Brown's School Days" for "setting of white Leghorn or Plymouth Rock eggs."

Herbert Spencer, the English philosopher, has mastered the science of method. He keeps five secretaries busy in order to bring his sociology up to date, though he himself can only work one hour a day when in his best physical condition. Much of the time he cannot work that one hour, but his secretaries, directed by him, do their daily task.

In the recent engagements the Greeks used against the Turks rifles which nearly thirty years ago were fired at Germans by the French, captured by the Germans, and by them sold to the Greeks. Many of these rifles have now been captured a second time. To whom will the Turks sell the out-of-date weapons? Their history makes them undesirable. They have a tendency to go off—to the other side.

A press dispatch from Quebec tells of new guns received at that point, and also a quantity of projectiles for twelve-pounder, quick-firing cannon. How the face of history would have been changed had a few modern, quick-firing guns been magically supplied to Montcalm just as the English forces reached the Plains of Abraham! No heroism of Wolfe's little army would have availed against such instruments of slaughter suddenly reinforcing the defenders of Quebec; and it might well be that "Here Montcalm died victorious" would be the legend read on that historic monument which now commemorates Wolfe.

When Edward Bass, who became the first Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts, took his master's degree at Harvard, his thesis was: "Will the blessed in the future world, after the last judgment, make use of articulate speech, and will that be Hebrew?" He decided both questions in the affirmative. Had he taken the negative he would have been equally safe since nobody could successfully contradict! The incident suggests that in a century and a half the world has moved little. Men are still tempted to dogmatize about the unknowable—but only here and there a theologian wastes himself in that way. The leaders of religious thought find scope for all their energy in setting forth the eternal verities, founded on the teachings of Christ, that relate to the formation of character for this life and for the life to come.

There are actually more employees of manufactories, male, female, and child labor included, in Germany, Great Britain and France than there are in the United States, though the population of the United States is 22,000,000 greater than the poplation of Germany, and 34,000,000 greater than the population of Great Britain or the population of France. There were returned by the last national census 5,091,000 persons as in 'manufacturing and mechanical industries," in the United States, but included in this number were 150,000 seamstresses, 185,000 tailors, 60,000 milliners, 288,000 dressmakers and 105,000 butchers, and with these and sundry other similar deductions from the number of those engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries it is found by the last report of the commissioner of labor that the actual number of persons engaged in manufactories in this country is 3,837,000. But though the number of employees is less than in other manufacturing countries, the United States stand at the head of them all in their products of manufactories, the product by hand, the volume of steam power used and the annual wages paid.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

A FIRE INSURANCE WAR.

Lively Fight On Rates Promised Among Old-Line Companies.

DES MOINES, July 18.—Iowa is threatened with a fire insurance war. The fight has already been begun in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Minnesota, and there seems no hope now of keeping it out of Iowa and other western states. Recently the governing committee of the Western Union, an organization of strong companies in Chicago, announced a 20 per cent reduction on rates affecting dwellings, churches, school buildings and court houses. Scarcely had the Western Union sounded the opening note of the campaign, when R. H. Garrigue, of Chicago, of Chicago, agent for the Merchants' Insurance company, of Newark, announced that his company would meet the reduction. Mr. Garrigue finally went the Western Union one better by offering to allow agents 25 per cent on all policies written in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana and Iowa. This was a much deeper cut than the one made by the Western Union, as it reduced the commission of its agents to 10 per cent. The Northwestern National company of Milwaukee ordered a cut of from 30 to 50 per cent on all preferred risks. Thus far the conflict has not fairly reached Iowa, though it is believed it cannot be prevented. Des Moines has not yet been affected, but there are signs of the coming trouble. A fight among the old-line companies here would mean a saving to policy holders of hundreds of thousands of dollars, and a general cutting of rates on risks of every description.

TO CLOSE 26 SALOONS.

Polk County Attorney Brings Injunction Suits Against Proprietors.

DES MOINES, July 16.—Twenty-six saloon keepers in Des Moines have failed to pay the mulct tax for the quarter commencing July 1, and as a result sixteen suits have been brought by the county attorney to enjoin them. The law requires that the tax shall be paid in quarterly installments, in advance, on January 1, April 1, July 1 and October 1. A failure to comply with this condition is a violation of the law and the saloon keeper becomes liable under the Clark law. The amount due the city and unpaid is $3,900. A similar amount is due the county in addition to the police tax imposed over and above the $600 required by statute.

Struck by Pieces of a Wheel.

MARSHALLTOWN, July 16.—Homer Hall, a young machinist in the employ of the Fisher Governor company, was badly injured by the bursting of an emery wheel. The wheel was a new one and had recently been put in place. It suddenly broke and the pieces went in several directions. One of the larger pieces struck Hall on the left side of the face, cutting a deep gash from the corner of the eye back to the temple and then extending downward, tearing the flesh from the bone and making a wound about three inches square. Another piece struck the back of his left hand and cut a severe gash. Thirty-three stitches were required to sew up the wound in the cheek. No serious results are anticipated, but had the piece struck him square in the head, he would have been instantly killed.

Street Railway Franchise Extended.

DUBUQUE, July 18.—The ordinance extending the Dubuque Street Railway company's charter to fifty years from April next passed the council finally by a vote of 8 to 2. This will be sufficient to pass it over Mayor Duff's veto, which is expected. The ordinance was favored by the local press. It was opposed by those favoring municipal ownership or municipal control of rates of fare. It gives the city the right to buy the road after 1915 at its appraised value, the same to be not less than all valid liens against the property, and gives the working classes half fare one hour morning and evening. The right to regulate service and to require the placing of wires underground is reserved.

An Oto Man's Serious Crime.

SIOUX CITY, July 17.—Orlando Leming was arrested in the eastern portion of Woodbury county charged with committing rape on a 6-year-old cousin while they were out fishing. Leming denies it, but the evidence is convincing and there is great excitement in and near Oto among his neighbors. Leming had attempted to leave the country on horseback after the crime was discovered. He is a married man with a family.

Thrown From a Load of Hay.

NORWALK, July 16.—While Joseph McCleese, an old substantial farmer, was hauling hay, the wagon turned over with him. He fell quite a distance and was badly injured, three ribs being broken and being otherwies hurt. His recovery is somewhat doubtful.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

Jury at West Union Fixes Cater's Penalty at Life Imprisonment.

WEST UNION, July 16.—In the case of the State vs. Cater, brought to this county by change of venue, the jury found the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree, and fixed the penalty at imprisonment for life. The town of Burr Oak was the scene of great excitement on September 2, 1894. The body of Mrs. John Cater was found under some hay in her husband's barn, with two gashes in her neck—one four inches long and a quarter of an inch deep across the front of her throat, and the other about an inch and a half long and two inches deep on the right side of the throat. Another similar cut appeared under the right eye and the bones of the nose were crushed as if having been struck by a blunt instrument. Later the body of George Wemett was found in the village school house yard with a bullet hole behind his right ear and a revolver lying close to his body. Cater, for some time prior to the murder, had been on terms that were thought altogether too friendly with Mrs. Heth. It is asserted that he was the means of causing the separation between Mrs. Heth and her husband. This intimacy became known to Mrs. Cater. It is thought she got Wemett to watch her husband and Mrs. Heth, that he caught them together and this so enraged Cater that he lured Wemett to the school house and shot him. Returning home he murdered his wife.

Serious Runaway Accident.

FAIRFIELD, July 19.—Quite a serious runaway accident happened to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall and Mrs. William Henry while they were driving into the city. The team became frightened at a train as they were nearing the Burlington tracks and ran away. Mr. Marshall jumped out and seized the horses by the bits, but could not hold them. After they had run about a block Mrs. Henry sprang out of the buggy, and after the team had run a couple of blocks further Mrs. Marshall jumped out. Mrs. Henry received several cuts in the face and had a toe broken. Mrs. Marshall fell upon the back of her head and fractured her skull very badly, and her injury is quite serious, perhaps fatal. The team ran straight home without injuring a thing.

Held to the Grand Jury.

MARSHALLTOWN, July 17.—Pat and Mike McCartney, the two men who are accused of manslaughter by knocking down and stabbing Thomas Jordan, causing his death, were taken before Justice Buritt and through their attorney waived examination and were bound to the grand jury on $1,000 bail each, which they secured. A mortgage has been filed on their farm and they intend to fight to a finish.

Indian Relief Work in Iowa.

DES MOINES, July 19.—The India relief commission of Iowa finished its work and submitted its final report to Governor Drake. The report shows that the people of Iowa donated 79 cars, containing 2,650,310 pounds of grain for the starving inhabitants of India.

IOWA CONDENSED.

The city of Des Moines now owes $834,244.76, which is in excess of the constitutional limit.

Chauncey Lamb, aged 84, millionaire lumberman of Clinton, died on the 12th of this month, after a short illness. His wife died a few months ago. Lamb never recovered from the shock, gradually failing since.

Clarion dispatch: Prof. May and family are away from home and during their absence Miss Theo Plambeck has been staying in their house nights. A few nights ago a burglar tried to enter the house but was frightened away. Miss Plambeck prepared for his return. When he got in and was going through the house she feigned sleep. When he left her room she got up and grabbed a shotgun, and while he was still on the porch she shot him. Blood stains covered the porch, but the burglar escaped. It is believed he will be captured.

The Illinois Central Railroad Company has presented Lucia B. Griffin, the celebrated Albia elocutionist, a check for $11,000, in payment, with interest, of the judgment of $10,000, received in a Michigan court by Miss Griffin, for personal injuries received by a falling baggage car door in the station at Lansing. The case was prominent by the corporation attorney declaring there was no evidence and that the jury rendered the verdict for $10,000 on Miss Griffin's beauty. She will now retire from the stage.

Sioux City dispatch: Another phase of the municipal muddle in this city has developed. Geo. Muller, who has been employed in the capacity of a trench-digger in the waterworks department, made affidavit that Phil Carlin, superintendent of the department, had been making him pay him $10 each month, out of his wages, to retain his position. He says that when he declined to pay up any longer he was discharged. Carlin denies the allegations of his former employe and has asked that the city council make a full investigation of the matter. This will probably be done.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, July 13.—The sultan continues to be wily and stubborn. Another proposal has been made by the porte that astonishes the powers. The proposal is that permission be given to send additional Turkish reenforcements to Crete. The argument adduced by the sultan in favor of this plan is that conditions are such that more soldiers are necessary to quiet the growing disorders and to protect the Mohammedan population. Of course the answer of the powers has been against this project. They have told the sultan that his plan is not only unwarranted, but would create further irritation in Greece and among the Christian nations of Europe. The most significant fact connected with the affair, however, is that it is taken to indicate that the sultan does not intend to yield in regard to the Thessalian frontier question. His attitude is now causing the greatest uneasiness. He appears not only to disregard but to scorn the advice offered him.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 14.—Following is the text of the collective note of the powers to Turkey: "The great powers have adopted the project of strategical rectification as it has been worked out by the military attaches and communicated to the sublime porte. In consequence, they have agreed to assure the Ottoman government that they have arrived at a firm determination to put an end to the obstruction, the only effect of which is the prevention of the conclusion of a peace eminently in the interest of Europe."

LONDON, July 15.—Advices from Constantinople indicate that the sultan is obdurate regarding the acceptance of the peace proposals. Edhem Pasha is hastening back to Domokos, and the furloughs of all Turkish officers have been cancelled, in readiness for a renewal of hostilities.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 16.—It is understood that the council of ministers agreed upon a greater reduction in the demands of Turkey for a settlement with Greece, but still insists that all of the passes of Elassona, half the Trikhala district and other territory shall belong to Turkey, while Thessaly shall be evacuated gradually as the installments of the indemnity are paid.

SPAIN AND JAPAN ALLIES.

A Warning to Uncle Sam to Keep His Hands Off.

LONDON, July 16.—A dispatch from Paris to a news agency here says that inquiry at the American embassy there has elicited a confirmation of the rumor that the governments of Spain and Japan have arranged an offensive alliance against the United States. The terms of the understanding, which is for the mutual protection of Cuba and Hawaii, provide that in the event of an actively aggressive movement on the part of the United States tending toward interference in Cuban affairs or persistance in the annexation of the Hawaiian islands, both Spain and Japan shall declare war simultaneously against the United States and shall make hostile demonstrations along both the Atlantic and Pacific coast lines of that country.

Negro's Terrible Fate.

FLORENCE, Ala., July 16.—Near West Point, Tenn., Miss Rene Williams was found brutally murdered. Later Anthony Williams, a negro, her murderer and ravisher, was captured near Pruitton, and expiated his crime in the streets of West Point in the presence of 500 people. Williams was riddled with bullets and burned in the streets of West Point, his body being burned to ashes. Before a fire was lighted the negro was knocked down and stamped to death. Then the crowd gathered wood, and, building a fire over him, watched the ghastly scene until the murderer was only ashes.

Russo-Chinese Alliance.

LONDON, July 15.—Special dispatches from Shanghai say that it is reported there before taking his departure Prince Oushtomsky, chief of the Russian special mission, discussed with the emperor's advisors the question of a Russo-Chinese alliance. It is stated Li Hung Chang approves the idea of such an alliance.

Getting Ready to Retaliate.

LONDON, July 16.—The Daily Chronicle's Vienna correspondent says it is stated in well-informed circles that an European conference will shortly be convoked in Berlin to discuss measures to be adopted against the United States' tariff policy concerning sugar bounties.

Stuart's Carson Carnival.

CARSON, July 17.—Dan Stuart writes to his Carson agent from Chicago that he has signed Sharkey and Maher and McCoy and Creeden for the fistic carnival at Carson this fall, and has four other fights in view which he says will be "corkers," but mentions no names.

ANDREE FINALLY SAILS.

Trip to the Pole in a Balloon Has Begun.

TROMSOR, Norway, July 17.—The steamer Svenskund, from Spitzbergen, reports that Professor Andree ascended in his balloon at 2:30 p. m. on the 11th under favorable circumstances. Wind good and all well. The preparations occupied three and one-half hours. The balloon, which is christened the Eagle, made a successful ascent amid the shouts and cheers of the crowd which had gathered to witness its departure. Despite the lightness of the wind, the balloon rose rapidly until an altitude of about 600 feet had been attained, when it was forced down nearly to the surface of the sea. After a few sand bags had been thrown out, however, it again ascended. The weather was clear, and the Eagle was visible for an hour, traveling in a north-northeasterly direction. When last seen it was moving at the rate of 22 miles an hour.

MINERS MUST COME OUT.

Output of Coal Must Cease to Make the Strike Successful.

PITTSBURG, July 19.—District mining officials have come to a realization of the gravity of the coal miners' strike situation, as far as the shipments of coal from the district just east of Pittsburg and the Clearfield-Cambria fields are concerned. They have come to a realization of the fact that coal from these producing centers is playing havoc with the cutting off of the supply for the Pittsburg trade, thus militating against the success of the strike. It is now proposed to send organizers into the districts, and, if possible, induce the men to come out in sympathy.

JUST LIKE JOHNSTOWN.

Reservoirs Burst and the Waters Cause Ruin and Death.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 16.—The two large reservoirs in the Fishkill mountains, which supplied water to the towns of Mattewan and Fishkill, burst their walls, and the water that was released swept through the Dutchess valley, causing ruin and death. Five bodies have been taken from the wreckage left in the wake of the flood, and there are known to be two and probably three more lying somewhere beneath the piled debris, which is all that remains of three houses that were swept away by the torrents.

Chinese Must Return.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The attorney general has given an opinion to the secretary of the treasury in which he holds that a Chinese person who leaves this country under permit must return within two years allowed by law, without reference to the cause of his delay.

Many Miners Entombed.

CAPETOWN, July 19.—Reports from Kimberly state that several Europeans and fifty natives were entombed as a result of an accident at the DeBers mine. Twenty natives were rescued. There is little hope of effecting a rescue of the others.

Warned by the Admirals.

CANEA, July 19.—In consequence of the increasing turbulence of the Musselmans, the international fleet issued a proclamation declaring that if a single European soldier is injured they will bombard the town.

BREVITIES.

The National League of Republican Clubs in session at Detroit elected L. J. Crawford, of Kentucky, president. The league will meet at Omaha in 1898.

At Gjentofte, Benmark, recently an express from Belsingoer ran into a passenger train standing at the station and wrecked eight carriages, killing forty and injuring sixty.

Nicholas C. Creede, the millionaire mine owner after whom the town of Creede, Col., was named, committed suicide a few days ago at his home in Los Angeles because his wife, from whom he had been separated, insisted upon renewing their marital relations.

Havana dispatch: The march of the army of General Gomez westward is continuing with great success. Gen. Carrillo, chief of Gomez's vanguard, was seen off the west side of the Hanabana river with 1,500 men. Later he was reported in Havana province with more than 5,000 men. The excitement in Havana is intense. The news of Weyler's recall has created a sensation in the palace, where, according to instructions from Madrid, the captain general was going to tender his resignation and await the arrival of his successor. The great difficulty in the way of the Spanish government is to find a successor to General Weyler, and this difficulty will prolong Weyler's stay in Cuba. Gen. Blanco has refused to come to Cuba. Late information says that Gen. Polavieja has also declined, on account of ill health. Gen. Martinez Campos also refuses the place. No general in high standing wishes to accept the responsibility of the situation Weyler has created.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"SALESMEN AND SALESWOMEN" SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Text, Acts 16:14 as Follows: And a Certain Woman Named Lydia, a Seller of Purple of the City of Thyatira Which Worshiped God.

THE first passage introduces to you Lydia, a Christian merchantess. Her business is to deal in purple cloths or silks. She is not a giggling nonentity but a practical woman, not ashamed to work for her living. All the other women of Philippi and Thyatira have been forgotten; but God has made immortal in our text Lydia, the Christian saleswoman. The other text shows you a man with head, and hand, and heart, and foot all busy toiling on up until he gains a princely success. "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before kings."

Great encouragement in these two passages for men and women who will be busy, but no solace for those who are waiting for good luck to show them, at the foot of the rainbow, a casket of buried gold. It is folly for anybody in this world to wait for something to turn up. It will turn down. The law of thrift is as inexorable as the law of the tides. Fortune, the magician, may wave her wand in that direction until castles and palaces come; but she will, after a while, invert the same wand, and all the splendors will vanish into thin air.

There are certain styles of behavior which lead to usefulness, honor and permanent success, and there are certain styles of behavior which lead to dust, dishonor and moral default. I would like to fire the ambition of young people. I have no sympathy with those who would prepare young folks for life by whittling down their expectations. That man or woman will be worth nothing to church or state who begins life cowed down. The business of Christianity is not to quench but to direct human ambition. Therefore it is that I utter words of encouragement to those who are occupied as clerks in the stores and shops and banking houses of the country. They are not an exceptional class. They belong to a great company of tens of thousands who are in this country amid circumstances which will either make or break them for time and eternity. Many of these people have already achieved a Christian manliness and a Chritsian womanliness which will be their passport to any position. I have seen their trials. I have watched their perplexities. There are evils abroad which need to be hunted down and dragged out into the noonday light.

In the first place, I counsel clerks to remember that for the most part their clerkship is only a school from which they are to be graduated. It takes about eight years to get into one of the learned professions. It takes about eight years to get to be a merchant. Some of you will be clerks all your lives, but the vast majority of you are only in a transient position. After a while, some December day, the head men of the firm will call you into the back office and will say to you: "Now, you have done well by us; we are going to do well by you. We invite you to have an interest in our concern." You will bow to that edict very gracefully. Getting into a street car to go home, an old comrade will meet you and say: "What makes you look so happy to tonight?" "Oh," you will say, "nothing, nothing." But in a few days your name will blossom on the sign. Either in the store or bank where you are now, or in some other store or bank, you will take a higher position than that which you now occupy. So I feel I am now addressing people who will yet have their hand on the helm of the world's commerce, and you will turn it this way or that; now clerks, but to be bankers, importers, insurance company directors, shippers, contractors, superintendents of railroads—your voice mighty "on 'Change"—standing foremost in the great financial and religious enterprises of the day. For, though we who are in the professions may, on the platform, plead for the philanthropies, after all, the merchants must come forward with their millions to sustain the movement.

Be, therefore, patient and diligent in this transient position. You are now where you can learn things you can never learn in any other place. What you consider your disadvantages are your grand opportunity. You see an affluent father some day come down a prominent street with his son who has just graduated from the university, and establishing him in business, putting $50,000 capital in the store. Well, you are envious. You say: "Oh, if I only had a chance like that young man—if I only had a father to put $50,000 in a business for me, then I would have some chance in the world." Be not envious. You have advantages over that young man which he has not over you. As well might I come down to the docks when a vessel is about to sail for Valparaiso, and say, "Let me pilot this ship out to sea." Why, I would sink crew and cargo before I got out of the harbor, simply because I know nothing about pilotage. Wealthy sea captains put their sons before the mast for the reason that they know it is the only place where they can learn to be successful sailors. It is only under drill that people get to understand pilotage and navigation, and I want you to understand that it takes no more skill to conduct a vessel out of the harbor and across the sea than to steer a commercial establishment clear of the rocks. You see every day the folly of people going into a business they know nothing about. A man makes a fortune in one business; thinks there is another occupation more comfortable; goes into it and sinks all. Many of the commercial establishments of our cities are giving their clerks a mercantile education as thorough as Yale, or Harvard, or Princeton are giving scientific attainment to the students matriculated. The reason there are so many men foundering in business from year to year, is because their early mercantile education was neglected. Ask the men in high commercial circles, and they will tell you they thank God for this severe discipline of their early clerkship. You can afford to endure the wilderness march, if it is going to end in the vineyards and orchards of the promised land.

But you will say: "Will the womanly clerks in our stores have promotion?" Yes. Time is coming when women will be as well paid for their toil in mercantile circles as men are now paid for their toil. Time is coming when a woman will be allowed to do anything she can do well. It is only a little while ago when women knew nothing of telegraphy, and they were kept out of a great many commercial circles where they are now welcome; and the time will go on until the woman who at one counter in a store sells $5,000 worth of goods in a year, will get as high a salary as the man who at the other counter of the same store sells $5,000 worth of goods. All honor to Lydia, the Christian saleswoman.

The second counsel I have to give to clerks is that you seek out what are the lawful regulations of your establishment, and then submit to them. Every well-ordered house has its usages. In military life, on ship's deck, in commercial life, there must be order and discipline. Those people who do not learn how to obey will never know how to command. I will tell you what young man will make ruin, financial and moral; it is the young man who thrusts his thumb into his vest and says: "Nobody shall dictate to me, I am my own master; I will not submit to the regulations of this house." Between an establishment in which all the employes are under thorough discipline and the establishment in which the employes do about as they choose, is the difference between success and failure—between rapid accumulation and utter bankruptcy. Do not come to the store ten minutes after the time. Be there within two seconds, and let it be two seconds before instead of two seconds after. Do not think anything too insignificant to do well. Do not say, "It's only just once." From the most important transaction in commerce down to the particular style in which you tie a string around a bundle obey orders. Do not get easily disgusted. While others in the store may lounge, or fret, or complain, you go with ready hands, and cheerful face, and contented spirit to your work. When the bugle sounds, the good soldier asks no questions, but shoulders his knapsack, fills his canteen and listens for the command of "March!"

Do not get the idea that your interests and those of your employer are antagonistic. His success will be your honor. His embarrassment will be your dismay. Expose none of the frailties of the firm. Tell no store secrets. Do not blab. Rebuff those persons who come to find out from clerks what ought never to be known outside the store. Do not be among those young men who take on a mysterious air when something is said against the firm that employs them, as much as to say: "I could tell you something if I would, but I won't." Do not be among those who imagine they can build themselves up by pulling somebody else down. Be not ashamed to be a subaltern.

Then there are all the trials which come to clerks from the treatment of inconsiderate employers. There are professed Christian men who have no more regard for their clerks than they have for the scales on which the sugars are weighed. A clerk is no more than so much store furniture. No consideration for their rights or interests. Not one word of encouragement from sunrise to sunset, nor from January to December. But when anything goes wrong— a streak of dust on the counter, or a box with the cover off—thunder-showers of scolding. Men imperious, capricious, cranky toward their clerks—their whole manner as much as to say: "All the interest I have in you is to see what I can get out of you." Then there are all the trials of incompetent wages, not in such times as these, when if a man gets half a salary for his servies he ought to be thankful; but I mean in prosperous times. Some of you remember when the war broke out and all merchandise went up, and merchants were made millionaires in six months by the simple rise in the values of goods. Did the clerks get advantage of that rise? Sometimes, not always. I saw estates gathered in those times over which the curse of God has hung ever since. The cry of unpaid men and women in those stores reached the Lord of Sabaoth, and the indignation of God has been around those establishments ever since.

Then, there are boys ruined by lack of compensation. In how many prosperous stores it has been for the last twenty years that boys were given just enough money to teach them how to steal! Some were seized upon by the police. The vast majority of instances were not known. The head of the firm asked: "Where is George now?" "Oh, he isn't here any more." A lad might better starve to death on a blasted heath than take one farthing from his employer. Woe be to that employer who unnecessarily puts a temptation in a boy's way. There have been great establishments in these cities, building marble palaces, their owners dying worth millions, and millions, and millions, who made a vast amount of their estate out of the blood, and muscle, and nerve of half-paid clerks. Such men as—well, I will not mention any name. But I mean men who have gathered up vast estates at the expense of the people who were ground under their heel. "Oh," say such merchants, "if you don't like it here, then go and get a better place." As much as to say: "I've got you in my grip, and I mean to hold you; you can't get any other place."

Oh, what a contrast between those men and Christian merchants who today are sympathetic with their clerks—when they pay the salary, acting in his way: "This salary that I give you is not all my interest in you. You are an immortal man; you are an immortal woman; I am interested in your present and your everlasting welfare; I want you to understand that, if I am a little higher up in this store, I am beside you in Christian sympathy." Go back forty or fifty years to Arthur Tappen's store in New York—a man whose worst enemies never questioned his honesty. Every morning, he brought all the clerks, and the accountants, and the weighers into a room for devotion. They sang. They prayed. They exhorted. On Monday morning the clerks were asked where they had attended church on the previous day, and what the sermons were about. It must have sounded strangely, that voice of praise along the streets where the devotees of mammon were counting their golden beads. You say, Arthur Tappen failed. Yes, he was unfortunate, like a great many good men; but I understand he met all his obligations before he left this world, and I know that he died in the peace of the Gospel, and that he is before the throne of God today—forever blessed. If that be failing, I wish you might all fail.

* * *

After the last store has been closed, after the last bank has gone down, after the shuffle of the quick feet on the Custom House steps has stopped, after the long line of merchantmen on the sea have taken sail of flame, after Washington, and New York, and London, and Vienna have gone down into the grave where Thebes, and Babylon, and Tyre lie buried, after the great fire-bells of the judgment day have tolled at the burning of a world—on that day, all the affairs of banking houses and stores will come up for inspection. Oh, what an opening of account books! Side by side, the clerks and the men who employed them. Every invoice made out—all the labels of goods— all certificates of stock—all lists of prices—all private marks of the firm, now explained so everybody can understand them. All the maps of cities that were never built, but in which lots were sold. All bargains. All gougings. All snap judgments. All false entries. All adulteration of liquors with coppers and strychnine. All mixing of teas, and sugars, and coffees, and syrups, with cheaper material. All embezzlements of trust funds. All swindles in coal, and iron, and oil, and silver, and stocks. On that day when the cities of this world are smoking in the last conflagration, the trial will go on; and down in an avalanche of destruction will go those who wronged man or woman, insulted God and defied the judgment. Oh, that will be a great day for you, honest Christian clerk. No getting up early; no retiring late; no walking around with weary limbs; but a mansion in which to live, and a realm of light, and love, and joy over which to hold everlasting dominion. Hoist him up from glory to glory, and from song to song, and from throne to throne; for while others go down into the sea with their gold like a millstone hanging to their neck, this one shall come up the heights of amethyst and alabaster, holding in his right hand the pearl of great price in a sparkling, glittering, flaming casket.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, July 12.—During consideration of the deficiency appropriation bill the claim of the government against the Union Pacific road was urged by Morgan. The paragraph was finally withdrawn. The bill was not completed.

HOUSE.

On account of the death of Senator Harris, the house, after the reading of the journal, adjourned.

SENATE.

Washington July 13.—The price to be paid for armor plate for the three new battleships now in course of construction was the theme for an extended and at times lively debate in the senate to-day. Late in the day an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill was agreed to, restricting the price of armor plate to $300 per ton, $125 less than the amendment reported by the committee and recommended by the navy department as the minimum rate acceptable to the armor contractors. Another amendment inserted in the bill directed the secretary of the navy to investigate as to the establishment of a government armor factory and to report to the next session of congress. The deficiency bill then passed.

HOUSE.

The house was in session but three minutes, when a recess was taken until to-morrow.

SENATE.

Washington, July 14.—The senate was in a deadlock for several hours to-day, with business at a standstill, while calls of the senate, roll calls and other parliamentary expedients were resorted to. It was due to the effort to secure action on the resolutions of Harris, of Kansas, designed to prevent the disposal of the government lien on the Union Pacific railroad under the terms of an alleged agreement. It finally went over until to-morrow.

HOUSE.

The house non-concurred in the senate amendments to the general deficiency bill, and a conference committee was appointed.

SENATE.

Washington, July 15.—The senate passed the Thurston resolution for the participation of the United States in the Paris exposition. On motion of Tillman it also passed the bill to make distilled spirits transported from one state into another subject to state laws the same as liquor distilled within the state.

HOUSE.

Immediately after the journal was approved the house took a recess.

SENATE

Washington, July 16.—An agreement was reported on the deficiency bill, excepting the price to be paid for armor plate. The report was adopted and further conference ordered. A long secret session was held, after which adjournment was taken.

HOUSE.

The house to-day agreed to the partial conference report on the general deficiency bill, and then concurred in the senate amendment fixing the limit of cost of armor plate for the three battleships now building at $300 per ton.

SENATE.

Washington, July 17.—Senator Morgan of Alabama occupied most of the day in support of the Harris resolution relating to the Union Pacific railroad. He severely arraigned the executive officials connected with a sale of the government's interest in the road. Final action on the resolution was not reached.

Why 2x1=2.

One might as well ask, why is man? as to ask why two times one equals two. Yet, we use the principle. The Duplex is founded upon it. On this typewriter you write whole syllables as readily as you write a single letter on any other,—strike two letters at once, double the speed, double the durability. It's the fastest in the world and the longest wearer. It's made by the Duplex Typewriter Co., Des Moines, who also manufacture the "Jewett" typewriter, which is a gem of perfection. IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, July 19.—Talmadge E. Brown, of Des Moines, has been granted a copyright for a melodrama in four acts, entitled "The Thieves' Den." A. F. Thompson, of Adel, has been allowed a design patent adapted to be worn as a political badge. Patents have been allowed, but not yet issued, as follows: To L. D. Hart, of Nora Springs, for a corn cutter and shocker, adapted to be advanced in the field to cut off stalks and gather them into a shock to be bound together. To J. W. Russell, of Newton, for an improved grain thresher and separator in which part of the novelty is a tortuous passage way for straw and chaff and a device for forcing air into said passageway at each of its turns, and guide rods fixed to the walls of the passageway and curved around the corners. To L. D. and A. J. Hart, of Nora Springs, for a clothes pounder adapted to be attached to a tub to be operated therein and also adapted to be adjusted relative to an adjacent tub for washing clothes therein by the pounding process without detaching it from the other tub.

TO AGREE ON CURRENCY.

Another International Monetary Conference Said to Be in Sight.

LONDON, July 17.—There is every indication that an international monetary conference will be held in the United States, with Great Britian as a participant. A joint proposal of bimetallism was presented on behalf of the United States and France at a conference held at the foreign office between Baron de Courcel, the French ambassador, representing France; Ambassador Hay, Senator Wolcott, Former Vice-President Stevenson and Delegate Paine, representing the United States; Lord Salisbury, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the exchequer, and A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, representing England, and Lord George Hamilton, secretary of state for India, representing India. The proposals, after some discussion, were taken under advisement, and the British cabinet will give its answer at a subsequent conference. It is reported that an international conference will be summoned, probably to meet in the United States, with Great Britain participating. All the delegates will be uninstructed with regard to the ratio, although it is predicted that the United States will favor 16 to 1 and France 15½ to 1.

TRANSVAAL RAID INQUIRY.

The Committee Finds Cecil Rhodes Responsible for the Revolution.

LONDON, July 17.—The parliamentary South African commission that has been inquiring into the Transvaal raid has agreed upon its report and the Pall Mall Gazette publishes a summary of the conclusions of the committee. The report will express an impartial opinion that whatever justication there might have been for action on the part of the people of Johannesberg, there was none whatever for Cecil Rhodes' conduct in subsidizing, organizing and stimulating armed insurrection against the government of the transvaal. Heavy responsibility, according to the report, remains with Rhodes, despite the fact that at the last moment Dr. Jamieson invaded the Transvaal without reason and direct sanction. The gravity of Rhodes' transaction is weightily expressed by the committee, who find "that he seriously embarrassed both the imperial and colonial government; that his proceedings resulted in astounding breach of international comity; that he utilized his position and the great interests he controlled to assist and support revolution, and deceived the high commissioner as well as concealed his views from the members of the colonial ministry and the directors of the chartered company." The committee unite to condemn the raid. The declared Lord Rosemead and Mr. Chamberlain and the under secretaries of the colonial office blameless.

RESENTED BY THE BRITISH.

Secretary Sherman's Letter on Seals Not Liked in London.

LONDON, July 17.—Among the general public here the tone of Secretary Sherman's letter to Ambassador Hay, accusing Great Britain of not acting in good faith regarding the Bering sea seal regulations, is greatly resented. But it has not affected the amicable relations of the governments. A conference will be held at Washington during the autumn, at which the United States, Great Britain, Russia and Japan will be represented. Although this arrangement is not yet formally announced, it may be regarded as settled. It also may be taken for granted that Canada does not oppose this decision. Mr. Davies, the Canadian minister of marine, said: "We regard the latest proposals of the United States as entirely reasonable."

TARIFF CONFERENCE.

Apparently Deadlocked on the Sugar Schedule.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The only report obtainable from the conference on the tariff bill is to the effect that the representatives of the two houses are still at odds on the sugar schedule; that while there are still many matters of minor importance undetermined the sugar question is the only obstacle in the way of speedy settlement.

Spalding Again Acquitted.

CHICAGO, July 18.—For the second time in two months a jury in the criminal court found Charles W. Spalding, ex-treasurer of the University of Illinois, not guilty of embezzling the endowment bonds of that institution. As before, the single word "intent" saved Spalding. The instructions given the jury by the court were that unless they were sure that Spalding intended to embezzle, they must acquit. The jurors said after rendering the verdict that while there was no doubt that Spalding embezzled, there was a doubt as to whether he intended to embezzle, and nothing could be done but to acquit him. Eight ballots were taken by the jury, the first being seven for conviction and five for acquittal. There are still twenty-five indictments against Spalding and he will be tried again.

That the 16 to 1 proposition is losing grounnd every day is shown not only by the utterances of such leading, timehonored Democrats as ex-Governor Boies and others, but also by the expressions of leading newspapers in all parts of the country. An instance of this is found in a recent statement by the Macon "Telegraph," one of the strongest Democratic papers in the South, whitch says that the Democratic party will go to destruction surely if it does not reject the 16-to-1 doctrine. "It is not a vote getter. The Republican party will win just so long as the people are forced to choose between it and the party of repudiation."

One evening last week some of our citizens used up some stale eggs, that were aimed in the direction Frank Ray was running. You should be more careful, boys, and not throw toward business houses, as the proprietor is liable to be around his place of business.—Corwith Hustler.

You better go slow over there with stale eggs. Some of the boys near Klemme had a little experience in that direction and paid their fine and costs and a new suit of clothes beside.

The country editor may not know it all, but he dosn't live long in a community without knowing a deuced sight more then he publishes. If the country editor would publish all he knows what interesting reading his paper would cause. If we were ready to die we would try it some week and publish all we know. We know there would be a large sale for extra papers. —Armstrong Journal.

Salting the cows is one of the little things that is sometimes lost sight of under the pressure of other and what is regarded as more important work, but a trial recently made at the Mississippi Experiment Station indicates that inattention to this point may be a rather expensive oversight. Three cows were kept without salt for four weeks and their milk record kept during the last two weeks of this period; then they were given the usual allowance of salt for two weeks and on comparing the milk records it was found that the cow gave 454 pounds of milk during the first period when salt was withheld and 564 pounds during the second when salt was furnished, a difference of 110 pounds of milk in two weeks in favor of salting.—Wallaces' Farmer.

A farmer south of Algona purchased some alcohol last Friday and proceeded to usher in the Fourth of July celebration the way he thought it should be done. After getting a glorirus jag, he considered it his duty to inflict some corporal punishment on his wife and a neighbor's wife who was visiting there in order that they might do some shouting and help him celebrate in a way that would notify the community that the timeto be hilarious had arrived. The neighbor whose wife he was chastising for her unpatriotism appeared upon the scene to remonstrate. To make the festivities still more tragic the brute who was filled with alcohol then swallowed some strychnine which secured him passage to the kingdom of his undehorned majesty, where he may consider it is the Fourth of July all the time, as the fire works will be a constant reminder. It is too bad that he was detained on this earth until now as he will be a valuable citizen in the regions below.—Armstrong Journal.

Accidental Shooting.

Monday afternoon, Rev. Haefner was driving near Charles Schuldt's place in German twp. and found a man lying with his feet in the road and head down the grade, and a horse hitched to a buggy grazing near by. Rev. Haefner drove to Schuldt's and gave the alarm. The Coroner was summond and the corpse identified as being Joseph Valley of Belmond, Iowa. In the front of the buggy lay a gun crosswise and the charge entered the body on the right side between the short ribs, indicating that in trying to take the gun out, it had been accidentally discharged. The body was brought in about 12:00 p. m. and prepared for burriel by E. P. Schaefer and at about 4:30 Alex. Kirkwood started for Belmond with the corpse. The deceased was a plasterer and leaves a wife and two children to mourn his untimely death.

Some people from Garner came down Saturday and bought furniture of E. P. Schaefer. Why? Because he sells cheaper than the Garner merchants.

Harr has laid a walk along his lots on the east side which completes the walk south to Walensky's place. This will be the longest piece of good walk in town when the crossings are is.

E. P. Schaefer has commenced operations by taking the old shop away, getting stone and excavating the cellar for his new addition. It will be 20 x 30 with a shop along the east side. Wanamaker and Remer have the contract.

Surprised? Yes, that happened to Mrs. B. R. Bombard Monday evening, July 19th. The occasion of the surprise was the congregation of a large number of friends from Klemme and vicinity The reason they went was to show their friendship and remind Mrs. Mombard that she was passing another milestone of life's journey. After enjoying a good social time and also ice cream and cake and lemonade the company went home wishing Mrs. B. many more birthdays.

Rev. C. E. Anderson went to Goodell Wednesday where he united in marraige Mr. Harvey Sweigard to Miss Gittie White, and from there he took the 4:55 trainto Garnes where he preformed the marriage ceremony which made Mr. Frederick Blackstone and Miss Clara Schneider, one. The contracting parties are so well known that further comments are unnecessary. The TIMES joins with the friends of the two happy couple wishing them a long happy life and prosperity.

"The work must take care of itself, Geoffrey. You must discover the Secret of Life yourself; or perhaps you had better put the whole thing in the fire and go back to practice. At any rate, it has served my turn, and I have done with it!"

"I don't understand you!" I answered, sinking into a chair. "Perhaps if you are not in too great a hurry you will explain a little."

"Of course I will, when I have poured out your tea. There now, listen, and I will give you a lesson in human nature, which, with all your brains, you very much want, Geoffrey. I have been in this house for fourteen years, and I will begin by telling you that from the day that I came in till to-day, when I go out, you have never understood me in the least. You have always looked upon me as a simple-minded woman of intellectual capacity, and with a genius for mathematics, and no aims beyond the discovery of scientific secrets. Now, I will tell you. When I first came to this house as a girl of fourteen, I fell in love with you. You need not look astonished—young girls sometimes do that sort of thing. You were good looking in those days, and very clever, as you are now; and then you were really and truly a gentleman, and one sees so few gentlemen—I always think they are the scarcest people in the world!

"Well, I nursed my secret passion and held it so tight that neither you nor your wife even guessed it. Even in those days I could form a clear opinion, and I saw that she would not live long, and that the time would come when I should step into her shoes. So I played upon her weak points, to strengthen my hold over her, and waited. In due course the time came. You were a long time before you proposed to me after her death, and your head was so full of your work that I believe yould would have been longer, had I not, by means that were imperceptible to you, kept continually turning your mind into that channel. Even then you did not love me as I wanted to be loved; but I knew that this would come after marriage. And then came the crash, and the sudden appearance of an obstacle against which no scheme of mine could prevail, overwhelmed and confused me, filling me with a sense of impotence that I have never experienced before or since. If you could know, Geoffrey, what a flood of unutterable contempt rushed into my mind, as I heard you maundering on about your scruples and posterity! It drowned my passion. I felt that I was well rid of a man who could in cold blood give me up to satisfy what he was pleased to call his conscience! But perhaps you will never quite know or understand how near I went to killing you that night!"

Here I started—the whole thing was like a nightmare. Fanny laughed.

"Don't be frightened," Fanny went on; "there's nothing more melodramatic to come. I am glad to say that prudential considerations prevailed! Well, after that fiasco, I reviewed the position and determined to stay on—partly from habit, partly on account of John—partly, indeed chiefly, because I was still foolish enough to believe in the Secret of Life business, and foresaw that when it did succeed my name would be made, and that I should then, backed as I am by my personal appearance and capacities, be able to marry whom I liked, or, if I preferred it, not to marry, but to follow any career in life that might recommend itself to me.

"At last, however, the end came. I lost all faith in our work, and saw that you and I had only been making fools of ourselves; and consequently I determined to sever a connection that could not bring me credit or profit, either now or in the future, and, being a woman, the only way that I could possibly sever it with advantage was by marriage. For a long time I could not fall in with anybody rich enough; when at last a happy accident brought the man within my reach—by the way, I had thought of him for several years—and, of course, I took my chance, and married him before anybody could interfere. What is more, I actually persuaded him to enter into an engagement to settle four thousand a year to my separate use; so you see I shall in reality be totally independent of the man!"

"And what do you mean to do with yourself now?" I asked, feebly.

"Do! I mean to bask in the sunshine and drink the wine of life—to know what pleasure and power mean, to live and become rich and great, and avenge myself upon everybody who has ever slighted or injured me! Oh, yes, I shall do it, too! I shall use even that miserable little Joseph, whom I just now had the pleasure of promising to love, honor and obey, as a means to advance myself. He is a poor creature, but sharp enough to be a member of Parliament, you know.

"That reminds me, he is waiting for me at his club; he was afraid to come back and face you, so I must be going. Well, good-bye, Geoffrey; I hope that you will think kindly of me sometimes, notwithstanding it all, and although I have for the first time in my life indulged in the luxury of telling you everything that is in my mind. Ah, you don't know what a luxury it is to be able to speak the truth just for once! Do you know now that I am going to leave you—it is very odd—but I almost feel as though I loved you again, as I used to do so many years ago! At least I am glad to have spent all this time with you, though I was often dreary enough, because I know that I shall never meet a man like you again, and my mind leaves you hardened and braced and polished by contact with your bright intellect, and by the constant study and application you have insisted on till it has become a second nature to me. I shall miss you, Geoffrey, but not so much as you will miss me. You will be miserable without me, and no other woman can ever fill my place, because I do not believe that you can find any who is my equal in intellectual resource. You see what happens to people who indulge in scruples! Are you not sorry that you did not marry me now?"

"Fanny," I answered, solemnly, for by this time I comprehended the whole horror of the position, "I thank the Providence which preserved me from joining my life to that of a woman so wicked as yourself!"

"Really, Geoffrey, you are quite energetic! I suppose that you are piqued at my going. Well, I must be going, but before I go I will lay down a little axiom for your future guidance; I fear you will think it cynical, but the truth is often cynical. 'Never trust a woman again. Remember that she always has a motive. If she is under twenty-five, seek for it in her passions; after that in her self interest.'"

At this moment her face changed, and as it did I heard the tap! tap! of poor John's crutches as he came down the passage. The door opened and the boy entered—a feeble, undersized lad, with a pinched-up white face and a pair of beautiful blue eyes.

"Cousin Fanny," he said (he always called her cousin), as he entered, "where are you? I have been looking for you everywhere. Why have they been taking away your big box? You are not going away to stay without me, are you?"

"Your cousin is going away for good, John," I said; and next moment I regretted it, for it was dreadful to see the look of agony that came upon the poor lad's face. He loved Fanny with all the strength of his sensitive and exaggerated nature, and for years had scarcely been able to bear her absence, even for a day.

"Oh, no! no!" he screamed, hobbling up to her and catching hold of her dress in his hands. "Don't say you're going, cousin! You can't go and leave me behind."

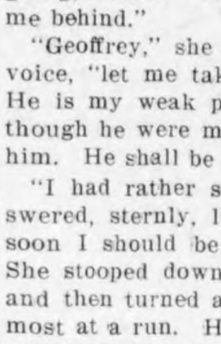
"Geoffrey," she said in a choked voice, "let me take the boy with me. He is my weak point. I love him as though he were my own. Let me take him. He shall be looked after!"

"I had rather see him dead!" I answered, sternly, little guessing how soon I should be taken at my word. She stooped down and kissed the lad, and then turned and went swiftly—almost at a run. He seized his crutches and limped down the passage after her at an astonishing pace, calling her by name as he went, till presently one of the crutches slipped, and he fell helpless upon the stone flooring, and lay there, still screaming to her through the hall door, which she slammed behind her. When I reached him he was in a fit!

The whole thing formed the most horrible, and in its way the most tragic scene that I ever saw; and I often dream of it even now. And here I may add that my poor boy never recovered from the shock. He lingered three months and then died in his sleep, apparently from pure inanition. Well, it was a merciful release from a life of almost constant pain!

That was the last time that I ever saw Fanny Denelly, or rather Fanny Hide-Thompson.

CHAPTER VI.



WHEN John had temporarily recovered under the treatment that I had applied, seeing that I could do nothing else for him, I gave him a sleeping draught, and as soon as it had taken effect, I went down stairs into the study in a very strange state of mind. I felt as though I had received some dreadful physical shock. I had believed in and trusted Fanny as I had trusted no other woman on earth, except my dear wife, and the lurid light in which she now suddenly revealed herself after these long years positively staggered and blinded me! And yet, after it all, I was astonished to find that I remained fond of the woman and missed her dreadfully. Indeed, it was a year or more before I got over the feeling, and then I only did it by the exercise of great self-control. I had grown to depend upon her so entirely that her help and society seemed a necessity to me, quite alone as I was in the world. Indeed, had it not been for my own rather well-developed pride, I do not think I should ever have got over it. But this came to the rescue. I could not bear to reflect that I was intellectual and socially bound to the chariot wheels of a woman who had for years been making a tool of me, and who was, after all, my inferior. And so by degrees I did get over it; but it has left its mark on me—yes, it has left its mark!

And then it was on that same disastrous morning that a wonder happened, so strangely and opportunely, that I have at times been almost inclined to attribute it to the direct interference of Providential Power. When I was worn out with thinking, I turned to my work, more from habit than anything else, I think, only to be once more overcome by the reflection that there too I was helpless. The work could not go on without the calculations, and who was to do them now that Fanny had deserted me? I could not, and it would be the task of years to teach anybody else, however clever, for the understanding of them had grown with the experience. Besides, this I could never afford to pay a man of the necessary ability. It appeared, therefore, that there was an end of my search for the Secret of Life, to which I had devoted the best years of my precarious existence. It was all but labor lost, and would benefit neither myself nor mankind. This conviction rushed upon me as I stood there by the pile of papers; then for the first time I quite broke down under the accumulated weight of sorrows, and, putting my hands before my face, I sobbed like a child! The paroxysm passed, and with it passed, too, all my high ambitions. I must give it up, and go back a failure to what little practice I could get, until such time as the end came.

CHAPTER VII.

AS I stooped to gather up the various papers, I noticed that on the table before me lay a great sheet of Fanny's calculations, which she had been employed upon the previous night. The top of the sheet was covered with two dense armies of figures and symbols, marching this way and that, but toward the bottom they thinned out wonderfully, till there remained two little lines only of those that had survived the crooked ways of mathematical war. Evidently she had laid down her pen (as she sometimes would) just before the termination of the problem, which I was aware she had been engaged on for several days. I knew but little of the higher mathematics, but I could see if the left-hand line were subtracted from the right, the difference would be the result sought for, provided the problem had been worked out without error. I took a pencil and did this idly enough. The first time I made a mistake, but even with the mistake the result was sufficiently startling to make me rub my eyes. I did it again, and then sank back into the chair behind me with a gasp, and trembling as though I had unwittingly raised a ghost!

And no wonder. For there before me was the Key to the great Secret for which we had been wearily seeking so many years! There was no mistake about it! I knew what it ought to be, and what conditions it must fulfill; and there it was, the last product of scores of sheets of abstruse calculations based upon laws that could not lie. There it was! She had stopped just short of it, and at length I had triumphed!—the fast obstacle to success, complete, absolute success, was gone! I had wrung the answer to the great question which torments the world from the stony heart of the almighty law that governs it!

"If she had known this, Fanny would not have gone!" I said aloud, and then, what between one thing and another, I fainted!

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Queer-Looking Word.

Supposing that you had been born blind, and after living many years shut out from the beautiful things of the world, some skilled surgeon should give to you your sight, wouldn't you have some marvelous experiences? says the Chicago Record. An old man who had been born blind had his sight thus restored to him. At first he started violently and was afraid of the strange things around him, the hugeness of his room and its contents. One of the first things he saw at the window was a flock of sparrows. "What are they?" asked the physician.

"I think they are teacups," was the reply.

A watch was then shown to him and he knew what it was, probably because he heard it tick. Later, on seeing the flame of a lamp, he tried to pick it up, not having the slightest idea of its nature.

GHOSTS AND GIRLS.

The girl in the tailor made suit gave a little shriek and dropped the book she had picked up. "I'm so sorry," she said to the clerk, "but I can't take it. And it's only 39 cents, too!"

"What's the trouble?" asked the maiden with the sailor hat and fur collarette.

"It's about ghosts," said her friend, "and I'm nervous after my experience. Ugh!"

The girl in the conglomerate attire abruptly dragged her friend past the silk counter to a convenient seat. "Now," she commanded, and waited.

"I was sitting up late writing," said she of the ghostly fears, "and every one else had gone to bed. It was awfully lonesome; the rain was pounding against my windows, and the clock ticked horribly loudly. I had been reading Poe's ghastliest tales after dinner and I had a headache anyhow. I sat thinking after I had finished my letter, and finally turned around with my thoughts millions of miles away. As I turned a perfect glare burst upon me—staring eyes and crimson flames and dancing horrors. I didn't do a thing but shriek madly and fell over."

"What was it?" breathlessly asked the other.

The tailor made girl smiled. "Just the reflection of the gas jet in a mirror that had a defect in it. I was at an angle to get the full effect of the distortion. My family will hardly speak to me and the neighbors all called next day to see if there was any domestic difficulty they could discover."

"You weren't as lucky as Nell. She went to a party with that young Granville and ——"

"The pasty face, straw-color-mustache man with the pale blue eyes?"

"The same. He adores her, unfortunately for her. He had unlocked the front door for her and started away when she stepped in, saw a weird white light wavering on the wall and screamed for him to come back.

"What is it?" he cried.

"'Ghosts!' said she.

"'My goodness!' he said, and ran away as fast as he could, leaving the carriage to follow."

"But how was she lucky?" asked the tailor made girl in a puzzled tone.

Her friend looked at her indignantly. "Why, he won't dare propose to her now and she is so self sacrificing she might have married him otherwise."

The tailor made girl looked sweetly mystified and then blank. "Let's go have a soda," she said mildly, and they went.

Novel Use for Tidal Power.

Various plans have been suggested at different times for the utilization of the energy developed by the rise and fall of the tides, but the intermittent character of the power has usually prevented any satisfactory solution of the problem. There is, however, one importance in which tide power has been quite successfully applied in a very simple manner. Along the river front at Liverpool there is a tendency for the accumulation of all silt against the dock walls, requiring occasional dredging for its removal. Instead of using scoop dredges, this mud is removed at different periods by the use of tide power in the following manner: Along the base of the dock walls is laid a pipe perforated with holes, directed outward, this pipe being connected with the interior of the dock system and suitable valves being provided to permit or check the flow of water. When the tide is very low, and, consequently, the head of water measured from the surface in the docks is at its greatest, a sudden opening of the connection permits a rapid flushing action by the water escaping through holes in the pipe at the base of the walls, scouring out the mud and driving it out into the river to be carried away. As the tides at Liverpool average about twenty-five feet or more, it is evident that this simple form of dredging apparatus may be very effective, and as the times chosen for using it must be selected when the supply of water is greatest, it does not interfere with the regular use of the docks. Ultimately, no doubt, the introduction of practical and economical forms of power storage will render the equalization of tide power commercially practicable, but at the present time this example serves to demonstrate the fact that solar and lunar attraction, as expressed by the tides, have been harnessed in a small way at least.

Educationa .

Attention of the reader is called to the announcement of Notre Dame university in another column of this paper. This noted institution of learning enters upon its fifty-fourth year with the next session, commencing Sept. 7, 1897. Parents and guardians contemplating sending their boys and young men away from home to school would do well to write for particulars to the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, before making arrangements for their education elsewhere. Nowhere in this broad land are there to be found better facilities for cultivating the mind and heart than are offered at Notre Dame University.

After a woman gets beyond a certain age her skin never fits.

How Old are You?

You need not answer the question, madam, for in your case age is not counted by years. It will always be true that "a woman is as old as she looks." Nothing sets the seal of age so deeply upon woman's beauty as gray hair. It is natural, therefore, that every woman is anxious to preserve her hair in all its original abundance and beauty; or, that being denied the crowning gift of beautiful hair, she longs to possess it. Nothing is easier than to attain to this gift or to preserve it, if already possessed. Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray or faded hair to its original color. It does this by simply aiding nature, by supplying the nutrition necessary to health and growth. There is no better preparation for the hair than

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR.

GAINED THE EAR OF CONGRESS

Kentucky Representative's Scheme to Get a Hearing.

Already quite a number of congressmen have introduced bills for the erection of public buildings in their districts, says the Washington Post. It has been pretty hard sledding for this class of legislation for the last two years, and the outlook for the future is not more favorable. If the barriers still continue the position of the members will be very much like that of Congressman Jim McKenzie from Kentucky a few sessions ago. He had introduced a bill for a public building at Owensboro, the principal town in his district, but had made very little progress. His numerous promises t his constituents were on the point o going to smash and his unfortunate predicament gave his rivals a splendid chance to advance their own interests. So one day, in his dire extremity, Mr. McKenzie arose and addressed the chair.

"For what purpose does the gentleman rise?" inquired the cautious speaker.

"On a matter of the highest privilege," was the reply.

"The gentleman will state it," said the speaker.

"Is not the right of a member to his seat a question of highest privilege?" persisted Mr. McKenzie.

"Most assuredly," was the response.

"Well," said the Kentucky congressman, "I introduced some time ago a bill to erect a federal court house and postoffice at Owensboro, in my district. That bill was considered in the committee, and has been reported back to the house and is now on the calendar. Mr. Speaker," exclaimed the distressed member with great earnestness, "I ask that the bill be now taken from the calendar and passed, for if it is not I am sure that the member from the second district of Kentucky will lose his seat."

The house, which had listened to the first part of Mr. McKenzie's remarks with absorbing interest, now roared with laughter. When the demonstration subsided the speaker mildly observed that the privilege was not one of that peculiar character which demanded recognition, and Mr. McKenzie sat down. But his premonition was correct. He lost his seat, though Mr. Cleveland sent him as minister to Peru.

Importance of Regular Living.

A question has lately arisen as to the increase or the reverse in nervous diseases, some arguing that the cause of the supposed increase in such nervous diseases lies in the increased demand made by the conditions of modern life upon the brain. It is quite true that the conditions of life are very different nowadays to what they were a few years ago. We now live in a high pressure age, and in one of keen competition, when greater effort is needed in every branch of life to attain a successful position, when the brain is always working, and there is constant tension. Such conditions, it will be perfectly obvious to all, are not favorable to a diminution of nervous diseases, but rather the reverse. At the same time it cannot be denied that the comforts of life have increased; we have better sanitation, cleaner houses, and fresher air. There can be no question that men of regular habits are healthier, happier, live longer and do more than those who obey caprice and impulse. The adoption of hygienic habits saves the nervous system an enormous amount of friction and waste. It preserves vitality. Regularity economizes not only physical stamina, but time as well. The man who knows no system in the details of his life, who exhausts nature at the instance of a passing whim, who drinks and smokes to excess, who wastes the talents bestowed upon him, is the one who must sooner or later fall a victim to disease. Regularity and moderation in all things should be the motto of life, and it should be remembered that regularity does not necessarily preclude the enjoyment of variety. A certain amount of variety prevents man from becoming a mere machine, but variety should not interfere with those regular habits of life which are necessary to the maintenance of health.

A Beautiful Thought.

Michael Minot, a French preacher, who died in Paris in 1518, was noted for his eccentricities in the pulpit and the rapidity with which he changed from humor to pathos; from commonplace to the beautiful. "There was once pillories for swearers," he said, on a certain occasion, "but if the law were enforced now two-thirds of the empire would be in the stocks, and there would be the child of five years and the dotard of eighty, who has only two teeth remaining to fling out an oath. Changing suddenly to denounce those who neglected the aged parents who had cherished them in prosperity, he said, "See the trees flourish and recover their leaves; it is their root that has produced all; but when the branches are loaded with flowers and fruits they yield nothing to the root. This is an image of those children who prefer their own amusement and to game away their own fortunes than to give to their old parents the care which they want."

THE "GROWN-UP" DAUGHTER'S DUTY TO HER MOTHER.

You can only have one mother; therefore, when her step is growing slow and her mind gloomy with forebodings, and you can see that her whole nervous system is upset, it is your filial duty and privilege to attend to her in time! Mother is approaching the most critical period of her life.

The change of life, that is what mother is dreading, and no wonder, for it is full of peril to all but the strongest women.

There are some special and very wearing symptoms from which mother suffers, but she will not speak of them to any one. Help her out; she doesn't know what to do for herself!

Shall I advise you? First, send to the nearest drug store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and see that mother takes it regularly, then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., giving all the symptoms aud you will receive a prompt reply telling mother what to do for herself. In the meantime the Vegetable Compound will make life much easier for her. It tones up the nervous system, invigorates the body, and the "blues" vanish before it as darkness flees from the sunlight. You can get it at any reliable druggist's.

Mrs. LOUIS STRONG, Harris Hill, Erie Co., N. Y., says: "I have been troubled with falling of the womb for years, was advised to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took thirteen bottles and received great benefit. When the time for change of life came I suffered a great deal with faintness and palpitation of the heart. I got one bottle of the Vegetable Compound and one of Blood Purifier and was relieved again. I was thereby enabled to pass through that serious period very comfortably."

His Musical Choice.

"Eothen" Kinglake was a great friend of Mme. Olga de Novikoff during her sojourn in England, where one feature of her entertainments was afternoon musicals to which none but dilettanti were invited. On one occasion Kinglake presented himself, and as an intimate of the house was admitted. He retired to a corner and listened attentively. Madame was surprised, but pleased, and approaching him said: "Which order of music do you prefer, my friend—classic, Italian or the Wagnerian school? I fancy you do not know our great Glinka?" "I assuredly am fond of music," he answered, "but my taste is perhaps peculiar. As an instrument I prefer the drum." Madame took measures to prevent his being admitted to these assemblies again.

English Ship Names.

The naming of ships is one of the difficulties that the admiralty overcome by using the old names over and over again. To adopt a new name into the navy seriously interferes with the service signal books.

The old names are in the code, and are as convenient for the ships of today as for those of Nelson's time. But the introduction of a new name necessitates an alteration in all the books. That is why the old names survive generation after generation.—London World.

Jim Corbett's experience on the diamond proves that he can't hit anything.

The reason that Queen Victoria never quarrels with her servants is that she stays out of the kitchen and never pokes around to see how late their company stays at night.

In the Whitechapel (London) county court three witnesses in succession in one case could neither read nor write. Three witnesses in the case were named respectively Speller, Reader and Wright.

A plausible young man accosted a Georgia farmer recently, and in a very little while induced him to pay $50 for a machine which he assured him would turn out brand new $20 bills by simply turning a crank.

It has been decided by the presbytery of New York that after a minister of the gospel has said all that his holy office requires him to say about Sunday newspapers and the bicycle habit and the evils of vaudeville and other matters vital to the salvation of the human soul he should not be required to officiate at funerals on the Sabbath day.

There was a realism in the college commencement of earlier days unknown to these times. Thus on July 1, 1797, a newspaper had this paragraph: "The elephant is advertised as being at Providence on his way to Boston. He is to be at Cambridge the approaching commencement." Even the glory of the escorting Boston Lancers might be eclipsed were boyish eyes now permitted to feast on an elephant within trumpeting distance of the commencement procession.

All the navel orange orchards in California are descended, as an account in a contemporary informs us, from two trees imported from Brazil by the United States government and sent to the Pacific coast thirty years ago. It is suggested that these trees be removed to some public park, and preserved as a monument to a profitable branch of an industry which has so enriched that state. The value of the yield thus secured to California, could it be computed, would be a sum so great as to make these trees seem like fairies, the touch of whose wand has made gold cover the ground.

It has been prophesied that at no very distant day it will be possible to dissipate the thick fog by a charge of electricity, and that the atmosphere of smoky cities will, by the same means be kept clear and bright. On a small scale, a modification of the principle has already been applied by Pro. Oliver Lodge, who precipitated both smoke and dust on the walls inside a chimney or flue by static electricity, and now a patent has been taken out in Germany for an apparatus for smoke prevention by means of wires stretched inside a flue or chimney, and rendered incandescent by an electric current. There is no doubt that this extremely simple electrical method will completely consume the blackest smoke possible, but it is at the present time too costly to be commercially profitable.

The announcement is made by Mr Bellamy Storer, United States minister to Belgium, that the United States ambassadors to Great Britain and Germany will, in common with him, take vigorous steps to secure a modification of the laws against American sheep, cattle and meat products, which now involve so large a loss to American agricultural interests annually. The action taken will be simultaneous, and is the outgrowth of the determination of the administration at Washington to protect American agricultural interests by doing its utmost to have the discriminating laws of European countries against American products changed. As a matter of fact, the attention of all United States representatives has been called to the need of urgent and vigorous action in the premises. It is explained by the minister to Belgium that Great Britain and Germany control that country, and that all three are influenced to discriminate against American meats by the agrarian element in their parliaments on the pretense that American sheep, cattle and meats are not sufficiently protected against disease, and the claim that they must have their own inspection, which in practice acts as a prohibition of imports from this country. The contention is made on the part of the American representatives that our system of inspection is the most scientifically complete in the world, and that, as a matter of fact, the ground of difficulty is rather economic than sanitary. The result of this action on the part of the American representatives will be awaited with interest.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

THIEF IN THE POSTOFFICE.

Discovered by a Nightwatch, But He Manages to Escape.

DENISON, July 55.—About 3 o'clock as Night Watch L. M. Bear was going his rounds he discovered a light in the rear end of the postoffice, and upon search found a burglar intent upon relieving the safe of its contents. He quickly ran across the street and awoke J. L. McClellan, the city marshal. The two reached the rear of the postoffice in time to meet the burglar, who was climbing out of the back window. Marshal McClellan fired one shot at him without taking effect. The burglar retreating into the building, one more shot was fired at him through the door, but with the same result. The burglar concluding that he had urgent business on the outside, ran through the building to the front end, and, kicking out the large plate glass front, made good his escape. He secured 26 cents in money for his trouble. There is no clue as to the identity of the thief.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

Son of James Nichol Fatally Cut by a Reaper Sickle Near Winterset.

WINTERSET, July 23.—A son of James Nichol, Sr., who lives near St. Mary's, was accidentally killed about four miles west of Winterset. He was engaged in cutting oats and had stopped to fix something about the machine, when the team became frightened and ran away. He was caught in the sickle and dragged some distance, one leg being nearly cut in two. Death from bleeding resulted in a few minutes.

A Big Store.

DES MOINES, July 21.—Des Moines has at last gotten a store which has been needed in Iowa for years. On July 1 Mr. W. P. Chase opened up a wholesale and retail sporting goods and photographic house which eclipses anything ever before attempted in the state. The large store rooms at 618 & 620 West Locust street have been newly painted and decorated and present the most attractive store in Des Moines. Anything which could be desired in the sporting goods line is carried right in stock; tennis, base ball, gymnasium, fishing goods, guns, ammunition, hunting suits, decoys, powder, shot, targets, boats, oars, oar locks, tents, campers' supplies, bicycles, bicycle sundries, cameras, plates, films and photographic goods—in fact, anything one could ask for in this line can be shown.

Youthful Burglars Captured.

MT. AYR, July 24.—Fred Evans and S. P. Larkin, the two young burglars who broke into and robbed the store J. P. Wilson & Son, of Maloy, were captured near Blockton and brought to Mt. Ayr for preliminary examination before Justice I. W. Keller. They waived examination and were bound over to await the action of the grand jury. Being unable to furnish bonds they were committed to the county jail. There seems to be no doubt of their guilt, as they have confessed to all the details of the crime and where the goods would be found.

Robbers Captured.

SEYMOUR, July 22.—Several tramps who had robbed the Rock Island depot at Harvard and a hardware store at Sewal were discovered in a corn field near Seymour by a posse pursuing them. A desperate fight took place before the robbers surrendered. A number of shots were exchanged. One of the robbers was shot in the back and neck. None of the constable's posse were wounded. The robbers had the booty in their possession when captured. They were given a preliminary hearing, and now languish in the county jail, awaiting the action of the grand jury.

William Crawford Suicides.

BOONE, July 24.—William T. Crawford, formerly proprietor of the Savery House drug store at Des Moines, suicided at the Butler hotel by taking chloral. He had been ill, coming to the Butler house after ten days in the hospital. He was despondent. The physicians worked hard with him all night and reaction had set in when he expired suddenly of paralysis of the heart.

Serious Gasoline Accident.

INDEPENDENCE, July 23.—Isaac Preble, a prominent citizen, was seriously burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove. The flames burned his face and hands while he was carrying the stove from the house. This was followed by an explosion, which covered him with blazing oil. Prompt assistance alone saved his life.

Reward for a Missing Son.

ATLANTIC, July 22.—L. E. Moorehouse of Massena, is offering a liberal reward for information concerning the whereabouts of his son, O. J. Moorehouse. The missing son is 19 years of age, of medium height and light complexion. He left home on July 18, and was driving a team of ponies to a new buggy.

DRAKE WITHDRAWS.

Will Not Accept a Renomination for the Governorship.

DES MOINES, July 23.—Governor Drake is out. He will not be a candidate for re-election. He has written a letter to the republicans of Iowa declining to be a candidate. His decision was based upon the judgment of doctors, who had advised him that he could not take a part in the coming campaign except at the peril of his life. The governor fell on the steps of the capitol recently, disturbing an old army wound, and since then he has been confined to his room, with the assurance of his physicians that it may be several weeks before he will be able to be out.

POISONED HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Behrens Confesses and Implicates Her Lover.

DAVENPORT, July 26.—Mrs. Claus Behrens, charged with poisoning her husband with paris green, has confessed and implicates Henry Bendt, her lover, who was brought from his home in Rock Island, Ill., and is locked up in the county jail, charged with being an accomplice in the fiendish crime. Mrs. Behrens is a determined looking German woman, and it was only after two hours of close questioning by the chief of police that she broke down and told the story to him and the police matron.

HIS BODY FOUND.

Had Deen Missing From His Home For Ten Days.

DES MOINES, July 23.—The dead body of old Patrick Riley was found about eight miles down the Des Moines river from the city. The man was found by a division of a large posse of men who spent the day looking for him. He is supposed to have committed suicide while under temporary insanity. On the 13th he disappeared from his home two and a half miles east of Youngstown, which is three and a half miles east of Des Moines. He had been sick and was recovering. While the family was not around he wandered out of the gate and that was the last seen of him.

Struck by a Train.

BURLINGTON, July 25.—A man was found beside the Burlington track near New London with his skull crushed, but alive. He was identified as George Scanlan, the 19-year-old son of respectable parents living in Ottawa, Ill. He ran away from home several weeks ago, and has since consorted with tramps. He lay down near the Burlington track and went to sleep. A passing train struck him and crushed his skull. The boy was brought to Burlington, where doctors removed pieces of the skull covering two square inches, and at least a pint of brains oozed out. He cannot possibly recover.

Killed at Panora.

PANORA, July 26.—During a severe thunder shower, Mrs. I. Hummer was instantly killed by lightning. The charge entered the house by way of the electric light wires. Others near by were slightly shocked. The electric light plant was slightly injured.

Drank Himself to Death.

BURLINGTON, July 25.—In an attempt to drown his sorrows, Henry Eads drank five gallons of bad whisky in a continuous libation, and as a result died in horrible delirium. He was a well known character about town.

IOWA CONDENSED.

The firms of N. Crahan, general merchandise, at Rolfe, and Crahan, Linnan & Company, general merchandise, of Fonda, failed a few days ago. On the Rolfe stock exchange a mortgage for $16,375 was given to Pat Crahan, and on the Fonda stock exchange a mortgage for $6,850 was given to M. W. Linnan. The total liabilities are about $30,000. Quite a number of Des Moines wholesalers are among the creditors.

The presentation of a silver service to the battleship Iowa, which was to have been made by Governor Francis M. Drake, occurred at New York a few days ago. Governor Drake was not present on account of illness. A delegation headed by State Auditor C. D. McCarthy, of Des Moines, was present and the gift was bestowed by Mr. McCarthy with an appropriate speech. The service was gratefully accepted by Captain W. T. Sampson, commanding officer of the Iowa.

Barnum & Bailey's "greatest show on earth" is making a few stops in Iowa and will be in Des Moines on July 29. Wherever it has exhibited the unanimous opinion is that it is better than ever before. The show travels in four special trains of sixty-four cars, and represents an investment of $3,500,000. The daily expenses are $7,300. Among the many leading features of the show are Peter the Small, who weighs only 6½ pounds, and an enormous giantess nearly nine feet tall. The Orissa twins, who rival the famous Siamese twins, are also a great drawing card. All railroads have granted reduced rates to Des Moines on the 29th.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 20.—At a sitting of the peace conference, Tewfic Pasha, the Turkish minister of foreign affairs, arrived late. He submitted to the conference a new frontier scheme which was unacceptable to the powers, and the ambassadors thereupon informed Tewfic that the conference would adjourn until he brought a written acceptance by his government of the frontier line traced by the military attaches.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 21.—The ambassadors have forwarded to their governments joint suggestions relative to the measures they think necessary in view of the contumacy of the Porte. Pending the arrival of fresh instructions negotiations with Tewfik Pasha have been entirely suspended.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 22.—The sultan has issued an irade sanctioning the settlement of the frontier question in accordance with the wishes of the powers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—The ambassadors of the powers and Tewfik Pasha have agreed upon a frontier claim in the peace treaty. The line drawn by military attaches and insisted upon from the first by the powers has been accepted by the sultan with a slight technical modification. The report that the Turkish forces have been ordered to evacuate Thessaly is confirmed.

LONDON, July 26.—The powers are suspicious of the sultan. They fear he will yet find some means to nullify the frontier settlement. While it is reported that the Moslems are already evacuating Thessaly, it is stated that Abdul Hamid is not ready to concede autonomy for Crete. In support of this rumor a dispatch from Vienna reiterates the statement that the porte is preparing to send thirty-two battalions of troops to Crete. Should this prove true conditions in the East would again become chaotic. The irritation that would be created in Greece would be menacing in the extreme. It is also obvious that the Russians distrust the sultan, for the Novoe Vremya urges the powers most interested in the settlement of the Eastern question to pay immediately on behalf of Greece the whole war indemnity. The paper adds that this is the only means of forcing Turkey to evacuate Thessaly, which is indispensable if the tranquility of European politics is to be restored.

RAPS THE NEWSPAPERS.

Senators Do Not Like Their Reference to the Sugar Scandal.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Senator Jones, of Nevada, chairman of the committee on contingent expenses submitted the report of that committee on the resolution introduced by Senator Tillman for an investigation of the charges of speculating in sugar stocks, etc. The report takes a strong position against ordering the investigation, and is a very exhaustive review of the procedure of the senate in the past in such matters. The report takes the position that aside from the names of the newspaper men themselves, only the name of Senator Smith of New Jersey is mentioned in the newspapers making the charges on which the resolution was based. The position is taken that the newspaper men do not count, "inasmuch as these gentleman do not profess to write from knowledge, and usually, if not always, decline to disclose the sources of their information."

CLOSE ON HAVANA.

Insurgents Within Sight of the Cuban Capital and Crisis Is Near.

HAVANA, via Key West, Fla., July 24.—Great alarm has been occasioned in Havana by the report that Gen. Gomez is marching on the capital. The news has not yet been confirmed but the panic in the city was heightened by the extraordinary precautions for defense ordered by General Weyler and the sudden arrival from Cienfuegos of the captain general. A strong insurgent camp can be seen at Mariano, a suburb of the capital. The town of Cano, a very few miles from Havana, has been raided by the insurgents. The stores were plundered and many houses burned. The garrison and inhabitants fled to Marianoa.

DECLINE.

Carnegie Will Not Make Armor Plate for $300 a Ton.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Secretary Long has received replies from the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies to his invitation to submit bids for supplying armor for the battleships Illinois, Wisconsin and Alabama according to the limitation placed by congress upon the price to be paid for armor. The companies decline to bid within the $300 limit, on the ground that it is not possible for them to produce armor of the quality they have been supplying the government at that figure.

TO GENERAL LOGAN.

Magnificent Equestrian Statue Unveiled at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 23.—At Lake Front Park the equestrian statue to the memory of General John A. Logan was unveiled with auspicious ceremonies. Judge Henry W. Blodgett, on behalf of the monument commission, made an address presenting the statue to the state. Gov. Tanner accepted it in a brief address. The oration of the day was delivered by Geo. R. Peck. A splendid parade of union and confederate veterans, United States regulars and National Guardsmen was reviewed by Mrs. John A. Logan, her children and grandchildren. Secretary of War Alger, and a number of men of prominence. The statue was unveiled by John A. Logan, Jr., grandson of the dead general. The statue is the largest equestrian statue in America. From the base to the top of the figure's head is 15 feet and 11 inches. Within the mound on which it stands is a crypt for the reception of General Logan's remains.

FIRE AT A THEATER.

Fifty Persons Badly Burned and Many Trampled Down.

PADUCAH, Ky., July 25.—The Casino summer theater at Romona Park was burned. A performance was being given to about 600 people, when the fire broke out from a fireworks display on the stage. The audience was panic stricken, women and children being trampled down in the mad rush for the exits. As near as can be ascertained, fifty persons, including men, women and children, were burned about the face and hands, and 100 were crippled. It is impossible to ascertain the truth of the story that several children have perished.

BREVITIES.

The French senate receetly, by a vote of 217 to 2, adopted the direct tax bill, and unanimously adopted the naval credit of 7,000,000 francs for commencing new warships, hastening the reconstruction of the navy and establishing a naval base at Bizerta. The decree terminating the session was read by M. Darlan, minister of justice.

The United States treasury department, taking 107.47 pounds of raw sugar testing 96 degrees, as required, to make 100 pounds of hard refined, made public a statement estimating the sugar differential as follows: Act of 1894, 19.82 cents; house schedule, 12.33 cents; senate schedule, 19.83 cents; conference schedule, 13.92 cents per 100 pounds.

At Marion, Ohio, a succession of terrible electrical storms with heavy rains passed over the city and vicinity. George Stout, while driving a mowing machine, was killed by lightning. Chas. Seiter and William Sontag, while returning from work, were struck down on the street. They may recover. Four men near Radburn, fifteen miles from Marion, were killed.

The steam sailing bark Hope, with Lieut. R. E. Peary and party on board, bound for North Greenland, has sailed from Boston. The object of the voyage is to establish a settlement of young Esquimaux at a remote northern part of Greenland which can be used as a base of supplies for the expedition in search of the north pole under Peary in 1898.

It is said that Mrs. Mary E. Lease is a candidate for governor of Kansas on the populist ticket. She told her intimate friends that she intended to succeed John W. Leedy. There is nothing in the state constitution or state law that prevents a woman from holding that office, and Mrs. Lease has reached the conclusion that the time has arrived for the women to assert themselves.

A Seattle, Wash., dispatch says: The North American Transportation Company's steamer Portland has reached this port from St. Michaels with at least a million and a quarter in gold dust as freight and sixty-eight miners aboard. Some of the miners have with them $75,000, and not one of them has less than $5,000, every dollar of which has been taken from the Clondyke within the year, and most of these men, with a competency now in their hands, have claims in that fabulously rich region that almost beyond doubt will net them hundreds of thousands more. A reporter went on the ship as it came into the harbor. Entering the captain's cabin the skipper pointed to a corner in which was piled three boxes and a large safe. "There you see those boxes and that safe. Well, they contain in round figures over $1,000,000 in gold, and that metal weighs nearly a ton and a half." He continued: "Out of the sixty-eight passengers there is hardly a man on board who has less than $5,000, and one or two have over $100,000." The mining region is located just across the Alaskan boundary in the Northwest Territory, and is said to be the richest discovery of the century. Many men are panning out $1,000 a day and wages have gone up to $15 a day and board.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

THE CAUSE OF RIGHTEOUSNESS FLOURISHING.

A Discourse from the Text: Lamentations, Chapter III, Verse 39—"Wherefore Doth a Living Man Complain?"—Better Days Are Near at Hand.

CHEERFUL interrogatory in the most melancholy book of the Bible! Jeremiah wrote so many sad things that we have a word named after him, and when anything is surcharged with grief and complaint, we call it a Jeremiad. But in my text Jeremiah, as by a sudden jolt, wakens us to a thankful spirit.

Our blessings are so much more numerous than our deserts that he is surprised that anybody should ever find fault. Having life, and with it a thousand blessings, it ought to hush into perpetual silence everything like criticism of the dealings of God. "Wherefore doth a living man complain?'

There are three prescriptions by which I believe that our individual and national finances may be cured of their present depression. The first is cheerful conversation and behavior. I have noticed that the people who are most vociferous against the day in which we live are those who are in comfortable circumstances. I have made inquiry of those persons who are violent in their jeremiads against these times, and I have asked them, "Now, after all, are you not making a living?" After some hesitation and coughing and clearing their throat three or four times, they say stammeringly, "Y-e-s." So that with a great multitude of people it is not a question of getting a livelihood, but they are dissatisfied because they cannot make as much money as they would like to make. They have only two thousand dollars in the bank,where they would like to have four thousand. They can clear in a year only five thousand dollars, when they would like to clear ten thousand, or things come out just even. Or, in their trade they get three dollars a day when they wish they could make four or five. "Oh!" says some one, "are you not aware of the fact that there is a great population out of employment, and there are hundreds of good families of this country who are at their wits' end, not knowing which way to turn?" Yes, I know it better than any man in private life can know that sad fact, for it comes constantly to my eye and ear. But who is responsible for this state of things?

Much of that responsibility I put upon men in comfortable circumstances, who, by an everlasting growling, keep public confidence depressed and new enterprises from starting out and new houses from being built. You know very well that one despondent man can talk fifty men into despondency, while one cheerful physician can wake up into exhilaration a whole asylum of hypochondriacs. It is no kindness to the poor or the unemployed for you to join in this deploration. If you have not the wit and the common sense to think of something cheerful to say, then keep silent. There is no man that can be independent of depressed conversation. The medical journals are ever illustrating it. I was reading of five men who resolved that they would make an experiment and see what they could do in the way of depressing a stout, healthy man, and they resolved to meet him at different points in his journey; and as he stepped out from his house in the morning in robust health, one of the five men met him and said, "Why, you look very sick today. What is the matter?" He said, "I am in excellent health; there is nothing the matter." But passing down the street, he began to examine his symptoms, and the second of the five men met him and said, "Why, how bad you do look." "Well," he replied, "I don't feel very well." After a while the third man met him, and the fourth man met him, and the fifth man came up and said, "Why, you look as if you had had the typhoid fever for six weeks. What is the matter with you?" And the man against whom the stratagem had been laid went home and died. And if you meet a man with perpetual talk about hard times, and bankruptcy and dreadful winters that are to come, you break down his courage. A few autumns ago, as the winter was coming on, people said, "We shall have a terrible winter. The poor will be frozen out this winter." There was something in the large store of acorns that the squirrels had gathered, and something in the phases of the moon, and something in other portends,that made you certain we were going to have a hard winter. Winter came. It was the mildest one within my memory and within yours. All that winter long I do not think there was an icicle that hung through the day from the eaves of the house. So you prophesied falsely. Last winter was coming, and the people said, "We shall have unparalleled suffering among the poor. It will be a dreadful winter." Sure enough it was a cold winter; but there was more large hearted charities than ever before poured out on the country; better provision made for the poor, so that there have been scores of winters when the poor had a harder time than they did last winter. Weather prophets say we will have frosts this summer which will kill the harvests. Now, let me tell you, you have lied twice about the weather, and I believe you are lying this time.

The second prescription for the alleviation of financial distresses is proper Christian investment. God demands of every individual state, and nation, a certain proportion of their income. We are parsimonious! We keep back from God that which belongs to him, and when we keep back anything from God he takes what we keep back, and he takes more. He takes it by storm, by sickness, by bankruptcy, by any one of the ten thousand ways which he can employ. The reason many of you are cramped in business is because you have never learned the lesson of Christian generosity. You employ an agent. You give him a reasonable salary; and, lo! you find out that he is appropriating your funds besides the salary. What do you do? Discharge him. Well, we are God's agents. He puts in our hands certain moneys. Part are to be ours. Part are to be his. Suppose we take all, what then? He will discharge us; he will turn us over to financial disasters, and take the trust away from us. The reason that great multitudes are not prospered in business is simply because they have been withholding from God that which belongs to him. The rule is, give, and you will receive. Administer liberally, and you shall have more to administer. I am in full sympathy with the man who was to be baptized by immersion, and some one said, "You had better leave your pocket book out, it will get wet." "No," said he, "I want to go down under the wave with everything. I want to consecrate my property and all to God." And so he was baptized. What we want in this country is more baptized pocketbooks.

I had a relative whose business seemed to be failing. Here a loss, and there a loss, and everything was bothering, perplexing and annoying him. He sat down one day and said, "God must have a controversy with me about something. I believe I haven't given enough to the cause of Christ." And there and then he took out his check book and wrote a large check for a missionary society. He told me, "That was the turning point in my business. Ever since then I have been prosperous. From that day, aye, from that very hour, I saw the change." And, sure enough, he went on, and gathered a fortune. The only safe investment that a man can make in this world is in the cause of Christ. If a man give from a superabundance, God may or he may not respond with a blessing; but if a man give until he feels it, if a man give until it fetches the blood, if a man give until his selfishness cringes and twists and cowers under it he will get not only spiritual profit, but he will get paid back in hard cash or in convertible securities. We often see men who are tight fisted who seem to get along with their investments very profitably, notwithstanding all their parsimony. But wait. Suddenly in that man's history everything goes wrong. His health fails, or his reason is dethroned, or a domestic curse smites him, or a midnight shadow of some kind drops upon his soul and upon his business. What is the matter? God is punishing him for his small heartedness. He tried to cheat God and God worsted him. So that one of the recipes for the cure of individual and national finances is more generosity. Where you bestowed one dollar on the cause of Christ, give two. God loves to be trusted, and he is very apt to trust back again. He says: "That man knows how to handle money; he shall have more money to handle." And very soon the property that was on the market for a great while gets a purchaser, and the bond that was not worth more than fifty cents on a dollar goes to par, and the opening of a new street doubles the value of his house, or in any way of a million God blesses him.

People quote as a joke what is a divine promise: "Cast thy bread upon the waters, and it will return to thee after many days." What did God mean by that? There is an illusion there. In Egypt, when they sow the corn, it is at a time when the Nile is overflowing its banks and they sow the seed corn on the waters, and as the Nile begins to recede this seed corn strikes in the earth and comes up a harvest and that is the allusion. It seems as if they are throwing the corn away on the waters, but after a while they gather it up in a harvest. Now says God in his word: "Cast thy bread upon the waters, and it shall come back to thee after many days," It may seem to you that you are throwing it away on charities; but it will yield a harvest of green and gold —a harvest on earth and a harvest in heaven. If men could appreciate that and act on that, we would have no more trouble about individual or national finances

Prescription the third, for the cure of all our individual and national financial distresses; a great spiritual awakening. It is no more theory. The merchants of this country were positively demented with the monetary excitement in 1857. There never before nor since has been such a state of financial depression as there was at that time. A revival came, and five hundred thousand people were born into the kingdom of God. What came after the revival? The grandest financial prosperity we have ever had in this country. The finest fortunes, the largest fortunes in the United States, have been made since 1857. "Well," you say, "what has spiritual improvement and revival to do with monetary improvement and revival?" Much to do. The religion of Jesus Christ has a direct tendency to make men honest and sober and truth-telling, and are not honesty and sobriety and truth-telling auxiliaries of material prosperity? If we could have an awakening in this country as in the days of Jonathan Edwards of Northampton, as in the days of Dr. Findley of Basking Ridge, as in the days of Dr. Griffin of Boston, the whole land would rouse to a higher moral tone, and with that moral tone the honest business enterprise of the country would come up. You say a great awakening has an influence upon the future world. I tell you it has a direct influence upon the financial welfare of this world. The religion of Christ is no foe to successful business; it is its best friend. And if there should come a great awakening in this country, and all the banks and insurance companies and stores and offices and shops should close up for two weeks, and do nothing but attend to the public worship of Almighty God—after such a spiritual vacation the land would wake up to such financial prosperity as we have never dreamed of. Godliness is profitable for the life that now is as well as for that which is to come. But, my friends, do not put so much emphasis on worldly success as to let your eternal affairs go at loose ends. I have nothing to say against money. The more money you get the better, if it comes honestly and goes usefully. For the lack of it, sickness dies without medicine, and hunger finds its coffin in an empty bread-tray, and nakedness shivers for clothes and fire. All this canting tirade against money as though it had no practical use, when I hear a man indulge in it, it makes me think the best heaven for him would be an everlasting poorhouse! No, there is a practical use in money; but while we admit that, we must also admit that it cannot satisfy the soul, that it cannot pay for our ferriage across the Jordan of death, that it cannot unlock the gate of heaven for our immortal soul. Yet there are men who act as though packs of bonds and mortgages could be traded off for a mansion in heaven, and as though gold were a legal tender in that land where it is so common that they make pavements out of it. Salvation by Christ is the only salvation. Treasures in heaven are the only incorruptible treasures. Have you ever ciphered out that sum in loss and gain, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?" You may wear fine apparel now, but the winds of death will flutter it like rags. Homespun and a threadbare coat have sometimes been the shadow of robes white in the blood of the Lamb. All the mines of Australia and Brazil, strung in one carcanet, are not worth to you as much as the pearl of great price. You remember, I suppose, some years ago, the shipwreck of the Central America? A storm came on that vessel. The surges tramped the deck and swept down through the hatches, and there went up a hundred-voiced death shriek. The foam on the jaw of the wave. The pitching of the steamer, as though it would leap a mountain. The glare of the signal rockets. The long cough of the steam-pipes. The hiss of extinguished furnaces. The walking of God on the wave. O, it was a stupendous spectacle.

So, there are men who go on in life —a fine voyage they are making out of it. All is well, till some euroclydon of business disaster comes upon them, and they go down. The bottom of this commercial sea is strewn with the shattered hulks. But, because your property goes, shall your soul go? O, no! There is coming a more stupendous shipwreck after a while. This world—God launched it 6,000 years ago, and it is sailing on; but one day it will stagger at the cry of "fire!" and the timbers of the rocks will burn, and the mountains flame like masts and the clouds like sails in the judgment hurricane. God will take a good many off the deck, and others out of the berths, where they are now sleeping in Jesus. How many shall go down? No one will know until it is announced in heaven one day: "Shipwreck of a world! So many millions saved! So many millions drowned!" Because your fortunes go, because your house goes, because all your earthly possessions go, do not let your soul go! May the Lord Almighty, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, save your souls.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, July 20.—The tariff conference report was presented to the senate to-day. But little progress was made on it beyond the formal reading of about two-thirds of the report. There was no indication when the final vote would be reached. During the day Tillman openly threatened a filibuster until next December if cotton bagging and cotton ties were not restored to the free list, but the threat was regarded as somewhat facetious. The sugar amendments occasioned a long debate. Early in the day the senate passed a joint resolution authorizing and requesting the president to take all necessary steps for the release of all Competitor prisoners from prison at Havana.

SENATE.

Washington, July 21.—The senate concluded the formal reading of the tariff conference report to-day. The debate was spiritless in the main. There was a general demand for explanation of the provision of the conference report, and it was 5:30 p. m. before the end of the bill was reached.

HOUSE.

The house adopted the joint resolution requesting the president to make such investigation as will elicit all the facts in reference to the restrictions on the sale of American tobacco in foreign countries. It also authorizes the president to enter into negotiations with the governments of these countries with a view to obtaining modifications of these restrictions

SENATE.

Washington, July 22.—The house joint resolution was passed requesting the president to make investigation as to the exclusion of American tobacco from foreign countries under the Regie contract system. The debate on the conference report on the tariff bill was participated in by Senators Chilton of Texas, Jones of Arkansas and Pettigrew of South Dakota, in opposition, while Mr. Aldrich took frequent occasions to defend the report against the criticisms of these senators. Allison gave notice that the session to-morrow would be protracted with a view to securing a vote.

HOUSE.

The house passed the bill authorizing the president to suspend the whole or part of the discriminating duties imposed on vessels of foreign countries which impose similar duties on ours. Lacey of Iowa secured the passage of the bill to amend the act creating civil government in Alaska.

SENATE

Washington, July 23.—The early part of the day was consumed by speeches on the tariff report by Teller, White and Pettus. Allen declared there was corruption in the vote of Ohio, Illinois and other states last fall. Foraker denied it and a bitter colloquy followed, one of the most heated of the session. An agreement was reached that a vote on the tariff bill will be taken at 3 p. m. to-morrow.

SENATE.

Washington, July 24.—After addresses by Allen, Burrows, Caffery, Morgan and Stewart, a vote was taken on the tariff bill, which passed, 40 to 30. The affirmative vote was cast by thirty-seven republicans, one democrat (McEnery), one silver republican (Jones of Nevada), and one populist (Stewart). The negative vote was cast by twenty-eight democrats and two populists, (Harris and Turner). By a vote of 36 to 20 the senate adopted a resolution for final adjournment at 9 p. m. A message from the president urging the passage of a bill giving authority for the appointment of a currency commission was read and referred to the committee on finance. The house bill for an international monetary commission was referred to the same committee.

HOUSE.

A message was received from the president recommending the creation of a currency commission. A bill by Congressman Stone authorizing the president to appoint such a commission was at once taken up and passed, 124 to 99. A resolution providing for final adjournment at 9 p. m. was passed As the final act of the session the speaker announced the appointment of committees.

LISBON, July 24.—In the chamber of deputies the colonial minister announced that the crew of a Portuguese gunboat had been massacred on the Zambesi river in Africa. He said the government had instructed the local commandant to punish the natives.

Tariff Bill Operative.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Immediately after the passage of the tariff bill it was signed by the president and at once became a law.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, July 19.—Talmadge E. Brown, of Des Moines, has been granted a copyright for a melodrama in four acts, entitled "The Thieves' Den." A. F. Thompson, of Adel, has been allowed a design patent adapted to be worn as a political badge. Patents have been allowed, but not yet issued, as follows: To L. D. Hart, of Nora Springs, for a corn cutter and shocker, adapted to be advanced in the field to cut off stalks and gather them into a shock to be bound together. To J. W. Russell, of Newton, for an improved grain thresher and separator in which part of the novelty is a tortuous passage way for straw and chaff and a device for forcing air into said passageway at each of its turns, and guide rods fixed to the walls of the passageway and curved around the corners. To L. D. and A. J. Hart, of Nora Springs, for a clothes pounder adapted to be attached to a tub to be operated therein and also adapted to be adjusted relative to an adjacent tub for washing clothes therein by the pounding process without detaching it from the other tub.

CHICAGO REFINERY SUSPENDS.

High Prices of Coal May Result in Closing Many Concerns.

CHICAGO, July 24.—A shortage of coal has begun to make itself manifest in the Chicago market. The Chicago sugar refinery, which uses 400 tons of bituminous coal daily, has suspended operations, in view of the high prices of coal. Local coal men believe that the sugar refinery suspension is a forerunner of a number of similar concerns. Governor G. W. Atkinson, of West Virginia, who is in Chicago, believes the miners will eventually win in the great coal strike. He says: "All the indications in West Virginia point to the success of the miners. I believe the miners in my state will leave their work. They have nothing to complain of, but are in sympathy with the suffering miners outside. So am I, and so is everybody else I know of. There are 25,000 miners in the state, and of course it will take time to reach them all and perfect organization, but there is no reason for the discouragement of the strikers."

DESTITUTION IN CUBA.

Both Spanish Troops and Insurgents Dying of Hunger.

LONDON, July 25.—The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle in Sagua La Grande, province of Santa Clara, Cuba, writes to his paper a terrible account of the position of affairs in the island. Both the government troops and the insurgents, he says, are suffering horribly from famine and the ravages of small pox and yellow fever, while butcheries of prisoners after inquisitorial tortures are of daily occurrence, if the victims be suspected of withholding information. Captain General Weyler, the correspondent says, has shown neither mercy nor quarter, and has turned the campaign in Cuba into a near approach to that of the Duke of Alva in Holland in the sixteenth century.

OVER A HUNDRED DROWNED

Chinese Steamer Wrecked in a Squall Off Malacca.

LONDON, July 24.—A dispatch from Singapore says that the Chinese steamer Srihengann, bound from Singapore for Malacca, with 190 passengers, was wrecked in a squall off Malacca on June 19. One hundred and twenty persons, including the captain of the steamer, were drowned. The remainder of the ship's company were rescued by a passing steamer.

A Pigeon From Andree's Balloon.

CHRISTIANA, July 23.—A telegram from Stavanger states that a carrier pigeon has been caught in the neighborhood of Soevde, in Rifylke, with a ring on one of its feet and the following stamped upon its wings: "North Pole, 142 W. 47.62." Assuming that the carrier pigeon was let loose from Andree's balloon, the stamping on the wings, "North Pole, 142 W," would indicate that the explorer was being carried towards Alaska.

LONDON, July 23.—A Copenhagen special says: A carrier pigeon has just been caught in the vicinity of Tromso island, near the north point of Norway, with the following stamped upon its wing: "North pole passed the 15th"

Body Under a Sidewalk.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Under a wooden sidewalk at Grand and Kenzie avenues, a desolate spot, lying in a mass of weeds and rubbish, the decomposed body of a man was found. Almost covering the body and loosely wrapped around the lower limbs was a quantity of rusted barbed wire, which the police think must have been placed there by the persons implicated in the man's death. The condition of the body will render a post-mortem necessary to determine the cause of death. There are no means of identification, but the body was evidently that of a man well to do.

Threats Against Americans.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The Herald's Havana special says: Brice, the United States consul in Matanzas, has armed the consulate in consequence of threats of a demonstration against Americans made by some ultra conservatives in that place. Consul Brice does not believe the threats will be carried into execution, but in view of the present state of feeling openly expressed by many Spaniards, he deems precautions necessary.

Gomez Wants Ammunition.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Tomas Estrada Palma, president of the Cuban junta, has received a letter, dated July 4, from General Gomez, in which the general says: "It is our purpose to make this summer's campaign as active and aggressive as possible. To carry out our plans successfully we need, rather than anything else, a steady supply of ammunition. For that we depend on the support of the patriotic Cubans and our friends abroad."

Disastrous Fire at Peoria, Ill.

PEORIA, Ill., July 24.—The main building of the Peoria Grape Sugar Company was completely destroyed by fire. The loss is $500,000, the total insurance carried being $460,000, of which nearly $300,000 was on the burned building and contents.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE TIMES.

From Los Angeles, Cal.

Los Angeles, Cal.
July 17, 1897.

Editor Klemme Times,

Dear Sir:-

After my last writing I went to Oregon City, a distance of some twenty miles from Portland. Oregon City is a nice little town situated at a great water fall in the river, this giving them water power with which to run great saw mills and paper factories.

One morning I went by steamer down the Columbia river about one hundred miles to Astooia where are located, what I am told are the greatest salmon fisheries and canneries in the world. It is something wonderful to see the small sail boats come in with each from a dozen to two hundred fish, weighing in size from twenty five to sixty pounds. I saw the whole process from the time the fish came out of the boat until they were in the cans, labelled and ready for shipment. To tell it would take too much time and too much space.

After that trip, I left Portland for San Francisco, Cal. I will only say that I thought the trip over the Southern Pacific R'y afforded finer and more magnificent sceneries than did the trip over the Union Pacific R'y. They were both grand. When we reached Mt. Shasta, which is covered with the beautiful snow, we all got out and drank our fill from the Mt. Shasta springs. The springs are many in number and shoot up into the air from 30 to 50 feet. The water has a very strong taste of soda. It is sent to various parts of the state as it is claimed to be very healthful. It was free to all on the train.

At San Francisco I spent about a week and could tell you much about that city and the beautiful Pacific Ocean, the great ocean ships, sea lions, ostriches, buffalo, deer, bear, the parks, etc.

I took the steamer one day at San francisco and went a little over 100 miles on it to Stockton whice is in the San Joaquin valley or the great wheat and fruit valley, but I'll tell you I got out on the first boat that went back. It was 108 in the shade while at San Frrnscisco it was always about 70.

Oakland, a city of 12.000 across the bay from San Francisco is a very pleasant city and is the sleeping place of a great many of the business people of San Francisco. They have their homes in one town and run business in the other. I enjoyed it very much while there and will tell you something more about this place later on.

I am enjoying good health and am real comfortable while I am sorry to hear that you people are suffering so with the extrem heat.

I will now have to quit or I will break my promise, wherein I said I would not write such a lengthy letter again.

Yours truly,

C. W. KNAPP.

Exactly six months from that day my book, "The Secret of Life," appeared, and everybody will remember the excitement that ensued. Of course, propositions so startling were violently attacked, but I only smiled and waited; for I knew that my conclusions could no more be seriously disputed than the law of gravitation. And now the attackers are all silent, and mankind (I say it wthout false modesty and without pride) blesses the man who has been the means of demonstrating the glorious cause and objects of our hitherto inexplicable existence, and of supplying the key to the mystery of life, and the agony of death, that is, as the religions foreshadowed, but the portal to the larger and more perfect life. Yes! My work is done, and well done, and I can die in peace, knowing that even here I shall never be forgotten!

A week after the book appeared, I received from Fanny this rather weakly worded letter:

"Dear Geoffrey," it began, "so you have found it! And you have had the generosity to publicly acknowledge my share in the work; and my name will go down to future generations linked with yours! It is more than I deserve, though it is just what I should have expected from you. Had I known how near we were to success, I would never have gone away. I am very wealthy, and, in a small, unsatisfactory fashion, powerful, also, as I told you I should be, and shall be more so soon. Joseph has got into Parliament, where, notwithstanding the competition, I think that his entire want of principle ought to carry him a long way. And yet, Geoffrey, I miss you as much as ever, and almost long for the old days. It is hard to have to mix with a set of fools, who smile and gabble, but cannot even understand what it is that we, or rather you, have done. I was so sorry to hear about John. Well, we must each to our own fate. Good-bye.

"FANNY."

I returned no answer to this letter, nor have I ever seen Fanny since, and I hope I never shall see her again! Of course, everybody has a right to look after his or her own interests, and on this ground I do not like to think too hardly of her. I used to believe that there was a great deal of prejudiced nonsense talked about women, and that they were as capable of real and good work and of devotion to a single end as we men are. Many and many is the argument that I have had with Fanny herself on this point, for she was wont scornfully to declare that marriage was the average woman's one object in life, and the education of a family the one thing she was capable of carrying out in a satisfactory manner. But now I confess that my belief is shaken, though I know that it is unjust to judge a great and widely differing class from the experience of an individual. And, after all, she was well within her right, and it is impossible to blame her. I had absolutely no claim upon her, and she was undoubtedly wise to provide for herself in life, when so good an opportunity came in her way. It was a little abrupt, and her explanations were rather cynical; but I have no cause or complaint. I could not marry her myself; why should I have objected to her marrying anybody else—even that young man Joseph?

And yet, I only say it to show how weak I am, I am still fond of Fanny Hide-Thompson,and still feel sad when I think of her sudden and final departure. Next to my wife's death, it has been the greatest shock of my life. If she had stopped with me, she should have had her full share in my triumph, and of all the honors and good things that have followed on its heels. She overcalculated herself, she saw too far, and yet not far enough. But I dare say that, after all, this is but another form of the personal vanity to which I fear I am constitutionally liable, and, as such, a weakness to be mortified, especially when a man is hobbling as fast as I am toward the quiet church-yard gates. Well, this is the true history of my relations with Fanny Denelly.

(THE END.)

RETALIATION

A Short Story Concluding in Our Next.

LISTEN, Mr. Marbury! Let me try to prove to you I am not as guilty as you think."

"I know, of course not; no gentleman intends to be dishonest, but it is to be regretted that public opinion will not see it in that light," replied the junior partner of an extensive mercantile firm in the city of notions.

"Too true; if you, knowing me for the last ten years, will not believe me, how can I expect aught else from strangers? Here I have been, under your eye, with the charge of the books for this long time, and never have failed to give entire satisfaction to all, until now. If you had not discovered this I should have been able to refund the amount before the end of the year. I know that I did wrong; but in the frenzy of my despair I did not think it wrong. Mr. Marbury, have mercy! do not expose me to the firm! Only keep this knowledge you have gained until January, then, if I have not returned the amount, with interest, I will not ask for further forbearance," pleaded the young man.

"Everett Morse, it matters little what I believe. I care not whether you are innocent or guilty. Fate has thrown you in my power, and I glory in it. I have no love for you. Years ago you crossed my path, and have almost, if not entirely, blasted my hopes of happiness. Clara Dayton smiled on me, until she met you. Since then you have occupied the position I had hoped to gain. Promise to leave town, to resign all hopes of Clara's hand, and I will have mercy. Hear me out: I will give you as much time as you wish to return the money, and will also make an arrangement to send you to Europe, on business for the firm. I had intended going myself, but this affair has changed my plans somewhat. Now, sir, you have my answer. You must either conclude to give up your 'lady-love,' or stand before the world a felon."

"Mercy! Mr. Marbury, is this mercy? Oh, heaven pity me! How can I give her up! You do not mean it!"

"When Clara Dayton hears the man who has sought her love stands before the world branded with dishonesty, she will most likely release you from this task. I will be a severe blow to her proud nature."

"She will never believe it. I will go to her and tell her all. Mr. Marbury, let me tell you how I was so sorely tempted, and yielded. You have heard that when my father died, he left his affairs very much embarrassed. The old homestead was mortgaged. This had been a great grief to my mother. She thought of losing this home, most valuable for the loved associations connected with it. You know, too, that my brother and I have been trying to redeem this property. The last note was due, I could not meet the payment. This has been a trying year to me. My mother's illness has very much increased my expenses; then, worse still, my brother's misfortune in breaking his right arm, has of course prevented his attending to his engraving. So the whole burden has been on me. I felt sure that as soon as Abbott could return to his work, I should be able to return the loan, as I considered it. Fatal mistake! I now see that any swerving from the right path is certain to bring its punishment. But will you not, for the sake of my poor widowed mother, spare me? It will kill her to hear I am even suspected of dishonesty, she is so feeble now. Do not demand this terrible sacrifice of me. But just! be generous! be merciful!"

"'Tis useless, sir. I have told you on what terms I can treat with you. I love Clara more than my own life, and cannot relinquish the chance of winning her. It will be impossible for you to remove the suspicion that will follow you. The fact of your employer's want of confidence in you will be sufficient to condemn you. Accept my terms. Go to Europe without seeing Clara again. Take your own time to return the money, and at the end of one year, if I have failed to win her, you are free to seek her anew, and I will give you my word never to mention this affair again."

"I see too plainly I have no other chance. If Clara loves me, as I have hoped, she will remain constant, regardless of appearances, for that time. Thank heaven, I have not sought to bind her by an engagement. Every chance is against me, though. What will she think of my leaving without telling her good-bye, even?"

"Just what I wish her to—that you do not love her any too devotedly. I will take your regrets to her, of 'pressure of business, and time,' and such little excuses. Of course she will be mortified, and disappointed, and in this state of her feelings I hope to triumph. Once mine, I do not doubt being able to make her love me. Such love as mine must meet a response."

"Be it so, George Marbury, but there's a future, thank God. A time when we shall both stand before a just judge. Are you not fearful you may yet need the mercy you now deny me? If not on earth, you surely will above."

* * * * * *

"Clara, my daughter, why will you treat Mr. Marbury with so much indifference? He is a very fine young man and seems very much attached to you. There was a time when I thought you liked him a little. I think you thought more of Everett Morse than he deserved. It is very evident, if he had loved you, he would not have gone away without saying a word. Banish him from your mind, and try to smile on one whose long devotion merits some kindness from you."

"Mother, I cannot help thinking there is some mystery relative to Everett's leaving as he did. I feel perfectly sure he loved me. Every word and action told it plainly. Every moment that was not devoted to business, or his mother, he spent with us. We were not engaged, but there was an understanding between us. Only the night I last saw him he said to me, 'When I come again I shall bring a ring to place on the finger of a certain lady fair, and try to win from her a promise, which will make me one of the happiest men on earth.' Six months have passed since then, and not a word from him. That he is living, and well, I know, for Mr. Maybury told me they had a letter from him by the last steamer. What can he mean, mother?"

"There is no doubt of one thing: he has trifled with you, and therefore is not worthy of one thought or regret. Clara, Mr. Marbury has spoken to me and asked my approval and influence in his favor. I believe he will make you a kind, loving husband. He is wealthy and will place you in a position worthy of you. I wish very much you would accept him. You know how hard a struggle it is for me to keep up a respectable appearance. Your brother must continue his studies, which are very expensive. After he graduates it will probably be a long time before he can get sufficient practice to enable him to help us. Our little is dwindling fast away, and it is absolutely necessary for you to take some thought for the future."

"Have patience, mother, dear; bear with me a little longer! When another six months have passed away if I have not heard from Everett, then I will relieve your mind and make Mr Marbury as happy as a withered heart can. Let me have a year, mother, to recover from my lost love. Custom you know, allows that time to those whose hearts are with the dead. If Everett is false, then he is dead to me. I will, no doubt, like Mr. Marbury very well; as a friend, I respect him very much now. You may bid him hope, but nothing more, just yet."

Days, weeks, months rolled rapidly past, but no tidings came to the anxious, waiting heart. Still the dead silence continued.

Two weeks only remain of the allotted time. Never had the days passed so slowly to George Marbury.

Oh, the dreadful suspense! What if after all his plotting, he should fail to win her! He must make another appeal to Mrs. Dayton.

All is joy now. She consents to be his. A few more days pass by, and, at length, but one remains. But what cares he! Standing before the altar, clasping the hand of her he would have risked salvation to gain, he is supremely happy.

CREOLES OF NEW ORLEANS.

Intense Conservatism Is Their Distinguishing Quality.

"One of the most distinguishing qualities of the creole is his conservatism,' writes Ruth McEnery Stuart in the Ladies' Home Journal. "His family traditions are of obedience and respect. It begins in his church and ends in his wine cellar. He cares not for protesting faiths or new vintages. His religion and his wines are matters of tradition. Good enough for his ancestors are they not good enough for him and his children? His most delightful home is situated behind a heavy battened gate, somber and forbidding in its outward expression, asking nothing of the passing world, protecting every sacredness within. The creole lives for his family—in it. The gentle old dame, his greataunt, perhaps, and nenaine to half of his children, after living her sheltered and contented life of threescore and ten years behind the great green gate that opens as a creaking event at the demand of the polished brass knocker, will tell you with a beautiful pride that she has never been on the American side of her own city—above Canal street. If she will admit you as her guest to her inland garden, within her courtyard gate—and be sure she will not do so unless you present unquestionable credentials—if she will call her stately tignoned negress, Madelaine, Celeste, Marie or Zulime, who answers her in her own tongue, to fetch a chair for you into the court beside the oleander tree and the crape myrtle—if, seeing you seated, she bid the maid of the tignon to further serve you with orange flower sirup or thimble glasses of liqueur or anisette from a shining old silver tray, you will, perhaps, feel that the great battened door has been, indeed, a conserver of good old ways, and that its office is a worthy one, in preserving the sweet flavor of a picturesque hospitality, whose old-world fragrance is still unspotted by innovations and untainted by emulation or contact.

"I see that the magazines are arranging to get out some very fancy Easter numbers," said she. "Yes," replied her husband; "and so, I suppose, are the people who write the price tags for spring millinery."—Washington Star.

THE OLD GARDENER.

His Love for Long Words and the Beauties of Nature.

"Do you remember," asked the owner of a large country place, "a man in one of Stockton's stories whose great ambition was to own a dictionary? Well, I have just that fellow in my employ now. My gardener might have furnished the original, in that respect at least, for the character the writer was describing. I always noticed Michael's passion for long words, but it was by accident that he revealed to me one day how much he would like to have a dictionary of his own in which he might hunt up his beloved polysyllables. I gave him one, and after that his conversation was more resplendent than ever. He was always quite sure of his ground, but he invariably succeeded in producing an impressive result. On one occasion, I remember, my next neighbor had quietly appropriated several bushels of my early bough apples, which grew unfortunately near to the boundary line between the two places. It was not a matter worth making much fuss about, yet I should have liked to stop it, and talking it over with Michael I said, half to him and half to himself, 'I wonder what would be the best thing to do?'

"'Well, sir,' said he, 'this is what I think: You just do nothing whatever at present. You'll wait till them late russet apples of his is ripe and then you'll gather a heap o' them some night and r-r-retaliate the compliment.'

"Michael always had a grudge against this particular neighbor anyhow, and held his gardening ideas in especial contempt. So one day, when I chanced to be the first to discover that Mr. —— had cut down one of his most beautiful hedges to make room for something else, I hastened to tell Michael and get his opinion upon the desecration. He had a deep, genuine affection for all growing things, and his eyes glowed wrathfully when he heard of the murdered laurel bushes, even though they grew outside of his domain.

"'What do you think of the performance?' I asked.

"Mr. ——,' replied the old fellow, speaking slowly and emphasizing every word, 'the man that would do that ought to be excommunicated from the church and denied Christian burial.' Coming from a good Catholic, like Michael, I think this will stand as a pretty severe sentence."—New York Tribune.

WHAT AND HOW THEY ATE.

Darwin gorged every now and then on plum cake. Byron, after fits of intemperance in the way of liquids, lived for weeks on biscuits and soda water. When he was abroad he purchased a goose and carried it about with him in a basket in his traveling carriage. But when the time came for the slaughter the poet had become so fond of his feathered companion that he declined to have it killed.

Newton often did not know whether or not he had had his dinner. Swift lived in Dublin on a monotonous diet of mutton pie. Shelley was content with bread or anything which happened to be at hand. Richardson was a vegetarian and an abstainer, and Thackeray, though partial to French cookery, refrained from too free indulgence in it.

Alexander Dumas was very fond of preparing dinner for his friends. Toward the end of Bethoven's life the old musician became a trifle particular in his demands upon other people, and one time dismissed his housekeeper and cook. He then invited a party of friends to dine with him, but the feast was such a failure by the time that his inexperienced fingers had prepared it that he recalled the missing servant.

On Septuagesima Sunday, 1722, at the vesper house, several carriages with arms emblazoned on their panels were drawing up before the church of St. Sulpice, in Paris. The grandes dames of the Faubourg St. Germain were going to mass. As each of the occupants alighted a footman dressed in deep mourning handed her a printed paper from a pile under his arm. One of the ladies, more curious than the rest, interrogated the footman. "I'm carrying out a provision of the will of the late duchesse d'Orleans (the mother of the regent), who died yesterday, and who enjoined me with her last breath to deliver to all her female friends the paper which I have now the honor to hand you," was the answer. It was a recipe for stewing red cabbage, a dish of which Louis XV was so extremely fond that Mme. de Pompadour, when she wished to please him, prepared it with her own hands.

Its Status.

Inquiring Tourist (in Oklahoma)—I understand that a bill was introduced during the last session of the legislature to make it a misdemeanor to have a pack of cards in one's possession containing more than four aces or kings? Landlord (in a retrospective tone)—Yes. Times have changed; it used to be a capital offense if the victim had his gun.

Use Gentleness.

Be gentle in stimulating the kidneys, otherwise you will excite and weaken them. The happiest results follow the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to overcome renal inactivity. Avoid the unmedicated, fiery stimulants of commerce. The kidneys have a delicate membrane, easily irritated, and upon this the action of such excitants is pernicous. Malarial complaints, indigestion, rheumatism, neuraigia and biliousness, succumb to the corrective influence of the Bitters.

MIRACULOUS MUD.

FOUND AT THE INDIANA MINERAL SPRINGS, IND.

Cures Rheumatism, Kidney, Bladder, Blood, Skin and Nervous Diseases—Big Hotel Has Been Erected and People Are Journeying There from All Over the Country to Bathe in the Mud.

A deposit of most remarkable mud discovered in Indiana, has of recent years been attracting wide-spread attention. It is located at the Indiana Mineral Springs, Warren county, and has been formed by the action of the water from the famous Magno-Lithia springs. Through countless ages the foliage of magnificent oaks on the hillside has annually fallen into a basin, and has been reduced by nature into a pure black earth unmixed with roots, stones or sand. The water from the big spring for thousands of years has been soaking this deposit and saturating it with mineral salts, until now there is a layer of medicated mud about two acres in extent and from ten to twenty feet in thickness.

The strange medicinal value of this peculiar, black, porous substance was accidentally discovered by an old soldier, Sam Story, who had brought rheumatism home from the war and suffered with it for years. He was attempting to dig a drainage ditch through the mud deposit, and after indulging in this useless experiment for a week or more, gave up the idea, but meanwhile had been cured of his rheumatism.

The fame of the mud began to spread and afflicted congregated at the Springs from everywhere. The method of using the mud was at first very primitive, the patient merely sitting down in the deposit where nature had laid it. But since then improvements have been made, a beautiful hotel erected, and the mud bath developed into a luxurious experience. The accompanying cut shows how it's done.

After all, Nature is the greatest of all chemists, and seems here to have prepared in a gigantic receptacle an enormous mass of medicine for poulticing sore humanity. When all else had failed, Nature's treatment, the Magno-Mud cure, as it is now called, has in hundreds of cases brought back health and happiness.

The Code of Prices.

Doctor—You have Bright's disease. Th diagnosis will cost you $10.

Patient—That is too much money.

Doctor—Very well, then, you also have severe cold.

Coleman on the Cut.

Mr. R. Lindsay Coleman, ex-president of the National Cycle Board of Trade, and president of the Western Wheel Works, in speaking on the cut in bicycles, says: "This cut in the price of $100 wheels has occasioned no surprise. We expressed the opinion five years ago that other makers would fully realize their error in endeavoring to maintain a fictitious value on their product, and that the prices we had fixed on Crescents would become the standard price for other high grade wheels.

"One of the secrets of the success of the Western Wheel Works is, that we not only guarantee our wheels, but we guarantee our prices as well, and the purchaser of a Crescent in Febrvary has the satissaction of knowing that his neighbor who purchased a Crescent in July paid the same price as he did.

"I do not anticipate that a still further reduction in the price of bicycles will be made this year."

Shopping.

PAST samples of the latest styles
She makes her way along the aisles,
And often, backward turning, smiles;
With heart astir,
From room to room, from place to place,
'Mid hats, and gowns, and furs, and lace,
The endless labyrinth I trace,
Following her.

I take small interest, I confess,
In taffetas, and even less
In chiffons, but I acquiesce
And sympathize;
For, since the fates have let me win
Her heart, there's romance even in
The spool of silk or humble pin
That Dolly buys.

I sagely say, "I am afraid
This will not wear," or, "That brocade
Is almost certain, dear, to fade;"
And so would you
If, handling the fabrics shown,
Sometimes her fingers touched your own—
If Dolly, trusting you alone,
Should ask you to!

Oh, busy throng that past us moves,
Pricing the ribbons and the gloves,
You cannot see the troop of loves
With laughing eyes
Who hide among the rolls of lace,
Who peer from counter and from case
And make Arcadia of the place
Where Dolly buys!

City Ignorance.

Farmer Haicede—"Yes 'm; this here Jersey caow gives us sixteen quarts o' milk ev'ry day."

Tottie Tiperiter—"Isn't it kind of her! I always supposed you had to take it from her!"

Reason for It.

"I never hear you speak of your son."

"No. There are occasionally some little matters of family history that one does not like to discuss."

"He hasn't disgraced the family name, has he?"

"No. Fortunately he had decency enough to change his name before he would consent to run for the legislature."—Chicago Post.

A Heavier Removal.

Mrs. Stickpig—"I read today of a woman who has had a tumor weighing 20 pounds removed."

Mrs. Wabash—"Pooh! that's nothing. I have several times been divorced from men weighing from 140 to 180 pounds."

One Rock Avolded.

Mrs. Worrid—"How in the world did you ever persuade yourself to marry a baker?"

Mrs. Wise—"I was determined to marry a man who could make his own biscuits. You know, he is my second husband."

An Eye to Business,

Golringski (the rich pawnbroker)—"No, mein young friendt, I can'd be your fader-in-law; but (suavely) I vill be an ungle to you."—Judge.

A Bicycle Saddle.

Deadshot Dick—"What's Wild Bill so mad about today?"

Texas Tim—"About a week ago he saw an ad in a paper fer a saddle that sold fer $5, so he sent the V, an' they sent him a darn toy saddle fer a rock-in-horse."

A Good Collateral.

Jones—"I married my wife for love."

Brown—"With her money as collateral. eh?"

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O made of pure grains, that takes the places of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Portland, Ore., claims to have 106 millionaires.

Careful parents who are planning to send their daughters to the city for study, wish them to be placed in surroundings as nearly like home as possible. In this respect the New England Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass., with its admirably equipped Home Department, meets a widely felt need and offers an absolutely safe and delightful home life for young women students of music. Add to this the curriculum of courses leaving nothing undone to secure broad and musicianly training, and it is easy to see why parents prefer this school to any other, and particularly to those which make no provision for pleasant and sheltered dormitory life.

WOMEN! DON'T WAIT.

If You Have Any of These Symptoms Act at Once.

Do you know the reason why you will go to the hospital, my poor friend?

Because you have allowed yourself to go from bad to worse. You did not know that that heat, swelling and tenderness in your left side were all signs of congestion of the ovary.

Any intelligent woman could have told you that congestion is fatal to the uterine system, and that an ovary congested leads to tumor formation, and that you were in awful danger. Now you will have to undergo the operation of ovariotomy, the cutting out of the ovary.

Yes, you will recover, at least I hope you will; but you will never be quite the same woman again. Congestion of the ovaries is fatal to health. If you have any such symptoms be advised in time; take a medicine of specific powers! You can find none better than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared especially to meet the needs of woman's sexual system. You can get it at any good druggist's.

Following we publish a letter from a woman in Milwaukee, which relates how she was cured of ovarian trouble: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered with congestion of the ovaries and inflammation of the womb. I had been troubled with suppressed and painful menstruation from a girl. The doctors told me the ovaries would have to be removed. I took treatment two years to escape an operation, but still remained in miserable health in both body and mind, expecting to part with my reason each coming month. After using one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash I was very much relieved. I continued to use your remedies until cured. The last nine months have been passed in perfect good health. This, I know, I owe entirely to the Vegetable Compound. My gratitude is great, indeed, to the one to whom so many women owe their health and happiness."—MRS. F. M. Royalty at the Pawnbroker's.

Kings and queens are far more frequent customers of the pawnshop than most people would be willing to believe. Thus, Queen Isabella of Spain has repeatedly had her jewels in pawn, while the silver plate of the late ex-king of Naples and of his heroic queen, a sister of the empress of Austria, has been for years at a time reposing in the vaults of the great London pawnbroker Attenborough. Even the Prince of Wales has known what it is to have his time kept by his uncle, for when visiting the battlefields shortly after the Franco-German war he found himself stranded at Sedan without money enough to pay his hotel bill or to continue his journey. He had no time to telegraph for funds, and even if he had there was the danger of disclosing his identity, which, with respect to French susceptibilities, he was anxious at all costs to keep secret. So he handed his watch and chain to his equerry, General Teesdale, who, adding thereto his own and that of the prince's valet, who accompanied them, proceeded to the local mont de piete, or pawnshop, where he raised enough money to enable the prince to continue his journey.—Philadelphia Press.

All kinds of outdoor games were played and a very nice time was had. Miss Anna has a pleasant home and knows how to make it pleasant for others. Ice cream and cake was served and it was not until small hours that the company took their leave, each one wishing Anna many returns of the happy event.

What it Means.

When we advertise that we will guarantee Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters, Bucklin's Arnica Salve, or Dr. King's New Life Pills, it means that we are authorized by the proprietors to sell these remedies on a positive guarantee, that if purchaser is not satisfied with results, we will refund the purchase price. These medicines have been sold on this guarantee for many years and there could be no more conclusive evidence of their great merit. Ask about them and give them a trial. Sold at Harr's.

A Remarkable Cure for Chronic Dirrahoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different kinds of medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy and after that I bought and took a 50c bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERGER, Allentown, Pa, Sold by Harr.

A few of the many advantages of the KIMBALL ORGAN.

New and Elegant Designs.

In general design and quality of workmanship, solidity construction and finish.

Prepartion of Material.

Great care is exercised in selecting material, and the best known methods are used in preparing it to stand the most trying influence of climate and temperature.

Improved Stop Action.

Complete in its mechanism, which renders the action of the keys very light and easy to the player, elastic in touch, and gives the quickest responce possible.

Lock Board.

Our patient revolving lock board, cannot catch or bind, aud always work smoothly and easily.

Music Desk.

The music desk inclines at just the right angle, and when raised show a convenient receptacle, with shelves, for music.

Lamp Stand.

Abundant provision is made for placing lamps in proper position to throw light on the music without danger of being tipped over.

Bellows Stock.

By glueing together three pieces of the bellows board, and grain of the middle pieces running crosswise and using the best of the three-ply rubber cloth, the Bellows of the Kimball Organ i made so robust as never to be apt to loose its lung power.

We were visited Saturday morning by a heavy rain which wet some of the tentres a little and the wind blew one over. The editor and family of Klemme, however, were perfectly dry.

The formal opening of the great Epworth League Assembly took place at 3:30 this afternoon. Prof. Nicholson of cornell college presided and with him on the platform were Hon. J. J. Clark of Mason city president of the Assembly, D. M. Yetter, presiding elder of the Algona district, Dr. Eaton, of Des Moines and ishop Ninde.

Addresses of welcome were made by Rev. J. I. Lace of this city and J. J. Clark of Mason City with responce by Bishop Ninde.

After a beautiful solo by Prof. Pugh, Bishop Ninde delivered a most helpful and eloquent address to the Epworth Leaguers. A full report of the address will appear in our Monday paper. Dr. Eaton's lecture was given after a short recess which followed the Bishops address. Clear Lake Epworth Daily.

It is pleasant to read that in one place in the United States, the West Virginia city of Wheeling, Memorial day was observed decorously, and in the spirit of the earlier years of its observance. It was not given up to sports in which the "professional" element predominated to the exclusion of the semblance of recreation. A newspaper says that the observance of the day "was quiet and solemn, and was in keeping with the old soldiers' idea of the spirit of the occasion."

Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the program which is to end with the establishment of Greater New York will be the entire wiping out of the identity of the city of Brooklyn, which is now the fourth city in the country in point of population. Great cities have extended their boundaries before now, but there is nowhere on record an instance where a city of over a million inhabitants has voluntarily surrendered its identity and allowed itself to be annexed to a still more populous neighbor.

In the discussion of terms of peace between Greece and Turkey, frequent reference has been made to Turkey's demand for the abolition of the capitulations. These capitulations are the provisions by which Greek subjects resident in Turkey share with the subjects of other independent powers the right to appeal from Turkish tribunals to their own consular courts. There are several million Greeks living in different parts of the Turkish empire, and among them are many active business men, and some of large means. Turkish courts are notoriously oppressive and corrupt, and it would be a serious matter to these millions of Greeks if they were left without appeal from their jurisdiction.

In the case of Hammond vs. Thompson, recently decided by the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, it appeared that the defendant was a tenant at will of the plaintiff at a monthly rental of $35, "payable after the termination of each month of tenancy." The plaintiff conveyed the premises to a third person with the understanding, unknown to the defendant, that the latter should be permitted to occupy until he should receive a month's notice to quit. The agreement of lease was made Sept. 15, 1894, and the premises were conveyed to the third party on Oct. 14, the same year. The question was raised whether the conveyance by the landlord terminated the tenancy at will. The court said, that in the case at bar, the defendant's rights could not be any greater than if rent had been payable on Sept. 14, in which case he would have had until midnight to pay rent, but that inasmuch as before the rent was demandable the plaintiff conveyed the premises, he thus put an end to the tenancy, and the court saw no ground why he was entitled to recover.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

BANKER STONE LOCATED.

Sioux City "Financier" is Now in Toronto, Canada.

SIOUX CITY, August 1.—What is considered the first piece of authentic information as to the whereabouts of E. P. Stone, ex-cashier of the Sioux City Savings Bank, has just been received. It was in a private letter from Miss Mae Adams, deputy county recorder of Woodbury county. Miss Adams is visiting in Toronto, Ont., and says she frequently sees E. P. Stone on the streets of that city. Miss Adams adds she has been told he is camping somewhere in the vicinity, but appears to be making no secret of his whereabouts. Miss Adams says it is impossible that she can be mistaken, as she knows Stone perfectly well and has had frequent business dealings with him during his residence in Sioux City.

GILBERT WINNER.

Iowa Man Captures E. C. Powder Company's Gun Trophy.

DAYTON, O., August 2.—Rolla O. Heikes, of Dayton, and Fred Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, Ia., shot a 150 bird race at Fair View Park for the E C. Powder Company trophy and championship of America. The contest consisted of fifty singles, known traps and unknown angles, fifty singles, known angles and unknown traps, and twenty-five pairs of doubles. Gilbert's total score was 142. Heikes' total score was 136. The referee declared Gilbert winner of the trophy and championship.

REV. MR. COLBY EXPELLED.

Minister Meets Trouble in an Oskaloosa Cenference.

OSKALOOSA, July 31.—After an all night's session, the jury in the church trial of Rev. H. E. Colby returned a verdict expelling him from the conference. There were eleven men on the jury and the vote stood six for conviction and five for acquittal. In church trials a majority of votes decides the question. Rev. Mr. Colby took an appeal immediately to the Iowa conference, which meets in Oskaloosa early in September.

MURDER NEAR ALBIA.

Jim Napier Fatally Wounds R. E. Kirkman as the Result of a Quarrel.

ALBIA, July 30.—As a result of bad feeling, Jim Napier shot and fatally wounded R. E. Kirkman, while the latter was mowing on his father's farm, eight miles north of Albia.

Another Amputation Necessary.

DUBUQUE, July 30.—Private advices from Washington are that Colonel Henderson's limb is to be amputated at the knee joint. He left Dubuque last December, after congress had convened, with the intention of undergoing the operation at once, but his surgeon there found it would be safe in view of his improved condition to defer it. His wound has broken out so frequently in recent years that it became clear it would not heal permanently until the limb had been amputated again.

Body Found.

CLINTON, July 30.—The body of Miss Bertha Knaack, who was drowned June 10, has been discovered floating in the river near Cordova. Miss Knaack was a neice of Captain Knaack, of the Verne Swaine, and had been working for some time on the boat. Some think she intended to commit suicide, while most think it was accidental drowning, as the young lady was to have been married June 23 to Edward Warnker, of Davenport, and there was a very bright future before her.

Child Choked to Death.

FAIRFIELD, August 1.—Lillie, the 18-months-old daughter of William Shultz, of Salina, was choked to death. The little one was out in the chicken lot throwing corn to the chickens, when, by putting corn in her own mouth, she choked on it. The father saw the little one fall, and, rushing to it, found it almost dead. It lived only five minutes. He succeeded in getting a few grains of corn out of its mouth, but not in time to save its life.

Rev. Otto Rall Killed.

CRESTON, August 1.—Rev. Otto Rall, of Des Moines, was struck by the Burlington Route fast mail at Afton Junction and instantly killed. He was going to Corning to hold religious services.

L. R. Bolter Gets the Plum.

MISSOURI VALLEY, July 30.—L. R. Bolter was nominated for senator from the Thirty-fourth district by a joint convention of populists and democrats. He had fifty and seventeen-twenty-sixths votes out of eighty-eight.

Two Iowa Girls Are Drowned.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 31.—Mamie and Estella Lapoint, aged 10 and 14 years respectively, were drowned in Mill river. The girls came to Northampton from Fort Dodge, Iowa, about two weeks ago.

EATON FOR GOVERNOR.

Prominent Des Moines Minister Nominated by the Prohibitionists.

DES MOINES, July 29.—The following ticket has been placed in nomination by the prohibition convention: For governor, Rev. E. L. Eaton, Des Moines; lieutenant governor, M. W. Atwood, Estherville; judge of the supreme court, N. T. Hellyer, Guthrie Center; state superintendent, Mrs. M. H. Dunham, Burlington; railroad commissioner, A. U. Coates, Perry. Dr. Eaton is the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Des Moines. The only other candidate for the nomination was Samuel Phelps Leland, of Charles City. Eaton got 200 4-21 votes and Leland 138 17-21 votes. The platform is devoted almost wholly to the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

DES MOINES, July 30.—The Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, nominated by the state prohibition convention for governor, is ineligible for the office. Dr. Eaton has only lived in Iowa ten months. Article 4, section 6, of the state constitution, says: "No person shall be eligible to the office of governor who shall not have been a citizen of the United States and a resident of the state two years, next preceding the election, and attained the age of 30 years at the time of said election."

Killed at Colfax.

COLFAX, August 2.—William Brown, of Des Moines, was run over by an extra stock train going east over the Rock Island, and died soon after. The killing was accidental.

Eldon Bank Robbery.

OTTUMWA, August 2.—Joe Menard, alias "Indian Joe," was arrested at Chicago by Chief Kipley for participating in the robbery of the Bradley bank, at Eldon.

IOWA CONDENSED.

President McKinley has appointed G. B. Pray, of Webster City surveyor general of Alaska.

The Industrial Exchange of Ottumwa has in hand overtures from a prominent distiller in Kansas City, named McCormick, who wants to start a distillery with a capacity of 25 barrels a day.

W. R. Milner, the well-known marksman who has charge of the gun and ammunition department of W. P. Chase's big sporting goods house at Des Moines, made a trip to Clear Lake recently to attend the "Iowa Indian Shoot," and won about everything in sight. Mr. Milner and Mr. Chas. Budd both hail from Des Moines and rank as two of the best shots in the country.

At Dubuque recently Emma Timme, 18 years old, was seized with pangs of maternity and was driven from her home by her inhuman parents, barefooted and in her night-dress. She was found in a doorway by Policeman Brandt and was taken to the Matrons' Home, where she gave birth to a child. She is very low. Her betrayer, Joseph Welter, has been arrested. There is talk of arresting her parents.

Des Moines dispatch: In the injunction proceedings brought by J. H. Windsor seeking to restrain the city from entering into a contract with the McCaskey & Holcomb company to establish an electric light plant in the city in accordance with a proposition which was submitted to the citizens and carried at a recent election, Judge Holmes handed down an opinion on a motion of the city to dissolve the temporary injunction, in which he sustained the motion.

Mrs. Rick, living near Alden, was taken to Eldora a few days ago and lodged in jail to await the result of wounds inflicted by her on a man named Parks, a well-to-do farmer living near Alden. She claims that the man was seeking to gain an entrance to her house, and that to drive him away she shot at the ground. The bullet, however, lodged in Parks's leg just above the knee, and he is reported in a precarious condition, the bullet having severed an artery and the loss of blood being excessive.

Webster City dispatch: The deadlock in the convention of the Thirty-seventh district republicans was broken by the Hamilton county delegation voting solidly for Joseph Wallace, the Hardin county candidate. J. H. Richards, the Hamilton county candidate, withdrew from the contest and threw his support to Wallace. The nomination was made on the 3,468th ballot, all of the previous ones standing: Richards 16, Wallace 19, Rowen 16. Joseph Wallace, the nominee, is a business man and a stock dealer of Eldora.

The dispatches say the break of the Iowa coal miners has come. Two hundred men of the White Breast Company at Forbush struck for $1 per ton for mining—20 cents more than is being paid any place in the district. This demand astonished the operators, and they say that they can only see that it is a fictitious demand to allow the men an excuse to quit in sympathy with the eastern miners, or because they believe that while the Iowa mines are having such a boom filling orders, heretofore filled by eastern mines, it is a good time to strike and get an advance.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 30.—At a meeting of the ambassadors the indemnity clause in a form satisfactory to Germany was agreed upon.

PARIS, August 1.—A dispatch from Constantinople says the signing of the preliminaries of peace awaits only the reply of the Greek government fixing the dates for the payment of the indemnity. Besides providing for the rectification of the frontier in accordance with plans of the European military attaches and for an indemnity of £4,000,000, the treaty directs that a mixed commission of delegates of the powers and Turkey shall fix the compensation due to the Ottoman subjects for losses through war. The question of capitulations is left to be settled by Greece and Turkey before the conclusion of definite peace. The evacuation of Thessaly is made a condition upon the full discharge of indemnity. As soon as the treaty is signed the European military attaches and members of the Ottoman staff in Thessaly will meet there to declinate the frontier.

CUBANS STORM HAVANA.

Insurgents Make a Daring Raid on the City's Outposts.

HAVANA, July 30.—Havana's outposts have again been attacked by a large body of rebels, who, before the Spanish troops could be gathered to resist, had swept through the suburbs carrying all before them. They used, it is believed, rapid firing guns and a large quantity of dynamite. The attack was made late at night. There is inclination among the Spanish officials in Havana to deny the fact that the rebels had evaded the forts and swept into Havana limits. The facts however, remain, and the path left by the rebels through the suburbs southeast of the city may be plainly traced. The rattle of musketry, followed by the boom of heavy guns or dynamite, could be heard plainly all over Havana. Then the sound of firing increased, and finally, after a few hours, died away, showing that the rebels had retired. Several wounded Spanish officers were brought to Havana and removed to hospitals after the engagement, and several were killed. The reticence of the Spanish officials prevents any knowledge of the result becoming known. It is a fact, however, that damage was done by the insurgents on their bold raid, and that a considerable quantity of dynamite was used.

FOREIGN FLOODS KILL MANY.

Two or Three Hundred Perish—Millions of Marks' Damage.

ST. PETERSBURG, August 2.—Novsit estimates that at least 150 persons perished in the recent floods at Kartch, in Crimea.

BERLIN, August 2.—The devastation caused by the floods in Silesia is widespread. Nothing like it has occurred in that district for a century. The loss is many millions of marks. It is estimated that 100 persons perished in in Silesia and Bohemia. At Loebtan, the town hall, recently built, and two other large srtuctures collapsed. The rivers are still rising. At Isopi people are leaving their houses. It is feared the great Elizabeth bridge will be swept away. The large bridge at Lauffen was torn down by the floods.

Wabash Using Oil.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., August 1.—Experiments are in progress on the Wabash railroad testing crude oil as a fuel on engines. There are three tanks located above the fire box on the engines and it is worked on the principle of a gasoline stove, steam being used for the pressure. Trips have been made between Springfield and Hannibal, Mo., using the crude oil, and have been very successful, one filling of the tanks being sufficient for an ordinary freight train. The Wabash officials think they have solved the fuel question. The use of oil is a saving of much labor to firemen.

New Conference on Sealing.

LONDON, July 31.—The British foreign office has notified Ambassador Hay that Great Britain has accepted the proposition of the United States for an international conference on the question of pelagic sealing in Bering sea, to be held in Washington the coming autumn.

Locomotives for Japan.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—The Baldwin Locomotive Works has booked an order for twenty locomotives for Japan. This, with orders already received, makes a total of fifty for that oriental empire. The order just received is for the Japanese government.

Fed His Baby to Hogs.

OZARK, Ala., July 31.—Lee Davidson has been arrested, accused of infanticide. It is said he threw his wife's baby into a hog pen and it was devoured by swine.

ENGLAND AT HAWAII.

Grabs an Island Supposed to Belong to the Group.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Official information of the action of the British government in taking possession of the Island of Palmyra in the Pacific ocean has been received by the state department from San Francisco, it having been wired from that point by the dispatch agent of the department stationed there, who had received it from Minister Sewell at Honolulu. The action of Great Britain in taking possession of the island at this time, following as it does the submission of the annexation treaty to the senate by the president, is considered very significant by the authorities here. Whether it is intended to complicate matters so as to stave off annexation or whether Great Britain intends establishing a naval station upon the island in question, the action is regarded as of the highest importance, and developments are awaited with keen interest by officials. Should an investigation strengthen the Hawaiian right to the territory, then the United States will send instructions to Sewell directing him to urge the Hawaiian authorities to protest to Great Britain against its action. The United States will of course uphold such protest and officials believe that it will result in the removal of the British flag from the island should it prove to be territory really belonging to the Hawaiian group.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—State department officials say that no new issue is presented by the seizure of Palmyra Island by the British, reported some days ago by an incoming vessel, for Great Britain has maintained a claim to the island for the past nine years. The island is said to be in the Polynesian group, and although Hawaii has asserted a claim to its possession, our government has not been strongly impressed with the validity of the claim. Meanwhile, the British, it is said, not only have asserted a claim to it, but have actually occupied the island for some years past. It is said Palmyra Island is nothing more than a barren rock in the Pacific, distant 1,000 miles from Hawaii.

COLONEL GRANT QUITS.

Resigns From the New York Board of Police Commissioners.

NEW YORK, August 1.—Colonel Frederick D. Grant has carried out his threat and resigned his office of police commissioner. Mayor Strong accepted his resignation to take effect at once. He announced that he had selected a man to succeed Colonel Grant, and that the new commissioner had accepted. Colonel Grant's resignation is based upon the refusal of the board to concur with him in his disapproval of the "spy system" of getting evidence.

BREVITIES.

A conference of the leaders of the prominent labor organizations of the country was held at Wheeling, W. Va., recently with a view of rendering assistance to the striking miners. A manifesto was issued denouncing interference with free speech and calling upon the working men of the country to "lend all possible assistance to our suffering, struggling fellow-workers of the mines and to unite in defense of our homes, our rights, our citizenship and our country." President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, was appointed a committee of one to arrange for sympathetic mass meetings all over the country on August 5.

Another member of Weyler's general staff, Col. Pio Suarez Inclan, has sailed for Spain. Weyler, it is intimated, repeats his previous demands that troops in Cuba be paid all arrears and that 40,000 more men be embarked for Cuba during the next sixty days. Otherwise he will insist on being relieved before the autumn campaign begins. Reforms alone, he says, can never end the war, Gomez and his rebel lieutenants having but recently again reiterated their oft-repeated refusal to treat for peace upon the basis of Cuban autonomy. If Spain would crush the revolt and restore order money must be forthcoming as well as men to fill up the army ranks decimated by disease and rebel bullets.

The Figaro, a Paris journal, publishes an article bearing on the relations between the United States and Japan, in which it states that the Marquis Ito is now in Paris for the purpose of pointing out to Europe the peril of the annexation of Hawaii to the United States. The Figaro states that the people need not be surprised if the conditions existing end in a rupture between Japan and the United States. The importance of the article is heightened by the manifest indications it bears of being "inspired," for only those in the inner circles of Japanese affairs could possibly have given our contemporary any idea of the object which has caused the Marquis Ito to come to Paris at this particular juncture.

RETALIATION

A Short Story Concluded in This Issue.

Slowly the man of God proceeds, each word binding them closer. With increased solemnity came the words, "Wilt thou, forsaking all others, keep thee only to him, as long as both of ye shall live!"

What inspiration caused her to raise her eyes, glance over, seek and find a face amidst the many there, whose every feature spoke to her heart, and answered the oft-repeated inquiry! Yes, he had loved her ever, and now. But why his mysterious silence?

She heard no more. Lower drooped her beautiful head, paler grew the sweet lips. A strong, firm arm clasped and supported her trembling form.

A few more moments and friends are crowding around. With a powerful effort she arouses her almost paralyzed faculties, and gracefully receiving the many kind wishes, she smilingly bids adieu, and is led away—enters the carriage, and is soon on her way to New York, to take passage on the steamer about to sail for Europe.

Clara Dayton was a girl of pure principles and great depth of character. She immediately recognized the only path to find and secure peace and happiness.

It was now her duty, she knew, to fulfil the vows she had made—to love and honor the man she had consented to call her husband.

To this end she bent all her energies. By nature piously inclined, she sought and obtained guidance and assistance from the throne of Grace.

Time passed on; children gathered around her; little arms fondly caressing, rosy lips ever lisping words of love, filled the mother's heart to overflowing. There was no room for regrets.

Mother's love, so pure and holy, had chased all other thoughts away. It was no longer a task to learn to love her husband. It was perfectly natural to love him her little darlings clung around and called "papa."

Nothing had she ever heard of Everett Morse, except that he had returned about the time of her marriage, settled up his business, and then resigned his connection with the firm.

George Marbury was happier than he ever thought to be. The doubt which had clouded the early days of his marriage had entirely passed away. At times, when gazing on his wife's beautiful face, beaming with content and happiness, he would wonder if it were possible she had ever loved the man from whom he had won her. The means by which he had obtained this great blessing had never troubled his conscience at all.

When his, he lavished on her everything that wealth could purchase—maintaining her in a style of such elegance that many were the whispered predictions that such reckless extravagance could not last a great while.

As the years roll past, anxiety, grief and disappointment enter the home where content, joy and hope had dwelt so long.

Their eldest son, bright, intelligent youth of nineteen years, proved no longer a source of comfort and happiness.

Reared in a lap of luxury, cradled in idleness, subject to little, if any restraint, he followed the bent of his inclinations, and found pleasure among the youths of the wildest and most reckless habits.

Constantly were his parents' hearts wrung with the fear of coming evil.

At last it came, striking a terrible blow, particularly at the proud-hearted father.

With all his boy's faults he had never feared dishonesty. That was impossible for his son.

But so it was. Fate had decided that the brand of forgery should rest upon the hitherto spotless name of Marbury. For nearly a year this youth had occupied a position in a large importing house, and had won the confidence of his employers. Intrusted frequently to draw from the bank various sums of money, he became very familiar with the signature of the principal of the firm.

The dreadful infatuation of the gaming table had lured him from the paths of honor and honesty.

It grew worse and worse. Large sums were drawn to meet the emergencies till at last the day of reckoning came.

* * * * * * *

"Father, dear! do go up in Dayton's room and see what is the matter with him. He rushed in a few moments ago when I was arranging his room, and he is now packing his traveling bag. He will not tell me what is the matter or where he is going. He seems terrible agitated," exclaimed Georgette Marbury, rushing into the library where her father was sitting.

Before he could reach the door she cried out again:

"Haste, father, he is coming down; do stop him, here he is."

With hasty strides her father reaches the hall door in time to place his hand upon his son, and ask:

"Dayton, my son, what means this agitation, this haste? Where are you going, what is the matter?"

"Father, let me pass! Do not detain me—nor question! You will know soon. Let me go quick before it is too late. Open the door, or I will soon end my disgrace. Thank heaven, I have the means of escape!" and he placed his hand in his bosom.

A quick, light step was sounding through the hall, and soon the erring youth was caught and clasped tight in loving arms, the wildly throbbing head pillowed on the mother's devoted breast and with gentle, encouraging words she drew him into the room.

"Where would you, my boy, find surer help in this hour of need than from your parents. Come, my husband, let us stand by our boy. Tell him, though all the world condemn and desert him, we will do our best to save him. What is it? Speak, my child; do not fear, your mother's heart is strong enough to hear the worst, and brave enough to bear all for those she loves. Father, speak to your boy."

"My son, let us know the worst. You have your mother's promise of help. I will do all she wishes."

"Oh, you may save me from imprisonment, but the terrible shame for you to bear. Your name borne by a forger!" gasped forth the guilty youth.

"Old Truman will have no mercy. I heard him say that when he discovered the guilty one he would make an example of him," he continued.

Swiftly fled the thoughts of the father back to the time, long years ago, when another young man stood before him, writhing under his relentless hand. And comes back to him the long-forgotten words:

"Do you not fear you may need the mercy you now deny to me?"

At last he hoarsely whispered:

"The amount! tell me!"

"Five thousand dollars! Father, you can easily fix that, but the shame!" he answered, unconsciously probing still deeper and deeper the wounded man.

"My wife, you will have to suffer more than this disgrace. For years I have been living beyond my means. I cannot meet this but only by withdrawing from the firm. This property and everything else is no longer mine, nor has it been for three years past. I have tried to keep this from you, hoping I could manage those difficulties until Uncle Jacob's death. I feared that if the strange old man should know I was no longer prosperous he would destroy his will, and cut me entirely off. Now if he hears of this I fear the consequences.

"Oh! this is a severe blow."

A loud ring came from the hall door, and a girlish voice softly said:

"Papa! there is a gentleman in the next room, who wishes to see you, and he asked if Dayton was home."

"After me, I know! Father, let me go away. I have money enough to carry me out of the country," pleaded the boy.

"Remain with your mother. I will see this gentleman, and try to make terms with him."

"God bless you, my husband, do not think of me, think only of your son and your name."

"Mr. Marbury, I am here on very unpleasant business. I hope, however, to give you some comfort. Your son is with you, I hear; I was fearful he had fled. He has told you, I think, of his trouble," said the stranger.

"You are right, sir. The amount I can return, that is nothing; but Oh, God! the disgrace! Can I hope for any mercy? Can anything induce Mr. Truman to spare us that?"

"Mr. Marbury, I am a man of few words, and wish not to prolong your sufferings. I have pleaded with Mr. Truman for your son. He is a stern, rather hard man; but I think I have induced him to yield. He is under obligation to me, in fact, only my representative; the capital is mine. When he became aware of this unhappy business he immediately telegraphed for me, before he had ascertained the guilty one. This affair is known only to Mr. Truman, the bookkeeper and myself, and I am here this morning to pledge to you, sir, that this knowledge shall go no further. Relieve your mind, your son's and your wife's. The name of Marbury shall remain spotless."

"How can I ever thank you! On what terms is this mercy granted us? I will be ready to meet them immediately."

"I have made all the necessary arrangements. I know you are a proud man, therefore I will not release your son from the payment of this money. I must insist, however, that he shall pay it. Here are notes which he must sign. You will see I have made them in ten payments, yearly. This will be five hundred each year. I have an object in this, it will arouse him; give him something to work for, bring forth his self respect, and, more than all, will make a man of him. I am a queer fellow, you think, but I choose to try this experiment. For years past I have been making myself happy by doing little kindnesses for friends—people who loved me. This time I thought I would try how much happier I should be in doing good to him 'who hated and despitefully used me.'"

"What do you mean? Who are you? Why have you acted thus?" asked the astonished man.

"I feel a deep sympathy for your son, Mr. Marbury, because in years gone by I was tempted, and yielded. I plead with one for mercy, and it was granted me. You know at what cost. More than all, I could not suffer Clara Dayton's son should wear the brand of shame! Do you not know me, George Marbury? Has time and grey hairs altered me so much?"

"Everett Morse! Just heaven, how mysterious are thy ways! Yes, I spared you, but for a dreadful sacrifice. Forgive, Oh! forgive me! Oh! how prophetic were your words," burst from the lips of the humiliated man.

"I do forgive you—have, long, long years ago. I have known she was happy with you, and I was content. Will you some time, when you best can, let her know how it was I lost her? Is this asking too much?"

"How can I? This is a severe task, but be it as you wish."

The door opened, and Clara stood before them.

Going up to the bowed man, she raised his head, pressed her lips to the burning brow, and then holding out her hand to Everett Morse, she said:

"Nay, he need not tell me; I know all. I have heard from the next room. To you, of all the world, I would sooner be indebted for this great kindness. I know how good and noble you are, but I cannot find it in my heart to censure him, whose only faults was through his loving me so much."

Both men were answered—yes, satisfied. The look she bent on both told to one her true appreciation and gratitude, to the other—that he alone she loved.

Little more remains to tell: many years have passed, and Dayton Marbury stands before the world beloved and respected by his fellow men. Many are the speculations concerning the great intimacy and devoted friendship between the old bachelor and this young man, but to few is known the true reason why they love each other thus.

SILK AND TAILORS.

The Fatter a Chinaman Gets the Better Pleased He Is.

The first person in all the world who raised silkworms for the purpose of robbing the cocoon of its soft covering was the Empress Si-Lung-Chee, who reigned in China 2,700 years B. C., says Lippincott's. She is now worshipped as goddess of the silkworm. Once each year a national festival is held in her honor. The reigning empress and her maidens resort to the temples of Si-Lung-Chee and pay her, in flowers and spirit money, an installment upon the debt which China owes to her; for did she not make the important discovery whereby the poor may earn life's necessities and the rich may rustle in shining garments?

Perhaps more people wear silk in China than in any other country; for plain raw silk is almost as inexpensive as cotton. Even for winter garments this material is made to serve, with layers of wadding placed between the outside and the lining. As their garments do not go out of style, it is not necessary to buy new ones until the old ones are well worn.

This is a great item of saving for every one but the tailors; but if the people followed the example of the tailors themselves there would be still less for that craft to do. Like the feet of "shoemakers' children," the Chinese tailors, while at their work, are as nearly bare as possible. When well fattened their uncovered bodies suggest the animals which Americans inclose in a sty. The more like a well-fed porker a Chinaman becomes the prouder he is of his looks, for a corpulent man is regarded by his almond-eyed brethren as a high type of humanity.

In the tailor's workroom, which is frequently open on all sides, the passer-by may see from five to ten men squatted around a low, matting-covered table. Each man is in undress uniform, consisting of his cue, a pair of slippers and pantaloons about six inches in length. They work both for shops and for individuals, receiving about $5 a month; yet somehow they manage to keep fat.

Fashion Is the Dictator.

"Not only," said the mill agent, "do fashions change in a bewildering way and a most expensive way to us manufacturers, but they have a way of changing so radically that new goods may be wholly unsalable if they bear any resemblance to the dress goods in demand last year. Why? Simply because a woman who buys a new dress wants a pattern and a color wholly different from that of her last year's frock, in order that there may be no question as to its being a new frock. She not only wants a different design, but a very different one, so that he, or, more probably, she, who runs may see that it is a new dress."—Scribner's.

SNUB FOR AN EMPEROR.

Prussian Diet Administers a Rebuke to William II.

London dispatch: The German emperor has received a well-deserved rebuke. The lower house of the Prussian diet has rejected the law of associations bill, and by that act signified its dissent from the policy of reaction upon which William II has most unfortunately entered. Considered in the abstract, the bill deserved defeat, for it aimed virtually to destroy the right of assembly, which the Prussian constitution expressly guaranteed. But there are special reasons why it deserved to fail, and these are part and parcel of the reactionary program of lese majeste prosecutions and prohibitions of free trade on the bourse and produce exchange. Prussia is gravitating toward Russia rather than toward England in her high circles of power. The emperor has rid his cabinet of the only two liberal and progressive members that were left, Baron Marschall and Dr. Boetticher, and is wholly given up to the advice of the narrowest and most bigoted cabal that has had the ear of the crown in Prussia for half a century. The defeat of the bill will be as gall and wormwood to the emperor. He has pressed it for all he was worth, and now the fanatical agrarians are advising him to dissolve the unterhaus, and if necessary to revise the constitution. If these people have their way, the crusade of political repression on which he embarked six months ago will be pushed with all the power and influence of the Prussian monarchy.

GIANT GLUCOSE DEAL.

Company With $40,000,000 Capital to Control the Product.

Dispatches state that a big company has just been organized, which has purchased, with one or two exceptions, all the glucose manufacturing plants in the country. Some idea of the size of the deal may be gained from the fact that the new corporation will have a capital of $40,000,000, and will control, with but one exception, the whole glucose output of the United States, which amounts annually to 1,240,000,000 pounds. It involves, too, the consumption annually of about 31,000,000 bushels of corn. The concerns and their daily capacity in bushels of corn which have been purchased are as follows: Chicago Sugar Refinery, Chicago, Ill., 26,000; American Glucose Company, Peoria, Ill., 26,000; Peoria Grape Sugar Company, Peoria, Ill., 15,000; Rockford Sugar Works, Rockford, Ill., 16,000; Davenport Sugar Refining Company, Davenport, Iowa, 9,000; Fermenich Manufacturing Company, Marshalltown, Iowa, 9,000. Among the stockholders are J. Pierpont Morgan, the Guaranty Trust Company; H. O. Havemeyer, president of the sugar trust; F. O. Matthiessen, vice-president of the sugar trust; ex-Governor Roswell P. Flower, Anthony Brady, Moore & Schley, Blair & Co., and other great financiers of New York, and Norman B. Ream, Marshall Field, Edward L. Brewster, John W. Doane, L. Z. Leiter, Clarence Buckingham, Robert T. Lincoln and others, of Chicago.

FERNANDEZ SENTENCED.

Spanish Tribunal of "Justice" Orders Life Imprisonment.

KEY WEST, Fla., July 30.—Manuel Fernandez, a young American who was tried by court martial on the charge of bearing arms against the Spanish government, and adjudged guilty, has been sentenced by that tribunal to imprisonment for life. At the close of the trial the government prosecutor asked that the sentence of death be imposed, but the court recommended life imprisonment. The sentence has been referred to Madrid for approval. It is believed the mitigation of the sentence of young Fernandez is entirely due to the great interest taken by Consul General Lee in the case and the strong plea made personally by him to Captain General Weyler. One of Fernandez's companions, who was captured at the same time, was Charles Govin, who was summarily put to death on his statement that he was a newspaper correspondent and an American citizen. Govin's tragic death was witnessed by Fernandez, and it is reported the most compromising evidence against the Spanish officials now on file in the state department was furnished by him.

IS HARD FIGHTING.

Tribesmen Rise Against the English in India.

BOMBAY, July 30.—The situation at camp Malakand has become very serious. Word has been received that natives in large force made a second attack on the fort. The fighting was severe. Thirteen British were killed and thirty wounded. The tribesmen lost over a hundred. The garrison is short of ammunition, and it is feared the whole supply will be exhausted before reinforcements arrive. It is reported that Mad Mullah has mustered fully 40,000 tribesmen.

SPALDING GUILTY AT LAST.

Jury Found Him So on His Third Trial for Embezzlement.

CHICAGO, August 2.—Charles W. Spalding, ex-president of the Globe Savings bank, was found guilty of embezzlement and his punishment was fixed at imprisonment in the penitentiary. The specific charge against Spalding was the embezzlement of bonds of Macoupin county, Illinois, belonging to the State University of Illinois, of which Spalding was treasurer, and valued at $28,000. This was Spalding's third trial and the evidence submitted to the jury was practically the same as on the former trials. On those he was acquitted because the jury believed he hypothecated the bonds without "intent to embezzle." The third jury found him guilty on the same grounds on which he was twice acquitted, the only difference being that they took a different view of Spalding's intentions. The prisoner will make a hard fight before he goes to the penitentiary and will carry the case up to the last court. The duration of his sentence will be settled by the prison board of the state.

3,000 DEAD.

Brazilian Troops Defeated by the Fanatics.

RIO JANEIRO, July 30—Authentic information reaches here to the effect that more than 3,000 soldiers have been killed in a big battle near the site of Canudor. The fanatics, numbering more than 10,000 men, all well armed, attacked the government troops. Whole brigades of soldiers were swept down, destroyed and trampled under foot as the victorious fanatics with wild horse shouts of triumph passed over them. The exact loss of life cannot be told. There is a reasonable doubt, however, that the loss in killed on both sides is more than 3,000.

AN ILLINOIS CYCLONE.

Seven People Killed in a Storm Near the Village of San Jose.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., August 1.—A special to the Pantograph from San Jose, Ill., says: A cyclone struck the farm of A. C. McDowell, two miles north of San Jose. The house and barn were entirely destroyed. Seven people were killed, and three severely injured. San Jose, the seat of the tornado's fury, is thirty-five miles west on the Jacksonville division of the Chicago & Alton railway. The storm came directly from the north and entirely destroyed the McDowell house, barn and walnut grove.

Hawaiian-Japanese Treaty.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Japan has accepted the offer of Hawaii to arbitrate their dispute over landing Japanese immigrants in Hawaii. A brief synopsis of the acceptance was cabled the Japanese minister in Washington and given to the state department. It says Japan accepts the principle of arbitration and is ready to negotiate terms of settlement. The formal letter of acceptance has been forwarded to Hawaii.

Capt. Hatfield Escapes.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 30.—It is reported that Capt. Hatfield, the notorious outlaw, held for murder on two cases, escaped from the Mingo jail, cutting his way through with a hatchet. A large reward is offered for his capture.

Hail Kills Crops.

LU VERNE, Minn., July 31.—The crops in a strip five miles wide and thirty miles long in this county were entirely destroyed by hail. The storm extended through five townships, and the loss is total where it struck.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, July 28.—Patents have been allowed, but not yet issued, as follows: To G. W. Cox, of Stuart, for an electric fire engine adapted to be run to a fire by electric force of a storage battery or otherwise, and carry chemicals or water in a tank to distribute same to a fire instantly while connecting the pump with a hydrant or other water supply and then forcing a continuous stream of water on the fire. It can also be connected with an extraneous electric conductor for operating the pump. To A. T. Dowden, of Prairie City, for an improvement in the potato harvester that has been extensively manufactured for some years and is one of the great labor saving inventions that received an award at the world's fair in 1893. The invention is an automatic vine-carrier that gathers them from the ground and deposits them in a row at the side of the machine as the machine is advanced, and places the potatoes on top of the ground. To C. D. Page, of Des Moines, for a portable chemical fire extinguisher adapted to be carried by a person and utilized for extinguishing a fire by simply turning it upside down, opening a valve, and directing the gas generated therein upon the fire by means of a hose that is connected with the tank that contains the chemicals. To W. Locke and A. M. Anderson, of Bode, for a rotary engine of pecul ar construction and adapted for utilizing the expansive force of steam more advantageously than has heretofore been accomplished.

Some people are making a fuss about the enormous amount of money spent by the christian Endeavorers in holding their convention in San Francisco. What's the odd's? The money is not lost. It has merely changed hands and been put in active circulation. So long as it is spent in our own country the country is no poorer for the expenditure.—Armstrong Journal.

The editor of the Germania Standard says that in Armstrong people drink beer out of barrels. like hogs. That is the first time we ever herd of hogs drink out of barrels. Here in Emmet county they usually give them their swill in troughs. They probably have a different breed in and around Germania; hogs with a snout so small that it will go into the bung hole of a barrel or long enough to reach the bottom when one end is knocked out. Then again it may be the editor of the Standard dosen't know much about hogs.—Armstrong Journal.

"Who is the home merchant?" He is the man who helps pay for the streets on which you walk; for the school in which your children or perhaps you were educated; he helps to keep up the church in which you go to worship; he is the man who builds a home which enhances the value of your own property; every subscription paper that is passed has his name upon it; he is the only one who can't afford to swindle you, interest, if nothing else would prevent this; he bears the burden of good goverenment and stays with you in sunshine and darkness. Paste these facts in your hat, and then stop and consider whenever you are tempted to send away for anything kept in your own town.—Armstrong Journal.

People who attended the Barnum & Bailey's circus in this city, will remember the act in which a lady was shot from a cross-bow and caught by a trapeze performer. A dispatch sent out from Emmetsburg gives the particulars of an accident which caused her death.

The dispatch says: "Beautiful Alai," the human arrow, that was shot from the cross bow in Barnum & Bailey's circus, met with a fatal accident. In some way the spring failed to work properly and she fell a distance of about twenty-five feet and was picked up in semi-unconscious condition, but soon rallied. Doctors were summoned to the dressing room and made an examination, but did not think much ailed her. Sunday morning, however, word came from Sioux city saying she died their that morning.—cedar Rapids Republican.

A man bought a money order at the post office in Armstrong early in May payable in Emmetsburg, but it never arrived. The payee kept on dunning his debtor who replied that he had sent him a money order for the amount. Last Friday he came into see if the post master was to blame, and showing the money order purchsed in May wanted to know why it never arrived in Emmetsburg. He had put the order in his pocket supposing it was only a receipt and that the post master would send the order to the payee.—Armstrong Journal.

"I crave but One Minute," said the public speaker in a husky voice; and then he took a dose of One Minute cough cure, and proceeded with his oratory. One Minute cough cure is unequalled for throat and lung trouble. Harr.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Harr's Drug Store.

Mike Weichselbaum left Monday for his home in Dakota. Mrs. Weichselbaum expected her husband to go withe her to Minn. where they were to make their future home, but some time Monday p. m. he skipped for Britt and from there to his home without letting his wife know. They had been quarreling for some time and lived a very unpeaceful life' which is supposed to be the reason of his disappearance. His wife has now gone to her parents in Minneapolis. Mr. weichselbaum was the local agent at this station for the Northern Lumber Co. but was discharged some time ago.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for consumption, coughs and colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and to-day it stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at Harr's.

A Remarkable Cure for Chronic Dirrahoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different kinds of medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy and after that I bought and took a 50c bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERGER, Allentown, Pa. Sold by Harr.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"A CART-ROPE INIQUITY" SUNDAY'S SUBJEBT.

From the Following Bible Text: Isaiah, Chapter 5, Verse 18: "Woe Unto Them That Sin As It Were With a Cart-Rope."—Vigilance Advised.

THERE are some iniquities that only nibble at the heart. After a lifetime of their work, the man still stands upright, respected, and honored. These vermin have not strength enough to gnaw through a man's character. But there are other transgressions that lift themselves up to gigantic proportions, and seize hold of a man and bind him with thongs forever. There are some iniquities that have such great emphasis of evil that he who commits them may be said to sin as with a cart-rope. I suppose you know how they make a great rope. The stuff out of which it is fashioned is nothing but tow which you pull apart without any exertion of your fingers. This is spun into threads, any of which you could easily snap, but a great many of these threads are interwound—then you have a rope strong enough to bind an ox, or hold a ship in a tempest. I speak to you of the sin of gambling. A cart-rope in strength is that sin, and yet I wish more especially to draw your attention to the small threads of influence out of which that mighty iniquity is twisted. This crime is on the advance, so that it is well not only that fathers, and brothers, and sons, be interested in such a discussion, but that wives, and mothers, and sisters, and daughters look out lest their present home be sacrificed, or their intended home be blasted. No man, no woman, can stand aloof from such a subject as this and say: "It has no practical bearing upon my life;" for there may be in a short time in your history an experience in which you will find that the discussion involved three worlds—earth, heaven, hell. There are gambling establishments by the thousands. There are about five thousand five hundred professional gamblers. Out of all the gambling establishments, how many of them do you suppose profess to be honest? Ten. These ten professing to be honest because they are merely the ante-chamber to those that are acknowledged fraudulent. There are first-class establishments. You step a little way out of Broadway, New York. You go up the marble stairs. You ring the bell. The liveried servant introduces you. The walls are lavender tinted. The mantels are of Vermont marble. The pictures are "Jephthah's Daughter," and Dore's "'Dante's and Virgil's Frozen Region of Hell," a most appropriate selection, this last, for the place. There is the roulette table, the finest, costliest, most exquisite piece of furniture in the United States. There is the banqueting room where, free of charge to the guests, you may find the plate, and viands, and wines, and cigars, sumptuous beyond parallel. Then you come to the second-class gambling establishment. To it you are introduced by a card through some "roper in." Having entered, you must either gamble or fight. Sanded cards, dice loaded with quicksilver, poor drinks mixed with more poor drinks, will soon help you to get rid of all your money to a tune in short metre with staccato passages. You wanted to see. You saw. The low villains of that place watch you as you come in. Does not the panther, squat in the grass, know a calf when he sees it? Wrangle not for your rights in that place, or your body will be thrown bloody into the street, or dead into the river.

You go along a little further and find the policy establishment. In that place you bet on numbers. Betting on two numbers is called a "saddle;" betting on three numbers is called a "gig;" betting on four numbers is called a "horse;" and there are thousands of our young men leaping into that "saddle," and mounting that "gig," and behind that "horse" riding to perdition. There is always one kind of sign on the door—"Exchange;"a most appropriate title for the door, for there, in that room, a man exchanges health, peace, and heaven for loss of health, loss of home, loss of family, loss of immortal soul. Exchange sure enough and infinite enough.

Now you acknowledge that is a cart-rope of evil, but you want to know what are the small threads out of which it is made. There is, in many, a disposition to hazard. They feel a delight in walking near a precipice because of the sense of danger. There are people who go upon Jungfrau, not for the largeness of the prospect, but for the feeling that they have of thinking "What would happen if I should fall off?" There are persons who have their blood filliped and accelerated by skating very near an air hole. There are men who find a positive delight in driving within two inches of the edge of a bridge. It is this disposition to hazard that finds development in gaming practices. Here are five hundred dollars. I may stake them. If I stake them I may lose them; but I may win five thousand dollars. Whichever way it turns I have the excitement. Shuffle the cards. Lost! Heart thumps. Head dizzy. At it again—just to gratify this desire for hazard.

Then there are others who go into this sin through sheer desire for gain. It is especially so with professional gamblers. They always keep cool. They never drink enough to unbalance their judgment. They do not see the dice so much as they see the dollar beyond the dice, and for that they watch, as the spider in the web, looking as if dead until the fly passes. Thousands of young men in the hope of gain go into these practices. They say: "Well, my salary is not enough to allow this luxury. I don't get enough from my store, office, or shop. I ought to have finer apartments. I ought to have better wines. I ought to have more richly flavored cigars. I ought to be able to entertain my friends more expensively. I won't stand this any longer. I can with one brilliant stroke make a fortune. Now, here goes, principle or no principle, heaven or hell. Who cares?" When a young man makes up his mind to live beyond his income, Satan has bought him out and out, and it is only a question of time when the goods are to be delivered. The thing is done. You may plant in the way all the batteries of truth and righteousness, that man is bound to go on. When a man makes one thousand dollars a year and spends one thousand two hundred dollars; when a young man makes one thousand five hundred dollars, and spends one thousand seven hundred dollars, all the harpies of darkness cry out: "Ha! ha!" we have him," and they have. How to get the extra five hundred dollars or the extra two thousand dollars is the question. He says: "Here is my friend who started out the other day with but little money, and in one night, so great was his luck, he rolled up hundreds and thousands of dollars. If he got it, why not I? It is such dull work, this adding up of long lines of figures in the counting-house; this pulling down of a hundred yards of goods and selling a remnant; this always waiting upon somebody else, when I could put one hundred dollars on the ace and pick up a thousand."

Many years ago for sermonic purposes and in company with the chief of police of New York I visited one of the most brilliant gambling houses in that city. It was night and as we came up in front all seemed dark. The blinds were down; the door was guarded; but after a whispering of the officer with the guard at the door, we were admitted into the hall, and thence into the parlors, around one table, finding eight or ten men in mid-life, well-dressed—all the work going on in silence, save the noise of the rattling "chips" on the gaming-table in one parlor, and the revolving ball of the roulette table in the other parlor. Some of these men, we were told, had served terms in prison; some were ship-wrecked bankers and brokers and money-dealers, and some were going their first rounds of vice—but all intent upon the table, as large or small fortunes moved up and down before them. Oh, there was something awfully solemn in the silence—the intense gaze, the suppressed emotions of the players. No one looked up. They all had money in the rapids, and I have no doubt some saw, as they sat there, horses and carriages, and houses and lands, and home and family rushing down into the vortex. A man's life would not have been worth a farthing in that presence had he not been accompanied by the police, if he had been supposed to be on a Christian errand of observation. Some of these men went by private key, some went by careful introduction, some were taken in by the patrons of the establishment. The officer of the law told me: "None get in here except by police mandate, or by some letter of a patron." While we were there a young man came in, put his money down on the roulette-table, and lost; put more money down on the roulette-table ,and lost; put more money down on the roulette-table, and lost; then feeling in his pockets for more money, finding none, in severe silence he turned his back upon the scene and passed out. While we stood there men lost their property and lost their souls. Oh, the merciless place! Not once in all the history of that gaming-house has there been one word of sympathy uttered for the losers at the game. Sir Horace Walpole said that a man dropped dead in one of the clubhouses of London; his body was carried into the clubhouse, and the members of the club began immediately to bet as to whether he were dead or alive, and when it was proposed to test the matter by bleeding him, it was only hindered by the suggestion that it would be unfair to some of the players! In these gaming houses of our cities, men have their property wrung away from them, and then they go out, some of them to drown their grief in strong drink, some to ply the counterfeiter's pen, and so restore their fortunes, some resort to the suicide's revolver, but all going down, and that work proceeds day by day, and night by night. "That cart-rope," says some young man, "has never been wound around my soul." But have not some threads of that cart-rope been twisted?

I arraign before God the gift enterprises of our cities, which have a tendency to make this a nation of gamblers. Whatever you get, young man, in such a place as that, without giving a proper equivalent, is a robbery of your own soul, and a robbery of the community. Yet, how we are appalled to see men who have failed in other enterprises go into gift concerts, where the chief attraction is not music, but the prizes distributed among the audience; or to sell books where the chief attraction is not the book, but the package that goes with the book. Tobacco dealers advertise that on a certain day they will put money into their papers, so that the purchaser of this tobacco in Cincinnati or New York may unexpectedly come upon a magnificent gratuity. Boys hawking through the cars packages containing nobody knows what, until you open them and find they contain nothing. Christian men with pictures on their wall gotten in a lottery, and the brain of community taxed to find out some new way of getting things without paying for them. Oh, young men, these are the threads that make the cart rope, and when a young man consents to these practices, he is being bound hand and foot by a habit which has already destroyed "a great multitude that no man can number." Sometimes these gift enterprises are carried on in the name of charity; and some of you remember at the close of our Civil War how many gift enterprises were on foot, the proceeds to go to the orphans and widows of the soldiers and sailors. What did these men who had charge of those gift enterprises care for the orphans and widows? Why, they would have allowed them to freeze to death upon their steps. I have no faith in a charity, which, for the sake of relieving present suffering, opens a gaping jaw that has swallowed down so much of the virtue and good principle of the community. Young man, have nothing to do with these things. They only sharpen your appetitie for games of chance. Do one of two things; be honest or die.

I have accomplished my object if I put you on the look-out. It is a great deal easier to fall than it is to get up again. The trouble is that when men begin to go astray from the path of duty, they are apt to say: "There's no use of trying to get back. I've sacrificed my respectability, I can't return;" and they go on until they are utterly destroyed. I tell you, my friends, that God this moment, by his Holy Spirit, can change your entire nature, so that you will be a different man in a minute. Your great want—what is it? More salary? Higher social position? No; no. I will tell you the great want of every man, if he has not already obtained it. It is the grace of God. Are there any who have fallen victims to the sin that I have been reprehending? You are in a prison. You rush against the wall of this prison, and try to get out, and you fail; and you turn around and dash against the other wall until there is blood on the grates, and blood on your soul. You will never get out in this way. There is only one way of getting out. There is a key that can unlock that prison-house. It is the key of the house of David. It is the key that Christ wears at his girdle. If you will allow him to put that key to the lock, the bolt will shoot back, and the door will swing open, and you will be a free man in Christ Jesus. Oh, prodigal, what a business this is for you, feeding swine, when your father stands in the front door, straining his eyesight to catch the first glimpse of your return; and the calf is as fat as it will be, and the harps of heaven are all strung, and the feet free. There are converted gamblers in heaven. The light of eternity flashed upon the green baize of their billiard-saloon. In the laver of God's forgiveness they washed off all their sin. They quit trying for earthly stakes. They tried for heaven and won it. There stretches a hand from heaven toward the head of the worst offender. It is a hand, not clenched as if to smite, but outspread as if to drop a benediction. Other seas have a shore and may be fathomed, but the sea of God's love—eternity—has no plummet to strike the bottom, and immensity no iron-bound shore to confine it. Its tides are lifted by the heart of infinite compassion. Its waves are the hosannahs of the redeemed. The argosies that sail on it drop anchor at last amid the thundering salvo of eternal victory. But alas for that man who sits down to the final game of life and puts his immortal soul on the ace, while angels of God keep the tally-board; and after kings and queens, and knaves, and spades are "shuffled" and "cut," and the game is ended, hovering and impending worlds discover that he has lost it, the faro-bank of eternal darkness clutching down into its wallet all the blood-stained wagers.

DRINKING IN MANY AGES.

An Interesting Lecture on the History of Alcohol.

A lecturer who was speaking on "The History of Alcohol" began by explaining the universal prevalence of stimulants or narcotic drugs as showing the universal craving of mankind for something to hide the trials and troubles of life. He spoke briefly about the early beverages of the ancient Hindoos and Chinese, and then illustrated the drinking habit of the ancient Egyptians with a curious collection of lantern slides. The habits and customs of ancient Greece came next, and the worship of the great god Dionysus, or Bacchus, was illustrated by some splendid photographs of vases, statues and bas-reliefs. Their wine was drunk diluted, never stronger than half water and frequently with two, four and even fifteen parts of the milder fluid. Mention was made of the curious nature of their wines, the admixture of honey and spices, of resin and turpentine, even salt water, and the question of fermented and unfermented wines among them and the ancient Hebrews. The use of wine among the more hardy and less civilized Macedonians was less refined and the exploits of Philip and his son Alexander rivaled the tales told by the most ardent prohibitionists. At the feast given by Alexander at the tomb of Cyrus a prize was offered for the boldest drinker and the victor, Promachus, credited with fourteen quarts of wine, died in three days' time from the effects of his debauch, along with some fifty of his competitors. Early Rome was described as painfully temperate, especially for the fair sex, who were sentenced to death for touching wine. It was sad to hear that kissing on the mouth was invented by the Roman husband to test his wife's abstinence from the wine cask. Later, however, after Greece and the east were conquered, wine flowed freely and the early republicans vied with the subjects of the early emperors in gross and unbridled drunkenness. The capacity of the Roman must have been considerable, for a citizen was knighted by the emperor Claudius under the title of Tricongius, or "three-gallon man," such having been a simple draught of his. New England came in for a touch by the lecturer. It was somewhat surprising to hear that, in the first call for supplies sent home by the Plymouth bay colonists, the famous appeal headed by "ministers," there were, along with the requests for barley, rye and wheat for seed, and stores of fruit trees, a petition for "vyne planters" and for "hop-rootes." The minister, Mr. Higginson, was duly sent in 1628, and his ship was furnished with "forty-five tuns beere, two tuns canarie, twenty gallons aqua vitae" and only six tons of water. The lecture closed with a short description of the last century, characterized by the growth and development of the temperance movement.

The New Picnic.

The announcement that a numerous and influential association of Chicagoans has decided to do its picnicking on week days this year is preference to Sundays is probably the beginning of an important revolution. The city picnic has ever been an institution of distinctive and most peculiar features, and if it began in wholesale larceny and ended in a riot the supposition was that city folk preferred their picnics that way; that they found the undiluted picnic as it obtains in purely rustic communities too dull and uneventful for their palates. As soon as the grand Sunday excursion and picnic is announced, the pickpockets and the strong-arm gentlemen and their friends make arrangements to lend their sophisticated and enlivening presence. The entertainment begins with the deft manipulation of the lighter craftsmen at the station and while the train is getting under way. Having purloined what valuables are accessible they politely make way, about 12th street, for the heavier operators. Sometimes the latter merely terrorize the passengers for a half hour or so, taking what is handy, and depart. Sometimes they insist on becoming a part of the picnic, greatly to the discomfort and detriment of the other parts. Thus through a succession of exciting alarms and affrays the day is passed. It has long been supposed that this was the style of picnic which the urban taste demanded. But if there is a movement to have the picnics on week days this supposition may be ill-founded.

The Hauthor's Hexperience.

Authors have their tribulations like other more or less famous people. Mr. Pemberton's first book was entitled, "The Diary of a Scoundrel," about which he tells an amusing little incident: I was spending a few days at a seaside town with a friend, who one evening wanted to buy my book. We strolled to the railway bookstore, and he asked the clerk for a copy.

"'The Diary of a Scoundrel'—oh yes, this is the hexperience of the hauthor, I expect," said the young cockney clerk, as he handed it over.

I retired modestly from the scene.—The Bookman.

WASHING A FINE ART.

"Ever since spinning was a type of womanly industry from age to age, it has been expected that beautiful apparel should clothe women. From the classic robes of Aspasia to the rich dresses of Elizabeth, and thence to the wedding gown of Puritan Priscella we see the attractiveness of dress." But at this time only has it become possible for all women to be becomingly attired at a small cost, the supply of beautiful inexpensive dress fabrics now to be had, making it an easy matter. Yet there are women who insist that the expense of having summer gowns laundered is greater than the original cost, and that in the end light woolens or summer silks are more economical. This is a mistaken idea, as washing pretty belongings is a fine art, which is very easy to learn. Any girl no matter how delicately reared can wash her own summer gowns. A bright day, plenty of water, and a little pure soap are the necessary aids in the work. To do it, fill a tub two-thirds full of warm water, dissolve a fourth of a cake of Ivory Soap, (which will not fade the most delicate colors), add it to the water, wash the garments carefully through it, rinse first in clear water, then in blue water, wring, dip in thin starch, hang on the line in the shade. When dry, sprinkle, and iron on the wrong side. Eliza R. Parker.

IS A GREAT PROBLEM.

ALL WOULD NOW LIKE TO MAKE RAIN.

European Scientists at Work Trying to Solve the Problem—Methods Now Employed—Some Methods for Coaxing Down the Moisture.

THE scientists of Europe have taken up the problem of rainmaking. This has been brought about by the semi-successful results in the United States. The German government has already offered a reward of 10,000 marks to any one who shall successfully demonstrate that a downpour of rain can be caused at a fairly moderate expense, and the chances are that before many months the world will see a practical test of what may come nearer success in the way of rainmaking than anything ever before accomplished. There is also another feature of the problem which the European scientists are discussing that has not previously been brought up to any great extent, and that is a plan for countries where rain falls incessantly to stop such a fall. It is much like considering the two points of the compass, and yet savants declare that as much benefit will result to the world by the discovery of how to stop rain from falling as by the discovery of how to make it fall. Of the two, it is easier to deal with the attempts made to stop rain, because less has been done in this direction. There is indeed a patent the object of which is to deal with tornadoes, and to rob them of their evil effects by means of an explosion in the midst of the tornado itself. But it would be unfair to science not to admit that if it has done nothing to prevent continual rain, it has done much to mitigate the evil effects that floods bring in their train. A superb system of measuring and registering the height of rivers by means of gauges is carried out in this country. In the case of the last flood, very early notice was given to the residents of the threatened districts of Arkansas, Louisiana, and West Mississippi of the impending danger.

The number of attempts that have been made to induce rain to fall is legion. Money has been spent lavishly with this end in view, and a good investment it would be if success were commensurate with the expenditure. Scientific men have given their evidence for and against the success of the experiments that has been tried, and yet the question remains unsettled. There is always the doubt of simple coincidence of events to disturb the judgment on the point of strict cause and effect. The area, too, over which the experiment is to be tried cannot always be satisfactorily defined, either with reference to the results obtained or the benefits conferred. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and it may be that the rainmaking materials, supposing them to be effective, are wafted to a considerable distance before they become operative, or before they meet with the necessary conditions that insure precipitation.

Those efforts to produce rainfall which approach scientific method may be grouped under the following heads: First, noise. It has been contended that the firing of cannon and the din of battle have generally been followed by rain. But when statistics are carefully sifted there does not seem to be much ground for the belief, and no one would probably care to risk his peace and comfort in the very uncertain hope that a great uproar would bring down the needed rain. Second, the explosion of balloons filled with dynamite or other explosive, some distance above the ground, has been advocated and repeatedly tried, with what measure of success it is difficult to say. Nearly allied to the concussion method is the attempt to chill the atmosphere by the rapid evaporation of some highly compressed gas. Then, again, it is asserted that the establishment of an electrical connection between a cloud and the earth by means of a kite will induce rain to fall. Such a means evidently supposes the existence of a cloud; but inasmuch as periods of draught are liable to be accompanied with a long continuance of blue sky, the method, even if successful, cannot always be applied, and in point of general application falls below the level of the other suggestions. Condensation is the result of chilling the air. The ascent of the lower strata of the atmosphere into the higher regions and the consequent expansion and loss of heat is the most probable cause of rain, and it is not impossible that the air near the ground, being made to rise by being artificially heated, might tend to produce the desired down pour.

Always the Same.

Magistrate—How old are you? Woman—Thirty. Magistrate—Why, if I'm not mistaken you told me that three years ago. Woman—And so I did. I'm not a woman who says one thing one day and another the next.

SILENT SUFFERERS.

Women do not Like to Tell a Doctor the Details of Their Private Ills.

The reason why so many women suffer in silence from the multiple disorders connected with their sexual system is that they cannot bear to broach the subject to a man, even if he is a physician.

No one can blame a modest, sensitive woman for this reticence. It is unnecessary in these times, however, for a woman makes to all afflicted women a most generous offer. Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., bids every woman who suffers to write to her and confide every symptom that annoys her, and she will give her advice without charge, and that advice is based upon the greatest experience ever possessed by man or woman in this country, and extends over a period of twenty-three years, and thousands upon thousands of cases. Why suffer in silence any longer, my sister, when you can get help for the asking? Don't fear to tell her everything.

The case of Mrs. Colony, whose letter to Mrs. Pinkham we publish, is an illustration of the good to be received from Mrs. Pinkham's advice; here is a woman who was sick for years and could get no relief—at last in despair she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham—received in return a prompt, sympathetic and interested reply. Note the result and go and do likewise.

"I was troubled with such an aching in my back and hips, and I felt so tired all the time, and had for four years. For the last year it was all I could do to drag around. I would have such a ringing in my head by spells that it seemed as though I would grow crazy. I ached from my shoulders to my feet and was very nervous. I was also troubled with a white discharge. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., received a prompt reply and followed her advice, and now I have no backache and begin to feel as one ought; in fact, I never felt better in ten years than I do now. I thank God that I went doctoring with Mrs. Pinkham when I did, for if I had not I know I would have been in my grave."—Mrs. Nellie E. Colony, Nahma, Mich.

FOR SUMMER HOMES.

A few light canvas folding-chairs are a great convenience in the country, for they can be carried around the piazza and grounds at will.

Japanese and Canton rugs in porcelain blue and white, green and pink can be bought very reasonably. They wear well and may even be laundered.

Chairs of rattan or wicker with backs of gayly striped aleppo cloth held with bows of Turkey-red calico make pretty splotches of color on a summer veranda.

Rattan couches with a bright Bagdad curtain thrown over them look well mingled with the other furniture and they are piled with cushions of cretonne and denim.

In an unpretentious cottage sitting room the common red veranda chairs look nice if upholstered in bright chintz or denim. Plain or figured burlap may be had for hangings, screens and upholstery.

For draperies it will be found that charming effects can be arranged with the art muslins with their oriental colorings, the dotted Swisses with fluted frills and the thin eastern silks.

Everything in the summer home should be fresh and clean; old, discarded furniture should be tabooed. Attractive furniture is of oak or maple upholstered with very fine Canton matting in the natural tint; it does not catch the dust and can be readily cleaned.

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill with a good coat. Ask your druggist for Pacific Coast. I enjoyed the day very much in fishing, but I'll not tell you how many I caught.

The bathing in the ocean is what I enjoyed about as much as anything out side my dinner. There were quite a number bathing at the time I was and the large breakers (or waves) 4 to 10 ft. high would at times cover us all up if we would not jump up in time to float over tnem as they came rolling along like a small mountian. It was great enjoyment. something I'll never forget. I should have liked could you have been with me. I must close for this time.

Since my arrival to this city I have been through the greater part of it and must admit that it is a very fine place. It has some beautiful drives, with nice palm trees on each side and also some very fine dwelling houses. Business seems to be good, compared with some other places, but still they cry of hard times and ask if business is improving in the east.

I spent some time at Pasadena, the garden spot of the south I beleive. It is quiet, has fine streets and the climate there is a little warmer than it is here.

I have also been at Whittier a a town with about 2000 people, and yesterday, I spent at Long Beech, a summer resort on the

Dear Friend:-

Since writing you last I have had quite a severe cold, but am feeling better again. The thought that people will never get sick here is wrong, because they do.

Lately I have been down at San Diego, spent several days there, and enjoyed my trip and stay while there. I saw she ruins of the old San Diego Mission which was built in 1776. I also heard the old bell toll in the evening which is over 100 years old; they also have an Indian school there with some 80 Indian children in attendance. The Coronodo Hotel at San Diego just across the Bay is a beautiful building claimed to be the largest in the United States. The climate here is the most equal in the whole state, but bnsiness in very quiet. They claim about 30.000 inhabitants.

From San Diego some forty of us took a moter line which took us to the south line of California and from there we all took the stage, drove over to Fia Juana, a small town which is a short distance across the line into old Mexico. There are many Monuments showing the line between the States and Mexico. Every one seemed glad to see old Mexico and the Mexicans were glad also, and tried hard to sell us as many things as possible and were anxious to relieve us of all the money they could.

I have also taken in the town of Santa Ana. Cal. and Orange I find the country very nice in and about those two towns. While at Santa Ana I stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Roth. Mrs. Roth is a daughter of Rev. G. Haefner of Klemme, Ia. and to them I owe thanks for having taken me all about their town and country. I had a real good time while there. Yesterday, I with a friend of mine formerly of Ill., S. F. Bicker, strolled over what are called foot hills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Back east we would be inclined to call those foot hills mountains as they extend frome three to 500 feet high. We enjoyed the stroll very much. I wish you could have been with us. Hoping this may reach you all well I remain

Very Truly Yours,

Many orators are mere manufacturers of phrases.

Irregular honesty is harder to handle than regular dishonesty.

It is nature for a woman to think that some ugly man is good looking.

The most utterly lost of all days is that in which you have not once laughed.

The Minnesota Indians who drank painkiller didn't understand that they would die along with the pain.

The reason that Italy's food supply is insufficient for home consumption is because the people are more fruitful than the soil.

It must always puzzle a landlubber to understand why, after a ship has been duly accepted by the navy department, the next thing heard of it is that it is in a dock somewhere for repairs.

It is announced that the endowment fund of a New York city parish, known far and wide for its good works, has gone beyond the one-hundred-thousand-dollar mark. That noble provision for Christian helpfulness began in a striking way. Twelve shop girls gave a gold dollar each, and on that suggestive basis rests the superstructure which is to endure through the generations. They did what they could, as did the woman in the Gospels.

The nation of Indians that best represented the warring element of the race of red men has made a significant appeal to the government. The remnant of the Sioux has asked permission to erect a monument to the braves slain in the battle of Wounded Knee in South Dakota seven years ago, and to inscribe thereon, in the Sioux language, "words that shall proclaim Wounded Knee the last battle-field on which the Indian shall show hostility to his white brother."

The riots in India threaten to take on the character of an insurrection. The agitators are endeavoring to inflame the native population by representing that the sanitary measures taken by the British government to prevent the spreading of the plague are in effect desecration of Indian temples and a trampling upon traditions. The people of India have undoubtedly many causes for complaint against the British, but the vigor or thoroughness of measures to stop the spread of contagious diseases cannot be put in that catalogue. There always has been opposition to drastic sanitary measures among Asiatic people, and every famine in India, every year of cholera or plague, has been followed by irritation and resentment on the part of the ignorant and prejudiced natives.

Spain, so long mistress of the seas, and the pioneer of national advancement, has become degenerate and a fast waning power. Its industries are suffering from lassitude of the most pronounced order, and threaten to be swamped in the serious competition to which they were subjected by more energetic countries. Spanish agriculture is not excepted from this general decline. Up to the present day nothing in the shape of farming machinery has been introduced, all farm work being still carried on by manual labor. Such a state of affairs could only result, as it has done, in a sort of national bankruptcy. But the example and contact with other nations and people has led to a sort of revival of the ancient spirit of rivalry which dominated the Spanish race some hundreds of years ago. The revival is as yet but in spirit, which, although nearly crushed with the weight of impoverishment, now seems to aspire to better things. The agricultural condition of the country has indeed become so depressed that the government has had to look the matter seriously in the face. In the estimate of 1896-7 the sum of £240,000 has been voted for the relief of the agricultural industry, and for immediate use. The form in which it is to be given is to grant temporary freedom from succession duties, and on the transfer of property. All cattle, implements, plants, seeds, etc., imported from other countries, for the improvement of agriculture, are to come in duty free. "Cheap money for farmers" is to be provided for, by encouraging and promoting facilities to companies for obtaining loans for agricultural purposes, presumably on a combined or co-operative mortgage on the farms of the members. As most of the farms are already mortgaged, the government will accept a second mortgage to meet the case. The Spanish agricultural department will also purchase certain plants and seeds, which will be distributed to the best advantage.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

AN OSKALOOSA TRAGEDY.

Carl Yates Shoots His Wife and Tries to Kill Himself.

OSKALOOSA, August 6.—Carl Yates, proprietor of the Daylight barber shop, shot his wife and then tried to shoot himself. Two balls entered the woman's back, one lodging in the right lung and the other in the kidneys. She cannot possibly live. After having shot at her three times, he put the gun to his head and attempted to shoot himself. Officer Crickett grabbed him and another man snatched the gun. The trouble arose over a family difficulty. Mrs. Yates, by her first husband, was left with a fortune of $5,000, which Yates has squandered. They had just decided to separate, and she had been consulting her attorney. She was running away from him and called to the policeman for help. The affair took place right in front of the postoffice, and was witnessed by no less than fifty people.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER.

Frank Arnold Charged With Killing Henry Duffy at Waukon.

DUBUQUE, August 8.—Frank Arnold has been arrested at Omaha on the charge of murdering Henry Duffy, a merchant of Waukon. Duffy slept over his store. On the morning of April 6 last, his clerk on coming to work found him lying dead at the bottom of the stairway leading from his bed room to the office. He was in his night robe, and all the chambers of a revolver in his hand were loaded. Later another revolver with one chamber empty was found and identified as one Arnold had recently redeemed from a pawn shop. Arnold is 25 years old, and the son of a well-driller living at Waukon. He claims he loaned his revolver to an un-named friend a few days before Duffy was killed.

GEORGE ANER APPREHENDED.

Will Be Taken to Ames for Hearing—His Victim Recovers.

AMES, August 8.—George Aner, the attempted slayer of Mamie Lewis here the 26th of July, has been located at Oskaloosa. He will be brought to Ames for a hearing. Miss Lewis, who was at first pronounced fatally injured, is recovering rapidly and her recovery is now considered a certainty. She will be taken home next week. The theory of accidental shooting is adhered to in Ames.

DR. SMITH AFFLICTED.

Dread Disease, Anthrax, Finds Human Victim at Sioux City.

SIOUX CITY, August 8.—Dr. J. F. Smith, V. S., is suffering from the dread disease of anthrax, contracted while making post-mortem examination of cattle afflicted with that disease. Many cattle have died of the disease in the last few days and a general quarantine is ordered.

Youth's Bad Injury.

IOWA CITY, August 7.—James Paintin, a young man 22 years old, was seriously injured at the Coralville light plant by being struck on the head by a rapidly revolving shaft, the blow fracturing the skull. A large casting he was carrying crushed his side. The skull was fractured about three inches in length by one in width and was trephined by the attending physician, and at last accounts he was doing well as could be expected under the circumstances, though his recovery is by no means certain.

Iowa Strike Declared Off.

OTTUMWA, August 7.—The Centerville miners have made another unexpected move. After going out almost to a man, some of the men with families grew less dissatisfied and applied for their places back again. This started a rush for the mines. A committee was appointed to wait on the operators, which reported that the differences between the operators and the miners, largely misunderstandings, had been adjusted and the strike is declared off.

Suicide by Hanging.

BURLINGTON, August 6.—When Mrs. William A. Schultke awoke she beheld the body of her husband hanging to the bedpost with a hitching strap around his neck. He had suicided because of having spent $7,000, which rightfully belonged to his stepson and daughter, for whisky and other intoxicants.

Charged With Forgery.

CLINTON, August 6.—Jos. Cuddy, a grain dealer of Clinton, was arrested for supposed forgery. His name was signed to several deeds of property and money was raised on the same. It is thought the amount will reach $10,000.

A Convict Escapes.

BURLINGTON, August 6.—The police have been notified that Frank Scott, a Burlington criminal, escaped from the penitentiary by breaking through the roof.

A Boy Killed.

CEDAR RAPIDS, August 6.—Joseph Hazdorf, aged 12, was instantly killed by a B. C. R. & N. freight while crossing the tracks on a foot path.

BEST IOWA SNAKE STORY.

A Girl at Dubuque Said to Have a Lizard in Her.

DUBUQUE, Aug. 9.—A case that is exciting much interest among medical men in Dubuque is that of a deaf and dumb girl named Clara Kuntz, who is the unfortunate possessor of a live lizard in her stomach. The girl can feel it running up and down her throat and at times it nearly suffocates her. It is particularly troublesome in the morning. While she was eating a piece of meat it came up, snatched the meat and dropped back again. The doctors attending her have decided to starve her for a few days, and then by putting a piece of meat in her mouth induce the creature to come out far enough to be grasped by pinchers. It is thought she swallowed it some time ago, when it was very small, while eating raw cabbage.

AWFUL ACCIDENT AT NUGENT.

Four Girls Drowned in Skunk River While Bathing.

OSKALOOSA, August 5.—At Nugent station, twenty-five miles east of Oskaloosa, four girls were drowned together in Skunk river. The dead are Emma, Myrtle and Etha Pample, daughters of Pierce Pample, and Jessie Adams, daughter of Lewis Adams. Myrtie and Etha Pample were twins, 15 years old, and the other two were aged 11 years respectively. While attending a small picnic of ladies the four girls went in bathing. They waded out together hand in hand, when suddenly they stepped off from a sand-bar and were carried under by a swift current. None of them could swim, and the ladies on the bank, who were eye-witnesses, were powerless to help them.

Burglary at Morning Sun.

BURLINGTON, August 7.—The Henyerd hotel in Morning Sun was robbed of two gold watch chains, a gold watch, a revolver and $47 in money. Later the alleged thief, a colored man named Woolson Quales, was captured in Burlington and all the stolen property was found on him.

IOWA CONDENSED.

While mowing weeds with a scythe on the streets of Estherville, George Sykes cut the leg off of a 2-year-old child of Austin Jones.

A terrific hail and thunder storm occurred in the vicinity of Ottumwa recently. On the southern line of the Rock Island a hail storm stopped a north-bound passenger train. The hail stones were of such immense size and came in such large quantities that they banked on the track like snow and stopped the locomotive. Every window in the train was broken. The crops were literally cut to pieces.

At Des Moines a few days ago Bert Ross was bound over to the grand jury to answer the charge of assault with intent to commit murder, and the bond fixed at $1,000. Ross is accused of shooting his wife, "Shorty" Ross, in the Whitechapel district, on the night of June 5, 1897. "Shorty" was sent to the hospital and recovered from the effects of the shot. She was in the court room, although she was not called as a witness.

Burglars entered the residence of Herman Meyer, five miles north of Odebolt, recently, and stole notes aggregating $2,200. The notes were dated at Wein, Mo., and were payable to Herman Meyer. The house of Rev. Mr. Schlegel, nine miles northeast of Odebolt, was entered and $35 in cash, $100 in notes and a deposit slip of $20 was taken. At Mr. Clausen's house $7 was stolen. No clue to the thieves, although suspicion attaches to a party of strangers who drove through Odebolt on that day.

Ed. Parmenter, one of the best-known farmers of Polk county, committed suicide recently by taking a dose of strychnine. Death was almost instantaneous. Mr. Parmenter lived on his farm two miles west of Ankeny. He served on the Polk county board of supervisors and in other positions of trust. About two years ago an injury to one hand led to blood poisoning, which necessitated the amputation of the arm. Since that he has been in poor health and despondent. Added to physical ill health was mental worry, caused by domestic troubles. One son had trouble with his wife, which was aired in the divorce court. Mr. Parmenter was greatly worried by the case, and had several times threatened to commit suicide.

Des Moines dispatch: The state executive council has completed the equalization of the state's assessment for this year. The assessed valuation of all property in the state is a trifle over $554,000,000. On this a levy of 2.8 mills is made, intended to produce $1,400,000. If the entire levy should be collected, it would produce considerable more than the amount named; but experience proves that there is a pretty steady proportion of taxes that are not paid in the year, hence the levy must be made a trifle larger than the amount required. Last year the levy was 2.7 mills. There is a slight falling off in the assessed valuation as compared with recent years, which has been as follows: 1893, $566,529,971; 1894, $557,072,750; 1895, $559,659,824; 1896, $555,974,448.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 3.—Indications now are that the powers will be compelled to send another ultimatum to Turkey. The action of Tewfik Pasha in submitting a series of amendments to the draft of a treaty of peace completed at a recent sitting of the ambassadors is regarded as meaning a delay of two or three weeks in signing the preliminaries of peace. It is further thought that it will possibly necessitate another threat of force.

PARIS, August 3.—A Constantinople special says the ambassadors have determined to maintain the wording of their draft of the treaty of peace without change.

PARIS, August 4.—A Constantinople dispatch says: A division of the Turkish fleet has been ordered to Crete and fresh trouble is to be looked for. It has been reported for some time that Turkey contemplated landing additional troops in Crete. The admirals in command of the allied foreign fleets have decided to oppose by force the landing of Turkish reinforcements there. They notified the Turkish civil governor, but he declined to accept that decision.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 4.—Grumbchow Pasha, has started bearing a letter from the sultan to the kaiser. He stops on his way to communicate with the king of Roumania. His mission is considered of high importance at this juncture.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August —The Turkish government officials are now manifesting a desire to expediate the settlement of the peace negotiations owing to the straightened state of the exchequer rendering it impossible to contract new loans, and for political purposes, the attitude of Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro being regarded as threatening.

LONDON, August 7.—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Telegraph asserts that the frontier line upon which the powers have agreed gives the Turks possession of the height situated on the right bank of the river Salambria and also the defiles of Kaiamakas and Xerial, thus rendering the defense of Larissa and the Salambria valley forever impossible to the Greeks. The correspondent says that this line places Greece completely at the mercy of Turkey.

FAILURES ARE SMALL.

The Showing for the Past Month is a Remarkably Good One.

NEW YORK, August 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Four years ago, August 5, 1893, the first number of Dun's Review was issued, with failures in that month amounting to over $60,000,000, while in the month just closed failures have been only $7,117,727, the smallest in any month since 1892. The statement of failures by classes of business for July and for forty-six months, shows that in manufacturing failures have been smaller than in any month of the entire period, in trading smaller than in any other month except one, and in many branches than in most months of which records exist. Last month was the first for four years of which the value of business reported by clearings house was larger than in the same month of 1892, and the telegraphic dispatches from all parts of the country given this week show a gratifying improvement. This is partly due to a large yield of wheat and good prices, though the crop is probably not as large nor are the prices thus far as high as in 1892, but of cotton the price is higher and the yield probably larger than in that year. Other farm products are realizing good prices, and the possible increase in the yield of corn may help to market the enormous surplus brought over from last year.

GOLD MINE SOLD.

Nevada Gold Mine Brings a Cold $15,000,000.

NEW YORK, August 7.—For some time agents representing several syndicates of London capitalists have been in New York endeavoring to acquire gold mines of proved value for the exploitation of the British market. The latest deal is the sale by the Gold Creek Mining Company, of Nevada, of the property to a British syndicate for $15,000,000. The original capital stock of the company is $300,000. Col. B. S. Bush, formerly chief engineer and constructor of the Croton Acqueduct, is engineer of the company. He estimates that over $43,000,000 in gold is contained in the placer, which contains 500 acres in Elko, along the banks of Gold creek.

Zimmerman a Great Shot.

NEW YORK, August 7.—A cablegram says Gus Zimmerman, rifle shot, again distinguished himself in a shooting match at Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, taking first prize. Zimmerman has won the first prize in all the important shooting matches in Europe since he has been there.

FEARFUL FIRE HORROR.

Five Killed and Many Injured—An Awful Explosion.

CHICAGO, August 6.—Five lives were lost in an explosion which took place during a fire in the Northwestern grain elevator. Four of the dead are firemen. Either the bursting of a boiler or the explosion of mill grease caused the awful havoc. Accumulated dust, as dry and inflammable as gun powder, that had been piled up for years, formed a ready means for the fire. It spread with great rapidity and then in a terrific explosion completing the work of scattering the fire throughout the entire structure. Just as the firemen were getting into position for advantageous work, and nearly all the members of engine company No. 3 were mounting ladders and bringing hose to play on the interior from the upper windows, there came a roar that could be heard for half a mile, the roof was raised high in the air, and the walls came down with a crash. The force of the explosion was so great that the eastern wall was hurled into the river, the west wall was tumbled down upon the heads of the unfortunate men below, and the roof was torn into fragments and distributed for blocks around. Every window in the vicinity of the elevator was shattered by the concussion, dozens of persons were struck by flying debris, and several small fires resulted from falling timbers that were still in flames. Besides the killed, thirty-one persons were injured, many of them quite severely.

Sixty Killed.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, August 9.—By an explosion at the Cartridge Works at Rustchuk, forty-six were killed and very many injured. The lives of sixty of the latter are despaired of.

BREVITIES.

On the 6th silver declined to 50¼ cents per ounce, making the metal in the silver dollar worth 43 6-10 cents. There are prospects of a further decline.

In the English commons recently the parliamentary secretary for the foreign office, replying to a question, said the British protectorate was proclaimed over Palmyra Island in May, 1889, and the occupation would be maintained. He asserts that Hawaii and Palmyra have no present connection.

A Lincoln dispatch says: Answers to inquiries sent out from railroad headquarters and by Lincoln wholesalers show that the Nebraska corn crop, with very few exceptions, is standing the continued dry spell and hot winds remarkably well. Farmers declare corn has been damaged little or none thus far and with no further hot winds can flourish for several days without rain. The extreme southwestern part of the state is an exception and half a crop will hardly be harvested, but the area is small.

The following from a press correspondent at Honolulu was received on the steamer Belgic: "The arrival of the steamer Mouna from San Francisco due here on the 29th, means much for Hawaii. In official circles it is generally understood that United States Minister Sewall will carry out the instructions received in the last mail, said to be to this effect: If the Mouna brings word that congress failed to pass the annexation treaty, Minister Sewall is to declare a protectorate and raise the American flag. The American minister has had frequent consultations with President Dole within the past week and it is believed they agreed on this program."

The steamer Olymphia, from Japan brings news that the Japanese government is seriously embarassed financially owing to the rapid pace at which the nation has been going since the war with China. Civilization has necessitated increased expenditures in every direction, particularly the building of railroads and telegraph lines, new government buildings, improving the harbors and strengthening the army and navy. The treasury is not directly benefitted by the big war indemnity paid by China, because it has been kept in England to pay for the new warships and armament. Owing to increased expenditures during the past year, all the government's reserve funds are exhausted.

Washington dispatch: The Dingley tariff law makes on average increase in duty of 14:56 per cent as compared with that imposed by the old Wilson tariff law. This estimate is made by Charles H. Evans, and may be regarded as thoroughly reliable. Mr. Evans has been engaged in some capacity in the preparation of all tariff bills with which congress has dealt since 1872, and is regarded as an authority on the subject. The above comparison was authorized to be made by congress at its recent session, and the results have just been made public. The comparison is made in rates expressed in ad valorem terms between the present law and the Wilson law. The statement places the average duty rate under the new law at 54.66 per cent ad valorem, as against an average of 40.10 under the Wilson law, the averages being figured upon the basis of values in 1896.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

MAGNETISM OF CHRIST LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Following Text: "His Name Shall Be Called Wonderful"—Isaiah, Chapter IX, Verse 6—An Unusual View of the Savior.

THE prophet lived in a dark time. For some three thousand years the world had been getting worse. Kingdoms had arisen and perished. As the captain of a vessel in distress sees relief coming across the water, so the prophet, amid the stormy times in which he lived, put the telescope of prophecy to his eye, and saw, seven hundred and fifty years ahead, one Jesus advancing to the rescue. I want to show that when Isaiah called Christ the Wonderful, he spoke wisely.

In most houses there is a picture of Christ. Sometimes it represents him with face effeminate; sometimes with a face despotic. I have seen West's grand sketch of the rejection of Christ; I have seen the face of Christ as cut on an emerald, said to be by command of Tiberius Caesar; and yet I am convinced that I shall never know how Jesus looked until, on that sweet Sabbath morning, I shall wash the last sleep from my eyes in the cool river of heaven. I take up this book of divine photographs, and I look at Luke's sketch, at Mark's sketch, at John's sketch, and at Paul's sketch, and I say, with Isaiah, "Wonderful!"

I think that you are all interested in the story of Christ. You feel that he is the only one who can help you. You have unbounded admiration for the commander who helped his passengers ashore while he himself perished, but have you no admiration for him who rescued our souls, himself falling back into the waters from which he had saved us?

Christ was wonderful in the magnetism of his person.

After the battle of Antietam, when a general rode along the lines,although the soldiers were lying down exhausted, they rose with great enthusiasm and huzzaed. As Napoleon returned from his captivity, his first step on the wharf shook all the kingdoms, and two hundred and fifty thousand men joined his standard. It took three thousand troops to watch him in his exile. So there have been men of wonderful magnetism of person. But hear me while I tell you of a poor young man who came up from Nazareth to produce a thrill such as has never been excited by any other. Napoleon had around him the memories of Austerlitz and Jena, and Badajos; but here was a man who had fought no battles; who wore no epaulettes; who brandished no sword. He is no titled man of the schools, for he never went to school. He had probably never seen a prince, or shaken hands with a nobleman. The only extraordinary person we know of as being in his company was his own mother, and she was so poor that in the most delicate and solemn hour that ever comes to a woman's soul she was obliged to lie down amid camel drivers grooming the beasts of burden.

I imagine Christ one day standing in the streets of Jerusalem. A man descended from high lineage is standing beside him, and says, "My father was a merchant prince; he had a castle on the beach at Galilee. Who was your father?" Christ answers, "Joseph, the carpenter." A man from Athens is standing there unrolling his parchment of graduation, and says to Christ, "Where did you go to school?" Christ answers, "I never graduated." Aha! the idea of such an unheralded young man attempting to command the attention of the world! As well some little fishing village on Long Island shore attempt to arraign New York. Yet no sooner does he set his foot in the towns or cities of Judea than everything is in commotion. The people go out on a picnic, taking only food enough for the day, yet are so fascinated with Christ that, at the risk of starving, they follow him out into the wilderness. A nobleman falls down flat before him, and says, "My daughter is dead." A beggar tries to rub the dimness from his eyes and says, "Lord, that my eyes may be opened." A poor, sick, panting woman pressing through the crowd, says, "I must touch the hem of his garment." Children, who love their mother better than any one else, struggle to get into his arms, and to kiss his cheek, and to run their fingers through his hair, and for all time putting Jesus so in love with the little ones that there is hardly a nursery in Christendom from which he does not take one, saying, "I must have them; I will fill heaven with these; for every cedar that I plant in heaven I will have fifty white lilies. In the hour when I was a poor man in Judea they were not ashamed of me, and now that I have come to a throne I do not despise them. Hold it not back, oh, weeping mother; lay it on my warm heart. Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

What is this coming down the road? A triumphal procession. He is seated, not in a chariot, but on an ass; and yet the people take off their coats and throw them in the way. Oh, what a time Jesus made among the children, among the beggars, among the fishermen, among the philosophers! You may boast of self-control, but if you had seen him you would have put your arms around his neck and said, "Thou art altogether lovely."

Jesus was wonderful in the opposites and seeming antagonisms of his nature. You want things logical and consistent, and you say, "How could Christ be God and man at the same time?" John says Christ was the Creator: "All things were made by him, and without him was not anything made." Matthew says that he was omnipresent: "Where two or three are met together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." Christ declares his own eternity: "I am Alpha and Omega." How can he be a lion, under his foot crushing kingdoms, and yet a lamb licking the hand that slays him? At what point do the throne and the manger touch? If Christ was God, why flee into Egypt? Why not stand his ground? Why, instead of bearing a cross, not lift up his right hand and crush his assassins? Why stand and be spat upon? Why sleep on the mountain, when he owned the palaces of eternity? Why catch fish for his breakfast on the beach in the chill morning, when all the pomegranates are his, and all the vineyards his, and all the cattle his, and all the partridges his? Why walk when weary, and his feet stone bruised, when he might have taken the splendors of the sunset for his equipage, and moved with horses and chariots of fire? Why beg a drink from the wayside, when out of the crystal chalices of eternity he poured the Euphrates, the Mississippi, and the Amazon, and dipping his hand in the fountains of heaven, and shaking that hand over the world, from the tips of his fingers dripping the great lakes and the oceans? Why let the Roman regiment put him to death, when he might have ridden down the sky followed by all the cavalry of heaven, mounted on white horses of eternal victory?

You can not understand. Who can? You try to confound me. I am confounded before you speak. Paul said it was unsearchable. He went climbing up from argument to argument, and from antithesis to antithesis, and from glory to glory, and then sank down in exhaustion as he saw far above him other heights of divinity unscaled, and exclaimed, "that in all things he might have the pre-eminence."

Again: Christ was wonderful in his teaching. The people had been used to formalities and technicalities; Christ upset all their notions as to how preaching ought to be done. There was this peculiarity about his preaching, the people knew what he meant. His illustrations were taken from the hen calling her chickens together; from salt, from candles, from fishing tackle, from the hard creditor collaring a debtor. How few pulpits of this day would have allowed him entrance? He would have been called undignified and familiar in his style of preaching. And yet the people went to hear him. Those old Jewish rabbis might have preached on the sides of Olivet fifty years and never got an audience. The philosophers sneered at his ministrations and said, "This will never do!" The lawyers caricatured, but the common people heard him gladly. Suppose you that there were any sleepy people in his audiences? Suppose you that any woman who ever mixed bread was ignorant of what he meant when he compared the kingdom of heaven with leaven or yeast? Suppose you that the sunburned fishermen, with the fish-scales upon their hands, were listless when he spoke of the kingdom of heaven as a net? We spend three years in college studying ancient mythology, and three years in the theological seminary learning how to make a sermon, and then we go out to save the world; and if we can not do it according to Claude's "Sermonizing," or Blair's "Rhetoric," or Kames' "Criticism," we will let the world go to perdition. If we save nothing else, we will save Claude and Blair. We see a wreck in sight. We must go out and save the crew and passengers. We wait until we get on our fine cap and coat, and find our shining oars, and then we push out methodically and scientifically, while some plain shoresman, in rough fishing smack, and with broken oar lock, goes out and gets the crew and passengers, and brings them ashore in safety. We throw down our delicate oars and say, "What a ridiculous thing to save men in that way! You ought to have done it scientifically and beautifully." "Ah!" says the shoresman, "if these sufferers had waited until you got out your fine boat, they would have gone to the bottom."

The work of a religious teacher is to save men; and though every law of grammar should be snapped in the undertaking, and there be nothing but awkwardness and blundering in the mode, all hail to the man who saves a soul.

Christ, in his preaching, was plain, earnest and wonderfully sympathetic. We cannot dragoon men into heaven. We cannot drive them in with the butt-end of a catechism. We waste our time in trying to catch flies with acids instead of the sweet honeycomb of the Gospel. We try to make crab-apples do the work of pomegranates.

Again: Jesus was wonderful in his sorrows. The sun smote him, and the cold chilled him, the rain pelted him, thirst parched him, and hunger exhausted him. Shall I compare his sorrow to the sea? No; for that is sometimes hushed into a calm. Shall I compar it with the night? No; for that sometimes gleams with Orion, or kindles with Aurora. If one thorn should be thrust through your temple you would faint. But here is a whole crown made from the Rhamnus of Spina Christi—small, sharp, stinging thorns. The mob makes a cross. They put down the long beam and on it they fasten a shorter beam. Got him at last. Those hands,that have been doing kindnesses and wiping away tears—hear the hammer driving the spikes through them. Those feet, that have been going about on ministrations of mercy—battered against the cross. Then they lift it up. Look! look! look! Who will help him now? Come, men of Jerusalem—ye whose dead he brought to life; ye whose sick he healed; who will help him? Who will seize the weapons of the soldiers? None to help! Having carried such a cross for us, shall we refuse to take our cross for him?

Shall Jesus bear the cross alone,
And all the world go free?
No; there's a cross for everyone,
And there's a cross for me.

You know the process of ingrafting. You bore a hole in a tree, and put in the branch of another tree. This tree of the cross was hard and rough, but into the holes where the nails went there have been grafted branches of the Tree of Life that now bear fruit for all nations. The original tree was bitter, but the branches ingrafted were sweet, and now all the nations pluck the fruit and live for ever.

Again: Christ was wonderful in his victories.

First—over the forces of nature. The sea is a crystal sepulchre. It swallowed the Central America, the President, and the Spanish Armada as easily as any fly that ever floated on it. The inland lakes are fully as terrible in their wrath. Galilee, when aroused in a storm is overwhelming, and yet that sea crouched in his presence and licked his feet. He knew all the waves and winds. When he beckoned they came. When he frowned, they fled. The heel of his foot made no indentation on the solidified water. Medical science has wrought great changes in rheumatic limbs and diseased blood, but when the muscles are entirely withered no human power can restore them, and when a limb is once dead, it is dead. But here is a paralytic—his hand lifeless. Christ says to him, "Stretch forth thy hand!" and he stretches it forth.

In the Eye Infirmary, how many diseases of that delicate organ have been cured! But Jesus says to one born blind, "Be open!" and the light of heaven rushes through gates that have never before been opened. The frost or an axe may kill a tree, but Jesus smites one dead with a word.

Chemistry can do many wonderful things, but what chemist, at a wedding, when the refreshments gave out, could change a pail of water into a cask of wine?

What human voice could command a school of fish? Yet here is a voice that marshals the scaly tribes, until in the place where they had let down the net and pulled it up with no fish in it, they let it down again, and the disciples lay hold and begin to pull, when, by reason of the multitude of fish, the net brake.

Nature is his servant. The flowers—he twisted them into his sermons; the winds—they were his lullaby when he slept in the boat; the rain—it hung glittering on the thick foliage of the parables; the star of Bethlehem—it sang a Christmas carol over his birth; the rocks—they beat a dirge at his death.

Behold his victory over the grave! The hinges of the family vault become very rusty because they are never opened except to take another in. There is a knob on the outside of the sepulchre, but none on the inside. Here comes the Conqueror of Death. He enters that realm and says, "Daughter of Jairus, sit up;" and she sat up. To Lazarus, "Come forth;" and he came forth. To the widow's son he said, "Get up from that bier," and he goes home with his mother. Then Jesus snatched up the keys of death, and hung them to his girdle, and cried until all the grave-yards of the earth heard him, "O Death! I will be thy plague! O Grave! I will be thy destruction!"

Think of God not as one before whom we shall stand, but as one before whom we do stand day and night.

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE DEAD.

Volcano of Mayon in the Philippines Again Active.

TACOMA, Wash., August 6.—Five hundred reported killed up to July 1 is the record of the terrible outbreak of the great volcano of Mayon, on the island of Luzon, one of the Philippine group. All night of June 26 this volcano began throwing up ashes and lava in immense quantities and flames were thrown upward considerably over 100 feet above the crater. The next day fifty-six bodies were recovered at a considerable distance and the most recent dispatches to Hong Kong up to July 8 stated that not less than 500 were known to be killed. It was probable, said the dispatches, that the loss of life would reach into the thousands, depending on the length of the eruption. On that date lava streams had reached the cities of Bacacay, Malipot and Liboy, and their destruction was certain. Fifteen smaller towns between these and the volcano had been destroyed and scores of the agricultural population had been overwhelmed while attempting to escape.

WE HAVE 77,000,068 PEOPLE.

Latest Estimated Population of the United States.

WASHINGTON, August 7.—The latest official estimate of the population of the United States is 77,000,068. This is made by the actuary of the treasury, an officer whose duty it is, at fixed intervals, to report on the per capita circulation of money in the United States. He estimates that the present holdings of money are $22.53 for every man, woman and child in the United States. His estimate of the population is made by the use of the census reports for the preceding decade. Certain fixed rules for increase by birth and immigration and provision for deaths and other losses are made and the resulting estimate is accepted as official.

Pardoned by Weyler.

HAVANA, August 6.—In addition to forty-seven political exiles whom Captain General Weyler pardoned, permitting them to return to Havana from the Spanish penal settlements, the Official Gazette prints a list of fifty-eight others liberated on condition that they will reside in Spain. El Pas announces that conditional pardon has been granted to sixty-three prominent autonomists now in prison. The local press praises this act of Captain General Weyler, calling it magnanimous and describing it as "in honor of the birthday of the queen regent."

Germany and Russia.

CRONSTADT, August 8.—The emperor and empress of Germany arrived here on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern. Their majesties were met by the czar and a cordial exchange of greetings followed. After the greetings, their majesties boarded the Russian imperial yacht Alexander and proceeded to the Peterhof palace, where they were received by all the grand dukes, grand duchesses and the distinguished guests of the czar.

Thousands Killed.

RIO JANEIRO, August 6.—Latest official advices from Canudos state that 2,000 government soldiers were killed in the recent battle there. The rebel loss in the same fight was about 1,000. The number of wounded cannot be estimated, as reinforcements which have gone forward continue to find the injured hidden in the forests and in huts suffering for food and water.

Gold Production in 1896.

WASHINGTON, August 8.—Mr. Preston, director of the mint, estimated the gold production of the world for 1896 to have been $205,000,000, of which the United States contributed over $53,000,000. For 1897 it is believed the world's product will reach at least $240,000,000, an increase of $35,000,000 over 1896.

Students Deported.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 9.—The police have arrested seventy-five students of the military school and thirty-six students of the medical school. The prisoners will be deported to Anatolia. They are suspected of siding with the young Turks party.

Bicycle Tax Knocked Out.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Judge Tuley decided the new city ordinance establishing a vehicle tax to be void. The ordinance permitted the city to collect a dollar a year license from each bicycle owner and from other vehicles proportionately.

Two Hundred Women Drowned.

ST. PETERSBURG, August 6.—A dispatch from Krenontchug, in the province of Potlava, on the river Dnieper, says that the floods have destroyed a swimming bath in the river and that 200 women have been drowned.

England Replies in October.

LONDON, August 7.—The British government has informed the American bimetallic committee that it will probably reply to the proposals of the commissioners on behalf of the United States in October.

SOME WOMEN.

The Duchess of Teck spends annually $5,000 in philanthropic work—one-fifth of the amount granted her by parliament.

Mrs. Isabella Bird Bishop, the traveler, has just been asked to read a paper before the geographical society in London.

Miss Braddon is 60 and Mrs. Oliphant 68, but they carry a pair of lovers through a long novel with as much skill as ever.

Miss Edna Cooke, daughter of Gov. Cooke of Connecticut, was the only graduate from Beacon School, Hartford, this year.

Miss Christine Law of Springfield, Mass., has been appointed assistant clerk of courts. The appointment is for three years and is a tribute to Miss Law's faithful work.

Miss Mary M. Bartelme has been appointed public guardian for Cook county by Gov. Tanner of Illinois. Miss Bartleme is the only woman lawyer in Chicago who makes a specialty of probate cases.

Miss Lydia Leggett is at present pastor of the Unitarian church at Dighton, Mass. She has made efforts to enter the divinity school at Harvard. The faculty has decided by special vote to admit her. She will retain her pulpit at Dighton, making weekly trips from Cambridge.

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison is a very beautiful woman. She looks like an Italian, with soft brunette coloring and a superb complexion. She knowns very little of her husband's scientific work, but devotes much time to reading detective novels with him, a form of literature of which he is very fond.

Proof Positive.

Gifted Amateur—Yaas, I'm wedded to my art, don't ye know.

Candid Critic—Then you must find that marriage is a failure.

Try Grain-O.

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee.

The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee.

15 cents and 25 cents per package. Sold by all grocers. Tastes like coffee. Looks like coffee.

New Treatment Necessary.

"Mr. Grumpy, why did you discharge Dr. Slickly?"

"He had the impudence in these hard times to advise my wife to take a trip to Europe."

At Blenheim palace, the home of the Duke of Marlborough, there are said to be twenty stair cases leading from the first floor to the second.

Republican County Convention and Primary Election.

There will be a convention of the Republican Township Committeemen of Hancock county held at Garner on Monday, Sept. 6, 1897, at one (1) o'clock p. m., for the purpose of canvassing the vote of the primary election and placing in nomination candidates for the offices of County Treasurer Sheriff, Superintendent of Schools, Surveyor, Coroner and Supervisors and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

If, in convassing the vote of the primaries, there should be a tie between two or more candidates for the same office, then in that event the committeeman from each township shall be authorized to cast the vote of his respective township in same representative manner as the township would be entitled to if delegates were chosen to represent the said township in the county convention.

Under this rule committeemen are entitled to the following number of votes:

Amsterdam 6 Avery 8 Britt 20 Boon (corwith pre) 2 Boone 4 Bingham 5 cristal 5 concord 14 Ell 6 Ellington 8 Erin 5 German 4 Garfield 3 Magor 10 Madison 5 Orthel 6 Twin Lakes 5.

Primary elections preceding said convention shall be held on Saturday, Sept 4th, at (3) o'clock p.m., at the place of the last general election in each township, or at such more convenient place as may be selected by the township committeeman.

1. Each congressional township or voting precinct shall constitute an election precinct.

2 The Township committeeman from each township shall be the chairman, providing he is not a candidate for any office, and it shall be his duty to open and close the polls, and sign all returns and records. He shall appoint two competent persons as recording clerks and tellers who shall constitute a Board of Election. And the said Board of Election shall register all voters casting votes at said election and shall return said poll list to the convention. If the committeeman is absent or is a candidate, voters present shall appoint a chairman who shall have the same powers and duties as the township committeeman.

3 The polls shall be kept open untill 9 o'clock p.m.

4 Any one that voted at the last general election for the head of the Republican ticket is eligible to vote at this primary election.

5 The tickets to be used at the primary election shall be furnished by the Republican county central committee and be similar to those used by the Australian ballot system. A square will be placed before the name of each candidate, and the voter must make a cross in square before the name of candidate of his choice. No other ticket shall be used except those furnished by the Republican county central committee.

6 The names of all candidates previously announced who have paid their assessment shall be placed on the ticket. The above to be done at Garner, Iowa, on Monday, Aug. 16th at one (1)o'clock p.m. under the direction of the chairman and secretary of the Republican county central committee.

7 The Board of Election shall canvass the returns, fill out the blanks furnished them, properly sign, seal and deliver the same to the convention.

The committeeman when in convention assembled shall canvass the votes for the several candidates, and if any person has received a plurality of votes he shall be declared the nominee of the convention; but if not, the delegates shall nominate as in delegate convention.

9 In consequence of the Australian ballot law whereby it is provided that the names of all the candidates shall be filed with the county Auditor at least twenty days previous to election, it is recommended that the Republicans of the several townships hold their caucuses for the nomination of township officers at the same time and return the names of the nominees to the county central committee so that such names may be printed on the regular tickets.

By order of the Republican county central committee.

The Storm.

Saturday evening the worst storm ever known in this vicinity passed near here on the west, coming over Britt traveling in a southeasterly course passing over Goodell. A terrific wind accompanied by torrents of rain and hail, covered a strip about six miles wide completely ruining all crops in the line of the storm. At Ludeke's, one mile west of town lightning struck the barn, killing his eldest son instantly, also killed five horses and stuned Mr. Ludeke. Neeman had stopped during the storm, put his horses in the barn and they were among those killed. A portion of the roof of Schoenwether's barn taken off and his wind mill blown down. Haupt's barn was entirely demolished and Wm. Lau's barn moved some on the foundation. In town, Blank's kitchen was overturned smashing a cook stove to pieces, Kirkwood's buggy shed blown over one corn crib upset for Bloom. It is said that hail fell several inches deep during the storm, threshing the oats that were in the shock and completely ruining the corn fields. There is'nt a tree with a leaf on in the line of the storm. At Goodell considerable damage was done the particulars of which we have not learned. Renters in the line of this storm are financially ruined. The awfulness of the storm must be seen to be appreciated.

Lightning killed two head of cattle for Hans Josten, Saturday.

A Remarkable Cure for Chronic Dirrahoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different kinds of medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy and after that I bought and took a 50c bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERGER, Allentown, Pa, Sold by Harr.

ESTELLA'S "HA'NT."

THERE was a new tenant at Barry's acre. This family was the first since the young married pair who had come in the evening only to hasten away before the following nightfall. The lord and master was a physician, as could be told by the brand-new, shiny sign flaring over the rickety gate, and they were also a young couple. Not so very young in years, but young as a married pair, for Miss Estella Varner had looked quite over the head of a fellow like John Hicks, but as year after year passed and found her an unsuited female still, her gaze began to lower, until it rested not unkindly upon the same John Hicks whom she had indignantly flouted five years before. They were married very quietly, and as John had a little money laid by, they decided to rent and furnish the Barry cottage and settle down to housekeeping at once. The cottage, quite a large and pretentious affair, was good enough in its way, if the need of repair were overlooked, but the reputation of the place was what was to be considered. "Give a dog a bad name and hang him." It is the same with a house in certain localities. The Barry cottage stood in the middle of an acre lot, a pretty lawn sloped to the road in front and a nice garden stretched at the back to the edge of a tongue of woods. There were many tempting bits of flotsam and jetsam lying about the place, but none of it was ever appropriated. The colored population, those strange folks who exhale superstition with every breath, gave the place a wide berth, and though a colored settlement stretched along the other side of the wood, no short cut was ever attempted across Barry's acre.

"The place was haunted" was the impression that was spread throughout the country, though by what or whom nobody seemed to know. One or two of the colored inhabitants, more imaginative than their neighbors, asserted that they had "done seed de ha'nt," but what it looked like or what it had done they were unable to say.

Estella was not long kept in ignorance of the reputation of their new abode. The Hickses came and settled and the next step was to look out for a servant. Donning her wraps one evening Estella walked over to the colored settlement. She had proceeded but a little way up the road between the two rows of houses when she met two negresses coming out of a cabin. "Does either of you want to hire?" she asked.

"To do what?" they asked in chorus.

"General housework," Estella answered, tersely. One of the women shook her head. "I'se a cook, myself," she declared, with a slight inflection of scorn.

"Whar you live at?" the younger one ventured.

Estella pointed across the fields to the cottage nestling among the groves of "china berries." "Right yonder" she said. "There is only my husband and I." The woman's jaw dropped and her eyes rolled as she stared at the white woman who was asking her to come to live at Barry's acre. "Dat place! No, not dis chile!" the younger woman declared emphatically, while the elder emitted a long drawn out sound of serious denial. "Um-um, honey!"

"Why, what's the matter?" asked Estella, a trifle surprised.

A LARGE GRAY RODENT.

"Folks don't want to go in service in no ha'nted house," they declared, and passed on. And so it was several days before Estella could get a servant to come to "The Acre," as the Hickes called it, but at last a chore woman was secured—an old, black creature, too shiftless and "no 'count" to be able to chose her place of service. But even she insisted on leaving the place before dark, and would never make her appearance until broad daylight every morning.

And such grewsome tales as old Sally related about what was told of the "ha'nts of Berry's acre!"—tales that made Estella's heavy braids almost uncoil from her small, pretty head. She of course dutifully related them to John Hicks, who only laughed as he answered, "We get the place cheap and until the ha'nt tries to force its acquaintance upon us let us ignore its existence if it does exist."

And so they stuck to their quarters, hearing or seeing nothing out of the ordinary until early spring, when the place improved so much in general appearance under the beautifying touches of leaf and grass that the Hickses entertained serious thoughts of trying to become possessed of this property.

One evening Estella sat at an open window in the second story. The house was very quiet, for John Hicks was away and the black woman had long since finished her accustomed labors and departed. Estella was very happy and satisfied. Outside on the lawn, now softly green, a long phalanx of white hyacinths shot up, permeating the balmy air with their pungent odor. Suddenly, through the silent house, a sound vibrated, the distinct patter of a pair of feet descending the stairs. Down it came with deliberate slowness until the first landing was reached, then a few steps, and the descent of the next flight was commenced. Estella's eyes were riveted on the staircase, a view of which she commanded through the open door. Presently "it" would come in sight, cutting her off from an exit, for the last step in the staircase ended close to the door.

All vitality seemed to leave Estella's frame, creeping in a small, cold stream up her spinal column, the hair seemed to rise on her head and her crisply frizzed bangs to uncurl. Unwinkingly her eyes were riveted on the floor, as she sat back in the chair incapable of casting off this spell of horror that had settled upon her.

Down the thing came, deliberately, Estella mentally counting the stairs until she felt it had reached the last step of the flight, when in another moment it would pass the door. Oh, what a moment! Then Estella's hair returned to its natural position on her silly little head, her limbs relaxed their horrified tension, and her blood began to circulate warmly through her veins once more. She rubbed her eyes and winked, rubbed them again and looked, and burst into peal upon peal of hysterical laughter, for through the door the object of her fright came in sight, the largest, boldest old gray rodent Estella had ever had the ill luck to see, calmly propelling before him a large, round sweet potato, his probably contribution to some ratty feast, selected from those stored away in the attic for the family's own use. The decrepit old chore woman, returning to her evening task, wondered at the high, shrill notes of laughter coming from the window near which her mistress sat, and when a big, round potato came flying out of the window, bounding along the walk before her, she speedily decided that her missus "had done seed de ha'nt an' gone clean 'stracted." She, therefore, turned about and proceeded to put as great a distance between herself and the haunted house, with its distracted mistress, as her rheumatic old legs would allow, and Estella was again left servantless and alone.

Estella never told her experience to John Hicks, and a short while after the occurrence when he suggested that they arrange for the purchase of the place she gave a hearty assent.

Some months after, when they had come into full possession of Barry's acre, they changed its name to Hicks' Hold, beautifying and improving it until it became one of the most charming houses in the country. Though its unsavory reputation still clings to it, and the story of its "awful ha'nt" is still told in more than one county, its appreciative mistress has never again heard "things" creeping down the stair.

ANTIDOTE FOR SNAKE POISON

Certain Cure for the Bites of Reptiles Is a Last Discovery.

From the Chautauquan: It is very noteworthy that many nations, races and castes lowest in civilization have for a long time protected themselves against poisoning from snake bites by a method which never until the present time, the twentieth century, has been discovered by European scientists. The races of Psyller in Africa, Morser in Italy and Guner in India ages ago possessed a means to insure themselves against poisoning from snake bites, and today there are people who are not harmed by snake poison, if we may believe the descriptions of travelers. Such are the negroes on the Guinea coasts, the race of Elsower in Barbary, some fakirs and snake charmers in India, the inhabitants of Mazambique and some Kaffirs in South Africa. The means used by all these people to secure immunity from snake venom consist in taking as medicine the venom, either fresh or dried, from the venom-glands of snakes. The majority eat the venom, but in Mozambique the same result is gained by inoculating with it. That these people really do make themselves proof against snake bites in this way seems to be sure beyond a doubt. Although this method was made known long ago in Europe by travelers, nobody seemed to take any notice of it until the experiments of Pasteur and his school had demonstrated the possibility of utilizing it. Then scholars began to study the effects on animals of feeding snake venom and of inoculating with it, and to convert into scientific capital the avowals of these fakirs, Kaffirs, etc.

EYES NOT ESSENTIAL TO SIGHT

Many Creatures Enabled to See by the Aid of Sensitive Skins.

From the Boston Journal: Eyes are popularly considered to be quite necessary to sight, but this is an error, if we are to believe Dr. Nagel, a recent German experimenter. Many creatures without eyes can see; at least they can distinguish perfectly well between light and darkness and even between different degrees of light. This is the lowest degree of seeing, to be sure, but still it is really sight, and differs scarcely more from the vision of some insects that possess eyes than this does from our own clear sight. Creatures that see without eyes see by means of their skins. All skins, says Dr. Nagel, are potential eyes; that is, they are sensitive to light. In animals that have eyes the sensitiveness has been highly localized and greatly increased—so that man, for instance, has a retina very sensitive to light and an expanse of ordinary skin which possesses a sensitiveness to light so slight that it is hardly conscious of it. Yet his skin is sensitive in some degree, as is proved by the fact that it sunburns—that is, light may cause a disturbance in the pigment of the skin just as it does in that of the eye. In the eye the disturbance is accompanied by a nervous change which sends a telegraphic message along the optic nerve to the brain. In the skin, too, there are nerves, and there are messages also, but their tidings imprint no image on the mind; they simply express discomfort—cry out "sunburn." But in many eyeless creatures the lack of eyes is in part made up by increased sensitiveness of the whole skin surface to light. Darwin long ago noticed that earthworms, although they have no eyes, will suddenly withdraw into their holes at the approach of a lighted candle. Some creatures seem most sensitive to sudden increase of light; others to sudden diminution. If a number of oysters, kept in a vessel together, are found to be open, they will shut all at once if a dark object comes between them and the light. Another bivalve, called Psammodia, has long, whitish, transparent tubes which protrude from the sand in which it lies buried. If these are suddenly illuminated they contract, and the brighter the light the greater the contraction. If a number of them be carried into direct sunlight they hasten to bury themselves in the sand; or, if there is no sand, they move restlessly to and fro in the water until they are exhausted. In general, Dr. Nagel finds that creatures which respond to sudden shadows are those that live in strong shells, while those affected by a sudden increase of light live in sand or mud, from which they emerge occasionally. In both cases the sensitiveness of the skin to changes of light serves to protect the animal. How does the skin acquire this peculiar sensitiveness? It will be best for the non-expert to suspend judgment, since even the scientists do not agree on this point. It may be that it is a universal and rudimentary property of all skin, and that animals with eyes have lost it in a greater or less degree, because they have no further need for it. That is one view. Or it may be that this property has been developed in eyeless creatures just because they are eyeless and need it. That is another view. Those who favor the latter opinion point to the fact that some of the creatures which now have skins sensitive to the light are probably descendants of creatures with skins not so sensitive; in these instances the sensitiveness must have been recently developed. Snails are sensitive, but their relatives, the slugs, are not; this looks as if the former had acquired the faculty. However this may be, Dr. Nagle's study of these curious and out-of-the-way facts is certainly interesting and may lead in the future to an advance in our knowledge of the mechanism of sight.

He Was True.

Brave deeds are frequent, and one good office of the daily press is to record them for the world's remembrance. An instance in point is the following from the Mobile Register: An incident realizing John Hay's famous story of Jim Bludso, engineer of the Prairie Belle, who held her "nozzle agin the bank till the last galoot" was ashore, occurred here on the Chattahooche river in the wreck of the steamer Griggs. The steamer struck a snag which ripped open her bottom. She began to fill and the pilot headed her to a sand-bar, while the engineer crowded on all steam, though the water was already over a portion of the deck. Reaching the sand-bar, the vessel careened, and the water rushing in caught the brave engineer at his post in the engine room. He died there. Two other persons were lost, a roustabout, who became frightened and jumped overboard, and a negro woman, who became panic-stricken and refused to leave the lower deck. All the others were saved, thanks to the devotion of the engineer. The story is reported by a negro deck-hand, and is doubtless a true one. The hero's name was Waterberry.

WEYLER TO THE FRONT.

Ordered to Face the Insurgents by Orders From Madrid.

HAVANA, August 6.—It is rumored that General Weyler's departure for Mantanzas was due to orders direct from Madrid, sending him to the front. General Weyler made preparations to take the field some days previous, but according to the statement made by an officer of the palace, delayed his departure in order to mature a plan to capture General Cestillo. The captain general is severely criticised here for not having taken the field earlier. For three weeks bands of insurgents from the east have been sweeping into Mantanzas, and even Havana, and there raided the small towns and made demonstrations before the larger ones. They landed expeditions and had time to organize, yet General Weyler contented himself by remaining on the defensive and only retaliating on the insurgents by issuing decrees that cruelly aggravated the sufferings of the unfortunate contentrados. It was only when the insurgents boldly attacked the suburbs of the capital itself and public opinion forced him, that Weyler decided to go.

MOWED THEM DOWN.

English Artillery Said to Have Killed 1,500.

LONDON, August 6.—The Evening News publishes a letter from a Calcutta volunteer reiterating the statement that during the rioting there the artillery fired point blank at 5,000 mill hands, with the result that 1,500 were killed. The secretary of state for India, questioned in the house of commons July 9 as to the accuracy of the report to the above effect, replied that seven persons were killed and twenty wounded.

Peace is Near.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, August 7.—The rebels are in conference with the president as to terms of peace. It is believed an agreement will be signed shortly and the war will end. Many public meetings to urge peace have been held.

Literary Notes.

"A Year in the Fields" is the title of a charming volume written by John Burroughs and published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. The author, endowed with wonderful descriptive powers, gives the reader a splendid little volume devoted to a description of the fields throughout all the year. The snows of winter, the flowers of spring, the harvests of autumn and the lazy days of summer, all are pictured by the author in this study of nature. Twenty pictures from photographs by Clifton Johnson help to make the book one of the best of the year.

The new battleship Iowa, "The Queen of the Navy," is beautifully pictured and well described in the August Midland Monthly (Des Moines). "Gen. Lyon and the Fight for Missouri," by Captain Clark, is a fine tribute to the first great martyr to the union cause. To many, not the least interesting reading will be the announcement that, first of all the magazines, the Midland will in September profusely illustrate the Yukon Valley gold fields of Alaska.

Mrs. Mary Hartwell Catherwood's romances of the early days at Mackinac have gone far to make "The Bar Harbor of the West" classic ground; and few of those to whom the particular locality of the story is familiar will fail to be delighted with "The Cobbler in the Devil's Kitchen," in the midsummer Harper's, in which the humor and romance of voyageur days are very artistically blended.

John Muir, the author of "Mountains of California," and our greatest authority upon American forestry, contributes to the August Atlantic a paper on "The American Forests." It is an appreciative description of the beauty and wealth of our great forests and a plea for their preservation by the national government.

Outing for August contains two complete stories—"Ingleby's Neighbor," by M. Gertrude Cundill, and "The Match Game," by Wm. A. Walker. Other notable features of a finely illustreted number are: "Golfers in Action," by Price Collier; "The Fishes of Our Boyhood," by Ed. W. Sandys; "Polo in Play," by A. H. Godfrey; "The Season's Yachts and Freaks," by A. J. Kenealy, and "Coasting the Mediterranean Awheel," by Paul E. Jenks.

A new element has been introduced into the problem of the origin of our cats by the discovery in Brazil of a tortoise-shell wild cat, of which the late Professor Cope had the only known museum specimen. This animal will be described from Prof. Cope's specimen, in Appleton's Popular Science Monthly for August, by William H. Ballou.

"The Burglar Who Moved Paradise," by Herbert D. Ward, has just been issued by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. This story appeared as a serial in the Ladies' Home Journal and it was the unanimous opinion of those who read it that it was one of the best that has appeared during the year. The writer has written a story of rare merit and one that captivates the reader and makes him reluctant to lay the book aside at any time before the end is reached. Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the wife of the author, has written few works that excel this latest work of her husband.

NATURE'S WONDERS.

A TRIP THROUGH MOST PICTURESQUE AMERICA.

Story of an Interesting Run Across the Continent on the "Overland Route"—The Beauties of Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and the Great Northwest.

The story of the "Overland Route" has been told in prose and poem by those who have a right to claim the best knowledge of it; those who toiled over the plains driving oxen in spans, which pulled great caravans of freight; those who hopefully bore the heat and burden of the day, buoyed up and encouraged by the hope of an El Dorado in the mountains of the west—great, noble hearted men who sought in the glorious west the reward which seemed never to come near their doors in the populous east. They were brave, and kind-hearted, bold and gentle, and the writer loves to dwell on their adventures and depict their hair-breadth escapes and tell of their hopes and their disappointments. In one sense theirs is the story of the lives of many who read, and a chord of sympathy is touched by the skillful telling of the story. Everyone who has read these tales of the west has felt an instinctive desire to see the spots, hallowed at least in memory by some story, which has served to pass an hour away; and each one has longed for an opportunity. Those of the present day have the best of the earlier members of this mutual admiration society, for they can now make the trip in comfort, free from peril, and surrounded by all the luxuries incident to modern travel. Instead of toiling over the calcined track of those who preceded them the traveler of the day simply selects "The Overland Route," the Union Pacific system, and, as much at home as though in the quiet of some New England village, glides swiftly over a splendid roadbed and allows his eyes to feast on the magnificent scenery afforded.

The route through Kansas is a varied scene of thrift and growing greatness, agriculturally, and when night has lowered her shades and the hours of rest are passed, the grander beauties of the Rocky Mountains are in view, and one instinctively prepares himself to drink in the wonders which nature has strewn in profligate plenty within touch, almost, of the passing train. From Denver to Cheyenne there is spread a panorama of hills and fields, dashing rivers "and the complaining brooks that made the meadows green," and mountains whose snow-capped tops seem to reach to the very skies and mingle their glistening peaks amid the shadowy clouds. The highest point on this "Overland Route" across the continent is 8,247 feet, at Sherman; hence those who fear the results of great altitudes are relieved of that apprehension, as very little difficulty is experienced. One of the wonders of the American continent, artificial but interesting, is the Ames monument, erected in remembrance of the work done by Mr. Ames in connection with the building of this great east and west artery of commerce and which reminds one of the Pyramids of Egypt, and makes one wonder whether they, too, commemorated ability and power as well as served to keep the sacred remains of their projectors. The Dale creek bridge is another magnificent specimen of human skill, and one compares the handiwork of man with that of nature, which all around vies with it.

While the route just described has been through Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and the northwest, I have not been unmindful of still another pleasant journey which every traveler through the west should take, viz: Utah, Nevada and California to Portland, Oregon. On this trip the Sacramento valley is traversed its entire length, much of it being oaked like an English park and at certain seasons no Persian tapestry can rival its wild flower beauty. The trip to Redding for eighty miles along the Upper Sacramento is made a constant delight by aromatic conifers, beautiful wild flowers and the musical waters of the river; thence passing Castle Brags, Soda Springs is soon reached, where the train stops for a few minutes that tests may be made of Nature's laboratory skill. Bottles and jugs are here used by experienced travelers for future refreshment. One of the most notable features of this interesting route is Mount Shasta, 338 miles from San Francisco on the line of the Southern Pacific Co., connecting San Francisco with Portland. The sail bay station at Sisson stands on one of its buttresses and the summit, 14,444 feet above the ocean level, is unveiled, with nothing to mar its transcendent vision. It is a trip which everyone should take varying the climate, the altitude, and general environments of business and care, and it can be taken so comfortably and at such reasonable expense, in the splendid cars of the Union Pacific system that it should be decided upon at once at the one next to be undertaken. F. P. BAKER.

ONE ON WITHERBY.

New Cook Was Coming and His Wife Didn't Want Company to Dinner.

Witherby—"I've invited a fellow here to dinner tomorrow night," quotes Tid-Bits.

Mrs. Witherby—"Oh, my dear, what did you do that for? Why, the new cook is coming tomorrow, and you know it will be just awful."

Witherby—"I don't see anything awful about it. Give him what we've got. I guess it's good enough."

Mrs. Witherby—"That's just like a man. You don't seem to care for appearances at all. Can't you put him off?"

Witherby—"No, I can't. The idea! I invite a friend to dinner and my wife protests! But, madam, he comes just the same. As long as I am running this house I propose to do as I please."

Mrs. Witherby—"Who is it?"

Witherby—"Wigson. You know him, don't you?"

Mrs. Witherby (seized with inspiration)—"Know him! Should say I did. Why, he's an old sweetheart of mine."

Witherby—"I guess not."

Mrs. Witherby—"But he is. Have him to dinner by all means. Oh, I should just love to see him. How he did make love to me!"

Witherby—"He did, eh?"

Mrs. Witherby—"Yes, indeed. It was only by the merest chance that I didn't become his wife. This is indeed a pleasure. Dear boy! Let's see; I haven't seen Charlie Wigson for four years."

Witherby (dryly)—"You haven't, eh; Well, I wouldn't be surprised if you didn't see him for four more."

Mrs. Witherby (feigning great disappointment)—"Oh, you haven't changed your mind, have you? Aren't you going to bring him to dinner?"

Witherby—"No, madam, I'm not."

And Mrs. Witherby, having gained her point, glided blandly from the room.

BITS ABOUT NOTABLES.

Mr. Rider Haggard has finished a new novel dealing with Boer life, entitled "The Swallow."

S. R. Crockett has been taking a walking tour in Pomerania, the English papers say, no doubt with a view to acquiring "local color" for his new story, "The Red Axe," the scene of which is to be laid in Pomerania.

Pierre Loti, who is at present on actice service on the French warship Javelot, has produced a new book, "Ramuntcho," a study of Biscayan landscape and manners. Gaston Deschamps declares it to be "the true Loti, the Loti of the old manner."

Charles Maron, who lately died in Paris, claimed descent from the poet Virgil. Regularly every New Year's day all persons in Mantua, the poet's native town, who bore the name of Maro, the poet's patronymic, sent greeting to Maron, whom they regarded as first and greatest of them all.

Mr. Ruskin spends several hours a day gardening in a little green cultivated place in the middle of a nut wood, which in spring is full of daffodils and cherry blossoms. Here the professor admits no other toil but his own and is as proud of his garden as of the great books which bear his name on there title pages.

Alexandre Dumas, the younger, is shortly to have his statue on the Place Malesherbes in Paris. Subscriptions are already being collected for the purpose and as Dumas is a household name in France, it should be less difficult to raise the money than it has unfortunately been in the case of many other distinguished Frenchmen.

Happy Switzerland.

Recent press dispatches make known the passage of a legislative enactment in Switzerland by which the railroads of the country are to pass into the hands of the government at a price less by some $30,000,000 than even the present depreciated cost of their stock. There is rejoicing in Switzerland over the circumstance, and one of the great well springs of satisfaction is patriotism. The railroads of Switzerland are or were previcus to this purchase largely controlled by foreigners. The securities were massed in Berlin. The Swiss then were in the same fix precisely as the people of the United States, whose freight and passenger rates are to all intents and purposes dictated by foreign financiers in London. No matter, then, what one's opinion as to patriotism, and the government ownership of railroads may be, it is in order to rejoice with the people of Switzerland because of their emancipation from the rule of alien credit brokers.

Nebraska a Great Wheat State.

This year Nebraska has come to the very front rank as a wheat-producing state, with her splendid crop of 35,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, averaging over 22 bushels to the acre, and 5,000,000 bushels of winter wheat, which will average 21 bushels to the acre. The table given below, which has been carefully compiled, shows what will surprise many, that Nebraska stands third among the states as a wheat producer, and it must be bourne in mind that the states that outrank her are almost exclusively wheat states, whereas Nebraska is a country of diversified crops, corn being her principal product.

A HEALTHY WIFE

Is a Husband's Inspiration.

A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home. I sometimes marvel at the patience of some husbands.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging and that everything tires her, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams, and that she often wakes suddenly in the night with a feeling of suffocation and alarm, she must at once regain her strength.

It matters not where she lives, she can write a letter. Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will reply promptly and without charge. The following shows the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, accompanied with a letter of advice:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have suffered for over two years with falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb, and this spring, being in such a weakened condition, caused me to flow for nearly six months. Some time ago, urged by friends, I wrote to you for advice. After using the treatment which you advised for a short time, that terrible flow stopped. I am now gaining strength and flesh and have better health than I have had for the past ten years. I wish to say to all distressed suffering women, do not suffer longer, when there is one so kind and willing to aid you."—MRS. F. S. BENNETT, Westphalia, Kans.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

Never meet trouble half way; let it do all the walking.

By another summer it is prophesied that "gold bricks" will be numerous.

Those Chicago gamblers whose place was held up by robbers now know how it is themselves.

The political nondescript whose sole object is seeking the plaudits of the galleries fails when occasion demands statesmanlike action.

It is said that the music to "We Won't Go Home Till Morning" is over 700 years old, or about the age the fellow feels who sings it when he wakes up.

Following the example of some other labor organizations, the Knights of Labor are preparing to submit to Congress an amendment to the tariff bill. It calls for the imposition of a duty amounting to $500 on each alien laborer who comes into the United States. In justification of this proposition it is alleged that foreign laborers are brought here under various pretexts because they work cheaper than Americans.

A number of representative men and women have given the New York Independent their opinion as to what constitutes the most striking characteristic of the period and the reign of Queen Victoria. A response from Gladstone properly leads the list of replies. No answer touches a finer characteristic than that of Frances E. Willard, that the queen has set up and illustrated the highest standard of personal purity. To be royal and yet pure in heart has unhappily not always been a characteristic of English sovereigns.

Considering the intense cold of Alaska it might be well for us to turn to Yuma, Ariz., for a little relief. It has been stated for a fact that the ghost of a soldier, who had lived a bad life in Yuma, came back from the nether regions to get his army blankets because he felt so cold down there. Yuma is now a flourishing mining town with a population of 6,000. For weeks at a stretch the temperature ranges from 97 degrees to 125 degrees. They remark that it is a cool day when the mercury sinks down to 90 degrees. This season Yuma has had two spells of hot weather, when the thermometer registered 117 degrees in the shade. So, if one gets "froze out" in Yukon he could get thawed out in Yuma.

Some women are nervy, Mrs. F. G. Turner of St. Louis is of that class. She had a thrilling experience when she and Miss Sophy Sebenhor were attacked by a mad dog. The animal ran down the street, foaming at the mouth, and first attacked Miss Sebenhor, who turned him about with her parasol. Then it sprang at the throat of Mrs. Turner and fastened its fangs in her clothing. She seized the dog by the back of the neck and ears, forced it from her, placed it upon the sidewalk and fell with her knees upon the brute. She held the struggling animal in this position until her husband was telephoned for and came to the rescue on a bicycle, armed with a revolver. The dog was killed. Mrs. Turner's arms were almost paralyzed by the struggle.

The dairymen of Illinois have got their anti-color (butterine) bill enacted into law, but will now have to push it in the courts. A Chicago paper last week said: "Butterine manufacturers have banded together to test the constitutionality of the anti-butterine color law. They will resume manufacturing and coloring it in defiance of the statute. Three of the largest firms engaged in its manufacture have already resumed. They are the Friedman Manufacturing Company, Braun & Fitts, and the W. J. Moxley Company. They will persist in making, coloring and selling butterine until arrests are made. Then the fight in the courts will begin, all the firms having pooled issues in this. The claim of unconstitutionality is based upon several points. One is that butter is colored by the same process as butterine, and what is lawful for one is lawful for another. A second point is that the law is special legislation, in the interest of one industry and against another. A third point is that the bill was passed after midnight—the hour for adjournment of the legislature—and that the clerk on the third reading did not read from the original bill, but from a copy. This last allegation is undoubtedly true, as the original bill was stolen from the engrossing clerk's office. The new law should be pushed to its full strength, and no time should be lost in following up violations of it. Every transgression should be followed by a case at law

TEXAS FEVER IN IOWA.

Southwestern Part of the State is Greatly Excited Over It.

DES MOINES, August 14.—Texas fever is reported to have broken out among the cattle of the southwestern part of the state. There is great excitement over cases reported in Page and Montgomery counties, supposed to have been imported with Texas cattle. The people of these counties have telegraphed to Governor Drake several times, and have written letters, urging that steps be taken at once to suppress the disease. State Veterinarian J. I. Gibson has been notified, and will investigate.

ARNOLD HELD FOR MURDER.

Sequel to a Murder Mystery Which Has Kept Allamakee County Guessing.

WAUKON, August 14.—Frank Arnold has been held to the grand jury without bail after a week's preliminary hearing before Justice Robbins for the murder of Henry V. Duffy, a prominent business man of Waukon, on the night of April 26. The manner of Duffy's death has since been in mystery and public sentiment divided as between murder and suicide. The general opinion is that the evidence against Arnold will not convict him.

ANOTHER BOND SUIT.

New Hampshire Savings Bank Sues Lyon County for $33,000.

SIOUX CITY, August 13.—Another of the famous Lyon county bond suits has appeared in the federal court. It is an action on the part of the 5-Cent Savings bank of Keene, N. H., to collect $33,000 of the repudiated bonds of Lyon county. Under the decision of Judge Shiras, rendered last spring, this suit will probably hold good and a judgment will be rendered against the county.

Big Haul at What Cheer.

OSKALOOSA, August 13.—Sheriff Price and his deputies made a good haul at What Cheer. They caught four men who had a full set of burglar tools in their possession. They were chased to What Cheer from Muchakinock, where they were said to be selling stolen property. One got as far as Belle Plaine before he was caught. He had covered himself up with coal in a coal car. He confessed that he and two others of the party robbed Bacori's store at Rose Hill about two months ago. Two of the men captured answer exactly the description of two of the Eldon bank robbers, and Sheriff Stodgill, of Ottumwa, will investigate.

Fonda Farmer Killed.

FONDA, August 14.—J. B. Weaver, a well-to-do farmer living four miles northeast of Fonda, met with an accident that resulted in his death in a few hours. While assisting in threshing at the home of Sylvester Barron, he was elevating grain into the barn when the rope became detached from the doubletrees, letting the elevator with 800 pounds of oats fall on Mr. Weaver's head. Both legs were broken and his skull badly fractured. He regained consciousness, but lived only a few hours. He leaves a wife and ten children, from 2 to 12 years of age.

Netterfield Shot in Missouri.

OSKALOOSA, August 13.—George Netterfield, who gained considerable notoriety for the shooting of George Golightly last December, and by the long trial and acquittal on the charge of murder, has been shot in a small town in Missouri. The reports say that he was found dead in an obscure and out-of-the-way place with six bullet holes in his body, shot through and through. Another account is that he got in a quarrel with a man and pulled a gun. The man was too quick for him and fired first, killing Netterfield instantly.

Sensational Sioux City Case.

SIOUX CITY, Aug. 13.—Near midnight the police were called upon to investigate the report that a young married woman had been brutally assaulted in the stock yards district. The story proved to be true, and before morning W. H. Keenan was placed under arrest and landed at the police station on the charge of assault with intent to commit rape. The victim of the assault is Miss Anna Thomas, of Thayer, Neb., formerly Miss Whitmore, of Sioux City, and who had been visiting at No. 200 South Court street.

Woodruff Goes Free.

LANSING, August 14.—The cases of the state against J. H. B. Woodruff, of the Des Moines Life Insurance company, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, which were to come on before Justice Nachtwey, of Lansing, have been withdrawn by order of the county attorney.

Drowned at Muscatine.

MUSCATINE, August 13.—A young man by the name of Ed. Jones, while inspecting the W. J. Young steamboat anchored at New Boston, fell off and was drowned, the rapid current carrying his body fifty yards below the boat before it was recovered.

WRONGED HUSBAND SHOOTS.

Michael Devino, of Colon, Fatally Wounds Alexander Goudy.

OSKALOOSA, August 11.—Michael Devine shot Alexander Goudy, of Colon, and fatally wounded him. Mrs. Devine, a comely woman of 25 years, deserted her home and three small children and fled with Goudy. Devine sought and found the pair. The men drew their guns, but the woman came between them. She was shot through the hand. Goudy was hit in the neck and in the abdomen. Devine was uninjured, but gave himself up soon after the shooting. The men are each about 35 years old. They are all natives of England, and had always borne good reputations. They were never quarrelsome and none of them drank any. It appears that the intimacy between Goudy and Mrs. Devine had been carried on secretly for some time. She went out, as she said, to visit the neighbors, but instead met Goudy and went to a house occupied by a family by the name of Jones. The family were away on a visit, but Goudy had in some manner secured a key. A boy who happened to be passing told Devine of their whereabouts. He went to the house, and finding the boy's story to be true, went back home and got his revolver. He returned and opened fire. He says he did not intend to hit his wife, but wanted to kill Goudy, on whom he lays all the blame.

WORK AT STATE FAIR.

Workmen Are Erecting Scaffolding From Which Horses Will Dive.

DES MOINES, August 14.—These are days of great activity at the state fair grounds, and a large number of workmen are busily engaged in putting the grounds in shape and preparing for the opening of the state fair of 1897, which is now only a few weeks distant. The fair will open on September 9 and will close on the 18th. Directly in front of the grand stand at the race track a number of workmen are engaged in erecting a big scaffolding, which is to furnish one of the interesting features of the fair. From this big scaffolding, which is over 30 feet high, Dr. Carver's celebrated horses, Powderface and Cupid, will dive into an artificial lake, being built directly beneath. The horses are not urged to make the dive; they seem to enjoy it. The sight is an unusual and interesting one and it is certain to be a big feature.

A $60,000 FIRE AT CLINTON.

Chair Company's Factory Completely Destroyed.

CLINTON, August 16.—One of the largest fires Clinton has had this year broke out in the Clement Chair Company's factory, a three-story brick building, which, with yard, occupied one quarter of a block. The fire originated in the varnish room, and, with everything about very dry, the fire was soon beyond control. The building and stock are a complete loss. The factory employed 100 hands, and was doing a good business. The insurance is $15,000, and the building, stock and grounds were worth $60,000. It will be rebuilt. The building belonging to W. H. Jenks, wholesale oyster and fish merchant, was burned to the ground also, and nothing was saved. The building was across the street from the factory.

Eldon Burglar Identified.

ELDORA, August 15.—The Eldon bank burglar was quite positively identified by a secret service man who chanced in the city. The detective had known the crook for some time. He went into the cells and picked the man out of a gang of twenty prisoners. On the other hand, Sheriff Stodgill failed to identify the man. Stodgill came up from Ottumwa, bringing with him Dick Dodd, one of the bank robbers. Both Dodd and Stodgill failed to identify the man.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Judge Dewey, of Washington county, has rendered a decision in the injunction case against the saloon at Talleyrand, a small unincorporated town just over the Washington county line in Keokuk county. According to his decision, under the mulct law a saloon can only run in an incorporated town.

Davenport dispatch: The socialistic labor party, at a meeting in Davenport, where most of the party is located, has nominated M. J. Kremer for governor of Iowa; M. Hirschfield, of Des Moines, for lieutenant governor; J. Kollmetz, of Manning, for superintendent of public instruction, and T. W. Travis, of Council Bluffs, for railroad cammissioner.

John Heironimus, a farmer living two miles below Eldon, was a few days ago shot and killed by his son-in-law, Clarence Cohen. As the result of a quarrel, Heironimus made at Cohen with a butcher knife. Cohen, who was holding one of his children on his lap, reached on the dresser for a revolver and shot the old man twice. As this did not seem to have the desired effect, he struck Heironimus over the head several times with the butt end of the revolver, which killed him. Cohen went to town and gave himself up.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 11.—The peace conference met again at Tophaneh Kiosk, and Tewfik Pasha, minister for foreign affairs, subjected fresh proposals regarding the evacuation of Thessaly, the indemnity and other issues involved. This is likely to cause a tedious delay. The difficulty seems to turn on the question of evacuation. The powers informed Greece that Turkey lacked the means to withdraw her troops from Thessaly unless a million pounds of indemnity were paid down. They asked the Greek government if it could not advance this sum. Greece replied that this course would be impossible, except by the aid of a foreign loan, which the proposed scheme of control precluded.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 13.—Placards have been placed on the walls of all the monasteries demanding a change in the system of government in the Turkish empire and declare that otherwise blood will flow as during the Armenian massacres.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 14.—Vehbi Pasha has arrived in Thessaly with thirty-five boxes containing medals and eight boxes filled with swords of honor to be distributed among the men and officers of the victorious Turkish army in the conquered province. The jeweled sword to be presented to Edhem Pasha, the commander-in-chief of the Turkish army occupying Thessaly, is reported to be valued at £4,000.

WEYLER DEFEATED.

Insurgents Win an Important Battle in Matanzas.

HAVANA, August 12.—Official information reached Havana of a decisive battle between loyal troops and insurgent forces in Matanzas. According to this information the Spanish troops were routed after a hard battle, with heavy loss. This news caused a veritable sensation in Havana, as it is generally known that Captain General Weyler is now in Matanzas, and there is a belief that the Spanish troops directly under him were those who suffered defeat at the hands of the rebels. Then, too, the knowledge in some quarters that General Gomez is due in Matanzas at about this time with a large body of insurgents added to the interest in the battle. The officials are taking great pains to suppress the facts.

HAVANA, August 13.—It is said that in the fight between the royal troops and the Cubans near Aguacate, the Spaniards lost 200 killed and a large number were wounded. Among the former are said to be two generals. Weyler retreated to Guanabacoa, to which city he was followed by the Cuban troops, who then disappeared. It is reported that Weyler was slightly wounded.

GERMANY AGAINST TARIFF.

Going to Organize Affected Foreign Nations.

BERLIN, August 14.—Acting upon the advise of Baron Von Thielman, the former German ambassador at Washington, who has just been appointed privy councilor and the representative of the imperial chancellor in all the financial affairs of the empire, the German government is entering into negotiations with the governments of other countries injured by the new United States tariff, and especially France and Belgium, for the purpose of effecting an agreement to demand the submission of all disputed points to a court of arbitration. In Germany's case the disputed points are mainly the alleged violation of existing treaties and the paying back to the United States treasury of export premiums paid by Germany.

JAMES Z. GEORGE IS DEAD.

He Had Represented Mississippi in the Senate Since 1881.

JACKSON, Miss., August 16.—A telegram from Mississippi City, the gulf coast summer resort, announces the death of United States Senator James Z. George. Senator George journeyed from his home at Carrollton to the gulf coast about ten days ago and hoped the change would benefit him, and it was thought it had until the news came of his death.

Star Pointer in 2:013-4.

BUFFALO, August 16.—At Fort Erie, Star Pointer paced a mile in 2:01¾, breaking his previous record of 2:02¼ and in the 2:16 pace, Guinette broke both the track and the Canadian record by going a mile in 2:05½. Star Pointer made the quarter in 31¼ and the half in 1:01¼. Then the runner moved up a bit and Pointer let out a link, the time at three-quarters being 1:31.

An Iowa Mare Goes in 2:09 1-2.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., August 16.—Ella T., a gray mare owned by J. W. Tilden, of Red Oak, Iowa, made a mile on the fair ground track here in 2:09½, the fastest mile ever trotted in the state on a half mile track.

IMMIGRATION AT LOW EBB.

Fewer People Coming in Now Than Since Year 1882.

WASHINGTON, August 13.—The tide of immigration is at the lowest point since the general government assumed jurisdiction of the subject in 1882. The number of arrivals from all countries, according to the treasury statistics, during the last fiscal year was 230,832, a decrease as compared with the previous year of 112,435. The lightest immigration of any previous year was in 1895, when the number from all countries was 279,948. The year of heaviest immigration was the first of the period beginning with 1882, when the arrivals numbered 788,992. During the entire period of federal supervision 7,432,016 have entered the United States. The arrivals of Russian Jews for the past year numbered 22,750, as against 45,137 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896. Italy furnished the greatest number of immigrants, 45,431, a decrease of 8,629 from last year. The cause of the heavy Italian immigration of 1896 was assigned to the war of Italy with Abyssinia, but the figures for the last year are not abnormal, having been exceeded by several years of the period. Since 1882 there has been a large and steady decrease in German immigration. It will be seen that the number of German immigrants during the first year of government supervision exceeded the immigration from all countries during the last year.

THE MINERS' STRIKE.

A Sweeping Injunction Brings on a Crisis.

PITTSBURG, August 13.—Sweeping and far reaching injunctions now figure in the coal miners' strike in the Pittsburg district. The sheriff's proclamation, issued two weeks ago, restraining the men from assembling and marching, has been a dead letter and the marches have been continued daily. The miners and their officials claim they are keeping within the law and have the right to assemble in peace and demonstrate to the world that they are being wronged by a rate of wages that keeps them constantly at the point of starvation; also that they have a right to use their presence and influence among men who are militating against their interests by continuing at work. The New York and Cleveland Gas and Coal company, on the other hand, assert that the marches and assemblies are unlawful and a menace to their employes, many of whom they say are willing to work providing the strikers remain away. They have therefore secured an order from the federal court enjoining the men from marching and trying to keep their men from work. The strikers say they will fill the jails full, and as fast as one body is taken another will be sent out.

PITTSBURG, August 15.—Injunction by the court has put a stop to marches by the striking miners against the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company for a time at least. But in the execution of the injunctions the sheriff and his deputies narrowly escaped precipitating serious trouble. As it was, the first blood of the strike was shed. Henry Stewart, one of the sheriff's deputies, struck Jacob Mott, a drummer of the McDonald band, with the edge of a brass horn and cut a severe gash above his eye. The sight of the blood wrought up the 1,000 idle miners to such a pitch that a desperate conflict was imminent. Good judgment prevailed, however, and the miners retired and marched back to their camp.

Three Killed in a Mine Explosion.

DEL NORTE, Col., August 16.—A messenger brings the news of a powder explosion in the Little Annie mine, at Summitville, by which three men lost their lives. Foreman Robert Jones is one of the dead.

BREVITIES.

An official dispatch says hundreds of Armenian agitators from Persia invaded Turkey. They killed 200 of the Migriki tribe, including women and children. The wife of the chief was put to death with the most cruel tortures and several other victims had their noses and ears cut off. The authorities have taken measures to capture the marauders and to provide for eventualities in the villeyat of Van.

It is announced that Marianao, one of the suburbs of Havana, has been again attacked by the insurgents under General Adolfo Castillo. The fire of the insurgents on the forts and principal houses continued from 8 p. m. to 4 a. m. In the morning General Castillo entered with his forces in the neighboring town of La Chorrera, close to Santa Maria del Rosaria, which is a few miles from the capital. After a short resistance, and in spite of the very strong fortifications of La Chorrera, the garrison surrendered, and many Spanish soldiers joined the insurgents. General Weyler is still at Matanzas. It is reported that he intends to establish his headquarters at Colon, Matanzas province, to prevent more Cuban troops from invading the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

SLAUGHTER OF MEN, LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Following Text, Proverbs, Chapter VII, Verse 22: "As an Ox to the Slaughter"—Keep Clear of the Loan Sharks.

THERE is nothing in the voice or manner of the butcher to indicate to the ox that there is death ahead. The ox thinks he is going to a rich pasture field of clover where all day long he will revel in the herbaceous luxuriance; but after awhile the men and the boys close in upon him with sticks and stones and shouting, and drive him through bars and into a doorway, where he is fastened, and with well-aimed stroke the axe fells him; and so the anticipation of the redolent pasture field is completely disappointed. So many a young man has been driven on by temptation to what he thought would be paradisiacal enjoyment; but after awhile influences with darker hue and swarthier arm close in upon him and he finds that instead of making an excursion into a garden, he has been driven "as an ox to the slaughter."

We are apt to blame young men for being destroyed when we ought to blame the influences that destroy them. Society slaughters a great many young men by the behest, "You must keep up appearances; whatever be your salary, you must dress as well as others, you must give wine and brandy to as many friends, you must smoke as costly cigars, you must give as expensive entertainments, and you must live in as fashionable a boarding house. If you haven't the money, borrow. If you can't borrow, make a false entry, or subtract here and there a bill from a bundle of bank bills; you will only have to make the deception a little while; in a few months or in a year or two you can make it all right. Nobody will be hurt by it, nobody will be the wiser. You yourself will not be damaged." By that awful process a hundred thousand men have been slaughtered for time and slaughtered for eternity.

Suppose you borrow. There is nothing wrong about borrowing money. There is hardly a man who has not sometimes borrowed money. Vast estates have been built on a borrowed dollar. But there are two kinds of borrowed money: Money borrowed for the purpose of starting or keeping up legitimate enterprise and expense, and money borrowed to get that which you can do without. The first is right, the other is wrong. If you have money enough of your own to buy a coat, however plain, and then you borrow money for a dandy's outfit, you have taken the first revolution of the wheel down grade. Borrow for the necessities; that may be well. Borrow for the luxuries; that tips your prospects over in the wrong direction.

The Bible distinctly says the borrower is servant of the lender. It is a bad state of things when you have to go down some other street to escape meeting some one whom you owe. If young men knew what is the despotism of being in debt, more of them would keep out of it. What did debt do for Lord Bacon, with a mind towering above the centuries? It induced him to take bribes and convict himself as a criminal before all ages. What did debt do for Walter Scott? Broken-hearted at Abbotsford. Kept him writing until his hand gave out in paralysis to keep the sheriff away from his pictures and statuary. Better for him if he had minded the maxim which he had chiseled over the fireplace at Abbotsford, "Waste not, want not."

The trouble is, my friends, that people do not understand the ethics of going in debt, and that if you purchase goods with no expectation of paying for them, or go into debts which you cannot meet, you steal just so much money. If I go into a grocer's store and I buy sugars and coffees and meats with no capacity to pay for them, and no intention of paying for them, I am more dishonest than if I go into the store, and when the grocer's face is turned the other way I fill my pockets with the articles of merchandise and carry off a ham! In one case I take the merchant's time and I take the time of his messenger to transfer the goods to my house, while in the other case I take none of the time of the merchant, and I wait upon myself, and I transfer the goods without any trouble to him! In other words, a sneak thief is not so bad as a man who contracts debts he never expects to pay.

When a young man wilfully and of choice, having the comforts of life, goes into the contraction of unpayable debts, he knows not into what he goes. The creditors get after the debtor, the pack of hounds in full cry, and alas! for the reindeer. They jingle his doorbell before he gets up in the morning, they jingle his doorbell after he has gone to bed at night. They meet him as he comes off his front steps. They send him a postal card, or a letter, in curtest style, teling him to pay up. They attach his goods. They want cash, or a note at thirty days, or a note on demand. They call him a knave. They say he lies. They want him disciplined in the church. They want him turned out of the bank. They come at him from this side, and from that side, and from before, and from behind, and from above, and from beneath, and he is insulted, and gibbeted, and sued, and dunned, and sworn at, until he gets the nervous dyspepsia, gets neuralgia, gets liver complaint, gets heart disease, gets convulsive disorder, gets consumption. Now he is dead, and you say, "Of course they will let him alone." Oh, no! Now they are watchful to see whether there are any unnecessary expenses at the obsequies, to see whether there is any useless handle on the casket, to see whether there is any surplus plait on the shroud, to see whether the hearse is costly or cheap, to see whether the flowers sent to the casket have been bought by the family or donated, to see in whose name the deed to the grave is made out. Then they ransack the bereft household, the books, the pictures, the carpets, the chairs, the sofa, the piano, the mattresses, the pillow on which he died. Cursed be debt! For the sake of your own happiness, for the sake of your good morals, for the sake of your immortal soul, for God's sake, young man, as far as possible, keep out of it.

But I think more young men are slaughtered through irreligion. Take away a young man's religion and you make him the prey of evil. We all know that the Bible is the only perfect system of morals. Now, if you want to destroy the young man's morals, take his Bible away. How will you do that? Well, you will caricature his reverence for the Scriptures, you will take all those incidents of the Bible which can be made mirth of—Jonah's whale, Samson's foxes, Adam's rib—then you will caricature eccentric Christians, or inconsistent Christians, then you will pass off as your own all those hackneyed arguments against Christianity which are as old as Tom Paine, as old as Voltaire, as old as sin. Now, you have captured his Bible, and you have taken his strongest fortress; the way is comparatively clear, and all the gates of his soul are set open in invitation to the sins of earth and the sorrows of death, that they may come in and drive the stake for their encampment.

A steamer fifteen hundred miles from shore with broken rudder and lost compass, and hulk leaking fifty gallons the hour, is better off than a young man when you have robbed him of his Bible. Have you ever noticed how despicably mean it is to take away the world's Bible without proposing a substitute? It is meaner than to come to a sick man and steal his medicine, meaner than to come to a cripple and steal his crutch, meaner than to come to a pauper and steal his crust, meaner than to come to a poor man and burn his house down. It is the worst of all larcenies to steal the Bible which has been crutch and medicine and food and eternal home to so many. What a generous and magnanimous business infidelity has gone into! This splitting up of life-boats, and taking away of fire-escapes, and extinguishing of light-houses. I come out and I say to such people, "What are you doing all this for?" "Oh!" they say, "just for fun." It is such fun to see Christians try to hold on to their Bibles! Many of them have lost loved ones, and have been told that there is a resurrection, and it is such fun to tell them there will be no resurrection! Many of them have believed that Christ came to carry the burdens and to heal the wounds of the world, and it is such fun to tell them they will have to be their own saviour! Think of the meanest thing you ever heard of; then go down a thousand feet underneath it, and you will find yourself at the top of a stairs a hundred miles long; go to the bottom of the stairs, and you will find a ladder a thousand miles long; then go to the foot of the ladder and look off a precipice half as far as from here to China, and you will find the headquarters of the meanness that would rob this world of its only comfort in life, its only peace in death, and its only hope for immortality. Slaughter a young man's faith in God, and there is not much more left to slaughter.

Now, what has become of the slaughtered? Well, some of them are in their father's or mother's house, broken down in health, waiting to die; others are in the hospital, others are in the cemetery, or, rather, their bodies are, for their souls have gone on to retribution. Not much prospect for a young man who started life with good health, and good education, and a Christian example set him, and opportunity of usefulness, who gathered all his treasures and put them in one box, and then dropped it into the sea.

Now, how is this wholesale slaughter to be stopped? There is not a person who is not interested in that question. The object of my sermon is to put a weapon in each of your hands for your own defense. Wait not for Young Men's Christian Associations to protect you, or churches to protect you. Appealing to God for help, take care of yourself.

First, have a room somewhere that you can call your own. Whether it be the back parlor of a fashionable boarding house, or a room in the fourth story of a cheap lodging, I care not. Only have that one room your fortress. Let not the dissipater or unclean step over the threshold. If they come up the long flight of stairs and knock at the door, meet them face to face and kindly yet firmly refuse them admittance. Have a few family portraits on the wall, if you brought them with you from your country home. Have a Bible on the stand. If you can afford it and can play on one, have an instrument of music—harp, or flute, or cornet, or melodeon, or violin, or piano. Every morning before you leave that room pray. Every night after you come home in that room pray. Make that room your Gibraltar, your Sebastopol, your Mount Zion. Let no bad book or newspaper come into that room any more than you would allow a cobra to coil on your table.

Take care of yourself. Nobody else will take care of you. Your help will not come up two, or three, or four flights of stairs; your help will come through the roof, down from heaven, from that God who in the six thousand years of the world's history never betrayed a young man who tried to be good and a Christian. Let me say in regard to your adverse worldly circumstances, in passing that you are on a level now with those who are finally to succeed. Mark my words, young man, and think of it thirty years from now. You will find that those who thirty years from now are the millionaires of this country, who are the orators of the country, who are the poets of the country, who are the strong merchants of the country, who are the great philanthropists of the country—mightiest in church and state—are this morning on a level with you, not an inch above, and you in straightened circumstances now.

Herschel earned his living by playing a violin at parties, and in the interstices of the play he would go out and look up at the midnight heavens, the fields of his immortal conquests. George Stephenson rose from being the foreman in a colliery to be the most renowned of the world's engineers. No outfit, no capital to start with! young man, go down to the library and get some books and read of what wonderful mechanism God gave you in your hand, in your foot, in your eye, in your ear, and then ask some doctor to take you into the dissecting room and illustrate to you what you have read about, and never again commit the blasphemy of saying you have no capital to start with. Equipped! Why, the poorest young man is equipped as only the God of the whole universe could afford to equip him. Then his body—a very poor affair compared with his wonderful soul—Oh, that is what makes me so solicitous. I am not so much anxious about you, young man, because you have so little to do with, as I am anxious about you because you have so much to risk and lose or gain.

There is no class of persons that so stirs my sympathies as young men in great cities. Not quite enough salary to live on, and all the temptations that come from that deficit. Invited on all hands to drink, and their exhausted nervous system seeming to demand stimulus. Their religion caricatured by the most of the clerks in the store, and most of the operatives in the factory. The rapids of temptation and death rushing against that young man forty miles the hour, and he in a frail boat headed up stream, with nothing but a broken oar to work with. Unless Almighty God help them they will go under.

* * *

The great musician who more than any other artist had made the violin speak and sing and weep and laugh and triumph—for it seemed when he drew the bow across the strings as if all earth and heaven shivered in delighted sympathy—the great musician, in a room looking off upon the sea, and surrounded by his favorite instruments of music, closed his eyes in death. While all the world was mourning at his departure, sixteen crowded steamers fell into line of funeral procession to carry his body to the mainland. There were fifty thousand of his countrymen gathered in an amphitheatre of the hills waiting to hear the eulogium, and it was said when the great orator of the day with stentorian voice began to speak, the fifty thousand people on the hillsides burst into tears. O! that was the close of a life that had done so much to make the world happy. But I have to tell you, young man, if you live right and die right, that was a tame scene compared with that which will greet you when from the galleries of heaven the one hundred and forty and four thousand shall accord with Christ in crying, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." And the influences that on earth you put in motion will go down from generation to generation, the influences you wound up handed to your children, and their influences wound up and handed to their children, until watch and clock are no more needed to mark the progress, because time itself shall be no longer.

A CARLIST UPRISING IN SPAIN.

Present Throne Holder in Danger—Spain's Griefs.

LONDON, August 14.—The Pall Mall Gazette, in the course of a long article upon the increasing activity of the Carlists, says it is not generally known that London is one of the strongholds of the Carlists, thousands of active followers of the claimant of the Spanish throne being located in London. The Pall Mall Gazette adds: "Their leaders seem to think that the fall of Canovas brings their opportunity nearer. During the past week they held many meetings to discuss the best means of assisting their colleagues in Spain in the event of an uprising occurring." Chevalier Lumbye, head of the Carlist club, in an interview, is quoted as saying: "The Carlists are highly organized throughout Spain. When Don Carlos next lands nothing but foreign interference will prevent him from reaching the throne. There are 10,000 volunteers in England ready to fight for him."

WEYLER RESIGNS.

Said to Be Due to the Assassination of Canovas.

NEW YORK, August 15.—The Havana correspondent of the Herald learns on what seems to be the best authority that Captain General Weyler has sent his resignation to Madrid. This report is generally believed to be true. There is no doubt that the resignation of General Weyler is due to the assassination of Senor Canovas del Castillo, the premier of Spain, through whose personal wishes Captain General Weyler was retained in Cuba. The report of General Weyler's resignation is a cause for satisfaction among Cuban sympathizers and concentrados, who, in the advent of another chief of the loyal Spanish troops in Cuba, see only relief from the "policy of conciliation" which has resulted in such suffering to the pacificoes of Cuba.

MISSOURIAN GOES TO RUSSIA.

E. A. Hitchcock, of St. Louis, the Minister to St. Petersburg.

ST. LOUIS, August 13.—Special to the Globe-Democrat from Washington says: Ethan Allen Hitchcock, of St. Louis, has accepted the Russian mission. Hitchcock has returned to St. Louis to put his affairs in order to go to St. Petersburg. Close friendship between the president and Hitchcock has existed many years. As one of the pioneer plate glass manufacturers of the country, Hitchcock has been in Washington a great deal during the tariff legislation, and these visits promoted the friendship. Mr. Hitchcock is a highly successful business man.

Hides Are Dutiable.

WASHINGTON, August 13.—Assistant Secretary Howell has decided that the hides of American cattle slaughtered abroad are dutiable, on being returned to the United States, at the rate of 15 per cent ad valorem, under section 437 of the new tariff. It is held that taking hides from cattle, salting and drying them, materially changes and improves their condition as an article of commerce, so that the article imported is entirely different from that exported.

Philippine Revolt.

MADRID, August 14.—According to an official dispatch from Manilla, Philippine Islands, a serious revolt and outbreak have taken place at the military prison at Papasmaga. In the effort to restore order two Spanish soldiers were killed and seventy-three insurgents. Many were wounded on both sides.

Riot at Fulton.

FULTON, Ill., August 14.—A party of Rock Islanders came to Fulton on a special train for the purpose of forcibly moving the records of the Modern Woodmen to Rock Island. The Fultonites objected and a riot ensued, in which a dozen persons were badly injured. The Fultonites got the best of it, and 100 of the invaders were arrested.

Information Relating to Patents.

DES MOINES, Aug. 9.—Answers to correspondents that may be of general interest:

1. It is very difficult to get a reissue after the lapse of two years from date of the original patent. Good excuse for delay may gain favorable consideration.

2. Any subject matter in a patent that is covered by a distinct claim therefor may be the subject of a distinct contract, license or sale, without including the entire invention and patent granted therefor.

3. For the first fee, $20, we can protect for two years. Two years public use of a patentable invention is a bar to a patent and dedicates the invention to the public. Experimental use may be more than two years without forfeiting the inventor's right to a patent.

4. There is no such law as you suggest to protect innocent purchasers. The owner of a patent may sue the maker, vender and user. If a manufacturer is an infringer, he cannot give a good title to the purchaser and user of his contraband goods.

Our practice is not confined to Iowa. Inventors in other states can have our services upon the same terms as Hawkeyes. THOS. G. AND J. RALPH ORWIG, Solicitors of Patents.

The momentum of a moving body—that is, the force required to stop it—is the product of its mass, or weight, by its velocity. When a moving body is stopped its motion is transmuted into heat.

The weight of the earth is five and one-half times that which a globe of water of the same size would have. Its weight in tons is six thousand million million million. This number may be written with a figure 6 followed by 21 zeros.

Republican County Convention and Primary Election.

There will be a convention of the Republican Township Committeemen of Hancock county held at Garner on Monday, Sept. 6, 1897, at one (1) o'clock p. m., for the purpose of canvassing the vote of the primary election and placing in nomination candidates for the offices of County Treasurer Sheriff, Superintendent of Schools, Surveyor, Coroner and Supervisors and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

If, in convassing the vote of the primaries, there should be a tie between two or more candidates for the same office, then in that event the committeeman from each township shall be authorized to cast the vote of his respective township in same representative manner as the township would be entitled to if delegates were chosen to represent the said township in the county convention.

Under this rule committeemen are entitled to the following number of votes:

Amsterdam 6 Avery 8 Britt 20 Boon (corwith pre) 2 Boone 4 Bingham 5 cristal 5 concord 14 Ell 6 Ellington 8 Erin 5 German 4 Garfield 3 Magor 10 Madison 5 Orthel 6 Twin Lakes 5.

Primary elections preceding said convention shall be held on Saturday, Sept 4th, at (3) o'clock p.m., at the place of the last general election in each township, or at such more convenient place as may be selected by the township committeeman.

1. Each congressional township or voting precinct shall constitute an election precinct.

2 The Township committeeman from each township shall be the chairman, providing he is not a candidate for any office, and it shall be his duty to open and close the polls, and sign all returns and records. He shall appoint two competent persons as recording clerks and tellers who shall constitute a Board of Election. And the said Board of Election shall register all voters casting votes at said election and shall return said poll list to the convention. If the committeeman is absent or is a candidate, voters present shall appoint a chairman who shall have the same powers and duties as the township committeeman.

3 The polls shall be kept open untill 9 o'clock p.m.

4 Any one that voted at the last general election for the head of the Republican ticket is eligible to vote at this primary election.

5 The tickets to be used at the primary election shall be furnished by the Republican county central committee and be similar to those used by the Australian ballot system. A square will be placed before the name of each candidate, and the voter must make a cross in square before the name of candidate of his choice. No other ticket shall be used except those furnished by the Republican county central committee.

6 The names of all candidates previously announced who have paid their assessment shall be placed on the ticket. The above to be done at Garner, Iowa, on Monday, Aug. 16th at one (1)o'clock p.m. under the direction of the chairman and secretary of the Republican county central committee.

7 The Board of Election shall canvass the returns, fill out the blanks furnished them, properly sign, seal and deliver the same to the convention.

The committeeman when in convention assembled shall canvass the votes for the several candidates, and if any person has received a plurality of votes he shall be declared the nominee of the convention; but if not, the delegates shall nominate as in delegate convention.

9 In consequence of the Australian ballot law whereby it is provided that the names of all the candidates shall be filed with the county Auditor at least twenty days previous to election, it is recommended that the Republicans of the several townships hold their caucuses for the nomination of township officers at the same time and return the names of the nominees to the county central committee so that such names may be printed on the regular tickets.

By order of the Republican county central committee.

Nominations.

For Governor, L. w. Shaw. for Leut. Gov. Milleman, for Supreme Judge waterman, and for State Superintendent, Barrett.

A. B. Shafer our delegate reports a very harmonious time.

TIPTON, IND. Aug. 14th. '97.

If conditions in other parts of the country are to be measured by those of this community and vicinity, there should be no occasion to complain. There have been great demands for labor on farms and in the canning factories, and if there is an idle man in the county. it is because he does not want to work. The canning factory of this place has utilized a crop of 600 acres of peas, employing 300 laborers in the factory, while 1,000 persons obtained employment as pea-pickers in the fields. Prices for all grades of live stock are satisfactory and the demand good. Wheat is averaging 28 bushel per acre and bringing prices very much better than last year. There is also a revival in real-estate transactions and prices.

STEWART, NEB., Aug. 14 '97.

There has been a great improvement in conditions here in the past few months. Laber is in demand. In fact, there is not an idle man in the place, and those desiring to employ are unable to find a sufficient number of men for the work. A new creamery is to be established here with Eastern capital this season.

SPAIN'S PRIME MINISTER ASSASSINATED! EUROPE IS ALARMED.

Senor Antonio Canovas del Castillo, the prime minister of Spain, was assassinated Sunday at Santa Agueda by an anarchist. The murderer fired three shots, two of which struck the premier in the head and the other in the chest. The wounded man lingered unconscious for two hours and died at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The wounded statesman fell dying at the feet of his wife, who was with him, lingering in agony for an hour and then passing away with the cry of "Long live Spain," which were the last words upon his lips.

Santa Agueda is noted for its baths. The place is between San Sebastian, the summer residence of the Spanish court, and Victoria, the capital of the province of Alava, about thirty miles south of Bilbao.

The premier went there last Thursday to take a three weeks' course of the baths, after which he expected to return to San Sebastian to meet United States Minister Woodford, when that gentleman should be officially received by the queen regent.

At the moment of the assassination he was waiting in the gallery of the bathing establishment for his wife, who was to join him for luncheon. Suddenly the assassin, who had the appearance of an ordinary visitor, approached and fired at him point blank, one bullet passing through the body and coming out behind under the left shoulder, and the other two lodging in the head. He fell instantly and only recovered consciousness long enough to speak a few words.

Several medical men and his wife were unremitting in their attentions to the sufferer, but his wounds, unhappily, were mortal, and he died in two hours. Extreme unction was administered amid a scene of mingled sorrow an indignation. The assassin narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the waiters and attendants who rushed forward. Detectives and civil guards immediately secured him. He was very pale, trembled violently, and evidently feared that he would be killed on the spot. He will be first arraigned before the local magistrates at Vergara.

The queen regent on hearing the sad news dispatched her own physician, Dr. Bustos, by a special train from San Sebastian. Later, on learning that Canovas was dead, she wired her condolences to the widow.

The assassin is a Neapolitan and gives the name of Rinaldi, but it is believed that this is an assumed name and that his real name is Michele Angino Golli.

The murder declares that he killed Senor Canovas "in accomplishment of a just vengeance," and that the deed is the outcome of a vast anarchistic "conspiracy."

The greatest excitement and indignation prevails among all classes. All the members of the diplomatic corps have expressed their sympathy with the government. Many senators, deputies and generals, while expressing their grief and indignation, have offered to render to the government all the assistance in their power.

It was at first rumored that the assassin was one of the pardoned Barcelona anarchists, but this is not confirmed.

Senor Sagasta, the liberal leader, has sent the following telegram to the government: "I have heard with deep pain of the crime that has thrown us all into mourning, and I place myself at the orders of the government and of the queen."

Most of the Liberal leaders have sent similar messages, placing themselves at the disposal of the government.

La Correspondencia de Espana says that a few days ago an important document emanating from London was received here with reference to plans prepared by English anarchists in conjunction with foreign anarchists, at a meeting held in London, when accusations and threats were launched against Senor Canovas and Senor Tejada de Valdorsera, minister of justice, probably, the paper adds, with the idea of avenging their Barcelona comrades.

LIFE AND WORK OF CANOVAS.

Showing How He Rose from the Masses to Head of the Ministry.

Senor Antonio Canovas del Castillo was born of humble parentage at Malaga, Feb. 8, 1828. He took the course in philosophy and law in the University at Madrid, and began his career as a journalist.

In 1851 he made his debut under the patronage of Senors Rios, Rosas and Pacheco, as chief editor of the Patria, in which he defended conservative ideas. In 1852 he was named deputy for Malaga, and from that time to his death had never ceased to occupy a seat in the cortes. In 1856 he was charge d'affaires at Rome, and prepared the historical memorandum on the relations of Spain with the holy see which served as a basis for the concordat.

After serving the crown as governor of Cadiz in 1855, director general of the administration from 1858 to 1861, and lastly, in that same year, as under secretary of state for the interior, the queen called him to the ministry as a member of the Mon cabinet. In 1865 he held the portfolios of finance and the colonies in the O'Donnell cabinet, and it devolved upon him to draw up the law for the abolition of the slave trade. He was banished a short time before the revolution occurred, and took no part in it. In the face of the triumphant revolution, after his return from exile and in the full constituent assembly of 1868, supported by Senors Elduayem, Bugallel and two others, he hoisted the standard of legitimate and constitutional monarchy. This is his greatest title to fame. Senor Canovas del Castillo became president of the council and chief of the new cabinet, called the cabinet of conciliatfon. He retired in September, 1875, because of the demands of the extreme Conservative party, but he was called back to the presidency on Dec. 2 of the same year and charged particularly with the direction of the first legislative elections of the new regime. It devolved upon him to repress the second attempt of the Carlists to bring on a civil war and to deal with the first insurrection in Cuba.

Canovas came last into power on Feb. 7, 1895. His government was defeated on a vote of censure on June 3, 1895, but did not resign. The general elections of April, 1896, returned an overwhelming majority to the cortes in favor of the policy of the Canovas cabinet, though the opposition charged that the ministerialists carried many of the election districts by gross frauds. He has been in power since.

SENOR CANOVAS.

GENERAL AZCARRAGA.

SHOWS HIS PATRIOTISM.

Senor Sagasta Advises a New Conservative Ministry.

In an interview Senor Sagasta, liberal leader, said: "The country's politics must not depend upon an assassin. The conservatives ought to remain in power under the guidance of men like Marshal Campos, Senor Pidal and Senor Elduayen. Nevertheless, if the queen regent appeals to the liberals, they are ready to respond."

Golli, the assassin, has confessed that he killed Senor Canovas to avenge the Bareclona anarchists and the insurgent leader, Don Jose Rizal, who was executed at Manila, Philippine islands, on Dec. 30 last, as the instigator of the Philippine rebellion. Dr. Rizal denied that he was a rebel leader, but he admitted that he had drawn up the statutes of the Philippine league.

It appears that Golli, the assassin, represented himself as a correspondent of El Populo. The prisoner cannot be tried under the laws providing for the trial and punishment of anarchists, as this law is so framed that a person prosecuted under its provisions must have used or attempted to use explosives in the commission or attempt to commit the crime charged against him. However, there is no doubt Golli will be summarily tried and sentenced. The public demands the adoption of stringent measures against anarchists and also against those who are in sympathy with them.

Golli confesses that he followed Senor Canovas to church and to other places, waiting for an opportunity when he could surely accomplish his purpose. He says he regrets that he has been unable to kill Gen. Polavieja, who was governor-general of the Philippines when Dr. Rizal was executed last December. He regards him as the murderer of Rizal.

The cabinet sat until 2 o'clock Monday morning and decided to publish in the Official Gazette the appointment of Lieut.-Gen. Don Marcolo de Azcarraga, the minister for war, as premier ad interim. Senor Sagasta has postponed his projected visit to this city.

In anticipation of possible disturbances at Barcelona, the police force of that city has been re-enforced.

There is a great deal of speculation as to the effect of the loss of Canovas upon the conservative party. Gen. Azcarraga has acquired great popularity and prestige through his skill in organizing the country's resources for the Cuban and Philippine campaigns, and he may be able to keep the party together. But many good judges take a gloomy view of the situation and lament the absence of civil statesmen of the caliber of Canovas.

CUBANS REGRET THE MURDER.

Afraid That the Recall of Weyler Will Hurt Their Cause.

Joseph Monzon, representative of the Cuban junta in Boston, discussing the violent death of Canovas, said:

"I am certain that no Cuban or any Cuban sympathizers had anything to do with the murderous act. The Cubans do not believe in murder. We were not fighting Canovas or any other man in Spain. We are fighting the Spanish government, and more particularly the Spanish pocket. We deplore the death of Canovas, because we do not countenance murder, and would denounce any act that would leave a blotch upon the history of our revolution; and because we feel that by his death we will lose as our arch-enemy by far the best man for us that Spain could have in Cuba. It was Canovas who kept Weyler on the island when all others were anxious for his recall. We believe that the death of Canovas will result in the recall of Weyler. A change will be disadvantageous to us for many reasons.

"Weyler is a coward and never goes into the field. We are not obliged to meet him in large engagements. We can harass the Spanish soldiery and keep them marching about from place to place with a man like Weyler at their head. This will sicken and kill off the troops and make the cost to Spain very great. Weyler has served us and our cause well by his mad acts of inhumanity."

Excitement in Havana.

Intense excitement prevails in Havana over the news of Premier Canovas' assassination. Large crowds assembled before all the newspaper offices to read bulletins about the murder of the prime minister. Among the Spanish of all classes most profound sorrow was expressed. It was everywhere pronounced to be a calamity of too great magnitude to be estimated at this time. All recognize that its bearing on affairs in Cuba is of the greatest moment, but of necessity comment on this point is most guarded. The insurgent party is confident that the death of Canovas means the downfall of the conservative government, the recall of Weyler and the freedom of Cuba.

Queen Victoria's Sympathy.

London cable: The assassination of Prime Minister Canovas forms a striking contrast with the attempts of exiled Spanish anarchists here to enlist public sympathy and raise subscriptions. The news of the assassination was telegraphed instantly to the queen, who sent an affectionate message to the queen regent of Spain, expressing her horror and deep sympathy; also to Lord Salisbury, who telegraphed Sir Henry Drummond-Wolff ordering the expression of the sympathy of the British government.

Cleveland Almost Prostrated.

Ex-President Cleveland learned of the assassination of Senor Canovas Monday. In reply to a query he said: "I very much deplore the shocking death of the eminent statesman who has fallen a victim to anarchistic rage. The world's civilzation may well contemplate the terrible event with gloomy apprehension."

With the use of a new wash boiler it is not necessary to scrub the clothes hard, the dirt being largely removed by the action of the water in the boiler, a series of pipes extending down through the boiler into the stove to force the water out onto the clothes as it becomes heated.

Clothes-pins are now being manufactured which have the opening to grip the line placed in the side of the pin istead of in the end, so that the pin can be attached to the line by pulling down instead of pushing, the jaw on one side being elongated so as to be grasped by the hand.

An Abominable Legacy.

A tendency to rheumatism is undoubtedly inherited. Unlike many other legacies, it remains in the family. The most effectual means of checking this tendency, or of removing incipient rheumatism, whether pre-existent in the blood or not, is to resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as soon as the premonitory twinges are felt. Nullifying the influences of cold, exposure and fatigue, the Bitters not only fortifies the system against their hurtful consequences, but subjugates malaria, liver and kidney complaint, dyspepsia and nerve disquietude.

AMONG NEW YORK'S POOR.

The New Recreation Pier at the Foot of Third Street, East River.

There are no people who are more willing to be happy than the east-siders. One cent's worth of ice cream delivered on a scrap of newspaper will suffice to make two east-side children think life a joy, and an open fire plug is a fountain of delight. There is no doubt but that the hot days of summer are days of suffering in the overcrowded tenements, but let a puff of air from the East river strike Delancey street, or Houston or Norfolk, and the languid babies begin to sit up in their perambulators, the tired mothers cheerfully take up their gossip and the youngsters their games. A great deal of intelligent work is being done for the east side, says a writer in Harper's Weekly. New parks have been opened; societies whose object is to teach a better mode of living have been organized; play grounds are soon to be opened, and now, after a good deal of time spent in preparation, one of the several recreation piers planned has been erected and thrown open to the public. To one used to seeing the tremendous jams of heavy trucks in front of the docks of West street it is an odd sight to see the entrance to a New York pier almost blockaded by empty baby carriages. There is no room for perambulators on the new recreation pier, and the mothers who bring them leave them at the entrance. The new pier is substantially built, two-story, fireproof structure, iron stairways lead from the street to the recreation floor. On a hot afternoon these are crowded; at night they are jammed. A band plays almost every night and several afternoons during the week. Any air faster than "Old Hundred" sets the youngsters dancing, a very slight provocation starts them all singing, and every boy whistles when the band plays "Sweet Rosie O'Grady." Often the singing, shouting and whistling are so deafening that one cannot hear the band half the length of the pier, but that does not disturb anyone. There are a couple of stands on the pier where youngsters with strong stomachs and a few pennies may make themselves happy with candy or "open face" pies. Children with weak stomachs and three pennies may indulge in sterilized milk. Several uniformed employes of the dock department and two or three policemen keep order on the floor, and two matrons in black, with starchy white aprons, collars and cuffs, look after the comfort of the women and babies. To a sympathetic observer of the great tenement district this recreation pier would seem to be one of the most practical and useful means of relief yet devised for the preservation of infant life and adult hope among the poor. Let us have as many more of them as possible.

Pioneering.

It is quite the custom to speak of the whites who were the first to go among the Indian tribes of the west as "pioneers of civilization." The "civilization" was not always of a perfectly civil order. The officials and traders of the old Hudson Bay company used to claim credit for this rough pioneering. If we may judge from the records of the company, their work was thorough in its way, but the way was a hard one. Some entries in the account books of the company, made more than a hundred years ago, will show how the civilizing was being done.

"Dec. 31, 1795. Served out a quart of rum per man; the evening spent in innocent mirth and jollity.

"Jan. 1, 1796. All the Indians drunk about the place; great trouble in keeping order."

Two entries of an earlier date, and from a station still further north, show what were the amenities of intercourse between the "civilized" and savage races when questions of right and justice were in the way of settlement. The first entry reads:

"The Company's cook, a lad of 16, having been carried off by the Esquimaux, three out of a party of six passing Esquimaux were seized as hostages until the return of the boy."

Five years later another brief entry shows how this transaction was finally closed:

"Had a row with the three Esquimaux detained. They were shot, and their ears pickled in rum, and sent on to their tribe, to show them what had happened."

Dust-Storms That Bury Forests.

Some Russian travellers in Tibet, describe the wonderful storms of dust that occur in Kashgaria near the foot of the Kuen-Lun Mountains. The dust in the air is sometimes so dense that complete darkness prevails. Occasionally rain falls during such a storm, but the rain-drops evaporate during their descent, and the dust carried with them falls in lumps. Entire forests of poplar trees are buried in dust hillocks 40 feet high. These deposits of dust are afterward moved on by the wind, but the trees that have been buried die, even after their disinterment.

Pertinent Questions.

Why Will a Woman Throw Away Her Good Looks and Comfort?

Why will a woman drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence and miss three-quarters of the joy of living, when she has health almost within her grasp? If she does not value her good looks, does she not value her comfort?

Why, my sister, will you suffer that dull pain in the small of your back, those bearing-down, dragging sensations in the loins, that terrible fullness in the lower bowel, caused by constipation proceeding from the womb lying over and pressing on the rectum? Do you know that these are signs of displacement, and that you will never be well while that lasts?

What a woman needs who is thus affected is to strengthen the ligaments so they will keep her organs in place. There is nothing better for this purpose than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The great volume of testimony which is constantly rolling in, proves that the Compound is constantly curing thousands of just such cases.

The following letter from Mrs. Marlow is only one of many thousands which Mrs. Pinkham has received this year from those she has relieved—surely such testimony is convincing:

"My trouble commenced after the birth of my last child. I did not know what was the matter with me. My husband went to our family physician and described my symptoms, and he said I had displacement and falling of the womb. He sent me some medicine, but it did little good. I let it go on about two years, and every time I did any hard work my womb would come down. Finally a lady friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did. The first bottle helped me so much, I continued to take it right along. My back was almost the same as no back. I could not lift scarcely any weight. My life was just a drag to me. To-day I am well of my womb trouble, and have a good, strong back, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MRS. L. MARLOW, Milford, Ill.

Good Feed There.

"It's a shame," cried the young wife; "not a thing in the house fit to eat. I'm going right home to papa!"

"If you don't mind, dear," said the husband, reaching for his hat, "I'll go with you."

Facetiously Intended.

"One of Mack's bridal presents was a lawnmower, and it made him furious."

"Furious? He ought to have been pleased."

"No; you see, he married a grass widow."

W. R. Roberts, for years Cashier of the Citizens Bank of Omaha, and widely and very favorably known in Omaha and Iowa, cured of Nervous Dyspepsia.

Omaha, Neb., March 7th, 1896.

I have been troubled with nervous dyspepsia, cold feet and hands and lack of circulation, loss of flesh, etc. I commenced taking Dr. Kay's Renovator January 15th, 1896, and I continued to improve from the third day, and have found this medicine most pleasant, no griping, no sickness at the stomach, but a complete renovator, and I voluntarily without the doctor's request recommend this to any one afflicted with indigestion and nervousness which follows. I now eat well, sleep well, and have gained about twenty-five pounds in weight, am free from cold feet or hands, circulation good, and I feel better than for many years, and I attribute this to Dr. Kay's Renovator. One 25-cent box will convince any one that it surpasses the whole train of pills and cathartics usually taken. I now only take one little tablet when I overload my stomach and it will relieve me at once.

Second Letter, One Year Later.

I am still a firm believer in the real merits of your remedies. My health is now better than for ten years. I seldom need to take the Renovator, but take it about once a month.

Yours truly,
W. R. ROBERTS.
Omaha, Neb., April 17th, 1897.

Danger Ahead.

At this time of year the stomach and entire digestive system is deranged, causing indigestion, weakness, drowsiness and general indisposition. Don't go to sleep while there is danger ahead. Your system needs renovating to prevent fevers and other dangerous diseases. Take Dr. Kay's Renovator in time and we will guarantee you will not have fever. It strikes to the root of the matter and removes the cause. It regulates the stomach, bowels and liver so gently and pleasantly and yet cures a larger per cent of cases than any remedy ever discovered. It cures the worst cases of indigestion, constipation and chronic diseases. It is pleasant and easy to take. Price, by mail, postage prepaid, 25 cents and $1. If your druggist does not have it don't take some inferior article which he says is "just as good," but send to us for the medicine or "Dr. Kay's Home Treatment," a valuable 68-page free book with 56 recipes. Our I's and Other Eyes.

Our I's are just as strong as they were fifty years ago, when we have cause to use them. But we have less and less cause to praise ourselves, since others do the praising, and we are more than willing for you to see us through other eyes. This is how we look to S. F. Boyce, wholesale and retail druggist, Duluth, Minn., who after a quarter of a century of observation writes:

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than 25 years, both at wholesale and retail, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. I believe Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier that has been introduced to the general public." This, from a man who has sold thousands of dozens of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is strong testimony. But it only echoes popular sentiment the world over, which has "Nothing but words of praise for Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

Any doubt about it? Send for the "Curebook."
It kills doubts and cures doubters.

Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a sure cure for Coughs, Colds Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at Harr's Drug Store,

From the way reports of gold discoveries are coming it looks as if the whole western hemisphere had been Klondyked.

One English duke has gone into the millinery business, and many of the others are not far behind in their endeavor to captivate American heiresses.

In the Outlook Bliss Carman prints a poem about the day when "the inexorable gong sounds on the platform of Time." We haven't read the rest of it, but we sincerely hope that Mr. Carman will not get off the car backward.

Sometimes a good turn is properly rewarded, but a luckier man than Jerome Turner, a lawyer of Muskegon, Mich., probably does not live. While at the World's Fair in Chicago Mr. Turner took the part of an old gentleman named William Seymour, whom he saw the police arrest for some trivial offense. Mr. Seymour died a few days ago and left Mr. Turner $75,000. Lawyer Turner should go to the Klondike at once, and carry nothing but his luck.

Satisfying curiosity is ofttimes hazardous. Francis Warlop was a well-paid cook in a club house at Grand Rapids, Mich. The other day the wife of a prominent member brought in a basket of what she thought were mushrooms and wanted them cooked for a dinner to a few of her friends. Warlop pronounced them toadstools, and dangerous, and the lady left them with him. Then the cook began wondering what toadstools tasted like. To satisfy his curiosity he cooked a few and ate them. An hour later the doctors were called, and very soon afterward poor Warlop was a cold corpse. But he didn't die wondering.

Petty revenge never built an apter monument to its own folly than "spite house," the residence of a millionaire who died not long since in this country. This man owned a strip of land five feet wide in one of our largest cities, of such apparent uselessness to him that the adjoining land-owner offered a fair sum for it, and confident of its acceptance, proceeded to build a dwelling on his own property. The millionaire, however, demanded five times the amount named, and unable to obtain it, he himself erected a house four stories high on the five feet of land, shutting out all side light from his neighbor. Finding it impossible to rent the house to any one, the revengeful owner took up his own abode therein. The extreme narrowness of the house necessitated not only the making of special furniture for it, but the inhabitants passing sideways through the doors. To live in it was both physical discomfort and mental repression. One fancies that children born there would have been dwarfed in body and soul; their features sharp, their minds pinched, their whole natures turned edgewise to society. The laws of heredity and environment endorse such conclusions. condemnation of such petty spite and ignoble revenge cannot be too strong.

A new and terrible explosive shell is in the hands of the government. A report from Washington says: The naval ordnance officers still have faith in the shell for high explosives invented by Louis Gathmann of Chicago, which blew up a $40,000 gun at Indian Head proving grounds a few weeks ago. The tests of this terrible shell have been renewed, with encouraging results. Ten of the shells are now being made, and after being loaded with 300 pounds of gun cotton will be fired. If no accident happens the tests will be stopped and the shell will be officially declared a success by the government. An interesting special test of a Gathmann shell has just been made to determine the shock caused by the explosion of 300 pounds of gun cotton. A piece of armor seventeen inches thick was erected, with a backing of posts and plank two feet thick. Behind this chicken was tied. Another chicken placed in an air-tight cofferdam feet away at the side of the another was tied in the open five feet away, and a fourth another cofferdam thirty- Then 300 pounds of fired against the tar- behind it was found hat it walked in er unbecoming n the first no marks. five feet its he

WAS A VIOLINIST.

Novak Playing in Dance Houses Under Assumed Name When Caught.

CEDAR RAPIDS, August 28.—Frank Novak, the Walford, Iowa, incendiary, charged with the murder and cremation of Edward Murray and an attempt to defraud the insurance companies of $35,000, has been captured at Dawson City in the Klondyke country. He was brought down on the steamer Portland from St. Michaels, Alaska, to Port Townsend, heavily ironed and closely guarded by detectives operating with Thiele's agency of St. Louis. He was playing the violin in a dance hall in the gold country and traveled under the names of Frank Arthur, Frank A. Smith, J. A. Smith and William Smith, since leaving Iowa. The detectives missed him by ten days when he sailed on the steamer Alki from Port Townsend for Juneau, but they have not for a day been off his trail.

DURING STATE FAIR.

Des Moines Is Planning a Grand Reception for Visitors.

DES MOINES, August 28.—The plumbers engaged in the preparation of the street illuminations for Seni Om Sed week, extending from September 13 to 18, have on hand an immense quantity of gas pipe and have nearly completed the work of preparing it for being placed in position. This work will be commenced at once and the putting up of arches, clusters, etc., will be pushed rapidly. The contract for putting up the big triumphal arch has been awarded and work on it is now in progress. It is being made in sections and will be ready to be placed in position and to receive the electrical and other designs in about a week.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.

Miner and Well Digger Killed—Boy Fatally Hurt,

OSKALOOSA, August 27.—Harry Phillips, 16 years old, was thrown from a horse on the pavement and fatally injured. His skull was crushed in and his body is paralyzed. George Martin was overcome while working with a gas main, and when found he was nearly dead. Three doctors worked with him for nearly an hour before restoring him to a normal condition. Frank Conkling was fatally injured while digging a well. A heavy bucket fell twenty-two feet, striking him on the head.

Malt Snare, a miner, at What Cheer, was crushed by a fall of slate, and death resulted.

SERIOUS FIRE AT SAC CITY.

Six Business Houses and One Dwelling Destroyed.

SAC CITY, August 29.—Fire which originated in the rear of D. R. Herrold's grocery destroyed six business houses and one dwelling. The buildings were entirely consumed, but the greater portion of the stocks were taken out. The following buildings were destroyed: Gratts' clothing store; Sherman & Christen; Chinese laundry; Peters' general store; Alice Herald's general store; Burnett's store; Carl Sisters' dressmaking establishment. Loss, $12,000; insurance, $11,000.

TRAMP TOOK A BATH.

Stole the Owner's Clothes, Too, at Dubuque.

DUBUQUE, August 27.—The residence of Rev. Elliott W. Brown, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, was burglarized, along with other residences. Mr. Brown and family are away. The burglar had plenty of leisure. He took a bath in the bath room and then proceeded to don Mr. Brown's best suit of clothes, leaving his vermin infested rags behind. He also had a good night's sleep in the pastor's bed. He was arrested later and gives the name of John King.

Corn Condition Critical.

DES MOINES, August 27.—Henry Wallace has returned from a trip through the state for the purpose of observing the condition of the corn crop. He is of the opinion the condition is critical and that it will take extremely favorable weather to mature over 50 per cent of the corn before September 15. All reports seem to indicate that favorable weather until October 1 is needed to bring through a large portion of the crop.

Four Children Die of Poison.

CLINTON, August 30.—Three children of Nicholas Koppes, of Otter Creek, and two of Matthew Wirtz, were playing in the woods and ate jimson weeds. After returning home they complained of feeling sick. A physician was called, but two of Koppes' children and both of Wirtz's died.

Hog Cholera in Cass County.

ATLANTIC, August 29.—The ravages of hog cholera in Cass county are even ore severe th near, when

FLANNIGAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Former Representative From Webster County Took Strychnine.

FORT DODGE, August 28.—Hon. J. D. Flannigan, a prominent grain dealer of this place, and who two years ago was a member of the house of representatives, suicided by taking strychnine. It seems that he had been drinking considerably of late and was just recovering from a protracted spell of dissipation of that character when, becoming despondent, he took the fatal dose. After he had swallowed the poison he repented the act, and immediately made the fact known to his family and assisted them in every way in an attempt to save his life. Their efforts were of no avail, however, for he died in convulsions within a few hours.

EX-GOV. POYNEER DEAD.

Candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1890 Passed Away.

MONTOUR, August 30.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor A. N. Poyneer died at his home here. He was on the republican ticket with Mr. Hutchinson in 1890. A. N. Poyneer was born in 1831 at Saulsbury, Richfield, Conn., where he lived until 1861, when he removed to Iowa and settled upon the farm upon which he has always lived since. He served in the state senate eight years, beginning with the Ninteenth General Assembly. He represented the Tama-Poweshiek county district in the first term and Tama and Benton in the second.

Accidental Shooting at Union.

UNION, August 28.--Charles Ferguson, who works for Jack Welsh, southwest of Union, was accidentally shot while removing a gun from a spring wagon. They had been hunting with a shot gun and a 32-caliber target rifle. On returning in the evening they removed the guns from the wagon with the above result. The ball struck at the lower end of the breast bone on the right side, and was taken out on top of the right shoulder. The wound is painful, but not dangerous.

Killed by Bursted Emery Wheel.

DUBUQUE, August 27.—John F. Williams, a tool grinder at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul shops, was fatally injured by the bursting of an emery wheel at which he was working. His entire face was smashed in and the frontal bone broken.

IOWA CONDENSED.

Jesse Hamilton, convicted before Judge Roberts at Ottumwa, of the Eldon bank robbery, brought an action before Judge Woolson, of the federal court, for an injunction, and it was overruled.

At Marshalltown recently Engineer Jack Payette, of the Central, who runs the stationary engine on the company's ditcher, was quite seriously and perhaps fatally injured while at work repairing the company's ditcher back of the round house. He fell from a derrick.

Atlantic dispatch: Henry Behneman, a German, 56 years old, hailing from Adair county, and who was hunting work in this locality, was sandbagged by tramps near Marne in broad daylight. Behneman carried two grips and was probably taken for a peddler. His jaw was fractured in two places. The assailants have not been arrested. They are described as being young men about 21 years old.

Work has been commenced on the new street railway at Boone, and if nothing interferes the electric cars will be in operation within sixty days. A large 200-horse power compound engine has been bought, and will soon be put in position. The foundation for the same is now being put in. A 200-horse power boiler has also been ordered, which will at once be put in place and the machinery for operating the big plant made ready for the cars.

Geo. Cox, of Stuart, has brought electricity into the field of the fire fighters. He is in Chicago trying to sell to the city a fire engine that will be propelled to fires by the electric fluid. The engine is operated by a powerful storage battery, which both furnishes motive power for the machine and pumps the water. By it chemicals and water can be thrown upon the flames at once. Complete the fire engine will weigh about 4,000 pounds. Fire department officials are said to believe the invention a good one.

Judge Shiras, of the federal bench, refused Callaghan & Co.'s application for an injunction to restrain Emlin McClain from annotating the new code of Iowa. He said they had not shown irreparable injury would result to them nor established the legal conclusion that McClain's copyright to "McClain's Annotated Code" was held in trust for them jointly. It was not clear that McClain's contract to do no work that would impair the sale of McClain's annotated code had been violated. On the contrary the damage to Callaghan & Co.'s publication resulted from the legislature's determination to issue a new code and if McClain did not annotate it somebody se would.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

2,000,000,000 BUSHELS SHORT.

European Wheat, Rye and Potatoes Lack That of an Average.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., August 27.—An extensive inquiry into European crop conditions conducted by the Orange Judd syndicate of agricultural papers, including the American Agriculturist, of New York, Orange Judd Farmer, of Chicago, and the New England Homestead, of Springfield, Mass., indicates that the food crop situation abroad is very grave. Estimates of Europe's (including England) need for wheat imports range all the way from 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels. Europe's wheat crops for '95, '94, and '93 averaged about 1,500,000,000 bushels. In the famine year of '91, it was only 1,000,000,000. The impression is gaining ground that Europe's wheat crop this year is even less than in '91, but this is not the worst of it. Europe usually produces as much rye as she does wheat. It is the bread grain of the masses. Rye is the crop of the principal European countries (Russia, Germany, France, Austria, Bulgaria, Roumania, and Italy, the low countries and Sweden) and averaged about 1,300,000,000 bushels annually for '96, '95, '94, and '93. This season the rye crop of these countries cannot much exceed 875,000,000 bushels. Quite as bad is the potato prospect. Only about 1,850,000,000 bushels of potatoes will be harvested in these countries this year. Without regard to the United Kingdom and other European countries, there is a shortage of some 1,000,000,000 bushels of potatoes. The European shortage compared with the average follows: Wheat, 300,000,000 bushels; rye, 325;000,000; potatoes, 1,000,000,000; total, 1,625,000,000 bushels.

THE WESTERN CROPS.

The Burlington's Estimate of the Food Product.

CHICAGO, August 28.—The Corn Belt, a paper issued by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, publishes its September crop report, which contains the following: The actual facts so far as Nebraska is concerned warrant the assertion that the heretofore estimated wheat product of 40,000,000 bushels for the state is, if anything, too high. The average of 116 reports received show a yield of 22.21 bushels per acre. A conservative estimate, based on the information we have received, places the probable acreage at 1,564,428. Our estimates on other yields are: Corn 300,000,009; hay, 5,000,000 tons; oats, 36,000,000; rye, 20,000,000; potatoes, 11,383,000 bushels. The estimated yield of corn per acre in Iowa is 35 bushels. Half the crop it is estimated will be fed to cattle, sheep and hogs. The average yield per acre for barley is 20 bushels: rye, 17; oats, 24. Only eight out of 100 reports say the quality of grain is poor.

TWENTY-ONE PERISHED.

Fate of Part of the Crew of the Steamer Cheang Hy Etong.

LONDON, August 27.—A dispatch from Shanghai says the steamer Cheang Hy Etong, Capt. Scott, bound from Penang, on Arrea Island, in the Strait of Melacca, off the west coast of the Melay peninsula, for Japan, foundered in a typhoon. Of thirty-two members of the ship's company twenty-one were drowned. Capt. Scott, as the vessel sank, committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. Eleven survivors experienced the most terrible suffering and exposure in an open boat for five days, under the intense rays of a tropical sun with no water.

TRANSVAAL IS INDEPENDENT.

England Has No Suzerainty Over Her, Says President Kruger.

PRETORIA, August 27. At the meeting of the volksraad President Kruger delivered a speech likely to cause the greatest excitement in Great Britain. He said the relations between Great Britain and the South African republic were regulated by the convention of 1884. He added that in the convention of November, 1881, reference to the suzerainty of Great Britain did appear, but in the convention of 1884, not a single word appeared bearing precisely on that point and since then the suzerainty has ceased to exist. The president's remarks were greeted with the loudest applause.

St. Cyr's Record Broken.

ST. LOUIS, August 27.—The best previous record for heavy lifting that of Louis St. Cyr, who put up 3,536 pounds, was broken by a St. Louis man named Pat McCarthy, aged 36, who shouldered a board platform on which there was a pile of stone aggregating 4,222 pounds in weight.

France May Float a Big Loan.

LONDON, August 29.—The Financial News says the French cabinet is considering the floating of a loan of £60,000,000 ($300,000,000) in 2½ per cent bonds, partly for the redemption of the floating debt and partly for the reconstruction of the French navy.

BORDA FOLLOWS CANOVAS.

Head of the Uruguayan Government Assassinated.

MONTEVIDEO, August 26.—During the national fete President J. Idiarte Borda was shot and killed by an assassin. The assassination of the president occurred just as he was leaving the cathedral, where a te deum had been sung. The assassin was arrested. He is a youth named Arredondo. President Borda died almost immediately after he was shot. Senor Cuestas, president of the senate, has assumed the presidency of the republic ad interim. Senor J. Idiarte Borda was elected president of Uruguay for the term extending from March, 1894, to 1898. The fete at which he was assassinated was being held in celebration of the independence of Uruguay, which was achieved on August 25, 1825.

MONTEVIDEO, August 27.—The assassin of President Borda is Avelino Arredondo, an officer in the Uruguayan army. He is a Uruguayen and only 27 years old. Now that Uruguay's chief is dead, he is calm and declares he is content with his action. Arredondo, now in prison, declares that the crime was not inspired by anything more than personal hatred for the president. He had no accomplice and is willing to take the consequences of the deed.

STRIKE CONFLICT.

Women Stone Men Who Took Strikers' Places.

PITTSBURG, August 28.—Robbins & Co. set two carloads of new men to work loading slack at the Champion mine, near McDonald. The strikers heard of it and 500 women pounced on the new men, stoning them and clubbing them and driving them from Nobblestown. The women then returned and dumped the slack from the cars. A thousand strikers met them with a band and conducted them to the camp a short distance away, where they are now watching for the return of the non-union men. The company says it is bound to load the slack and a conflict is expected.

Spain to Build Ironclads.

MADRID, August 30.—Spain will immediately construct one large ironclad and six cruisers of 6,000 to 7,000 tons to form the nucleus of three squadrons.

BREVITIES.

It is officially announced that a very large crop of grain is anticipated in the Argentine republic, the grain under cultivation covering larger territory than ever before.

A German diplomat, whose name is not mentioned, is quoted as saying: "Germany will not give up Alsace-Lorraine without compensation, but France has every reason to hope that Germany will do so for the promise of compensation, even if made at a distant date."

New York dispatch: Silver has broken the record again by falling to 23 7-8d per ounce in London, or 1-8d below previous low point, and 51½c in New York, ¼c below previous low record. Mexican dollars are quoted at 39½c. The value of the silver in the standard silver dollar is 39.66 cents.

The foreign ambassadors located at Constantinople have recently received a circular letter from the Armenian Dashnak-Zutium committee, almost identical with that sent to them in 1896, declaring that the Armenians are tired of waiting and are resolved to take action for the redress of their grievances.

At Athens recently a meeting of over 3,000 people adopted an address to King George, urging him and the government to reject the proposed peace treaty between Greece and Turkey, and to resume the hostilities which were interrupted by the truce. The entire press, however, and a great majority of the public of Athens condemn the agitation for a resumption of the war.

London dispatch: The Spanish government has approached the powers with a view of coming to an understanding as to the best means of dealing with anarchists. The measures to be adopted jointly would be the formation of an international police force to watch anarchists in all countries, a revision of the treaties of extradition, possibly a penal colony and the organization of a series of penalties for the punishment of anarchist crimes, to be inflicted by all members of the international alliance. To arrive at this understanding it would not be necessary to hold a congress. The matter would be settled by a conference of ambassadors, if at all. Already it is said that the three empires have accepted Spain's proposal and Italy as well. The Italian government has special reason to take even desperate measures, for Italy has been supplying the executive agents of the behests of anarchy in a fashion intensely humiliating to her national pride. But it is not at all clear that Great Britain or France will assent, and the impression prevails that the United States will refuse absolutely.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER II.—(CONTINUED.)

"Nonsense, child! When you are married you will know that the easiest of all secrets to keep is a secret from your husband. I give you my promise. Now begin!"

Clara hesitated painfully. "I don't know how to begin!" she exclaimed with a burst of despair. "The words won't come to me."

"Then I must help you. Do you feel ill tonight? Do you feel as you felt that day when you were with my sister and me in the garden?"

"Oh, no."

"You are not ill, you are not really affected by the heat—and yet you turn as pale as ashes, and you are obliged to leave the quadrille! There must be some reason for this."

"There is a reason. Captain Helding——"

"Captain Helding! What in the name of wonder has the Captain to do with it?"

"He told you something about the Atalanta. He said the 'Atalanta' was expected back from Africa immediately."

"Well, what of that? Is there anybody in whom you are interested coming home in the ship?"

"Somebody whom I am afraid of is coming home in the ship."

Mrs. Crayford's magnificent black eyes opened wide in amazement.

"My dear Clara! do you mean what you say?"

"Wait a little, Lucy, and you shall judge for yourself. We must go back—if I am to make you understand me—to the year before we knew each other; to the last year of my father's life. Did I ever tell you that my father moved southward, for the sake of his health, to a house in Kent that was lent to him by a friend?"

"No, my dear. I don't remember ever hearing of the house in Kent. Tell me about it."

"There is nothing to tell except this. The new house was near a fine country seat standing in its own park. The owner of the place was a gentleman named Wardour. He, too, was one of my father's Kentish friends. He had an only son."

She paused, and played nervously with her fan. Mrs. Crayford looked at her attentively. Clara's eyes remained fixed on her fan—Clara said no more.

"What was the son's name?" asked Mrs. Crayford, quietly.

"Richard."

"Am I right, Clara, in suspecting that Mr. Richard Wardour admired you?"

The question produced its intended effect. The question helped Clara to go on. "I hardly knew at first," she said, "whether he admired me or not. He was very strange in his ways—headstrong, terribly headstrong and passionate; but generous and affectionate in spite of his faults of temper. Can you understand such a character?"

"Such characters exist by thousands. I have my faults of temper. I begin to like Richard already. Go on."

"The days went by, Lucy, and the weeks went by. We were thrown very much together. I began, little by little, to have some suspicion of the truth."

"And Richard helped to confirm your suspicions, of course?"

"No. He was not—unhappily for me—he was not that sort of man. He never spoke of the feeling with which he regarded me. It was I who saw it. I couldn't help seeing it. I did all I could to show that I was willing to be a sister to him, and that I could never be anything else. He did not understand me, or he would not—I can't say which."

"'Would not' is the most likely, my dear. Go on."

"It might have been as you say. There was a strange rough bashfulness about him. He confused and puzzled me. He never spoke out. He seemed to treat me as if our future lives had been provided for while we were children. What could I do, Lucy?"

"Do? You could have asked your father to end the difficulty for you."

"Impossible! You forget what I have just told you. My father was suffering at the time under the illness which afterward caused his death. He was quite unfit to interfere."

"Was there no one else who could help you?"

"No one."

"No lady in whom you could confide?"

"I had no acquaintances among the ladies in the neighborhood. I had no friends."

"What did you do, then?"

"Nothing. I hesitated; I put off coming to an explanation with him—unfortunately until it was too late."

"What do you mean by too late?"

"You shall hear. I ought to have told you that Richard Wardour is in the navy——"

"Indeed? I am more interested in him than ever. Well?"

"One spring day Richard came to the house to take leave of us before he joined his ship. I thought he was gone, and I went into the next room. It was my own sitting-room, and it opened on to the garden."

"Yes?"

"Richard must have been watching me. He suddenly appeared in the garden. Without waiting for me to invite him, he walked into the room. I was a little startled as well as surprised, but I managed to hide it. I said, 'What is it, Mr. Wardour?' He stepped close up to me; he said, in his quick rough way: 'Clara, I am going to the African coast. If I live, I shall come back promoted; and we both know what will happen then.' He kissed me. I half frightened, half angry. Before I could compose myself to say a word, he was out in the garden again—he was gone! I ought to have spoken, I know. It was not honorable, not kind toward him. You can't reproach me for my want of courage and frankness more bitterly than I reproach myself!"

"My dear child, I don't reproach you. I only think you might have written to him."

"I did write."

"Plainly?"

"Yes. I told him in so many words that he was deceiving himself, and that I could never marry him."

"Plain enough, in all conscience! Having said that, surely you are not to blame? What are you fretting about now?"

"Suppose my letter has never reached him?"

"Why should you suppose anything of the sort?"

"What I wrote required an answer, Lucy—asked for an answer. The answer has never come. What is the plain conclusion? My letter has never reached him. And the Atalanta is expected back! Richard Wardour is returning to England—Richard Wardour will claim me as his wife! You wondered just now if I really meant what I said. Do you doubt it still?"

Mrs. Crayford leaned back absently in her chair. For the first time since the conversation had begun, she let a question pass without making a reply. The truth is, Mrs. Crayford was thinking.

She saw Clara's position plainly; she understood the disturbing effect of it on the mind of a young girl. Still, making all allowances, she felt quite at a loss, so far, to account for Clara's excessive agitation. Her quick observing faculty had just detected that Clara's face showed no signs of relief, now that she had unburdened herself of her secret. There was something clearly under the surface here—something of importance, that still remained to be discovered. A shrewd doubt crossed Mrs. Crayford's mind, and inspired the next words which she addressed to her young friend.

"My dear," she said abruptly, "have you told me all?"

Clara started as if the question terrified her. Feeling sure that she had the clue in her hand, Mrs. Crayford deliberately repeated her question in another form of words. Instead of answering, Clara suddenly looked up. At the same moment a faint flush of color appeared in her face for the first time.

Looking up instinctively on her side, Mrs. Crayford became aware of the presence in the conservatory of a young gentleman who was claiming Clara as his partner in the coming waltz. Mrs. Crayford fell into thinking once more. Had this young gentleman (she asked herself) anything to do with the untold end of the story? Was this the true secret of Clara Burnham's terror at the impending return of Richard Wardour? Mrs. Clayford decided on putting her doubts to the test.

"A friend of yours, my dear?" she asked innocently. "Suppose you introduce us to each other?"

Clara confusedly introduced the young gentleman.

"Mr. Francis Aldersley, Lucy. Mr. Aldersley belongs to the Arctic Expedition."

"Attached to the Expedition," Mrs. Crayford repeated. "I am attached to the Expedition too—in my way. I had better introduce myself, Mr. Aldersley, as Clara seems to have forgotten to do it for me. I am Mrs. Crayford. My husband is Lieutenant Crayford of the Wanderer. Do you belong to that ship?"

"I have not the honor, Mrs. Crayford. I belong to the Sea-Mew."

Mrs. Crayford's superb eyes looked shrewdly backward and forward between Clara and Francis Aldersley, and saw the untold sequel to Clara's story. The young officer was a bright, handsome, gentleman-like lad—just the person to seriously complicate the difficulty with Richard Wardour! There was no time for making any further inquiries. The band had begun the prelude to the waltz, and Francis Aldersley was waiting for his partner. With a word of apology to the young man, Mrs. Crayford drew Clara aside for a moment and spoke to her in a whisper.

"One word, my dear, before you return to the ball-room. It may sound conceited—after the little you have told me—but I think I understand your position now better than you do yourself. Do you want to hear my opinion?"

"I am longing to hear it, Lucy! I want your opinion; I want your advice."

"You shall have both, in the plainest and the fewest words. First, my opinion: You have no choice but to come to an explanation with Mr. Wardour as soon as he returns. Second, my advice: If you wish to make the explanation easy to both sides, take care that you make it in the character of a free woman."

She laid a strong emphasis on the last three words, and looked pointedly at Francis Aldersley as she pronounced them. "I won't keep you from your partner any longer, Clara," she resumed, and led the way back to the ball-room.

CHAPTER III.

THE burden of Clara's mind weighs on it more heavily that ever after what Mrs. Crayford has said to her. She is too unhappy to feel the inspirating influence of the dance. After a turn round the room she complains of fatigue. Mr. Francis Aldersley looks at the conservatory (still as invitingly cool and empty as ever), leads her back to it, and places her on a seat among the shrubs. She tries—very feebly—to dismiss him.

"Don't let me keep you from dancing, Mr. Aldersley."

He seats himself by her side, and feasts his eyes on the lovely downcast face that dares not turn toward him. He whispers to her: "Call me Frank."

She longs to call him Frank—she loves him with all her heart. But Mrs. Crayford's warning words are still in her mind. She never opens her lips. Her lover moves a little closer, and asks another favor. Men are all alike on these occasions. Silence invariably encourages them to try again.

"Clara! have you forgotten what I said at the concert yesterday? May I say it again?"

"No!"

"We shall sail tomorrow for the Arctic Seas. I may not return for years. Don't send me away without hope! Think of the long, lonely time in the dark North! Make it a happy time for me."

Though he speaks with the fervor of a man, he is little more than a lad; he is only twenty years old—and he is going to risk his young life on the frozen deep! Clara pities him as she never pitied any human creature before. He gently takes her hand. She tries to release it.

"What! Not even that little favor on the last night?"

Her faithful heart takes his part, in spite of her. Her hand remains in his and feels its soft, persuasive pressure. She is a lost woman. It is only a question of time now!

"Clara! do you love me?"

There is a pause. She shrinks from looking at him—she trembles with strange contradictory sensations of pleasure and pain. His arm steals round her; he repeats his question in a whisper; his lips almost touch her little rosy ear and he says it again,

"Do you love me?"

Novelty in Type Material.

A new idea in type material is the combination of glass with celluloid or hard rubber. The body of the type is made of rubber or celluloid upon which glass-topped letters are firmly cemented. In order that the face of the type in the form may not touch, the extreme face is a trifle smaller than the body portion. Great advantages are claimed for this sort of type, among them being that glass will wear very much longer than metal, and the print will therefore be sharper and clearer. With the slightly elastic base and the small sections in which the letters are made there is but little danger of breakage, even with very rapid work

ADOPTS GOLD STANDARD.

San Salvador Forced to That Action by the Slump in Silver.

NEW YORK, August 27.—A dispatch to the Herald from Panama says: The Herald's correspondent in San Salvador, San Salvador, says that country has been forced by the slump in silver to adopt the gold standard. Owing to the financial straits in which Salvador found herself, the depression in commerce and an apparently hopeless future, President Guiterrez convoked an extraordinary session of congress to consider the monetary crisis. At the same time he sent congress a message urging the necessity of a speedy change in the currency system. There was some opposition in congress to the gold standard and a hot fight was waged, but the bill finally passed. The president was also authorized to negotiate a loan of $2,500,000, the loan to go into effect within two months after it becomes operative and all customs to be payable only in gold. Salvador's present plight is due to the slump in silver, which forced the country into a condition more serious than ever before existed. The rate of exchange on the United States rose steadily until it reached 200 per cent.

STAR POINTER IN 1:59 1-4.

Mile Pacing Record Brought Below the Two Minute Limit.

READVILLE, Mass., August 30.—Star Pointer paced an exhibition mile in 1:59¼. The first quarter was an even two minute gait, in 30 seconds, and then as McClary called on his pacer to move the second quarter, there was a great cheer, for he was beating two minutes all to pieces, and got to the half in 59¾ with the second quarter in 29¾ seconds. The third quarter was the fastest of the mile. The distance was covered in 29¼ seconds, a 1:57 gait.

SULTAN'S LATEST.

Asks Powers to Remove Troops from Crete.

LONDON, August 30.—The Standard's Constantinople special says: At a council of ministers it was resolved to send a note to the various powers complaining of the state of anarchy alleged to exist in Crete and asking the powers to withdraw the fleets and troops and appoint a mixed commission, including Turkish delegates, to legislate for the place. The sultan is said to approve the decision.

HURRICANE NEAR CHICAGO.

One Woman Killed and a Number of Persons Injured.

CHICAGO, August 30.—A hurricane struck a picnic at a grove at Laurel Wood park, and demolished the dancing pavilion, in which several hundred persons had taken refuge from the storm. The dead woman is Mrs. Kate Brown, of Chicago, struck by a falling scantling.

Prince Luigi Climbed It.

SEATTLE, August 27.—A special to the Post-Intelligencer from Nanimo says: Prince Luigi, of Savoy, and party of Italians reached the summit of Mt. St. Elias July 31. The altitude by the mercurial barometer is 18,100 feet. It is the most successful expedition ever undertaken. The party was fifty-one days on snow and ice without sickness or accidents. The Italians are returning on the Topeka.

Same Old Story.

MADRID, August 28.—Premier Azcarraga, at a cabinet meeting, declared the insurrection in Cuba was approaching an end, and if the United States made any demonstration, which he hoped would not be the case, Spain would do her duty.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, August 25.—A copyright has been granted to Carl W. Dahlberg, of Des Moines, for a book entitled "The Iowa Road Guide." Patents have been allowed, but not yet issued, as follows: To B. F. Wood, of Des Moines, for an automatic kitchen ventilator, adapted to be attached to a stove pipe to carry off smoke, steam and foul air. To M. J. Ribyn, Jr., of Keokuk, for a sprocket wheel and chain in which the chain is accurately retained to the central line of the wheel to prevent the lateral movements and friction and wear incident to the slipping of chains on wheels. To L. J. Ring, of Stanton, for improved mechanism for transmitting power and motion from the traction wheel of a mowing machine to the cutting mechanism as required to maintain uniform speed. To W. A. Ellis, of Altoona, for a tire shrinker and stretcher adapted to be advantageously used by blacksmiths in fitting tires to wheels. Valuable information about obtaining, valuing and selling patents sent free to any address.

SPANISH WOES IN CUBA.

Soldiers Die by Thousands—Interference With Consuls.

HAVANA, August 28.—There are 4,000 Spanish soldiers in hospitals in Havana and other principal points. About 2,000 are sent back monthly incapacitated. Sickness is increasing. The health of the city is not good. Official reports show that for the week ending August 12, the death rate was 90 per 1,000. Business is at a complete standstill. The army is not being paid and a feeling of hopelessness prevails among the Spanish and Cubans alike. The situation throughout the entire island is one of inaction. Insurgents are not on the move, except in case of small bodies searching for provisions. United States consuls throughout the island have been refused leave of absence and are restless under restraint. Several of them are ill and wish temporary relief.

RIOTS IN YUCATAN.

Police Fire on the People Because They Opposed a Governor's Re-election.

NEW YORK, August 28.—The Herald's Merido, Yucatan special, says twelve persons were killed and several injured in a riot which occurred in the plaza in front of the municipal palace. The cause of the outbreak seems to be the prejudice of the police, who attacked the people because of their opposition to the candidacy of Senor Carlos Peon, the present governor of a province, to serve two consecutive terms.

CINCINNATI AND GOBIN WIN.

Election of Officers for G. A. R. and Location of '98 Encampment.

BUFFALO, August 27.—Cincinnati's triumph in securing the national encampment for 1898 and Pennsylvania's victory in electing J. P. S. Gobin commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, were the features of the encampment. Both battles were hard fought.

Turkish-Grecian Peace.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 26.—The question of the peace settlement between Greece and Turkey has now passed out of the hands of the ambassadors of the powers and become the subject of negotiations direct between the European cabinets. Germany objects to the Marquis of Salisbury's proposal that Greece should be asked to state precisely the means she possesses for paying the indemnity, and insists upon the signing of the peace preliminaries as already determined. Austria partly shares Germany's views, and Italy will agree to Germany's policy if the powers agree upon it. Russia and France are inclined to support the Marquis of Salisbury.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 27.—Lord Salisbury has made fresh and important proposals in the matter of the settlement of the indemnity due Turkey from Greece. He suggests that Great Britain, France and Russia jointly guarantee the indemnity loan and control the revenues set apart for the purpose of meeting this obligation.

Paris dispatch: Baron Mackau, one of the chief promoters of the Charity Bazaar of the Rue Jean Goujin which was destroyed by fire on May 4 last, with a loss of over a hundred, has been sentenced to pay a fine of 500 francs. One of the employes of the Cinamatograph establishment, the section in which the fire broke out, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment and fined, and another employe was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment and to pay a fine.

Acccording to dispatches, the farmers throughout western and central Kansas are using every means possible to get wheat on the market at the present high prices. Teams block the streets in many towns and mill elevators are crowded to their utmost capacity. The railroad yards in many larger towns are blocked with loaded cars, which cannot be moved. Shipments were never before so large. As a result of the boom in wheat, several large sales of farm property have been made and the holders are advancing prices 25 per cent.

The Afridi rising in northern India has assumed a serious phase. The indications are that the entire tribe are in revolt, which means that a protracted and desperate campaign confronts the British troops. Great excitement was created in the war office by receipt of official news from General Blood that Ai-Musjtd had been attacked and that Fort Maude had been partly invested by the revolters. The dispatch also indicated that Kadam was in great peril, while Michni and Shabkadr were menaced by a fierce horde advancing down the Khyber Pass. The latter had been collected by the so-called Mad Mollah, a fanatical Mohammedan muezzin, who has inflamed the whole country against British rule. The urgency of sending re-enforcements was pointed out, and the Royal Irish regiment, a native infantry regiment and a battery of mountain artillery, were at once ordered to Kohat.

English Ship Names.

The naming of ships is one of the difficulties that the admiralty overcome by using the old names over and over again. To adopt a new name into the navy seriously interferes with the service signal books.

The old names are in the code, and are as convenient for the ships of today as for those of Nelson's time. But the introduction of a new name necessitates an alteration in all the books. That is why the old names survive generation after generation.—London World.

Republican County Convention and Primary Election.

There will be a convention of the Republican Township Committeemen of Hancock county held at Garner on Monday, Sept. 6, 1897, at one (1) o'clock p. m., for the purpose of canvassing the vote of the primary election and placing in nomination candidates for the offices of County Treasurer Sheriff, Superintendent of Schools, Surveyor, Coroner and Supervisors and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

If, in convassing the vote of the primaries, there should be a tie between two or more candidates for the same office, then in that event the committeeman from each township shall be authorized to cast the vote of his respective township in same representative manner as the township would be entitled to if delegates were chosen to represent the said township in the county convention.

Under this rule committeemen are entitled to the following number of votes:

Amsterdam 6 Avery 8 Britt 20 Boon (corwith pre) 2 Boone 4 Bingham 5 cristal 5 concord 14 Ell 6 Ellington 8 Erin 5 German 4 Garfield 3 Magor 10 Madison 5 Orthel 6 Twin Lakes 5.

Primary elections preceding said convention shall be held on Saturday, Sept 4th, at (3) o'clock p.m., at the place of the last general election in each township, or at such more convenient place as may be selected by the township committeeman.

1. Each congressional township or voting precinct shall constitute an election precinct.

2 The Township committeeman from each township shall be the chairman, providing he is not a candidate for any office, and it shall be his duty to open and close the polls, and sign all returns and records. He shall appoint two competent persons as recording clerks and tellers who shall constitute a Board of Election. And the said Board of Election shall register all voters casting votes at said election and shall return said poll list to the convention. If the committeeman is absent or is a candidate, voters present shall appoint a chairman who shall have the same powers and duties as the township committeeman.

3 The polls shall be kept open untill 9 o'clock p.m.

4 Any one that voted at the last general election for the head of the Republican ticket is eligible to vote at this primary election.

5 The tickets to be used at the primary election shall be furnished by the Republican county central committee and be similar to those used by the Australian ballot system. A square will be placed before the name of each candidate, and the voter must make a cross in square before the name of candidate of his choice. No other ticket shall be used except those furnished by the Republican county central committee.

6 The names of all candidates previously announced who have paid their assessment shall be placed on the ticket. The above to be done at Garner, Iowa, on Monday, Aug. 16th at one (1)o'clock p.m. under the direction of the chairman and secretary of the Republican county central committee.

7 The Board of Election shall canvass the returns, fill out the blanks furnished them, properly sign, seal and deliver the same to the convention.

The committeeman when in convention assembled shall canvass the votes for the several candidates, and if any person has received a plurality of votes he shall be declared the nominee of the convention; but if not, the delegates shall nominate as in delegate convention.

9 In consequence of the Australian ballot law whereby it is provided that the names of all the candidates shall be filed with the county Auditor at least twenty days previous to election, it is recommended that the Republicans of the several townships hold their caucuses for the nomination of township officers at the same time and return the names of the nominees to the county central committee so that such names may be printed on the regular tickets.

By order of the Republican county central committee.

The social held at the Gibb's home Thursday evening was a new departure, a complete success and greatly enjoyed by a large gathering of people both old and young. The new building for machinery was made into a hall with a stage and curtains in one end and the balance seated. The program consisted in singing, speaking and reading, and was very interesting. They all done so nicely we dare not make any special mention. After the program ice cream and cake were served at the house, and it was fine too, and $17.75 received to apply on the preachers salary.

A STORM AT SEA LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

"And There Were Also with Him Other Little Ships, and There Arose a Great Storm of Wind"—From Mark IV. Verse 36.

TIBERIAS, Galilee, Gennesaret —three names for the same lake. No other gem ever had so beautiful a setting. It lay in a scene of great luxuriance: the surrounding hills high, terraced, sloped, groved, so many hanging gardens of beauty; the waters rumbling down between rocks of gray and red limestone, flashing from the hills, and bounding into the sea. On the shore were castles, armed towers, Roman baths, everything attractive and beautiful; all styles of vegetation in shorter space than in almost any other space in all the world, from the palm tree of the forest to the trees of a rigorous climate.

It seemed as if the Lord had launched one wave of beauty on all the scene, and it hung and swung from rock and hill and oleander. Roman gentlemen in pleasure boats sailing the lake, and countrymen in fish-smacks coming down to drop their nets, pass each other with nod and shout and laughter, or swinging idly at their moorings. Oh, what a wonderful, what a beautiful lake!

It seems as if we shall have a quiet night. Not a leaf winked in the air; not a ripple disturbed the face of Gennesaret; but there seems to be a little excitement up the beach, and we hasten to see what it is, and we find it an embarkation.

From the western shore a flotilla pushing out; not a squadron, or deadly armament, nor clipper with valuable merchandise, nor piratic vessels ready to destroy everything they could seize; but a flotilla, bearing messengers of life, and light, and peace. Christ is in the front of the boat. His disciples are in a smaller boat. Jesus, weary with much speaking to large multitudes, is put into somnolence by the rocking of the waves. If there was any motion at all, the ship was easily righted; if the wind passed from one side, from the starboard to the larboard, or from the larboard to the starboard, the boat would rock, and by the gentleness of the motion putting the Master asleep. And they extemporized a pillow made out of a fisherman's coat. I think no sooner is Christ prostrate, and his head touching the pillow, than he is sound asleep. The breezes of the lake run their fingers through the locks of the worn sleeper, and the boat rises and falls like a sleeping child on the bosom of a sleeping mother.

The subject in the first place impresses me with the fact that it is very important to have Christ in the ship; for all those boats would have gone to the bottom of Gennesaret if Christ had not been present. Oh, what a lesson for you and for me to learn! Whatever voyage we undertake, into whatever enterprise we start, let us always have Christ in the ship. Many of you in these days of revived commerce are starting out in new financial enterprises: I bid you good cheer. Do all you can do. Do it on as high a plane as possible. You have no right to be a stoker in the ship if you can be an admiral of the navy. You have no right to be a colonel of a regiment if you can command a brigade; you have no right to be engineer of a boat on river-banks, or near the coast, if you can take the ocean steamer from New York to Liverpool. All you can do with utmost tension of body, mind and soul, you are bound to do; but oh! have Christ in every enterprise. Christ in every voyage, Christ in every ship.

There are men who ask God to help them at the start of great enterprises. He has been with them in the past; no trouble can overthrow them; the storms might come down from the top of Mt. Hermon, and lash Gennesaret into foam and into agony, but it could not hurt them. But here is another man who starts out in worldly enterprise, and he depends upon the uncertainties of this life. He has no God to help him. After awhile the storm comes, and tosses off the masts of the ship; he puts out his life boat; the sheriff and the auctioneer try to help him off; they can't help him off; he must go down; no Christ in the ship. Here are young men just starting out in life. Your life will be made up of sunshine and shadow. There may be in it arctic blasts or tropical tornadoes; I know not what is before you, but I know if you have Christ with you all shall be well.

You may seem to get along without the religion of Christ while everything goes smoothly, but after awhile, when sorrow hovers over the soul, when the waves of trial dash clear over the hurricane deck, and the bowsprit is shivered, and the halliards are swept into the sea, and the gangway is crowded with piratical disasters—oh, what would you then do without Christ in the ship? Young man, take God for your portion, God for your guide, God for your help; then all is well; all is well for time, all shall be well forever. Blessed is that man who puts in the Lord his trust. He shall never be confounded.

But my subject also impresses me with the fact that when people start to follow Christ they must not expect smooth sailing. These disciples got into the small boats, and I have no doubt they said, "What a beautiful day this is! What a smooth sea! What a bright sky this is! How delightful is sailing in this boat; and as for the waves under the keel of the boat, why, they only make the motion of our little boat the more delightful." But when the winds swept down, and the sea was tossed into wrath, then they found that following Christ was not smooth sailing. So you have found it; so I have found it. Did you ever notice the end of the life of the apostles of Jesus Christ? You would say that if ever men ought to have had a smooth life, a smooth departure, then those men, the disciples of Jesus Christ, ought to have had such a departure and such a life.

St. James lost his head. St. Philip was hung to death on a pillar. St. Matthew had his life dashed out with a halbert. St. Mark was dragged to death through the streets. St. James the Less was beaten to death with a fuller's club. St. Thomas was struck through with a spear. They did not find following Christ smooth sailing. Oh, how they were all tossed in the tempest! John Huss in the fire; Hugh McKail in the hour of martyrdom; the Albigenses, the Waldenses, the Scotch Covenanters—did they find it smooth sailing?

My subject also impresses me with the fact that good people sometimes get very much frightened. In the tones of these disciples as they rushed into the back part of the boat, I find they are frightened almost to death. They say: "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" They had no reason to be frightened, for Christ was in the boat. I suppose if we had been there we would have been just as much affrighted. Perhaps more.

In all ages very good people get very much affrighted. It is often so in our day, and men say, "Why, look at the bad lectures; look at the Spritualistic societies; look at the various errors going over the Church of God; we are going to founder; the Church is going to perish; she is going down." Oh, how many good people are affrighted by triumphant iniquity in our day, and think the church of Jesus Christ and the cause of righteousness are going to be overthrown, and are just as much affrighted as the disciples of my text were affrighted. Don't worry, don't fret, as though iniquity were going to triumph over righteousness.

A lion goes into a cavern to sleep. He lies down, with his shaggy mane covering the paws. Meanwhile the spiders spin a web across the mouth of the cavern, and say, "We have captured him." Gossamer thread after gossamer thread is spun until the whole front of the cavern is covered with the spiders' web, and the spiders say, "The lion is done; the lion is fast." After awhile the lion has got through sleeping; he rouses himself, he shakes his mane, he walks out into the sunlight; he does not even know the spiders' web is spun, and with his voice he shakes the mountain.

So men come, spinning their sophistries and scepticism about Jesus Christ; he seems to be sleeping. They say, "We have captured the Lord; he will never come forth again upon the nation; Christ is captured, and captured forever. His religion will never make any conquest among men." But after awhile the Lion of the tribe of Judah will rouse himself and come forth to shake mightily the nations. What is a spider's web to the aroused lion? Give truth and error a fair grapple, and truth will come off victor.

But there are a great many good people who get affrighted in other respects; they are affrighted in our day about revivals. They say, "Oh! this is a strong religious gale; we are afraid the Church of God is going to upset, and there are going to be a great many people brought into the Church that are going to be of no use to it;" and they are affrighted whenever they see a revival taking hold of the churches.

As though a ship captain with five thousand bushels of wheat for a cargo should say, some day, coming upon deck, "Throw overboard all the cargo;" and the sailors should say, "Why, captain, what do you mean? Throw over all the cargo?" "Oh," says the captain, "we have a peck of chaff that has got into this five thousand bushels wheat, and the only way to get rid of the chaff is to throw all the wheat overboard." Now, that is a great deal wiser than the talk of a great many Christians who want to throw overboard all the thousands and tens of thousands of souls who have been brought in through great awakenings. Throw all overboard because there is a peck of chaff, a quart of chaff, a pint of chaff! I say, let them stay until the last day; the Lord will divide the chaff from the wheat.

Oh, that these gales from heaven might sweep through all our churches! Oh, for such days as Richard Baxter saw in England and Robert McCheyne saw in Dundee! Oh, for such days as Jonathan Edwards saw in Northampton! I have often heard my father tell of the fact that in the early part of this century a revival broke out in Somerville, N. J., and some people were very much agitated about it. They said, "Oh, you are going to bring too many people into the church at once;" and they sent down to New Brunswick to get John Livingston to stop the revival. Well, there was no better soul in all the world than John Livingston. He went up; he looked at the revival; they wanted him to stop it. He stood in the pulpit on the Sabbath, and looked over the solemn auditory, and he said: "This, brethren, is in reality the work of God; beware how you try to stop it." And he was an old man, leaning heavily on his staff—a very old man. And he lifted the staff, and took hold of the small end of the staff, and began to let it fall very slowly through, between the finger and the thumb, and he said: "Oh, thou impenitent, thou art falling now—falling away from life, falling away from peace and heaven, falling as certainly as that cane is falling through my hand—falling certainly, though perhaps falling very slowly." And the cane kept on falling through John Livingston's hand. The religious emotion in the audience was overpowering, and men saw a type of their doom as the cane kept falling and falling until the knob of the cane struck Mr. Livingston's hand, and he clasped it stoutly and said, "But the grace of God can stop you, as I stopped that cane;" and then there was gladness all through the house at the fact of pardon and peace and salvation. "Well," said the people after the service, "I guess you had better send Livingston home; he is making the revival worse." Oh, for the gales from heaven, and Christ on board the ship. The danger of the Church of God is not in revivals.

I learn once more from this subject that Christ can hush a tempest. It did seem as if everything must go to ruin. The disciples had given up the idea of managing the ship; the crew were entirely demoralized; yet Christ rises, and he puts his foot on the storm, and it crouches at his feet. Oh, yes! Christ can hush the tempest.

You have had trouble. Perhaps it was the little child taken away from you—the sweetest child of the household, the one who asked the most curious questions, and stood around you with the greatest fondness, and the spade cut down through your bleeding heart. Perhaps it was an only son, and your heart has ever since been like a desolated castle, the owls of the night hooting among the falling rafters and the crumbling stairways.

Perhaps it was an aged mother. You always went to her with your troubles. She was in your home to welcome your children into life, and when they died she was there to pity you; that old hand will do you no more kindness; that white lock of hair you put away in the casket, or in the locket, did not look as well as it usually did when she brushed it away from her wrinkled brow in the home circle or in the country church. Or your property gone, you said, "I have so much bank stock, I have so many government securities, I have so many houses, I have so many farms"—all gone, all gone.

Why, all the storms that ever trampled with their thunders, all the shipwrecks, have not been worse than this to you. Yet you have not been completely overthrown. Why? Christ hushed the tempest. Your little one was taken away. Christ says, "I have that little one; I can take care of him as well as you can, better than you can, O bereaved mother!" Hushing the tempest. When your property went away, God said, "There are treasures in heaven, in banks that never break."

There is one storm into which we will all have to run, the moment when we let go of this life, and try to take hold of the next, when we will want all the grace we can have—we will want it all. Yonder I see a Christian soul rocking on the surges of death; all the powers of darkness seem let out against that soul—the swirling wave, the thunder of the sky, the screaming wind, all seem to unite together; but that soul is not troubled; there is no sighing, there are no tears; plenty of tears in the room at the departure, but he weeps no tears, calm, satisfied, peaceful, all is well. Jesus hushing the tempest. By the flash of the storm you see the harbor just ahead, and you are making for that harbor. Strike eight bells. All is well.

Into the harbor of heaven now we glide;
We're home at last, home at last.
Softly we drift on its bright, silv'ry tide,
We're home at last, home at last.
Glory to God, all our dangers are o'er,
We stand secure on the glorified shore:
Glory to God, we will shout evermore,
We're home at last, home at last,

Good and Evil.—It is an inherent and inevitable necessity that man be free to choose or reject; that is human morality. Without the choice between good and evil we would be as the birds and the beasts.—Rev. R. Heber Newton, Episcopalian, New York City.

CHIMMIE AND HIS PAL.

How They Stole a Ride on Planks and Came to Grief.

"Say, Chimmie?"

"Yep."

"D'ye see anything a-comin'?"

"Yep. Dey's a brewery wagon cuttin' de corner now."

The two youngsters loafed on the corner of 19th street and Cass avenue, evidently waiting for something to turn up, says the St. Louis Republic. Back of them, leaning against the wall, were two narrow planks about two feet long, which the kids apparently had no interest in. The two planks, nevertheless, were at that moment the most cherished possessions of the youngsters and they only needed the assistance of a wagon, preferably a brewery wagon, to be transferred into two of the most unique summer toboggans in the list of juvenile vehicles.

When the beer wagon reached a point opposite the young patchers they were much interested in some affair up the street, but the instant the driver's back was facing them each youngster seized his plank and attached one end onto the hind axle of the wagon, the other end dragging on the ground, and perched in the middle of the plank, grinning at each other and making faces at the gathered envious youngsters on the curbing, the two small kids were enjoying a ride up Cass avenue.

"Gee, dis is great," said Chimmie's companion, as the wagon veered south at Twentieth street to cross the tracks.

"Look out, you's," said Chimmie, locking his dirty little legs under the plank in anticipation of a jar when the wheels passed over the track.

The jar came, the heavy wagon struck the track, there was a bounce of the hind axle, the nail in the end of Chimmie's plank gave way and kerplunk, down came the board square on Chimmie's little toes. A small yell caused the driver to look around, but he only saw two fleeing youngsters disappearing up the alley. One ran with a limp.

Behind the shadow of a garbage barrel in the secluded alley Chimmie and his pal stopped to examine the wound. Chimmie's great toe, he calls it his stumper, showed signs of violence. The nail was just hanging. A moment of indecision and the pal reached for the hanging nail and gave a jerk. Again Chimmie yelled and then he claimed the prize.

THE CHIN AS AN INDEX.

Can You Tell a Person's Character by the Shape of His Lower Jaw?

A writer in the St. Louis "Clinique," writing of the chin as an index of character, says: "Protruding chins characterize men and women of the get-there type. Successful people usually carry their chins thrust forward, with compressed lips. This chin, if heavy, with broad rami and swelling masseters, indicates fighting blood. A retreating chin shows lack of force, mentally, morally and physically; usually of the yielding sort; soon discouraged; desires protection; small executive force. The development of other faculties often makes up for this defect. A small, well-rounded chin, with mobile and red cushion of flesh upon indicates a pleasure-loving owner. If dimpled, all the more so, for dimpled chins belong to coquettes. People with dimples love to be petted and loved; like admiration and praise. Generally fickle. Usually this chin is healthy, recuperative and long-lived. Broad chins signify nobleness and large dignity, unless vertically thin, when, if with it there be thin lips of bloodless kind, you find cruelty. Square chins with little flesh denote firmness and executive ability. These make good haters. Drunkards usually have a circular line about their chins. Slovens have wrinkles about their chins. Long, thin chins are poetical, unstable and delicate in constitution. Such people are subject to bowel derangements. If thin through the angles of the mouth, too, they are prone to tuberculosis. Generally short-lived. Medium chins, with a suggestive bifurcation in the centre, with small mounds of flesh on either side, characterize generosity, impulsiveness, cheery natures. (The same sized chins, with a dab of flesh just under the center of the lower lip, indicate meanness, selfishness, brutality.) No one feature can be taken in judging character. Often development of other faculties of mind or feature entirely governs. In each case take the 'totality of indications' before judging."

Enlarged Joints, from Rheumatism.

Such a Condition Indicates a Chalky Deposit and is Seldom Cured—There is Hope in Some Cases, However, From an Enriching of the Blood.

From the Record and Union, Rochester, Minn.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pratt, wife of Mr. John Pratt, one of the oldest settlers in Olmstead County, Minnesota, for many years has been painfully afflicted with rheumatism in its most aggravating and inconvenient form. Mrs. Pratt is well known in the vicinity of Viola, having during one administration held the responsible position of postmistress. She tells the tale of her affliction and subsequent restoration to health, which is printed in order that others similarly suffering may read and adopt the same remedy she did.

VIOLA, Olmstead Co., Minn., August 24, 1896.

"A little over ten years ago I discovered that the joints of my fingers were enlarging, and very sore. I consulted many physicians, with some slight relief at times from pain, but the joints grew larger and larger, and my neck, shoulders and limbs were so stiff that I could not move them without great pain. My toes were swollen out of all shape, and my fingers were so drawn, and the muscles so contracted that I could not use them. I had given up all hope of cure. when my attention was called about three years ago to the wonderful cures affected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I procured a supply.

"It was not long after I began taking them before I experienced considerable relief, and I continued using them according to directions until I have taken altogether about three dozen boxes. My fingers are now straight and flexible, and the joints reduced to their normal size, the rheumatic pains are almost gone, and now, though I always keep Pink Pills by me, I never use them unless I catch cold, or get wet through. I am willing that this testimonial shall be published in order that the extraordinary curative powers of Dr. Williams' medicine may be known to rheumatic sufferers.

(Signed) "MRS. E. A. PRATT."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles pecular to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Pistols and Pestles.

The duelling pistol now occupies its proper place, in the museum of the collector of relics of barbarism. The pistol ought to have beside it the pestle that turned out pills like bullets, to be shot like bullets at the target of the liver. But the pestle is still in evidence, and will be, probably, until everybody has tested the virtue of Ayer's sugar coated pills. They treat the liver as a friend, not as an enemy. Instead of driving it, they coax it. They are compounded on the theory that the liver does its work thoroughly and faithfully under obstructing conditions, and if the obstructions are removed, the liver will do its daily duty. When your liver wants help, get "the pill that will,"

A DREADFUL NIGHT.

THREE MEN ON RAGGED EDGE OF NOTHING.

Several Hours Passed on a Cliff With a Terrible Death in Prospect Every Second—Rolling Bowlders Flashing By.

AS an illustration of the discomfort of a position "on the ragged edge of nothing," the following story, from "Climbs in the New Zealand Alps," is excellent. The author of the work, E. A. Fitz Gerald, F. R. G. S., his guide, [illegible]briggen, and Mr. Harper, were [illegible]ised by darkness in a position where it was impossible for them to advance. As it was equally impossible for them to spend the night where they were, hanging to narrow ledges of rock covered with thin ice, they were obliged to retrace their steps—a slow and painful process. At last they reached a spot that might answer their purpose—a ledge some fourteen feet long and eighteen inches broad, on which the three men could just manage to sit.

It seemed to us as sheltered a place as any upon the slope, but should there be any great fall of stones in the night, I feared that we should have but a small chance of escape. No sooner had we seated ourselves than we heard the omnious whiz of falling stones. This was but the commencement of a cannonade that was kept up at intervals throughout the night. The rocks flew past us so close that at times we could almost feel the wind on our faces. We never dared so much as to close an eye all night for fear of slipping into the abyss below.

The cold became intense, the thermometer dropping twenty-five degrees, and as most of our garments had been soaked in wading through the melting snow, they froze hard.

Harper took off his boots and placed his feet in his knapsack, so that, had he fallen, he could not possibly have recovered himself. Zurbriggen also took off his boots and sat upon them to keep them warm for the morning, lest they should be frozen, and he should find himself unable to get into them again.

We did our best to keep up our spirits by singing songs, the most appropriate of which seemed to be, "We Won't Go Home Till Morning."

There was no moon, and the night was intensely dark, though the weather was clear, while the slight breezes from the southwest seemed to chill us to the bone. After midnight we gradually fell silent, and did not even talk, while Harper dozed for a moment or two and nearly tumbled off. I had to catch hold of him and retain my grip till he could regain his balance. It then occurred to us that if we spread one of the pieces of mackintosh sheeting over our heads and lighted some candles beneath it, we should be warmer.

We found the plan successful, and kept on lighting candles, so that we could warm our fingers at them and still remain seated in our cramped position. Luckily we had an ample supply, and could continue to burn them till the dawn began to appear. It seemed to us as if we had been seated for weeks on this ridge; and when at last it became light enough for us to move, we were so stiff that it was with difficulty that we gained our feet. We now began making preparations for departure. The rope was like an iron bar, and our frozen clothes would not give to our motion. Harper's boots were frozen so stiff that he was obliged to cut them open and burn innumerable candle-ends inside of them before he succeeded in getting them on. I had kept mine on all night, as I knew how much trouble I should have in putting them on again in the morning if I took them off. Zurbriggen, however, was the very best of us all, for his scheme of sitting on his boots and warming them had worked most admirably, though during the night he complained several times that the nails in them were rather hard.

We were extremely stiff, all of us, and for some distance literally limped along. However, when the sun rose it gradually thawed us, and we were able to make better time.

Frisky Bristol Folk.

Cyclists of Bristol, Pa., are incensed over the regulations which prohibit a wheelman of over 90 from mounting from the pedal and a wheelwoman of over 16 from doing fancy riding on the public highway. There is quite a frisky crowd at Bristol from all indications.

The Usual Way.

Grief over the death of her husband caused a Chicago widow of 22 to drink carbolic acid. Her condition is not serious and she will probably be married again within six months.

NEW INVENTIONS.

A newly designed writing pen is pivoted in its center with a clamp at the upper end, so it can be moved laterally to any desired angle with the holder.

A new shoe lace which will not wear out quickly is woven very heavy throughout nearly its entire length, leaving only the ends small, so they can be tied easily.

Bicycle bells for attachment to the pedals are being placed on the market, a side turn of the foot throwing out a lever to engage the clapper on the crank and ring the bell.

"Who is the kid on the other wheel? Your golf boy?"

"Golf boy, nothing! I take him along to carry my license tags."

Literally Defined.

Examiners—What is meant, Mr. Fledgeling by landed estate?

Fledgeling—It means, sir, an estate that has landed in the hands of a lawyer.

Real Rest and Comfort.

There is a powder to be shaken into the shoes called Allen's Foot-Ease, invented by Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y., which druggists and shoe dealers say is the best thing they have ever sold to cure swollen and tender or aching feet. Some dealers claim that it makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It certainly will cure corns and bunions and relieve instantly, sweating hot or smarting feet. It costs only a quarter, and the inventor will send a sample free to any address.

A mustard plaster will not make a blister if mixed with a white of an egg.

MRS. CURTIS, NEW YORK,

Tells Her Experience With Ovaritis.

A dull, throbbing pain, accompanied by a sense of tenderness and heat low down in the side, with an occasional shooting pain, indicates inflammation.

On examination it will be found that the region of pain shows some swelling. This is the first stage of ovaritis, inflammation of the ovary. If the roof of your house leaks, my sister, you have it fixed at once; why not pay the same respect to your own body?

Do you live miles away from a doctor? Then that is all the more reason why you should attend to yourself at once, or you will soon be on the flat of your back.

You need not, you ought not to let yourself go, when one of your own sex holds out the helping hand to you, and will advise you without money and without price. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your symptoms. Her experience in treating female ills is greater than any other living person. Following is proof of what we say:

"For nine years I suffered with female weakness in its worst form. I was in bed nearly a year with congestion of the ovaries. I also suffered with falling of the womb, was very weak, tired all the time, had such headaches as to make me almost wild. Was also troubled with leucorrhœa, and was bloated so badly that some thought I had dropsy. I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and several of her Blood Purifier, and am completely cured. It is a wonder to all that I got well. I shall always owe Mrs. Pinkham a debt of gratitude for her kindness. I would advise all who suffer to take her medicine."—MRS. ANNIE CURTIS, Ticonderoga, N. Y.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Harr's Drug Store.

The name of the new king is spelled W-h-e-a-t.

It is now Mr. Langtry's turn to sue for a divorce, which he anticipates will come very easy.

If dog meat sells for $2 a pound in Alaska, what do you imagine nice, plump bologna sausages are worth?

If the Klondike price list may be relied on a man up there ought to own at least one mine before he can afford to buy a drink.

While the North is lecturing on the legal, moral and religious phases of lynching, the South contents itself with playing the horrible example role.

Owing to a bountiful growth of wheat in the agricultural regions and a fine large crop of shorts in Chicago, the farmer is now in a position to reap unusual returns for his product.

Carl Cronhelln, a poor Swede, who was recently employed as a dish washer in Boston, has fallen heir to an income of $46,000 a year, and has also married a Boston widow. Nice to be so lucky, isn't it?

"A boy can learn to speak correctly only at home," declared Bishop Vincent recently; "and parents ought to take up the study of English even in middle life, so that their children might acquire a correct habit of speech from them." A part of this suggestion capitalizes Captain Mahan's merry words at Yale about the possibilities of accomplishing something worth while, even as late in life as after forty.

It has been proposed to celebrate the consolidation of the cities at the mouth of the Hudson into the greater city of New York by the erection of a steel tower more than two thousand feet high—twice the height of the Eiffel tower. Such a monument would be "big," of course, but it would be strikingly ugly and singularly inappropriate. A city which could bring itself to erect such a structure in honor of its creation could never be remarkable for anything but mere size.

Pretty names and a bit of silver have been the cause of a recent investigation by the French government, and as often happen in the social world those attributes have proved to cover an insidious but deadly poison. A favorite brand of cigarettes called "Bouts Argentes" or "Silver Tips" has the end intended for the lips covered with a metallic leaf claimed to be silver Analysis reveals it to be a base imitation attached to the paper by lead chromate. Perchance some youths fancy that a silver tongue is to be obtained by a prescription compounded of nicotine, white lead and mercurial salts.

Few people—none in Africa—have shown such a remarkable power of assimilating the benefits of civilization as the inhabitants of Uganda. It is but a few years, comparatively, since Stanley brought the Christian world the request of the king that they should send teachers to instruct his people. How well the faithful missionaries who went in response to this call have accomplished their task is shown by the following statement, which appears in the Church Missionary Intelligencer: "A reading book, in Lusoga has just been published, printed by Tomasi Lwabidongo, the church missionary society's press, Busoga. The printer is a Muganda boy, who has been under instruction for eight months only. He has practically done everything to the book, set up the type, paged it, corrected it, and finally printed off two thousand copies."

That is a suggestive "strike story" which comes from a western state, whose leading industry has of late been seriously imperiled. One employer's hands refused to "go out" when others did. "No," they said, "we believe the boss has paid us all he could afford. Anyhow, he's always treated us as though we were men. His wife and daughter have been good friends to our womenfolks, too. They've done the fair thing by us, all around, and we won't go back on 'em." Here shines out that spirit of brotherhood which, if permitted to have its way with men, will preserve the nation. "At the heart of the whole social problem," a wise writer has said, "is the quiet, homely personal service whereby one helps another. No legislation, no shortening of hours nor lengthening of pay rolls, no improvement of houses nor lessening of rents, no establishment of the 'co-operative commonwealth,' will make much better a situation which sorely needs bettering, without this individual effort. When every privileged family is ministering in some direct way to some other family less privileged, then the social millennium will begin to dawn."

THE NEWS IN IOWA

WILL NOT STOP THE CODE.

Judge Woolson Refused Injunction Asked by Callaghan & Co.

DES MOINES, Sept. 4.—Judge Woolson in the federal court refused to grant the injunction against Freeman R. Conaway, state printer, and A. B. Shaw, his partner, and Emlin McClain, author of the annotations for the new code, to restrain them from publishing the new code, which was brought by Callaghan & Co., of Chicago, on the ground that the annotations furnished by Mr. McClain were partially taken from the old code in violation of a contract existing between them and Mr. McClain. Judge Woolson held that public expediency demanded that the code be published by October 1, as it would be impossible for the courts and business interests of the state to know what the laws of the state were if the code is not published.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Hillsboro, South of Ottumwa, Wiped Out. Loss $50,000.

OTTUMWA, Sept. 4.—The business portion of Hillsboro, a town of 1,000 people on the Sioux City, Fort Madison & Des Moines railway, south of Ottumwa, was wiped out by a fire which started at 5:30 a. m. The total loss is $50,000. The fire originated in the cellar under the furniture store of S. W. Hough in an unknown manner. The principal losers are: C. F. Hoaglin, general store; J. U. Mickelwall, general store; J. W. Pershiner, blacksmith shop and carriage room; H. E. Rukagaber, hardware; L. G. Cooper, general store and postoffice; S. W. Hough, furniture and hotel; Mr. Plummer, residence.

ABOLISH THE POLL TAX LAW.

One Recommendation Made by Labor Commissioner O'Bleness.

DES MOINES, Sept. 5.—Labor Commissioner O'Bleness has completed his biennial report. It is the best and most interesting report ever made by that state department and contains the usual large amount of valuable statistics. Mr. O'Bleness makes several recommendations of importance in his report. He recommends that the poll tax law be abolished, that a quarterly bulletin be issued by the department, that there be a state law providing for guards around all dangerous machinery and that there be a law providing for the inspection of boilers.

SEVERE STORM.

Damage in Washington County Amounts to $100,000 to $150,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept 4.—A terrible hail storm and tornado visited the north part of Washington county and destroyed thousands of acres of corn. All the fruit was blown down, chickens were crippled and stock stampeded, though none were killed. Every window light in the north side of the houses was broken. The damage is estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000.

Texas Fever in Cass County.

ATLANTIC, Sept. 3.—John Baily, living in Washington township, has lost several head of cattle from Texas fever. Some time ago Wolf & Degen shipped a lot of cattle from western Kansas to Lewis and sold them to the farmers. Mr. Baily was one of the purchasers. He turned them in with the other herd and the natives soon became sick and many of them died. The veterinary was sent for and pronounced the disease Texas fever and quarantined the herd. It is learned that the cattle originally came from Texas and are branded "7D." This is the twenty-fifth place that the state veterinary has quarantined cattle of that brand. The disease does not affect Texas cattle, but is fatal to the natives.

Iowa Christian Churches.

OSKALOOSA, Sept. 4.—The Iowa Christian convention selected Des Moines as the meeting place for the convention of August 29, 1898. The following officers were elected: President, Gov. F. M. Drake, re-elected; vice-president, H. O. Breeden, Des Moines; corresponding secretary, A. M. Haggard, Oskaloosa; recording secretary, I. N. McCash, Des Moines; treasurer, W. W. Williams, Des Moines; delegates to the national convention at Indianapolis, J. B. Burton, of Kellogg; Mrs. B. D. Holbrook, of Onawa; A. P. Lucas, of Creston; E. A. Hastings, of Burlington.

Independence Jail Delivery.

INDEPENDENCE, Sept. 1.—Four persons broke jail during the night, four of the number being recaptured. They broke an entrance through the cell ceiling to the loft above, which communicated with the residence portion. The noise as they passed through the halls resulted in their capture. Henry Meyers, a tramp, charged with burglary at Stanley, made good his escape.

BENTON COUNTY GETS NOVAK.

Alleged Murderer of Walford Turned Over at Vinton.

VINTON, Sept. 2.—Frank A. Novak, the Walford murderer, has been turned over to Benton county officials. There is no excitement or anticipation of trouble. A crowd of perhaps a hundred persons met the train, but Novak, who was in irons, was at once hustled into a hack and driven to the county jail, where he is now confined in the steel cage. He refuses to talk, other than to say that when the proper time arrives he will explain all and prove his innocence. Novak's return to Iowa has cost more than $10,000. but staring him in the face are terrible charges. While the evidence is purely circumstantial, no stronger chain was ever woven. The taking out of the life and accident policies; the burning of the store building; the death of Edward Murray; the flight to far away Alaska under an assumed name, all must be explained before the innocence of Frank A. Novak can be believed.

DERELICT BANKERS INDICTED.

Are Charged With Receiving Deposits When Institutions Were Insolvent.

SIOUX CITY, Sept. 6.—The grand jury of Woodbury county returned two indictments against F. B. Hutchens, ex-cashier of the defunct Iowa Savings Bank, and two indictments against E. P. Stone, the missing cashier of the Sioux City Savings Bank, which closed its doors last fall. Both of these indictments came as a surprise to the people of Sioux City, as it had been supposed the criminal actions arising from the failure of the banks in Sioux City last fall were at an end. Both men are charged with the crime of receiving deposits at a time when they knew for certain that the institutions were in an insolvent condition. Hutchens is at present at the Winnebago Indian reservation in Nebraska, but has sent word that he will come to Sioux City at once and give himself up.

Drowned in His Sleep.

MUSCATINE, Sept. 3.—While the steamer W. J. Young, Jr., was at New Boston an unknown man, who took passage at Oquawka, was drowned. He seemed to rise suddenly from a sleep, and losing his balance, fell overboard into the river. Efforts were made to rescue him, but before the boat could reach him he sank down to death.

IOWA CONDENSED.

The author of the Temple amendment, M. L. Temple, has been nominated by the republicans in convention at Osceola to again represent Clarke county in the general assembly. There was no opposition.

Congressman D. B. Henderson, of Dubuque, has recently undergone another amputation of his leg. The amputation was made at the knee joint and was entirely successful. After the operation all the attending surgeons expressed satisfaction over its success and all were confident that the trouble of long standing is now at an end.

The coroner's jury, sitting on the case of Mr. Walters, an old resident of Winterset, who was recently found dead in the woods, returned a verdict of murder. Mr. Walters went to the woods on the afternoon previous to the day on which the body was found, ostensibly to gather plums. When his body was found, following a search, it was thought at first he had died from heart disease, but a contusion on one side of his head was discovered and footprints leading away from the body were found.

At Burlington recently one of the boldest and most successful express robberies ever known in that vicinity was committed on the Adams Company by parties absolutely unknown at present. A bag of silver containing $500 had been checked out to Express Messenger Schroeder on the St. Louis train leaving Burlington at 9:45 p. m. The coin was placed on the top of the express safe in the express office at the depot. While an employe was sitting within five feet of the sack it was taken from under his very nose without him knowing it, and its loss was unnoticed until some time afterwards. There is no clue to the thief.

Gov. Drake has returned to his home in Centerville from Excelsior Springs. His three weeks' stay at the famous resort for sick people has added considerable improvement to his condition. He looks and feels better than at any time during the six weeks that have intervened since his accident at the capitol, but he is yet a long way from full recovery. He is weak and nervous as a result of a long confinement and his injured leg and hip will not allow any weight to be placed upon them. The injury sustained in his fall is about healed up, but his limb is still stiff and sore. The governor's diabetic troubles are still a source of annoyance and fear, but on the whole he considers there has been considerable improvement.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

WAR IN INDIA GROWS.

Over 40 000 Natives Now in the Field Against England.

SIMLA, India, Sept. 3.—Further tribal defections are reported to have taken place. The leaders of the Shamozais and Silarzais have joined the native army with their followers, and there are now 40,000 tribesmen in Khyber Pass ready to resist the British. The Ahkoond of Swat is a disciple of the Mad Mollah. He has previously opposed the British and is now inciting the Swatis to hostility. Confidential military reports received here say that the Beloochee militia are untrustworthy and there is urgent need of reliable troops in place of them. The town of Garzabund, in Beloochistan, has been sacked by the rebellious tribesmen, and the native garrison and a number of travelers were murdered and robbed. The tribesmen are being pursued by British cavalry.

EXPORTS LARGEST IN HISTORY.

August Broke the Record—Year So Far Shows an Increase.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The figures of the exports of August from the United States shows an increase over the corresponding month last year of about $4,300,000. The domestic exports in July were $69,725,770. The exports for the first seven months of the calendar year were $539,943,879, against $500,572,005 for the first seven months of last year. The exports in agricultural products show a slight decrease during the period, while those of manufactured products increased. The exports of gold for July were $5,462,869, against $11,931,438 for July 1896, and the first seven months of this year, $30,599,071, against $54,922,948 for the corresponding period last year. The exports of silver for the first seven months of 1897 were $32,859,204, against $36,035,559 last year.

GAS EXPLOSION.

Five Killed and a Large Number Injured.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 6.—Two frightful explosions of natural gas occurred at Broad Ripple, a suburb six miles north. Five are known to have been killed, and the seriously injured numbetween twenty and thirty. The business part of the town took fire and the largest buildings were destroyed. Indianapolis was called on for help and sent engines and doctors. The first explosion occurred in J. L. Watt's drug store from an unknown cause. Five were injured there and the building set on fire. Across the street was Odd Fellows' hall, underneath which was Pious Gresh's grocery store. Seeing the fire spreading, Gresh and twenty-two other men were removing his stock when a crushing explosion occurred in this building. The walls were blown out and the upper floor fell in on the men. Five were taken out dead. The others were badly injured, several fatally. Nearly everyone suffered a broken arm or leg.

Uruguay's Rebellion.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Times' Montevideo correspondent says that the rebellion in Uruguay is growing and that the insurgents are advancing towards the center of the republic.

Literary Notes.

The Hon. J. L. M. Curry, formerly our minister to Spain, contributes to the American Review of Reviews for September an estimate of the murdered premier of Spain, Senor Canovas del Castillo, and his relations to modern Spanish politics.

The midsummer woods with a Roadway Near Narragansett furnishes the principal color plate to the Art Interchange for September. It is simply and broadly painted, and shows intelligent study of one of Nature's pleasing moods. A group of Monachrome studies of Classic Ruins for the use of the china painter and general decorator, the second.

An article in the September number, of McClure's that gives novel as well as timely information, is an account of "Life in the Klondike Gold Fields," by a man who has himself had an important share in it for years past. The proverbial "bad" man of the mines, it appears, is unknown on the Klondike. The miners there enter and work their claims, settle their disputes, and govern their affairs without violence or lawlessness. How they live and how they work is very simply and honestly told.

Harper & Brothers, New York, have recently issued a neat volume by John Fox, Jr., entitled "Hell fer Sartain, and Other Stories." Of Mr. Fox's sketches of the people of the blue grass region and the neighboring mountains, Mr. James Lane Allen says: "For he has lived several years among the native folk, has talked with them, studied them, and become himself their literary interpreter through his splendid work in the magazines. So that, as a result of his gifts, his experience, and his aims combined, this form of the American short story should, under his control, be revealed for the first time in its entire fidelity to truth and nature."

GLYCERINE EXPLOSION.

Two Men Killed and Property Badly Damaged.

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Sept. 6.—By an explosion of nitro-glycerine two men and a horse were killed and a buggy demolished. The bridge across the Monogahela is badly damaged, and will have to be abandoned until repaired. Windows in the vicinity were broken, and residents for a mile were awakened by the concussion. It is supposed the men had the glycerine in the buggy and a sudden jolt caused the explosion.

SEVEN ARE DEAD.

And Seven More Injured in a Building Collapse.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 3.—A dispatch from Montreux says: An asylum for the insane in course of erection collapsed, burying a number of workmen. Seven are dead and seven seriously wounded have been recovered so far.

Royalty Watched Armies.

HAMBURG, Sept. 5.—The emperor and empress of Germany and the king and queen of Italy are here to attend the autumn maneuvers of the German army.

Russian Compulsory Education.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 3.—A special commission will meet shortly to discuss the introduction of universal compulsory education in Russia.

Snow in Scotland.

EDINBURG, Sept. 6.—A snow storm has swept over Scotland and the Grampien hills were completely covered.

BREVITIES.

It is feared the widow of President Borda, of Uruguay, will become insane as a result of her grief caused by her husband's assassination.

At a recent cabinet council at Madrid it was decided to summon the next class of 80,000 reserves, 27,000 of whom will be sent to Cuba and 13,000 to the Philippine islands.

Bombay dispatch: Great relief is felt in official circles at the news that the tribesmen, who blocked Kohat's Pass have been dispersed. The dispatches from Peshawur say all is quiet, though occasional shots are exchanged between advance posts and insurgents.

Discontent among the agricultural laborers in central Italy has caused a second great strike for higher wages. Eight hundred strikers made an attack upon the police of Kieti, a town forty-two miles from Rome, and it was found necessary to call out the military, who were ordered to fire at the mob, which they did, wounding several of the strikers.

Excitement is running high over a recent gold discovery near Michipicoten, on the north shore of Lake Superior, which has just been made public. The find is a wonderfully rich one, assays showing from $100 to $1,000 per ton, the samples being taken at random from the surface. The sale of a portion of the claim is now on the tapis, the owners having been offered $100,000 by Montreal capitalists for it.

A meeting of merchants, which was largely attended, was held at Managua, Nicaragua, recently. Resolutions were adopted deploring the present financial condition of Nicaragua and petitioning the government to place the country on a gold basis, estimating the present paper dollar or silver dollar at 30 cents, gold; asking the issuance of gold certificates in their places and at this valuation, and requesting the government to export and sell the present silver coinage of Nicaragua.

The London Daily Times, in an editorial article on the wheat question, expresses the opinion that the era of better prices is coming, the long period of depression caused by the constant addition of the acreage to wheat rendered possible by the extension of railways into new countries and the enormous increase in tonnage of steamships having come to an end for the present. The area of accessible virgin soil is much reduced, the article says, and until the railways in Argentina and other wheat countries shall have been extended a pause in the increase of production may be anticipated.

A St. Louis dispatch says: The conference of the labor leaders of the country, which has been in session two days, was productive of several sensational speeches and many resolutions, yet no decisive action was taken in the principal matter for which the gathering was summoned, the abolishment of government by injunction. The convention which had been announced as the last one of its kind to be held, while adjourning sine die, has merely postponed action on the matters before it for three weeks, as a call for a similiar conference to be held in Chicago, Monday, September 27, was issued. Resolutions denouncing government by injunction and calling for aid for the striking miners were adopted. A resolution was also adopted requesting President McKinley to call an extra session of congress for the purpose of defining the authority of judges in the matter of injunctions.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

LABOR STRIKES THE SUBJECT LAST SUNDAY.

From the Following Text, Matt. vii 12: "Whatsoever Ye Would that Men Should Do to You, Do You Even So to Them."

THE greatest war the world has ever seen is between capital and labor. The strife is not like that which in history is called the Thirty Years' War, for it is a war of centuries, it is a war of the five continents, it is a war hemispheric. The middle classes in this country, upon whom the nation has depended for holding the balance of power and for acting as mediators between the two extremes, are diminishing; and if things go on at the same ratio as they are now going, it will not be very long before there will be no middle class in this country, but all will be very rich or very poor, princes or paupers, and the country will be given up to palaces and hovels.

The antagonistic forces are closing in upon each other. The Pennsylvania miners' strikes, the telegraph operators' strikes, the railroad employes' strikes, the movements of the boycotters and the dynamiters are only skirmishes before a general engagement, or, if you prefer it, escapes through the safety-valves of an imprisoned force which promises the explosion of society. You may poohpooh it; you may say that this trouble, like an angry child, will cry itself to sleep; you may belittle it by calling it Fourierism, or Socialism, or St. Simonism, or Nihilism, or Communism; but that will not hinder the fact that it is the mightiest, the darkest, the most terrific threat of this century. All attempts at pacification have been dead failures, and monopoly is more arrogant, and the trades unions more bitter. "Give us more wages," cry the employes. "You shall have less," say the capitalists. "Compel us to do fewer hours of toil in a day." "You shall toil more hours," say the others. "Then, under certain condition, we will not work at all," say these. "Then you shall starve," say those, and the workmen gradually using up that which they accumulate in better times, unless there be some radical change, we shall have soon in this country four million hungry men and women. Now, four millions hungry people cannot be kept quiet. All the enactments of legislatures and all the constabularies of the cities, and all the army and navy of the United States cannot keep four million hungry people quiet. What then? Will this war between capital and labor be settled by human wisdom? Never.

I shall first show you how this quarrel between monopoly and hard work cannot be stopped, and then I will show you how this controversy will be settled.

Futile remedies. In the first place there will come no pacification to this trouble through an outcry against rich men merely because they are rich. There is no member of a trades union on earth that would not be rich if he could be. Sometimes through a fortunate invention, or through some accident of prosperity, a man who had nothing comes to a large estate, and we see him arrogant and supercilious, and taking people by the throat just as other people took him by the throat. There is something very mean about human nature when it comes to the top. But it is no more a sin to be rich than it is a sin to be poor. There are those who have gathered a great estate through fraud, and then there are millionaires who have gathered their fortunes through foresight in regard to changes in the markets, and through brilliant business faculty, and every dollar of their estate is as honest as the dollar which the plumber gets for mending a pipe, or the mason gets for building a wall. There are those who keep in poverty because of their own fault. They might have been well-off, but they gave themselves to strong drink, or they smoked or chewed up their earnings, or they lived beyond their means, while others on the same wages and on the same salaries went on to competency. I know a man who is all the time complaining of his poverty and crying out against rich men, while he hiself keeps two dogs, and chews and smokes, and is filled to the chin with whisky and beer!

Micawber said to David Copperfield: "Copperfield, my boy, one pound income, twenty shillings and sixpence expenses: result misery. But, Copperfield, my boy, one pound income, expenses nineteen shillings and sixpence; result, happiness." And there are vast multitudes of people who are kept poor because they are the victims of their own improvidence. It is no sin to be rich, and it is no sin to be poor. I protest against this outcry which I hear against those who, through economy and self-denial and assiduity, have come to large fortune. This bombardment of commercial success will never stop this quarrel between capital and labor.

Neither will the contest be settled by cynical and unsympathetic treatment of the laboring classes. There are those who speak of them as though they were only cattle or draught horses. Their nerves are nothing, their domestic comfort is nothing, their happiness is nothing. They have no more sympathy for them than a hound has for a hare, or a hawk for a hen, or a tiger for a calf. When Jean Valjean, the greatest hero of Victor Hugo's writings, after a life of suffering and brave endurance, goes into incarceration and death, they clap the book shut and say, "Good for him!" They stamp their feet with indignation and say just the opposite of "Save the working-classes." They have all their sympathies with Shylock, and not with Antonio and Portia. They are plutocrats, and their feelings are infernal. They are filled with irritation and irascibility on this subject. To stop this awful imbroglio between capital and labor they will lift not so much as the tip end of the little finger.

Neither will there be any pacification of this angry controversy through violence. God never blessed murder.

Well, if this controversy between capital and labor cannot be settled by human wisdom, if today capital and labor stand with their thumbs on each other's throat—as they do—it is time for us to look somewhere else for relief and it points from my text roseate and jubilant and puts one hand on the broadcloth shoulder of capital, and puts the other on the home-spun-covered shoulder of toil, and says, with a voice that will grandly and gloriously settle this, and settle everything, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them." That is, the lady of the household will say: "I must treat the maid in the kitchen just as I would like to be treated if I were downstairs, and it were my work to wash, and cook, and sweep, and it were the duty of the maid in the kitchen to preside in this parlor." The maid in the kitchen must say: "If my employer seems to be more prosperous than I, that is no fault of hers; I shall not treat her as an enemy. I will have the same industry and fidelity down-stairs as I would expect from my subordinates, if I happened to be the wife of a silk importer."

The owner of an iron mill, having taken a dose of my text before leaving home in the morning, will go into his foundry, and, passing into what is called the puddling-room, he will see a man there stripped to the waist, and besweated and exhausted with the labor and the toil and he will say to him: "Why it seems to be very hot in here. You look very much exhausted. I hear your child is sick with scarlet fever. If you want your wages a little earlier this week so as to pay the nurse and get the medicines, just come into my office any time."

After awhile, crash goes the money market, and there is no more demand for the articles manufactured in that iron mill, and the owner does not know what to do. He says, "Shall I stop the mill, or shallI run it on half time, or shall I cut down the men's wages?" He walks the floor of his counting-room all day, hardly knowing what to do. Towards evening he calls all the laborers together. They stand all around, some with arms akimbo, some with folded arms, wondering what the boss is going to do now. The manufacturer says: "Men, times are very hard; I don't make twenty dollars where I used to make one hundred. Somehow, there is no demand now for what we manufacture, or but very little demand. You see I am at vast expense, and I have called you together this afternoon to see what you would advise. I don't want to shut up the mill, because that would force you out of work, and you have always been very faithful, and I like you, and you seem to like me, and the bairns must be looked after, and your wife will after awhile want a new dress. I don't know what to do."

There is a dead halt for a minute or two, and then one of the workmen steps out from the ranks of his fellows, and says: "Boss, you have been very good to us, and when you prospered we prospered, and now you are in a tight place and I am sorry, and we have got to sympathize with you. I don't know how the others feel, but I propose that we take off twenty per cent from our wages, and that when the times get good you will remember us and raise them again." The workman looks around to his comrades, and says: "Boys, what do you say to this? All in favor of my proposition will say ay." "Ay! ay! ay!" shout two hundred voices.

But the mill-owner, getting in some new machinery, exposes himself very much, and takes cold, and it settles into pneumonia, and he dies. In the procession to the tomb are all the workmen, tears rolling down their cheeks, and off upon the ground; but an hour before the procession gets to the cemetery the wives and the children of those workmen are at the grave waiting for the arrival of the funeral pageant. The minister or religion may have delivered an eloquent eulogium before they started from the house, but the most impressive things are said that day by the working-classes standing around the tomb.

That night in all the cabins of the working-people where they have family prayers the widowhood and the orphanage in the mansion are remembered. No glaring populations look over the iron fence of the cemetery; but, hovering over the scene, the benediction of God and man is coming for the fulfillment of the Christ-like injunction, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them."

"Oh," says some man here, "that is all Utopian, that is apocryphal, that is impossible." No. I cut out of a paper this: "One of the pleasantest incidents recorded in a long time is reported from Sheffield, England. The wages of the men in the iron works at Sheffield are regulated by a board of arbitration, by whose decision both masters and men are bound. For some time past the iron and steel trade has been etxremely unprofitable, and the employers cannot, without much loss, pay the wages fixed by the board, which neither employers nor employed have the power to change. To avoid this difficulty, the workmen in one of the largest steel works in Sheffield hit upon a device as rare as it was generous. They offered to work for their employers one week without any pay whatever."

But you go with me and I will show you—not so far off as Sheffield, England—factories, banking houses, store houses, and costly enterprises where this Christ-like injunction of my text is fully kept, and you could no more get the employer to practice an injustice upon his men, or the men to conspire against the employer, than you could get your right hand and your left hand, your right eye and your left eye, your right ear and your left ear, into physiological antagonism. Now, where is this to begin? In our homes, in our stores, on our farms—not waiting for other people to do their duty. Is there a divergence now between the parlor and the kitchen? Then there is something wrong, either in the parlor or the kitchen, perhaps in both. Are the clerks in your store irate against the firm? Then there is something wrong, either behind the counter, or in the private office, or perhaps in both.

The great want of the world today is the fulfillment of this Christ-like injunction, that which he promulgated in his sermon Olivetic. All the political economists under the archivault of the heavens in convention for a thousand years cannot settle this controversy between monopoly and hard work, between capital and labor. During the Revolutionary war there was a heavy piece of timber to be lifted, perhaps for some fortress, and a corporal was overseeing the work, and he was giving commands to some soldiers as they lifted: "Heave away, there! yo heave!" Well, the timber was too heavy; they could not get it up. There was a gentleman riding by on a horse, and he stopped and said to this corporal, "Why don't you help them lift? That timber is too heavy for them to lift." "No," he said, "I won't; I am a corporal." The gentleman got off his horse and came up to the place. "Now," he said to the soldiers, "all together—yo heave!" and the timber went to its place. "Now," said the gentleman to the corporal, "when you have a piece of timber too heavy for the men to lift, and you want help, you send to your commander-in-chief." It was Washington. Now, that is about all the Gospel I know—the Gospel of giving somebody a lift, a lift out of darkness, a lift out of earth into heaven. That is all the Gospel I know—the Gospel of helping somebody else to lift.

The greatest friend of capitalist and toiler, and the one who will yet bring them together in complete accord, was born one Christmas night while the curtains of heaven swung, stirred by the wings angelic. Owner of all things—all the continents, all worlds, and all the islands of light. Capitalist of immensity, crossing over to our condition. Coming into our world, not by gate of palace, but by door of barn. Spending his first night amid the shepherds. Gathering afterward around him the fishermen to be his chief attendants. With adze, and saw, and chisel, and axe, and in a carpenter shop showing himself brother with the tradesmen. Owner of all things, and yet on a hillock back of Jerusalem one day resigning everything for others, keeping not so much as a shekel to pay for his obsequies: by charity buried in the suburbs of a city that had cast him out. Before the cross of such a capitalist, and such a carpenter, all men can afford to shake hands and worship. Here is the every man's Christ. None so high, but he was higher. None so poor, but he was poorer. At his feet the hostile extremes will yet renounce their animosities, and countenances which have glowered with the prejudices and revenge of centuries shall brighten with the smile of heaven as he commands: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them."

WEBSTER DAVIS IN OHIO

Makes a Hit as Orator of the Day at Steubenville's Centennial.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 30.—A century ago to-day the first sale of town lots took place in this city. To-day Steubenville celebrated. Never before in her history was there such a crowd of strangers within her gates. Competent judges estimated the crowd at 60,000 people. Webster Davis, assistant secretary of the interior, was the orator of the day. When the centennial committee went to Washington some time ago to secure a speaker, President McKinley said to them, "I regard Mr. Davis as one of the finest orators in the United States." The thousands who heard his address today will give the same testimony. Never was such a speech heard in this valley before. At times strong men were weeping and again cheering lustily as he paid glowing tribute to Steubenville's most distinguished son, Edwin M. Stanton, the great war secretary, and when he spoke of President William McKinley as another son of Jefferson county, the cheering was so great that he could not proceed for some time. At the conclusion of his address, the vast audience arose and cheered him to the echo, while many climbed over the seats and upon the platform to shake him by the hand, and it was impossible for some time to proceed with the other speeches on the program. Among those who climbed the platform was General Daniel E. Sickles, the battle scarred hero of Gettysburg. He was sitting in a carriage, and when Mr. Davis finished he seized his crutches, and, with the aid of General Anson G. McCook, was soon on the platform. Seizing the orator by both hands, he said, "That's the greatest oratorical effort I ever heard in all my life. I want you to send me that speech."

ANDREWS' RESIGNATION.

University Corporation Wants Him to Withdraw It.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 3.—The corporation of Brown University voted, after a long meeting to request President Andrews to withdraw his resignation as president of that institution. The request was embodied in a resolution expressing deep regret that it was tendered. The vote on the subject was practically unaminous and taken after reports had been made by nearly all the members of the corporation. In addition to this, the now famous protest of twenty-five of the faculty of Brown and a number of petitions including one from college professors and public men, asking for the retention of President Andrews were also presented and considered. The last named petition declared "that the influence of American universities and the interest of free thought and free speech under a just sense of accountability would be prompted by action on the part of the corporation that might naturally lead to the withdrawal of the resignation of President Andrews." A letter to the corporation from President Andrews was read, explaining his views on the silver question and stating the position he had taken in reference to the request of the committee that was appointed last June to confer with him.

One Killed, Seventeen Hurt.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 3.—The New York vestibuled limited on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western jumped the track at Blodgett's Mills and plunged through the station buildings. The locomotive, baggage car and two coaches went entirely through the structure. A relief train left for Courtland, a wrecking train starting from Syracuse. Mrs. J. H. McQuillan, of Philadelphia, was killed, and seventeen other passengers were injured, none fatally. The accident was due to a broken rail.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, September 1, 1897.

Every puff of steam that escapes from a steam engine is a waste of power that in the aggregate is enormous. To utilize the expansive force of steam and reduce the minimum of wasted energy and the friction and wear of operative parts has been the efforts of inventors. A patent has been allowed to A. Watkins of Des Moines, for a compound rotary engine in which the steam passes through a plurality of chambers in which all expansive force is utilized so practically there is no loss of power through the exhaust parts and all the operative parts work in concert to produce continuous rotary motion that can be applied to extraneous machinery. Mr. W. manifests his appreciation of our services in the following manner:

Gentlemen:

I write to acknowledge my indebtedness to you for the kindness and promptness with which you attended to the business connected with the granting of my patent. I also wish to express my admiration of, and my appreciation for your mechanical genius, and the keen insight which enables you to grasp in detail anything in the line of intricate mechanism. I am, dear sir, yours truly, A. WATKINS.

MAY HAVE WAR WITH JAPAN.

Not Content With Hawaiian Influence, Tries to Steal Nicaragua Canal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Japan is not content with interference with President McKinley's Hawaiian annexation policy and now has designs on the Nicaraguan canal. According to semi-official advices received from Nicaragua, Japan is secretly negotiating with the diet of the Greater republic of Central America, which recently met in Salvador, for the construction of a Nicaragua canal, independent and in defiance of the interests or influence of the United States or any other nation. If Japan can encompass it, according to Nicaraguan advices received here, she would like to obtain the abrogation of all treaty rights possessed by the United States in relation to interoceanic transit and the forfeiture of the American canal concession from Nicaragua, and would immediately make a treaty with the diet of the Greater Republic of Central America, giving her the control of the canal route through Nicaragua. It has been suspected in some quarters that England, which has always been anxious to acquire at least a joint control in the canal route, might be working collusion with Japan in the "dickering" with the diet now understood to be in progress, but nothing has yet come to the surface to indicate that she has encouraged Japan in her move.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

Operators and Miners Agree Upon a Final Wage Scale to End Strike.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 4.—The end of the great miners' strike is now in sight. The national executive board of the United Mine Workers of America agreed to recommend to the miners a proposition from the Pittsburg operators for a straight price of 65 a ton, to continue in force until the end of the year. A delegate convention of all miners who have suspended work has been called to meet in Columbus to act upon the recomendation.

Crete Blockade to Be Raised.

CANEA, Island of Crete, Sept. 4.—In consequence of the firing of several volleys by Turkish irregulars at the Italian man-of-war Sardegna off Candia, the admirals of the foreign fleet propose to disarm the Turkish irregulars. If permission to carry out this measure is refused by Djevad Pasha, the commander of the Turkish forces in Crete, the admiral will demand his recall. It is also proposed to raise the blockade of the island, which is now considered useless.

Germany After France.

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—It is asserted upon reliable authority that the German government will demand from France an explanation of the dispatch sent by M. Meline, the French ambassador, in reply to the message of congratulation of the Alsace-Lorraine Society upon the recent signing of the Franco-Russian alliance, in which dispatch M. Meline expressed the hope of reunion of Alsace-Lorraine with the French Republic.

Foreign Wheat Shortage.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Daily Graphic publishes a table comparing the available and prospective English wheat supply at the present time with that of September, 1896, showing a deficiency of nearly 200,000 quarters. It is inevitable, the Graphic says, that the rise in the price of bread will be maintained.

HAVANA, Sept. 6.—General Fitzhugh Lee, United States consul general, has gone to New York. He says his sudden departure has no significance, that he is simply availing himself of a leave of absence.

Havana dispatch: The sensationally victorious march of the Cubans under Gomez and Maceo the entire length of the island in Martinez Campos' time, has just been duplicated by Quintin Banderas. This negro war captain, than whom no Cuban of the colored race, excepting only Maceo, perhaps, has won greater honors in the present struggle for independence, led 12,000 men from the eastern end of the island, where the patriots in arms are strongest, to the western end, where, since Maceo's death, the Cuban cause has not prospered so well. These 12,000 penetrated into the provinces of Mantanzas, Havana and Pinar del Rio, strengthening existing forces in each of those provinces to such an extent that the coming winter campaign may be expected to be even as disastrous for the Spanish arms as in the time of Maceo. Banderas says the march was effected with little or no molestation from the Spanish troops.

A careful estimate of the shortage of food supply in Europe shows that in rye and potatoes the conditions are as bad as in wheat. Rye is as importent an article as wheat in many European countries, and the same is. of cource, true of potatoes. The shortage in wheat, rye, and potatoes, in Europe is now estimated as follows;

	Bushels,
Wheat.....	300,000,000
Rye.....	325,000,000
Potatoes.....	1,000,000,000
	1,625,000,000

With a shortage of 1,625,000,000 bushels in the food supply of Europe, the silver orators are thinking of revising their calamity argument of last year.

Perils of a Joke In Germany.

This story illustrates the perils of practical joking in Germany: Eighteen months ago four gentlemen of leisure from the Rhine country went to the kirmess in Bullay. They rode about with a cabby and drank wine until they were overtaken by the conditions of mind and body which accompany these performances at German festivals. Then they began to dispute with the cabman as to the weight of his horse and cab. Eventually they offered him 50 pfennigs—or about 12 cents—a pound for the whole equipage. He accepted the offer. The horse and cab went on the scales and registered 3,000 pounds. The whole outfit was worth about $75, so the cabman hastened to surrender it and demand his 12 cents a pound, or $360 in all. The four gentlemen of leisure then protested that it was all a mistake, a joke, in fact, and they couldn't think of paying $360 for a $75 equipage. They went away, but the cabman sent horse and cab after them by express C. O. D.

When the four gentlemen of leisure refused to follow the practical part of the joke farther, the cabman sued them. He carried on the case from court to court, in response to their appeals from each successive decision in his favor, and two weeks ago obtained the final judgment in his favor from the high court of justice in Coblenz. The costs meantime had risen to $540, so the four gentlemen of leisure were ordered by the court to pay $900, all told. That is the total cost of the practical joke about the cabman's $75 outfit, excepting the private retainers which, for the defense of the four jokers through the steady legal fight of a year and a half, are said to amount to about $600 more. The Bullay cabman has bought a pair and a victoria and has gone to Berlin to carry men with titles and spurs on their boots.—New York Sun.

Royalty at the Pawnbroker's.

Kings and queens are far more frequent customers of the pawnshop than most people would be willing to believe. Thus, Queen Isabella of Spain has repeatedly had her jewels in pawn, while the silver plate of the late ex-king of Naples and of his heroic queen, a sister of the empress of Austria, has been for years at a time reposing in the vaults of the great London pawnbroker Attenborough. Even the Prince of Wales has known what it is to have his time kept by his uncle, for when visiting the battlefields shortly after the Franco-German war he found himself stranded at Sedan without money enough to pay his hotel bill or to continue his journey. He had no time to telegraph for funds, and even if he had there was the danger of disclosing his identity, which, with respect to French susceptibilities, he was anxious at all costs to keep secret. So he handed his watch and chain to his equerry, General Teesdale, who, adding thereto his own and that of the prince's valet, who accompanied them, proceeded to the local mont de piete, or pawnshop, where he raised enough money to enable the prince to continue his journey.—Philadelphia Press.

Tuesdays ball game between Garner Klemme was a great game. For a crack team, Garner did the poorest playing we ever saw. Klemme did not expect to get more than 1 to 4, but ran the score up to 17 to 36 and feel satisfied with their playing. With proper practice, Klemme could put up a strong game. Friday they will try Hayfield another game, at Klemme.

Spring Wheat in Minnesota.

Two or three gentlemen who have made a pretty through study of the wheat situation in southern Minnesota inform us that our predictions as to the hot days and humid atmosphere during the blooming season have proven true, that the yield varies from 5 to 15 bushels per acre. that the quality is not over No 3, and much of it not that. It is significant that the local mills in southern Minnesota are paying a doller a bushel for old wheat in order to secure material for good flour for their costomers while the new crop is not selling at more than 75 to 80 cents. There is every indication that wheat will be wheat before another harvest. —Wallace's Farmer.

Has anybody been heard to express regret that he voted for sound money and protection last year.

That rattleing sound you have heard over the country is not caused by the putting up of shutters, as was the case at this stage of the Cleveland administration.

Four hundred fifty thousand British guineas from Australia have been received in San Francisco, in payment for export ation of American wheat. This is another case where the western farmer is being tramped upon by the gold power of Great Britain.

It seems as though everything had turned against the calamity shriekers, wheather of the free silver or free-trade type. Their latest misfortune comes in a way of a recent announcement showing the individual deposits in the national banks of the country to be the largest on record.

CHAPTER III.—(CONTINUED.)

She closes her eyes faintly—she hears nothing but those words—feels nothing but his arm round her—forgets Mrs. Crayford's warning—forgets Richard Wardour himself—turns suddenly with a loving woman's disregard of everything but her love, nestles her head on his bosom, and answers him in that way at last!

He lifts the beautiful drooping head—their lips meet in their first kiss—they are both in heaven—it is Clara who brings them back to earth again with a start—it is Clara who says, "Oh! what have I done?"—as usual, when it is too late.

Frank answers the question: "You have made me happy, my angel. Now, when I come back, I come back to make you my wife."

Shudders. She remembers Richard Wardour again at those words. "Mind!" she says, "nobody is to know we are engaged till I permit you to mention it. Remember that!"

He promises to remember it. His arm tries to wind round her once more. No! She is mistress of herself; she can positively dismiss him now—after she has let him kiss her!

"Go!" she says. "I want to see Mrs. Crayford. Find her! Say I am here, waiting to speak to her. Go at once, Frank—for my sake!"

There is no alternative but to obey her. His eyes drink a last draught of her beauty. He hurries away on his errand—the happiest man in the room. Five minutes since, she was only his partner in the dance. He has spoken—and she has pledged herself to be his partner for life!

CHAPTER IV.

IT was not easy to find Mrs. Crayford in the crowd. Searching here and searching there, Frank became conscious of a stranger, who appeared to be looking for somebody on his side. He was a dark, heavy-browed, strongly-built man; dressed in a shabby old naval officer's uniform. His manner—strikingly resolute and self-contained—was unmistakably the manner of a gentleman. He wound his way slowly through the crowd; stopping to look at every lady whom he passed, and then looking away again with a frown. Little by little he approached the conservatory—entered it, after a moment's reflection—detected the glimmer of a white dress in the distance, through the shrubs and flowers—advanced to get a nearer view of the lady—and burst into Clara's presence with a cry of delight.

She sprang to her feet. She stood before him speechless, motionless, struck to stone. All her life was in her eyes—the eyes which told her she was looking at Richard Wardour. He was the first to speak.

"I am sorry I startled you, my darling. I forgot everything but the happiness of seeing you again. We only reached our moorings two hours since. I was some time inquiring after you, and some time getting my ticket, when they told me you were at the ball. Wish me joy, Clara! I am promoted. I have come back to make you my wife."

A momentary change passed over the blank terror of her face. Her color rose faintly, her lips moved. She abruptly put a question to him:

"Did you get my letter?"

He started. "A letter from you? I never received it."

The momentary animation died out of her face again. She drew back from him, and dropped into a chair. He advanced toward her, astonished and alarmed. She shrank in the chair—shrank, as if she was frightened of him.

"Clara! you have not even shaken hands with me! What does it mean?"

He paused, waiting, and watching her. She made no reply. A flash of the quick temper in him leaped up in his eyes. He repeated his last words in louder and sterner tones: "What does it mean?"

She replied this time. His tone had hurt her—his tone had roused her sinking courage. "It means, Mr. Wardour, that you have been mistaken from the first."

"How have I been mistaken?"

"You have been under a wrong impression, and you have given me no opportunity of setting you right."

"In what way have I been wrong?"

"You have been too hasty and too confident about yourself and about me. You have entirely misunderstood me. I am grieved to distress you, but for your sake I must speak plainly. I am your friend always, Mr. Wardour. I can never be your wife."

He mechanically repeated the last words. He seemed to doubt whether he had heard her araight. "You can never be my wife?"

"Never!"

"Why?"

There was no answer. She was incapable of telling him a falsehood. She was ashamed to tell him the truth.

He stooped over and suddenly possessed himself of her hand. Holding her hand firmly, he stooped a little lower, searching for the signs which might answer him in her face. His own face darkened slowly while he looked. He was beginning to suspect her, and he acknowledged it in his next words.

"Something has changed you toward me, Clara. Somebody has influenced you against me. Is it—you force me to ask the question—is it some other man?"

"You have no right to ask me that."

He went on without noticing what she had said to him. "Has that other man come between you and me? I speak plainly on my side. Speak plainly on yours."

"I have spoken. I have nothing more to say."

There was a pause. She saw the warning light which told of the fire within him, growing brighter and brighter in his eyes. She felt his grasp strengthening on her hand. She heard him appeal to her for the last time.

"Reflect," he said, "reflect before it is too late. Your silence will not serve you. If you persist in not answering me, I shall take your silence as a confession. Do you hear me?"

"I hear you."

"Clara Burnham! I am not to be trifled with. Clara Burnham! I insist on the truth. Are you false to me?"

She resented that searching question with a woman's keen sense of the insult that is implied in doubting her to her face.

"Mr. Wardour! you forget yourself when you call me to account in that way. I never encouraged you. I never gave you promise or pledge——"

He passionately interrupted her before she could say more: "You have engaged yourself in my absence. Your words own it; your looks own it! You have engaged yourself to another man!"

"If I have engaged myself, what right have you to complain of it?" she answered firmly. "What right have you to control my actions——"

The next words died away on her lips. He suddenly dropped her hand. A marked change appeared in the expression of his eyes—a change which told her of the terrible passions that she had let loose in him. She read, dimly read, something in his face which made her tremble—not for herself, but for Frank.

Little by little the dark color faded out of his face. His deep voice dropped suddenly to a low and quiet tone as he spoke the parting words: "Say no more, Miss Burnham—you have said enough. I am answered; I am dismissed." He paused, and stepping close up to her, laid his hand on her arm.

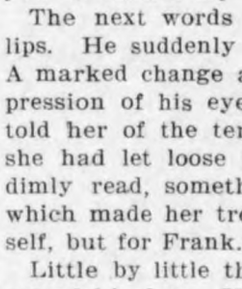
"The time may come," he said, "when I shall forgive you. But the man who has robbed me of you shall rue the day when you and he first met." He turned and left her.

A few minutes later, Mrs. Crayford, entering the conservatory, was met by one of the attendants at the ball. The man stopped as if he wished to speak to her.

"What do you want?" she asked.

"I beg pardon, ma'am. Do you happen to have a smelling-bottle about you? There is a young lady in the conservatory who is taken faint."

CHAPTER V.



THE morning of the next day — the morning on which the ships were to sail—came bright and breezy. Mrs. Crayford having arranged to follow her husband to the water-side, and see the last of him before he embarked, entered Clara's room on her way out of the house, anxious to hear how her young friend had passed the night. To her astonishment, she found Clara had risen and was dressed, like herself, to go out.

"What does this mean, my dear? After what you suffered last night—after the shock of seeing that man—why don't you take my advice and rest in your bed?"

"I can't rest. I have not slept all night. Have you been out yet?"

"No."

"Have you seen or heard anything of Richard Wardour?"

"What an extraordinary question!"

"Answer my question! Don't trifle with me!"

"Compose yourself, Clara. I have neither seen nor heard anything of Richard Wardour. Take my word for it, he is far enough away by this time."

"No! He is here! He is near us! All night long the presentiment has pursued me—Frank and Richard Wardour will meet."

"My dear child, what are you thinking of? They are total strangers to each other."

"Something will happen to bring them together. I feel it! I know it. They will meet; there will be a mortal quarrel between them, and I shall be to blame. Oh, Lucy! why didn't I take your advice? Why was I mad enough to let Frank know that I loved him? Are you going to the landing-stage? I am all ready; I must go with you."

"You must not think of it, Clara. There will be crowding and confusion at the water-side. You are not strong enough to bear it. Wait—I won't be long away—wait till I come back."

"I must, and will, go with you! Crowd! He will be among the crowd! Confusion! In that confusion he will find his way to Frank! Don't ask me to wait. I shall go mad if I wait. I shall not know a moment's ease till I have seen Frank with my own eyes safe in the boat which takes him to his ship. You have got your bonnet on; what are we stopping here for? Come! or I shall go without you. Look at the clock! We have not a moment to lose!"

It was useless to contend with her. Mrs. Crayford yielded. The two women left the house together.

The landing-stage, as Mrs. Crayford had predicted, was thronged with spectators. Not only the relatives and friends of the Arctic voyagers, but strangers as well, had assembled in large numbers to see the ships sail. Clara's eyes wandered affrighted hither and thither among the strange faces in the crowd, searching for the one face that she dreaded to see, and not finding it. So completely were her nerves unstrung that she started with a cry of alarm on suddenly hearing Frank's voice behind her.

"The Sea-Mew's boats are waiting," he said. "I must go, darling. How pale you are looking, Clara! Are you ill?"

She never answered. She questioned him with wild eyes and trembling lips.

"Has anything happened to you, Frank? anything out of the common?" Frank laughed at the strange question.

"Anything out of the common?" he repeated. "Nothing that I know of, except sailing for the Arctic Seas. That's out of the common, I suppose; isn't it?"

"Has anybody spoken to you since last night? Has any stranger followed you in the street?"

Frank turned in blank amazement to Mrs. Crayford. "What on earth does she mean?"

Mrs. Crayford's lively invention supplied her with an answer on the spur of the moment.

"Do you believe in dreams, Frank? Of course you don't! Clara has been dreaming about you, and Clara is foolish enough to believe in dreams. That's all; it's not worth talking about. Hark! they are calling for you. Say good-bye, or you'll be too late for the boat."

Frank took Clara's hand. Long afterward—in the dark Arctic days, in the dreary Arctic nights—he remembered how coldly and how passively that hand lay in his.

"Courage, Clara!" he said gaily. "A sailor's sweetheart must accustom herself to partings. The time will soon pass. Good-bye, my darling. Good-bye, my wife!"

He kissed the cold hand; he looked his last—for many a long year perhaps!—at the pale and beautiful face. How she loved me! he thought. How the parting distresses her! He still held her hand; he would have lingered longer, if Mrs. Crayford had not wisely waived all ceremony and pushed him away.

The two ladies followed him at a safe distance through the crowd, and saw him safely step into the boat. The oars struck the water; Frank waved his cap to Clara. In a moment more a vessel at anchor hid the boat from view. They had seen the last of him on his way to the Frozen Deep!

"No Richard Wardour in the boat," said Mrs. Crayford. "No Richard Wardour on the shore. Let this be a lesson to you, my dear. Never be foolish enough to believe in presentiments again."

A BICYCLE TRAGEDY.

A Rash Youth Who Did Not Respect His Sweetheart's Preferences.

He was full of joy, and why shouldn't he be? Wasn't he riding a brand-new wheel, and in another moment wouldn't he be by the side of the creature he adored above all else in the world? asks the Ohio State Journal. Yea, at times he was even constrained to believe he thought more of this beautiful girl that he did of his bike. He dismounted, opened the gate and with a proud step came up the graveled walk, leading his wheel. On the porch stood the girl who was his promised wife. A happy light shone from her eyes and the glad smile of welcome she gave him made the young man feel at peace with the world. Suddenly the girl cast a swift glance at the new wheel. She trembled and then grew pale. The happy look fled from her eyes and a sudden flush of indignation swept over her beautiful features. Drawing herself up proudly she cast a withering glance upon the young man and said in a choked voice:

"Henceforth, Wheeler Sprocket, we meet as strangers. Our engagement is at an end. You have shown yourself in your true colors. A man who will not respect the feelings of his sweetheart will not love his wife. Go, I say, and never let me look upon your false face again. Oh, I hate you!" and she stamped her tiny foot upon the floor. To say young Sprocket was thunderstruck at this unlooked-for and unaccountable outburst of passion from the girl he adored would put it mildly, indeed. What had he done? he asked himself. Was the girl temporarily insane or was she only rehearsing her part in some private theatrical, wherein she had the role of the innocent victim of man's perfidy? Bracing himself up to the occasion, he managed to exclaim:

"Marguerite, I can't understand your strange actions. Have I really offended you in any way?"

"Offended me, Wheeler Sprocket! You have grossly insulted me. Oh, how thankful I am that I discovered your true nature before it was too late!" and the look of scorn she gave him almost crushed him.

"But, dearest," pleaded the young man, "you will at least tell me what I have done to offend you so."

"Yes," exclaimed the girl, in a mocking tone, "I would play the innocent if I were you. Buy a different make of wheel from mine, parade it before my very eyes and then ask me what you have done!"

Whereupon Marguerite Hamilton whirled upon her heel, entered her home and Wheeler Sprocket, realizing there was no hope for a reconciliation, mounted his new wheel and rode away.

His by Right of Discovery.

From the Chicago Inter Ocean: Chief Clerk W. T. Treleaven, of the Santa Fe freight office, brings the following story with him from his western trip:

"When the train stopped at Larned, Kan., I heard a voice say, in a tone of command: 'Come out of there!' I looked out of the car window and saw an old man holding a tramp who was just crawling out from the trucks under a car. I supposed it was the sheriff of the county, and that he had caught a criminal.

"'I want you,' said the old man, as the tramp stood on his feet. 'I'll give you $1.50 a day.'

"Then it dawned on me. The old man was out catching farm-hands for the harvest field. A moment later a younger man came up and tried to hire the tramp, but the older farmer drove him away, saying the tramp was his by right of discovery, and he proposed to keep him or fight. The conductor told me such occurrences are common at present, and that there are few stations along the line in the grain belt but have a crowd of farmers around them at train time, hoping to be able to catch a tramp for the harvest fields. It is work or jail with a tramp when he falls into such hands."

Bicycle Inventions.

Nearly one-fourth of the patents granted at this time relate to the bicycle. There are all kinds of devices from small tools to the whole wheel. So many kinds of wheels are made and the wheels are used for so many purposes that patents concerning the various parts are very numerous. Almost every use to which a wheel is put will point the way to a patent to improve the service. Then there are constant experiments in chains, handle-bars, spokes, tires, frames, pedals, and in fact, every part of the machine. It would seem that with so many patents issued every week the bicycle would soon become perfect. — Washington Post.

Tar Heel's Tough Luck.

A North Carolina newspaper has this local item: "As Col. Williams was driving home yesterday lightning struck his wagon and completely demolished a four gallon demijohn of very fine whisky. The colonel has the sympathy of the community."—Atlanta Constitution.

Positive.

"We have parted forever!" said the young man sadly. "She is never going to even write to me again."

"Are you sure of that," asked the sympathetic friend.

"Yes. She told me so in each of her last three letters."

Outdone.

Professer Braintank—Newton was a great philosopher. By observing the mere fall of an apple he discovered the law of gravity.

Smithers—That's nothing. By simply biting an apple Eve discovered the gravity of law.

Love is variously defined; but the practical philosophy describes it as the ability to support a wife.
